Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Both Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier are reported to be quite ill. The political game is certainly very trying on the health and nerves, especially when played as strenuously as it is in Canada, and the leader of each party has to do most of the real work.

Toronto is likely to learn that women "cops" are not what they are cracked up to be. Miss Minty, the recently appointed constable in the Queen City, accosted a girl on the street and was knocked to the sidewalk for tearing her waist. It takes a man to control a woman.

A Wingham girl was bathing at the beach at Kincardine and slipped off her feet, when a gallant commercial traveller waded out and "rescued" her, spoiling all his nice clothes, and then the grateful young lady (?) and her two chums "gave the laugh derisive" to the heroic drummer.

Guelph authorities found a "blind pig" at their show grounds last week. Now wasn't that a great specimen to exhibit at any show, and especially when the old boys and girls were celebrating there. Had they sent up here we might have sent them down a decent specimen—a pure bred York if nothing else.—Fergus News-Record.

The Arthur High School made a creditable showing at the recent examinations. Ten pupils out of fifteen passed for second class certificates, and the greater portion of them took honors and one pupil passed her complete examination for first class certificate or entrance to the Faculty of Education, and another succeeded in passing the first half of the same examination. We congratulate Mr. Langford on the good work done.

A girl home from college was thus addressed by her mother: "We can afford to hire a maid, but we aren't going to. You are to be the new maid." And, being a sensible girl, albeit fashionably "finished" the daughter saw the point, donned a wrapper, rolled up her sleeves and went to work. When your daughter gets into the hammock and novel habit, try the kitchen cure. It may be just what she needs to save her immortal soul.

Miss McKay and Miss Crawford and her sister, of Midland, started to walk to Penetang on Sunday, July 27th. When near Penetang they noticed a fire by the road side in some grass and undertook to stamp it out. While thus engaged Miss McKay's clothing took fire and despite the efforts of the Crawford girls she was so badly burned that she died from her injuries six hours after. The other girls received terrible burns also and one has been so severely burned that she may lose the use of both hands.

The long dry spell has tried the staying powers of our water supply pretty well, and if the street and lawn sprinkling had not been cut off, we would have been short enough. The council went up to the fountain head the other day, and found the spring considerably diminished to what it formerly was. There is another spring on the Norris farm, adjoining, however, that could supply a population of 10,000 without a wink, and we think it would be wisdom to secure this, or part of it, as soon as possible.—Creemore Star.

At a special meeting of Barrie Presbytery held in Orillia, on Thursday, July 31st, a call from Esson and Willis churches, Oro, in favor of Rev. David Smith, of Grand Valley, was sustained. Mr. Smith has signified his acceptance and settlement will take place at the end of August.

About twelve years ago Mr. John Black, now of Toronto, lost a gold chain in the Grand River, at Fergus, behind "Blackburn." Strange to say while on a visit to his mother and family at the old home recently, while going along the river he fortunately discovered the chain in almost the same place as it was lost, in spite of all the spring freshets.

Natural gas is fast nearing Woodstock. The American syndicate, which controls the Woodstock and other gas plants in Ontario, has a big gang of work east of Woodstock. The gas will be piped in from the Brantford and Dunnville districts and will be distributed to Woodstock consumers through the present mains. It is calculated that the line will be into Woodstock in a few weeks' time, and the city will be supplied with natural gas early in the fall. The rate will be about 25 cents a thousand, as against the present rate of $1.10 for artificial gas.

Big Deal in Regina

Real Estate Holdings to the Value of $1,500,000 Disposed Of.

One of the biggest realty deals ever ever put through in Regina has just been completed. Robert Sinton has sold his large holdings of horse barns, business property and farm lands to a Scottish syndicate for the sum of $1,500,000. The property includes Lots on Albert Street, Lorne Street and Scarth St.

—From Financial Post, June 7th, '13.

In a few weeks time the street car service of Regina will be running to the boundary of the city limits on all sides. When the extensions are completed and the service in actual operation, an immense amount of outlying building property which today can be ourchesed at a very low figure, will be worth double its present value. New homes will be built and prices will naturally advance rapidly. The man who buys close-in property now will make a big turn-over. Act promptly Others are doing it and making money, why not you?

These furnish convincing reasons why investors should buy Western City Property.

I have some well located lots for sale which will increase in value very rapidly.

ARCHIVES OF ONTARIO TORONTO

THE BANNER

THE BANNER, AUGUST 14th, 1913

The Tart Leader takes the position that the closing of stores and business places on afternoons of week days is a practice that should not be favored. It means a good deal, The Leader states, to many people who come long distances to find business places closed. It injures a town in the minds of the average man or woman and gives rise to a prejudice against the store that is closed in business hours when it should be open. Clerks and business men should get their time for sport in some other way.

The time is at hand when the smaller towns in this part of Ontario will stand a much better chance to secure profitable manufacturing industries upon reasonable terms. Owing to the rapidity with which city land values are increasing and the consequent advance in rentals and taxation, there are numerous manufacturers in Toronto, who are on the lookout for suitable locations in nearby towns. If they can obtain these they will move their industries out of the city to escape the high taxes and expensive rentals. A town with a live Board of Trade that is on the alert to get into touch with manufacturers who want to move out of the city should stand a chance to get some of this class of industries. Orangeville has an admirable situation and other advantages that should commend it to the manufacturer in search of a new location. It also has a Board of Trade which can best serve the town by keeping a keen lookout for opportunities to bring manufacturers here and making the most of these opportunities when they present themselves.

MONEY BY-LAWS.

Orangeville Property Holders Asked to Sanction Expenditure of $6,000.

The Town Council is submitting by-laws for the purpose of authorizing the issue of debentures for $6000 to provide for the renovation of the Town Hall and repairs and improvements to the Public School building. If the expenditure is sanctioned, $3000 will be raised under each of the by-laws. The Council has worked out quite a comprehensive plan for the renovation of the Town Hall, which is admittedly in a very unsatisfactory condition at the present time. The stage and dressing rooms will be shifted to the west end of the building, the auditorium will be reseated and a modern heating system installed. The building will also be repainted and decorated throughout. The improvements will give Orangeville a Town Hall and public auditorium that should be a credit to the town. The improvements, which the Public School Board contemplate making, include the reshingling of the building, several new ceilings, the repainting of the interior walls and the purchase of equipment for a Manual Training Department. The School is badly in need of certain repairs and the Board feels that they can be made more economically if the whole work is undertaken at once instead of being spread over a number of years. The school will then be in first-class condition and the cost of the improvements will be spread over a period of ten years and will not make any appreciable increase in the tax rate. Voting will take place on both by-laws on Saturday, August 23rd, from 9 o'clock a.m. until 5 o'clock p.m. Property owners should make it a point to turn out and record their votes.

WHERE IS THE MONEY?

Someone asked The Post this week again that old question relative to why money is tight, following it up with the remark that there isn't any less money than there always was. The answer is merely, and The Post has given the explanation before, that it is by no means actual coin or bullion that is in question, but that the matter is largely one of credit. The percentage of actual cash in a country has its effect and if this percentage gets low, money, of course, tends to get tight. But the real trouble is that there is such a demand for credit that it cannot all be satisfied. Bankers, capitalists and large investors foresee the depression some time in advance that things are going too fast, too much money is being placed in fixed assets, and credit is being unduly extended. They, therefore, begin to lessen their loans. Confidence gradually, to some extent, becomes affected and "money," so-called, becomes tight.

Another reason for tight money, even if there is a fair amount of metal and credit in the country, is that so many people have speculated and stretched their capacity to pay their ordinary debts. The same fact prevents them making ordinary expenditures. The failure of one to pay extends to others. Confidence lessened, loans are curtailed and the speculative fever thus also has its effect in causing a shortage of credit facilities. The so-called financial stringency follows.—The Financial Post.

THE ELECTRIC PUMP

Visitor Enthusiastic Over Its Work During Recent Fire.

In last week's issue the Arthur Enterprise has quite a lengthy article on the recent destructive fire in Orangeville. It quotes Mr. E. W. Brocklebank, one of the Arthur bowlers who rendered splendid service in fighting the fire, as expressing the opinion that a much larger amount of damage would have been done had it not been for the new electric turbine pump which was installed earlier this year. To quote the Enterprise, "This pump furnished excellent pressure and made the work done with the hose much more effective. This was the first occasion on which the pump had been called into service and the result from its first work out, Mr. Brocklebank thinks, more than justified its installation. Mr. Brocklebank saw the pump in operation in the afternoon and was much delighted with it. 'It is,' he stated 'a great acquisition to a waterworks system, and the people of Orangeville should congratulate themselves on their good fortune in possessing it, as it certainly was the very thing required when the fire was on.'

SAFEGUARD THE FORESTS

Ontario Government Has Important Proposals Under Consideration.

Arising out of the reorganization of the Forestry Branch of the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, it is understood that an important move is shortly to be taken by the Government to more adequately safeguard the forest wealth of Ontario. Prof. E. Z. Zavitz, Forestry Commissioner, has been commissioned by Hon. W. H. Hearst to study the whole question and report with a recommendation of a plan to be adopted. It is likely that when the Legislature meets next session a comprehensive program will be laid before the House. The fire protection program will co-ordinate with the reforestration scheme now under way. Not only is the fire-ranging force to be maintained and strengthened, but it is stated that fire belts with be cut through the most valuable stretches of pine forest, a more efficient patrol will be kept up, and severe prosecution of those who violate the forest regulations. The fire belts, it is hoped, will prove a buffer, and where a fire starts to spread it will strike these belts and stop for lack of combustible material. Hon. Mr. Hearst declined to discuss the outline that will likely be followed, but intimated that the Department was at work.

TOO MANY GAOLS

Would Have District Industrial Farms Instead.

Delegates from Elgin and some other counties in southwestern Ontario interviewed Hon. W. J. Hanna and other members of the Ontario Government recently on the subject of gaol reform. The deputation advocated the abolition of the present local gaols and the establishment of district gaols modelled on a plan similar to the Toronto Gaol and Farm. In support of the change the deputation argued that there are too many gaols in the Province. In some cases there are more officials than prisoners. In certain cases, it was stated, a gaoler, a matron and turnkey are maintained where there are only two prisoners under confinement.

HOW WE VIEW IT

We're so almighty up-to-date! How we do love to congregate in little bunches, crowds or groups to fill the air with cheers and whoops in honor of our glorious age, which bulks so on Achievement's page. Each time we turn our vision back a hundred years along our track, to days when earth was fresh and clean and never smelt of gasoline, and no one dreamed that such juice if found could prove of any use, we raise another cheer that we're on deck this month and year. 'What though the cost of living's high? Let's thank our lucky stars,' we cry, 'that by a kindly act of Fate we're here and kicking at this date! To dwell without electric light and have to go to bed at night by tallow candle's fitful flare—a thing like that we couldn't bear. However did the folks contrive to know they really were alive who ne'er saw human beings soar into the air a mile or more, or heard what far-off speakers said through tons of wire strung overhead? And travelling was hard and slow a hundred years or more ago. Now we can scoot o'er hill and plain or whiz across the bounding main as fast as we consider wise—we are the hustlers busy guys!' But let another hundred years pass and then (how sorrowful, alas!) the dwellers on the good old earth will find our ways a source of mirth, They'll chuckle till they're faint and weak at our best methods then antique, and jest about our present styles, their faces all lit up with smiles, They'll say our ways were poor and slow when we're a hundred years ago!"—Ex.

SHERIFF BOWLES DEAD

Had Held Shrievalty of Dufferin Since 1880.

Was Native of Chinguacousy Township, and Prominent Church and Temperance Worker in His Earlier Days.

Thomas Bowles, Sheriff of the County of Dufferin, passed away on Saturday at the residence of his son-in-law, ex-Mayor W. Marshall Green, at the ripe age of 83 years. He had been very feeble for some months and his death has been expected for some time.

The late Sheriff Bowles, who was of Irish extraction, was born and reared in the township of Chinguacousy, in the neighboring County of Peel. Prior to his appointment to the Dufferin shrievalty he was a successful farmer and grain merchant. Early in life he began to take a keen interest in municipal and general politics. He was elected to the Council of Chinguacousy township, became reeve of the municipality and had the honor and distinction of being elected to that office for ten successive terms. He was also chosen Warden of the County of Peel for three terms. The late Sheriff Bowles was a candidate for political honors in the Liberal interest on three occasions—twice for the Ontario Legislature and once for the House of Commons in the electoral district of Cardwell. His successful opponent on the last mentioned occasion was the late John Hillyard Cameron, an eminent lawyer and at that time one of the leading lights in the Conservative party. While the late Mr. Bowles was not successful in any of his contests, he was on no occasion defeated by a large majority. In Cardwell, a strong Conservative constituency, he received the largest vote ever polled by a Liberal candidate. When the County of Dufferin was formed in 1881, the late Sir Oliver Mowat, then Premier of Ontario, offered the deceased the appointment to the Shrievalty. At the time of his death Sheriff Bowles was probably the oldest Sheriff in the County of Ontario.

The late Sheriff was a man of fine presence and splendid physique. He possessed good ability, was well informed on public questions and on the platform was a pleasing and convincing speaker. He was a staunch advocate of temperance reform and was active in the campaigns in support of the Dunkin and Scott Acts. He spoke frequently in support of the Dunkin Act and on several occasions met the late E. King Dodds, one of the leading champions of the liquor interests, in joint debate. The deceased was a staunch member of the Methodist Church in which he was a local preacher. He was on a number of occasions a member of the General Conference of his Church and was for some years a member of the General Mission Board. As a citizen of this town, he held an honored place, because of his public spirit, his unvarying courtesy and his undoubted integrity. He stood high in the esteem of the community and enjoyed the sincere goodwill of people of all classes and denominations. His death has removed a citizen of the highest type and a man who will be long held in affectionate remembrance.

The late Sheriff was married to Miss Lester, of Chinguacousy, about 56 years ago. He is survived by his widow and the following family :—Chas. W. Bowles, Biggar, Sask.; Isaac Bowles, Toronto ; Dr. W. H. Bowles, Orangeville ; Mrs. Thos. McCartney, Albion ; Mrs. W. Marshall Green, Orangeville, and Mrs. (Rev.) E. A. Pearson, Hamilton.

The funeral took place from the home of his son, Dr. W. H. Bowles, West Broadway, to the C.P.R. depot on Monday morning. The remains were taken by train to Mono Road and from that place to Providence Church Cemetery at Sandhill, where the interment took place on Monday afternoon. The pallbearers were three sons-in-law, Rev. E. A. Pearson, T. McCartney, and W. M. Green, two sons, Isaac and Dr. W. H. Bowles, and a cousin, Governor Bowles. A memorial service was held at Dr. Bowles home on Sunday evening by Rev. Dr. Caldwell, of Shelburne, an oldtime friend of the deceased.

The late Sheriff Bowles was the last survivor of three brothers, who were well-known for their active religious work in the Methodist Church at their old home near Sandhill in Chinguacousy township. They were all strong, vigorous men and each of them outlived the allotted period of threescore and ten years. There was only about three years difference in age between the youngest and the oldest. One of the brothers, George Bowles, died at Brampton a year ago last March at the age of 79. Another, John Bowles, died at Sandhill in June 1912 aged 83. Prof. R. P. Bowles, recently appointed Principal of Victoria University, Rev. M. E. Bowles, a missionary in China, Rev. I. G. Bowles, of North Bay, formerly of Toronto, and Dr. Geo. H. Bowles, of Toronto, are nephews of Sheriff Bowles.

NEWSPAPER A GUIDE POST

A Newspaper is a town's way of letting people outside know that it is alive—a guide post whereby they can tell the city and cemetery apart. Most every citizen of the town is willing to put up a slab to let the people know when he is dead, but there are entirely too many in every community who are trying to do business without taking the trouble to let anybody know they are alive. Moral: Don't let your epitaph be your first ad. ; there may be somebody who would like to do business with you.

NEWS NOTES.

Another Bolton old boy has done credit to himself and his old town. It has been officially reported here that Dr. Henry Minn, formerly of this place, now of McMinnville, Oregon, has been appointed deputy state veterinarian. The position carries with it a salary of $1,600 per annum.

We would remind our readers that there is only one editor in connection with every village newspaper. A reporter is not an editor. We never heard of a village paper having two editors. The Advocate has one editor and one reporter, the editor and proprietor of this journal being responsible for every line that is published therein.—Cookstown Advocate.

Mr. Hewetson, the Toronto man, who proposed to build a shoe factory here, was in town yesterday and was surprised to learn that he will have to build and equip his factory before the town loan can be paid him. Mr. Hewetson thought he was going to be paid on architect's progress certificates—that is, advanced money as the factory was being built.—Brampton Banner.

There are four vacancies in the House of Commons. To fill these elections will be held in October. They are Chateauguay, South Lanark, South Bruce and East Middlesex. The former was Liberal by fifty majority in 1911. South Bruce was Conservative by one hundred ; Middlesex and South Lanark are regarded as safe Conseevative seats. It is also reported that Mr. Alex. McCowan, M.P.P., for East York will be appointed Sheriff of his county. His appointment will be followed by an election for the local house. Mr. McCowan was elected by a majority of upwards of four hundred.

Little short of criminal is the conduct of a number of young men who drive automobiles up the narrow road between Cooksville and Orangeville. On Monday night of this week a motor was driven at a speed of not less than forty miles an hour between Number 10 and Number 15. A number of people were driving on the road and were in danger of being killed by these idiotic speeders. The local and provincial constables have instructions to strictly enforce the law against this sort of conduct. Already a number have been dealt with but seemingly without effect on other reckless drivers.—Conservator.

There is a movement in town to have the hotelkeepers of Fergus and Elora meet at an early date, to take similar action to that described in last week's issue taken by the Guelph hotelkeepers. A list of those addicted to drinking to excess will be made out and the hotelkeepers bind themselves under penalty of a fine, not to supply any such. It is a move in the right direction. The anxious question will then be "Is my name written there?" The general public might add or suggest a few names of those who spend too much money over the bar for their own good, and yet seldom get full. It would take the fire engine to fill some of the thirsty ones.—Fergus News-Record.

A despatch from Toronto says that the action of a little girl in picking up a ring from beside a wash basin on a G.T.R. train caused two Grand Trunk detectives a lot of trouble for several days. Mrs. A. Rose, Montreal, reported to the G.T.R. that she had lost a diamond ring on the train between Montreal and Chicago. According to a local source of information the child who picked up the ring was a little girl five years of age. The little girl who was with her father, a gentleman from Fergus, had no idea when she picked up the ring with the glittering stone, that she had a bauble worth about $300. The gentleman was returning to Guelph from a trip east at the time the youngster picked up the ring. As soon as he arrived in the city and registered at a local hotel, he noticed his baby with a ring on her finger, and on investigating found it to be a valuable one. He immediately notified the agent of the G.T.R. station. The agent had been notified of the loss, and as soon as he was acquainted with the circumstances notified headquarters, with the result that the ring was forwarded to the owner.—Mercury.

The G.T.R. bridge over Main street was removed last Sunday and a new one put in its place. The new bridge is more than a foot higher in the truss and weighs about fifteen tons more than the old one and is besides a brand new bridge, which the other was not when it was placed there seven years ago. The work was done very quietly and without fuss or trouble. The bridge derrick lifted the old bridge and placed it on flat cars upon which it was drawn into the yard, unloaded and broken up later. The new bridge had been set up on false work alongside the old one and when the latter was removed, the new one was drawn into place by the use of ropes and pulleys. The bridge work is done by a Walkerville company, and this is the last bridge they have to replace on this division. The railway company will now be able to run heavier locomotives through here, as indicated in the following item dated Sarnia:—"The local division of the Grand Trunk will soon be fitted with the 500 class of locomotives, which will be used to handle the heavy through traffic on this line. The machines are especially constructed for the job, being able to handle a heavy train at a very fast rate of speed. Heavier rails are now being laid from here east to stand the strain of the big engines."—Banner.

—Mr. Chas. W. Allen, of Toronto, spent a few days with friends here and in Amaranth this week. Charlie is planning to go out West next week.

THE AIREDALE.

Has Proved the Best Dog for Modern Police Work

Has Rare Combination of Good Qualities—is Small But Very Strong and Courageous.

The following interesting article on the Airedale Terrier is from the pen of Mr. Walter M. Berwick, of Shelburne :—

Will the Toronto Police Department be able to make successful use of the dog as a detective and protector of property, as recently suggested ? If dogs are to be used here, the best breed to employ is the Airedale terrier, some excellent specimens of which may be seen at the Dog Show at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Heretofore, different breeds were used by the police for difficult jobs, and nearly every year or so a new type of police dog is shown at the dog shows. But within the last few years the Airedale has sprung into wonderful popularity, as he can be trained for any kind of work needed. He is neither cross nor vicious, but most affectionate to those he knows, and would never attempt to injure anyone unless instructed by his master.

How it is possible to have the true characteristics of every good breed centered in the one canine may seem wonderful, and to some, impossible, but nevertheless it is true. The Airedale is the only "all round dog" today. How he possesses these many good qualities will be understood when his origin is looked into.

In the year 1870, the Airedale first appeared in Yorkshire, particularly in the Valley of the Aire River, and was the product of a series of haphazard crosses. He started as a tan grizzle, wire-coated terrier, common fifty years ago throughout the English Midlands. To this was added otter-hound, the object being to get a good water dog ; and as the bull terrier was making quite a stir at this time, and winning his well-deserved reputation for gameness, he, too, was sought.

The otter-hound not only contributed that wonderful love for the water (which to-day is one of the Airedale's most remarkable characteristics), but also size, bone, and that wet-resisting undercoat for which he is noted. He, however, also gave heavy ears, big feet, and a houndy expression, that even now will bob up occasionally. The first Airedale breeders did not care about external appearances, or a "show dog," but a dog that was willing to tackle anything his own weight on either land or water, a game-to-the-core companion for hunting vermin, destroying, or poaching, as the case might be. All these qualities soon became visible in the Airedale, which every year is gaining in popularity.

Everywhere the Airedale is noted for the quality of minding his own business, until provocation is long given ; then the aggressor, if he be wise, will take to his heels, as the Airedale is noted the world over as a beau-ideal of a rough and ready, useful pal, guard, and sportsman.

No locality in America has proved a more fertile field for the successful and popular development of the Airedale than the North-west. In a comparatively short time he has made good with the rancher ; will herd sheep and cattle as well as any veteran collie or sheep dog, and has always proven himself to be a trusty guard. With the sportsman he is an excellent land or water retriever, and can be taught to point or set quail, prairie chickens, partridge, etc., just as well as any pointer or setter. He will also hunt rabbits, foxes, and deer as well as any hound. He is now used largely in Muskoka and New Ontario during the hunting season.

With the larger game, he has come to be recognized as the "best yet" for trailing lynx, coujar, bear, etc.

Numerous true stories can be told about the Airedale. One in particular is the experience of Mr. A. E. McSorley, of Elma, Wash., who is a firm believer in the Airedale as an all round utility dog. Being in a locality which abounds in deer, bears, wild-cats, and coons, he went out with three Airedales and three hounds, and soon they were after a big bear. They gave him chase all day, in and out of hearing, but the timber and brush were so dense they could not get near enough for a shot. Night coming on, the men had to go home without the dogs. The next afternoon a farmer came to town with the hounds. He said he heard the dogs baying and barking in the woods near his place, and went out there and killed the bear they had treed all night.

He attempted to skin the bear but the Airedales would not let him touch it. Mr. McSorley then had to hitch up his rig and drive five miles, and found the Airedales mighty glad to see him and be released of their vigil.

It is worth noting here, that these particular Airedales were imported and hunted for the first time at sixteen months old. In all probability, neither their sires or dams (about their home kennels in England) ever followed a trail on game, or killed anything in fur, so that these dogs had no advantage in inheritance, except in blood lines of noted Airedales, which have made this breed's remarkable character.

Recently the military of Europe have been using dogs as scouts, and the innovation has also been successful in New York ; has stirred up other communities, and it may be safely assumed that every community which maintains a police department, will soon adopt the system. The canine contingent cannot be corrupted by bribery or graft, nor be influenced by politics, and will pursue a criminal without fear to his very hole.

Several breeds have been experimented with, and so far to the Airedale must be conceded the palm for strength, agility, sagacity, and perseverance in this peculiar line of work.

A well trained Airedale terrier, accompanying a policeman on his night beat, will strike greater terror to thieving marauders than three policemen travelling the same beat. All hail to the canine policeman.

CAMILLA'S REPLY

Captain of Baseball Team Answers Letter of Rocktown Captain.

Camilla, Aug. 12, 1913

Te the Banner:

Will you allow me space in your paper to make reply to the statements made by the Rocktown baseball captain in last week's issue of your paper. The first misleading statament that Captain Lewis makes is that the Camilla team was composed of Alton, Orangeville and Camilla players. In this Mr. Lewis is sadly at sea for the only outside players were the two Alton boys. Furthermore Mr. Lewis says that when a member of his team asked me on the morning of July 8th if the rumor to the effect that we were getting assistance from Alton was true, I did not deny the same, but I simply said, "Not to my knowledge, have they been asked," and after interviewing the other members of the Camilla Club am certain and know for a fact that nothing had been said to the Alton boys previous to their arrival at the Garden Party.

Mr. Lewis concludes by saying that he has the honor of being captain of the team. This is no doubt an honor, but if he appreciated the honor as other captains do, he would have sought the advice of the other members o his Club, the majority of whom would have played.

Trusting that this will clear up all misunderstandings and thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this valuable space, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
G. A. CANNING,
Captain Camilla Baseball Club

Titanic Mystery Recalled.

Capt. Remnant Reports Sighting Portion of Vessel Off Grand Banks, Nf'ld.

A despatch from Philadelphia, Pa. dated August 2nd, says :— Much of the mystery that surrounded the sinking of the White Star Liner Titanic on April 14, 1912, may be dispelled by the discovery of the wreckage, believed to be part of the hulk of the ill-starred vessel, standing on end in the Atlantic Ocean, off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, practically in the spot where the disaster occurred.

Captain Remnant, of the British steamer Luciline, which arrived at Philadelphia from Bordeaux, reported sighting the derelict, and the United States Hydrographic Office has begun an investigation to learn more about the wreck.

Should the wreckage sighted by the Luciline prove to be part of the remains of the Titanic, the story of the memorable wreck would have to be re-written. The fact that after more than a year the hulk stands vertically in the waves, protruding eight feet or more above the surface, would indicate that a submerged ledge of rock had prevented the wreck from going to the actual bottom of the sea. If such a ledge exists—and evidences of one were reported as long ago as 1723—then it is regarded as possible that the foundering of the Titanic was caused by a hidden obstruction, ripping open her hull, as much as by her collision with an iceberg.

Captain Remnant says the wreck was covered with marine growth of comparatively recent formation, tending to show that it had been in the water little more than a year. It had the appearance of being held down by anchors in shallow water, and of being buoyed up by a water-tight compartment. He is of the opinion that it was the forward part of the Titanic, which, it was said, split in two just before it sank.

HALL'S CORNERS

(Intended for last week)

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Small, of West Toronto, visited with friends here over Sunday.

Mrs. Jas. Dolan has returned home after an extended visit with Orangeville friends.

A friendly game of football was played on Thursday night last in Messrs. Small's field between Rich Hill and Primrose teams, which resulted in a win for the Primrose boys.

If the weather is favorable the Garden Party at Whittington on Wednesday evening will be well represented from our burg.

Mr. R. H. Galbraith and Mr. H. Wiggins of Georgetown spent Sunday at the former's home here.

Mr. R. H. and Mr. Will Galbraith visited with friends in Orangeville, Hillsburg and Georgetown last week.

Mr. R. J. Campbell spent a few days with Creemore friends.

Mr. John Hall spent the last couple of weeks at Relessey.

Miss Esther Harrison has returned to Toronto after spending some holidays at home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sproule, of Whitfield, visited with Mrs. Sproule the week.

Misses Lewis and Arthur White, of Toronto, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. Shields and renewing old acquaintance here.

MELANCTHON

Haying will soon be over and the busy season continues. In many cases the rain did not get time to ripen the hay, but the hot, dry weather caused it to come in a little too soon. We fear when the threshing season will be light in this locality.

Berries have been large and frequent the past two weeks, although much damage done.

Mrs. D. Armstrong and children are visiting friends here.

Mr. Mitchell Walters has gone to visit friends in Warren, Ohio.

Mr. T. Irving is visiting at the home of Mrs. P. D. Henry.

Mrs. A. Chipchase, of Toronto, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. John Thompson.

Threshing is only now being started in this locality. Pretty busy Postmaster James Sawden is finding that he could not get the grain in any sooner.

NOTHING LIKE IT FOR COLDS.

Mrs. Holland Ferguson, Sheffield, N.B., writes: "Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has cured my children and myself of severe colds. We are never without it in the house. There is nothing like it for throat trouble, and it is so soothing and pleasant to take, my children would drink a whole bottle if they were permitted."

CALEDON.

The garden party held at the home of Mr. John A. McBride, Bellfountain, under the auspices of the Baptist Church, was a splendid success. The grounds were decorated with large flags, bunting and evergreens, and presented a very gay appearance. A very large number of people were present to enjoy the evening's programme. Rev. Mr. Burns occupied the chair. The supper, provided by the ladies of the congregation, was even better than usual and little was left of the good things. The programme was furnished by Will J. White, entertainer, Mr. Jules Brazil and the Charleston orchestra, and delighted the audience. During the time Mr. Burns has been pastor of the church there has been great progress made in every direction and his energy and enthusiasm have borne good fruit.

Not for many years has there been as much activity about Credit Forks as there is at the present time. The establishment of the brick works by Mr. Proctor has already given employment to a number of hands and promises to require many more when the plant is in full operation. It is also said that the stone crushing plant will be again operated. The workmen's houses, which have been vacant for a number of years, are being repaired and a number of them are already occupied. A number of excursionists and picknickers on their holidays is another indication of the returning interest in the beauty as well as the material value of the surroundings.

Amongst the summer visitors are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Magill and family, of Brampton; Miss Baker and Miss Graydon, of Toronto; Mr. W. G. Magill, of Providence, R. I., who made the trip up on his motorcycle and went over to Erin and won the race at the Old Boys' Reunion there; Norman and Douglas Russell, of Brampton; Mr. and Mrs. H. Peacock and family, of Brampton.

The Good Roads Commissioners in the Township of Caledon have about completed the county road work. The Centre Road is now a county road from Port Credit to Orangeville, and is in very good condition over the whole distance. The important question now is that of maintenance. In some places where the road has been in use for a few years there are indications of wear which threaten trouble in the near future unless properly attended to. At lot five there is a culvert needed and considerable repairs. The condition of the old culvert is such as to make traffic on the road dangerous. At two or three other points railings are necessary for the safety of travellers. Mr. Warnock, who has charge of the present contract, is being given much credit for the character of the work he is doing.

A well known Centre Road farmer, who has paid many dollars in taxes, strongly advocates the imposition of a tax of $50 upon automobiles. The farmers, he argues, have paid heavily for the construction of the roads and the greatest damage is being done by millionaire motorists who have not contributed a dollar for their maintenance and construction.

Mr. Simons, of the Toronto Telegram, with his wife and daughter, were visitors with Mr. George Hillyard a few days ago.

Friends of Mr. Simon Kearns are suggesting that the council appoint him collector in place of Mr. Patterson, deceased.

There is a plentiful crop of berries in this neighborhood which are spoiling on the vines for want of pickers. It would be a profitable holiday for a number of people to visit the neighborhood of Credit Forks and Cataract and secure their supply for preserving.

CALEDON EAST.

(From Bolton Enterprise.)

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Matthews and Miss Clarke, all of Toronto, were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Roduck.

Two men with a van struck this place about 8.30 one night last week and seemingly belonging to the Salvation Army or some other religious organization. Stopping at the corner of McElwain's store, one of them delivered a twenty minute address, exhorting the crowd, which had gathered around to "Flee from the wrath to come." The other was a singer of no mean repute with a nice mellow voice, who sang the piece entitled "Be in time." Next morning before leaving town they distributed tracts and pamphlets among the residents.

Miss Rayburn, of Powassan, is renewing old friendships in this village of which she was formerly a resident.

Mr. and Mrs. Topps of Orillia, are on a visit to the latter's sister, Mrs. C. J. Cranston.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown, of Toronto, are visiting relatives in the village.

Miss Matthews, of Toronto, a former teacher in the public school, has returned home after spending a few days of her vacation in the village looking up her old acquaintances.

Mrs. John Bucher and little daughter, of Buffalo, have been on a visit to Mrs. Wm. Gott, and the young lady came over and spent a couple of days with her friend, Vera Toase.

Mr. and Mrs. John Caslor, of West Toronto, are staying for an indefinite time with Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Burrell. Mrs. Caslor, being in poor health, they are trying the change of air for a time.

Mrs. Henry Toase and son, along with his wife, were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. Toase, on Sunday and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. McCandless on Monday.

Miss Jane Mills and Mrs. Lilley, of West Toronto, were the guests of their sister, Mrs. James Walker, over Sunday and Monday.

Miss Tillie Walker, of West Toronto, was a visitor in town two or three days last week.

Miss Bertha Beamish, of Toronto, is spending her two weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beamish.

Mr. J. M. Brammell, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cobean and Miss Cobean, of Toronto, all former residents of Mono Road, spent Sunday and Monday visiting friends in town and vicinity.

Mr. Smith and Mrs. Smith (nee Lily Herbert), and Mr. and Mrs. J. Bingham, all of Toronto, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beamish, of Ontario, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wright, who came out from Ireland in April, and are now living in Toronto, were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. Borland over the week end. Mr. Wright is a nephew of the late William Wright, who kept a flour and feed store in the village for many years.

Work on the sidewalks is forging ahead and from present appearances when fully completed will be O.K.

Mr. Perry Irwin, brother-in-law of Mr. McElwain, has disposed of his fine farm containing 200 acres in the township of Adjala, to Mr. John Betteson, of Macville, for a good round figure. Mr. Betteson takes possession of his newly acquired property next spring.

Mr. Rutherford, of Castlederg, occupied the pulpit in the Methodist Church on Sunday night in place of the pastor, who is holidaying.

Next Sunday night Mr. Steele, of Palgrave, is expected to conduct divine service in the Methodist Church.

Rev. Mr. Wallace arrived home from his holidays on Friday night and read the lessons in Knox Church, on Sunday morning, while Rev. W. Cranston, of Tampa, who is holidaying at Strathclyde House, preached the sermon, which was a very practical discourse.

Miss Van Wyck, of Orangeville, was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Matthews over Sunday and left on Monday to visit friends in Collingwood.

PARIS GREEN

Was What Caused Death of Richard Woods' Stallions

An investigation was held in Shelburne on Monday by Joseph E. Rogers, superintendent of the Provincial Police, into the death from poisoning of two stallions owned by Richard Woods, a farmer of Melancthon township. The animals were valued at $3,200, and were insured in the Yorkshire Animals' Insurance Co. of Montreal for $2,200. No decision was reached as to the reponsibility for the death of the animals, which was shown to have been due to Paris green poisoning. Superintendent Rogers will submit the evidence to the Attorney-General.

County Crown Attorney MacKay was present for the Crown, Mr Gordon Waldron of Toronto for the Insurance Co., and Mr. G. M. Vance, K.C., of Shelburne, for Mr. Woods.

It was established that in some way a considerable quantity of Paris green got into the feedboxes of the two stallions—Newton Dan and Sam Brown—on July 20, and that as the result of partaking of this with their feed both horses died. Mr. Woods was on the witness stand for several hours, and his three hired men were also examined at length. None of them could throw any light on the question as to how the poison got into the horses' feed. Drs. Bailey, Morgan and Shields, veterinary surgeons, testified as to the cause of the death of the horses.

A REGINA WEDDING.

At the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Flood, Regina, Sask., the marriage of Clara Cecilia Flood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Flood, formerly of Paisley, Ontario, to Mr. H. F. Honsberger, of Vancouver, B. C., was solemnized Thursday morning, July 31st, at eight o'clock, Rev. Father Gillis conducted the ceremony. The bride looked very smart in a navy blue suit with a little French hat to match, and she wore a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride's roses. Mr. and Mrs. Honsberger left for Banff en route to Vancouver, where they will reside. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Geo. McIntyre, and is well known in Orangeville, having frequently visited here.

CALEDON.

Miss Carrie McCartney, who underwent a serious operation in Toronto General Hospital last week, is progressing very rapidly towards recovery.

Mr. Robert Puckering is seriously indisposed at the home of Mr. J. J. Nesbitt, Centre Road.

Mrs. Thompson and Miss Mills are visiting their sister, Mrs. Wm Sanderson.

At the last meeting of the Caledon Council on Tuesday, Mr. Geo. Giles was appointed Collector of Taxes for the east side, instead of Mr. Thos. Patterson (deceased).

At the wrestling bout on Saturday night between Robert Coburn and Carl Wagner, the referee gave Coburn the decision. A large crowd witnessed the unique event. This was the first professional wrestle ever pulled off in Caledon and we hope it will be the last.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grey, of Laurel, visited Caledon friends on Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Gillespie, of Orangeville, is visiting at the home of her uncle, Mr. Wm. McCartney.

The rain on Friday last was very thankfully received and notwithstanding the harvest is in full swing our farmers appreciated it too.

In our seventeen years' experience in Durham, we have no knowledge of a money order or postal note going astray till this year. On a few occasions letters containing money went astray, but the senders in some cases were suspicious that things were not quite right at their end. On the 14th of last March, a postal note for $3 was forwarded to us from Saskatchewan, and the label on the paper remained unchanged the sender wrote us for information as to whether we received it or not. The sender had the stub, and consequently the number of the postal note. We answered in the negative, and investigation by the Post Office Department revealed the fact that the postal note was paid in Toronto to a person signing a certain name, after which was placed "Editor Durham Chronicle." Payment was made on the 9th of May, but the cash hasn't reached us yet. Further investigation will be made.—Durham Chronicle.

A LINE OF COMMUNICATION.

"They were mostly natives; only a sprinkling of summer folk," Mrs. Tremayne, just returned from the village garden party, told her husband, "but I met one family," she broke off laughing.

"They were a mother and three girls," she resumed. "I thought at first I knew them; then I saw I didn't yet they had the most oddly familiar look, and looked at us oddly, too, as if they expected us to bow.

"Do we know those people?" I asked Amy.

"No, we don't," said she, in a puzzled way, "but I think we must have dreamed them. I know that pink and green organdy, and that lilac lawn with the white roses on it as well as if they had come out of my own closet. It's very queer."

"'Very queer,'" I assented, 'and queerer that I should feel the same thing. Both of us couldn't have dreamed them.'

"Well half the afternoon they kept watching us and we them, and catching each others eyes when we didn't want to, and looking hastily away and turning pink. Then we met at close quarters in a secluded path and the mother spoke.

"'May I open a line of communication with somebody I am sure is a neighbor!' she asked politely. 'A wash line,' she said, and her face twinkled all over and I understood.

"Their home in town is on the next street, back to back with ours, with the yards between them, and of course we are perfectly well acquainted with each others' washing. They leave late, as we do, and their summer dresses have been tubbed and hung out again and again, so no wonder we felt queer when we encountered the pink and green organdies and the lilac lawn and when they met my grey batiste and Amy's striped muslin.

"I'm so glad they are permanent neighbors. The girl's have charming manners and she is delighted, and I haven't met Mr. Ackland yet, but—"

"But I have long admired his blue and white pyjamas," broke in her husband, 'and I haven't a doubt he's a most interesting man."

ATHLETIC SPORTS.

The Field Day at the Canadian National Exhibition has a continental reputation. All the cracks of the continent gather there, and nearly every race has an international tinge to it. And it's a meet without a dull moment—just a series of races that are brought on, one after another, so fast that the excitement never gets a chance to ebb. Watch the sporting columns of the newspapers for the big men and big events that will feature it.

A lady entered a railway station not a hundred miles from Shelburne the other day, and said she wanted a ticket to London. The pale looking clerk asked, "Single?" "It ain't any of your business," she retpied. "I might have married a dozen times if I'd felt like providin' for some poor shiftless wreck of a man like you."

Cured Diseases of the Kidneys

Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ills arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:

Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."

FORTY THOUSAND MEN WANTED

Farm Laborers' Excursions—This Year's Wheat Crop will be the Largest in the History of Canada.

The wheat crop of 1913 will be the greatest ever harvested in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, thus requiring the farm laborers of the East to recruit and assist in harvesting the world's greatest bread basket.

The Governments of the respective Provinces state that forty thousand men will be required for this year's harvest. These will have to be principally recruited from Ontario, and the prosperity of Canada depends on securing labor promptly. The Canadian Pacific, on which Company will fall practically the entire task of transporting the men to the West, is already making special arrangements for this year. Excursions from points in Ontario to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be run, and special trains operated, making the trip in about thirty-six hours and avoiding any change of cars or transfers. This will be a day shorter than any other route.

"Going Trip West." $10.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from Winnipeg up to MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton.

"Return Trip East," $18.00 to Winnipeg, plus half-cent per mile from all points east of MacLeod, Calgary or Edmonton, to Winnipeg.

NEW COMMANDMENTS.

1. Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy trading, thou nor thy sons nor thy daughters.
2. Thou shalt patronize thine own merchants, also the printer, and they shall patronize thee.
3. Thou shalt not ask for credit, as goods cost much money, and the merchant's heart is wearied with bills. Thrice blessed is a man who pays cash.
4. Thou shalt employ thine own mechanics and consider him that is thy neighbor above them that dwelleth in a strange town.
5. Thou shalt not ask for reduced prices for thy influence, for behold guile is in thy heart, and a merchant readeth it like an open book.
6. Thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to encourage and promote the welfare of thy town, thine own people.
7. Thou shalt spend their earnings at home that they may return from whence they came.
8. Thou shalt not suffer the voice of pride to overcome thee, and if other towns entice thee, hearken not unto them for thou mayest be deceived.
9. Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town wherein thou dwellest but speak well of it to all men.
10. You should come to us when you want Up-to-date Printing, and we will give it to you at reasonable prices.

JAPANESE FIREWORKS.

They come on at three o'clock every afternoon at the Canadian National Exhibition, and they never fail to start a craning of necks all over the grounds. The youngsters go wild with delight as they scramble for those tissue paper figures that float gently down from the exploding balls high above the banners and towers of the Exhibition City.

MAMMOTH SPECTACLES.

John Henderson, English Producer, Now in Toronto Conducting Rehearsals.

John Henderson, the famous English producer of spectacles, who is staging Nero and the Burning of Rome and the Musical Surprise at the Canadian National Exhibition, has arrived in Toronto and rehearsals are now going on. He brought eighteen cases of uniforms with him and will train 800 people for the big features. Mr. Henderson will also sing songs of his own composition. He is said to be the only man in the world who can sing so that every one of the 30,000 people in the stand can hear him distinctly.

What would a man say to his wife if she were to leave her $50 sewing machine out in the yard over night in a rain storm? Well, he would do a plenty if she persisted in leaving it out in the weather. And yet the same lord of creation has left his farm machinery standing in the fence corner. Many of these costly tools will stand out unprotected all winter. What should your wife, Mr. Farmer, do to you? She should get a rolling pin after you and make you house them now. You can save a ten dollar bill any day this week by acting on this suggestion.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION

Betty's Idea and the Result of the Experiment.

By SUSIE B. WIGHT.

"Now, Tom, dear," said little Mrs. Ellis, handing him a cup of coffee, "I have something serious to say to you."

"Yes?" Mr. Ellis' tone was notably absentminded. He was looking at the alluring curve of her soft white arm. She had the cunningest way of giving her big sleeves a twitch to keep them out of the way as she passed anything at table, and this morning the sleeve was a great silken one embroidered with Japanese iris. However, for her own good her husband had not told her all her attractions for him. Not knowing his train of thought, she observed only the preoccupation in his tone. This confirmed her in the wisdom of her determination, but it also gave her a queer little disposition to let down the corners of her mouth.

"Well, it is only this, Tom," she proceeded, her eyes studiously avoiding his. Preoccupation in his tone was bad enough; to recognize it in his eyes would be intolerable. "You see, we have been staying so closely together since the wedding, now three whole months. Aren't you just a little afraid we are overdoing the devoted? When I see so many married couples who are just as happy away from each other, or more so, I dread the time"— Her lip quivered, but this time Mr. Ellis was giving his attention to the smooth whiteness of her neck. He did not answer, and in a moment she went on in a steadier voice, "You remember the 'ounce of prevention,' dear?"

"Worth a pound of medicine, isn't it?" he replied frivolously, and when she proceeded gravely her voice had shaded down to actual wistfulness.

"For fear, Tom, that our happiness should lose some of its tone in such constant association as ours I have been thinking that maybe it would be better not to see each other quite so often. I couldn't bear to see that you were growing tired of me"—

"Her infinite variety," he began to quote, but she interrupted him with a lift of the kimono clad arm that set his thoughts adrift again. "We must consider the subject seriously, dear," she said softly and plaintively. "Suppose we plan deliberately to keep new to each other by taking some of our pleasures away from each other."

"Goodness, Betty!" he exclaimed. "I thought we married in order to enjoy ourselves together."

"We did, but see how people get after a few years! The Thomases, now, for instance—how different they are! And yet I am old enough to remember that they were perfectly selfish together at first. There are the Ripleys too. They are congenial and apparently the best of friends, but Mrs. Ripley doesn't seem to mind at all that her husband spends the greater part of his time away from her. It is only that I dread such a phase in our life."

He looked at her in surprise. Who would have thought her capable of such serious consideration of a life problem, this pretty creature of sunshine and smiles? Just then a thought popped into his mind. Suppose she were already getting tired—just a little bored with him. It would be like her to contrive some tactful way of telling him. And then Betty had been a belle; there had been a score of fellows dancing attendance upon her, even up to the very day of the wedding. Perhaps she was feeling dull, and no wonder, with such a poor stick as he as her only companion, even if she did love him as she professed. He pondered a few moments, making a great sacrifice, while trivially engaged in sipping his fragrant breakfast coffee. When he spoke his tone was cheerful.

"Well, Betty, darling," he remarked, "that had not occurred to me until you spoke, but you are right. There is danger of overdoing the devoted, and we mustn't get tired of each other—we just must not! I have not been to the club—not since the wedding. I will go there to dinner this evening, and you must accept one of your numerous invitations. You have Dolly to go with you, and I will send a carriage to be at your disposal for the evening."

"Yes," acquiesced Betty in a small voice, keeping her eyes upon her plate. She had not expected her ideas to be adopted with so little protest, and it was not cheering to find herself so correct in her forethought.

He looked at her sharply for a moment, then came over to her side of the table and kissed her goodby most affectionately. She longed to tell him that it would seem like a month for him to be gone until late that evening before she should see him again, but no—if he was already feeling the pull of the silken chain that bound them together she must not let him know that she was aware of it. She sprang merrily up, went with him to the door, chattering about this and that, as though her every thought was not of the evening that was going to be so lonely without him. When he turned back at the corner for a last look the wave of her small hand was positively hilarious.

The day crept by. At first her impulse was to remain quietly at home for the evening, but he was going to the club, and she must not be behind him in carrying out the plan.

She accepted Mrs. Ripley's invitation to hear Nordica with her. In the afternoon she dressed and went to a ten, wasted some hours over a visit to her dressmaker, and when evening finally came she arrayed herself for the sacrifice. It was no fun at all to fluff out her golden hair when there was no one there but Dolly to remark upon the effect, and then Dolly was painfully matter of fact. She would wear the violet silk with the yellow lace cascades, even if there was nobody there to tell her it was the prettiest dress that ever a pretty woman wore. It was a sort of solemn satisfaction to be making herself lovely without the encouragement of an admirer sitting over in that big chair, his knee over the arm and a cigar in his mouth, but at the mental picture she smothered an irrelevant sob. Dolly looked at her acutely.

"I believe I am about to take cold," faltered the little mistress mendaciously. "My throat feels so queer."

When she entered the box and threw her great white cloak in a luxurious heap in the chair behind her Mrs. Ripley glanced over her with a look of decided approval.

"You were never prettier, Betty," she whispered, "and then it is so sensible of you not to be foolish about having Tom Ellis dangling after you everywhere you go."

"That is what we agreed only this morning," said Betty in a burst of confidence, and then she grew suddenly silent.

Her eyes, sweeping the crowded house, had fallen upon Tom Ellis in a group of men down near the footlights. As the moments went on she began to feel aggrieved that he did not even glance toward the Ripley box, although he surely had known of the invitation. She was glad when the music began, because her throat still had that queer feeling, and her lips wanted to tremble. Nordica's superb presence and her singing failed for the first time to absorb Betty's attention. She would not look again at that group down near the stage, but she could not keep from seeing them in her mind's eye. She was glad there were others in the box who felt like talking. She did not want Mrs. Ripley to regard her too closely after the drop of the curtain. The hum of conversation began in a moment, and she half turned toward those near her, seeming to listen, although she heard not a word. Still she would not look below her.

"Boo!" came a frivolous exclamation at her shoulder, and she started violently. The rich blood surged into her face. She did not need to see whose hand was resting on her arm.

"Why, Betty Ellis," cried one gay voice, "you don't mean to tell me you are actually blushing over Tom, you ancient married woman, you! The blushes are for the buds."

"Then they are for Betty," said Tom gallantly. "What rosebud ever looked sweeter than she does this minute?"

"Tom!" she remonstrated, and he laughed and sat down beside her.

When the others were absorbed in themselves again he whispered to her: "Forgive me, Betty, if I bored you by coming. I just couldn't help it. I had forgotten all about the Ripley invitation until I saw you in the box. I came along just to be doing something."

"Don't," she begged, and the eyes that were lifted to his were full of tears. He covered her hand a moment with his and waited; then, when she had slyly wiped the moisture from her lids and had swallowed that trouble some lump, she whispered: "I was just mistaken after all. I don't believe in preventive measures like this. We are not tired yet. Let's just wait until we are."

"Done, Betty!" he agreed rapturously "You are so sensible."

"Sensible!" interrupted Mrs. Ripley turning quickly at the word, which had drifted to her ears. "Isn't she so Tom? I was just telling her a little while ago that she was most remarkably so."

The two accepted the unmerited praise unblushingly and looked at each other with a happy laugh.

Charms of a Soldier's Life.

The inducements England once held out to suitable men to join the ranks of the light dragoons, as given in the following passage taken from the London Times of Sept. 25, 1801, were certainly strong. Those willing to join are informed that they "will be mounted on the finest horses in the world, with superb clothing and the richest accouterments. Your pay and privileges are equal to 2 guineas a week. You are everywhere respected. Your society is courted. You are admired by the fair, which, together with the chance of getting switched to a buxom widow or brushing with a rich heiress, renders the situation truly enviable and desirable. Young men out of employment or otherwise uncomfortable, 'There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.' Nick it and instantly apply to the above."

Long Lived Dancers.

Louis XIV., who granted L'Academie de Danse of Paris its charter, strongly advocated dancing, for he considered it an aid to develop dexterity and deportment and adapt men for a warlike career. It would be somewhat exacting today to require recruits to take dancing lessons, but dancing seems to produce longevity, judging from the long life enjoyed by many of the aristocracy of the profession.

Vestris lived to be eighty, his son reached the age of 102, and one of his cousins attained ninety years. Pettitpa, who died in 1898, reached eighty years, and a brother passed away at St. Petersburg wanting five years of his century, while the brother of Louis Merante, who was well known at the opera, died in 1902 at Rouen, having reached the age of 102.

MARRIED IN HASTE.

A Saskatoon man came east the other day after making a bet that he would be married in six weeks. He wins now with four weeks to spare.

No one would care to say anything that would not harmonize with the jolly sound of wedding bells, or might cause a cloud to drift across the face of the honeymoon. But the undeniable fact remains that marriages which are the result of a bet, a toss of a coin, or getting Cupid to take a random shot in some other way, are about as risky as they can be.

What man or woman, starting to make a trip around the world, would care to take along as a companion whoever happened to be standing on the platform when the first railway station was reached? Yet these quick change marriages are a good deal more serious than any trip around the world. The contract calls for either lifelong companionship or trouble, or both. Very often the two wedded ones spend the rest of their natural lives debating as to which one made the biggest mistake.

Now, the Saskatoon man mentioned above may be in luck. Or he may have had it all arranged before he started east. Perhaps Cupid has caught the western spirit for the benefit of those westerners who have to rush the wedding preliminaries. But the old motto: "Marry in haste, repent at leisure," is still hanging on the wall.—Port Arthur News.

MEMORY IN FISH.

Striking Results Shown In a Test With Gray Perch.

Even the fishes of the sea have pictures on memory's wall. Experiments have been made with several fishes as to their faculties for remembering, but the most striking results have been obtained with the gray perch, which lives chiefly on small silvery hued sardines. Some of these were taken and colored red and were then put into the tank where the perch was with several silver colored sardines. Of course the normal sardines were at once seized and eaten, but it was not until hungry that the perch made a tentative meal of one of the red colored victims.

On recognizing the sardine flavor, however, he promptly demolished the remainder. Later the perch devoured the sardines irrespective of color, thus showing not only traces of a memory, but also the power to differentiate color.

Subsequently sardines colored red and blue were placed in the tank together with the silver ones. The same scene was repeated, the blue sardines not being attacked until the others were eaten and hunger compelled investigation of the newcomers. After this introduction the perch ate the sardines of all three types without any difficulty.

Some spines of the sea nettle were then fastened to the blue sardines. These were at once avoided by the perch, which promptly got out of the way of the newcomers. This showed traces of memory, as the results of contact with the sea nettle were shown and recognized.—Chicago Tribune.

THE WARM BREATH.

Why It Comes Out Cold Through Partly Closed Lips.

When one breathes out used air from the lungs through the wide open mouth the breath has the same temperature as the body, 98.6 degrees F., and frequently on a cold day we warm our fingers by breathing on them. If, however, we blow the breath vigorously from the mouth the temperature of the breath appears to be much lower than when breathed gently and with the mouth and is decidedly cooling in its effect, writes J. Gordon Ogden in Popular Mechanics.

The latter fact is due to the well known principle established by Lord Kelvin, that a compressed gas upon expanding will absorb heat. The breath, compressed by being forced to pass through the small orifice made by the puckered lips, immediately expands upon being admitted to the outer air and to do so must take up heat.

This is also the identical principle involved in the manufacture of artificial ice. Ammonia gas is first compressed into a liquid and then liberated into a network of tubes surrounding large sheet iron boxes filled with distilled water. The liquid ammonia, set free at one end of the pipe system, begins at once to evaporate, and by the time it has scampered through the long iron tubes it has become gas. As we have learned, to change a liquid to a gas requires heat. This heat is taken from the iron piping, an excellent conductor, which in turn robs the water of its heat, thus freezing it.

The Mexican Mosquero.

The finest fly traps are not in it with a little Mexican spider named mosquero. Natives gather from oak trees a branch covered with this spider's nests and hang it up in the house. The spiders begin on the flies by wholesale. Mosquero nests are very tidy, pretty and old maidish. A lot of tiny beetles make their home therein with the spiders. The beetles live on fly legs, the crumbs and scraps from the mosquero's table, and pay for their bed and board by keeping the web house perfectly clean and refined, eating everything and dropping no litter in the Mexican professional gentleman's house. Mrs. Mosquero is a very quiet, orderly lady who never wanders from her own fireside or strays from her own back yard, but when a fly calls round she gets very busy with her spider knives and saws.—New York Press.

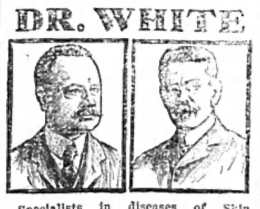
A girl, a great lover of nature, went to the seashore for a holiday, and approaching a typical fisherman, said:

"Ah, sir, how well you must know the face of nature and know it in all its moods! Have you ever seen the sun sinking in such a glare of glory that it swallows up the horizon with fire? Have you not seen the mist gliding down the hilltop like a spectre? Have you never," she went on passionately, "seen the moon struggling to shake off the grip of the ragged, rugged storm cloud?"



"No, miss," responded the fisherman. "I used to see dem things, but I'm on the water wagon now."—Exchange.

The $80,000 power dam at Walkerton, which required two years to erect and complete was partly wrecked a week ago last Tuesday night, about fifty feet of embankment being washed away between the race and the river near the power house. As a result, the whole town is in darkness, there being no lights in either houses or streets, and the power is in a quandary what arrangements to make. The consumers are now without a power supply from any other source and this leaves the town industries which have been operating with electric power at a standstill. The citizens of Walkerton have barely got through celebrating the event of the installation of an efficient lighting system, and although the damage will no doubt be repaired as soon as possible, it will leave the town without lights for a few days.

THE DRAGON'S BACKBONE.

An Odd Incident of Railroad Construction in China.

When there was undertaken the construction of the railway between Kirin and Newchwang, the seaport of Manchuria, it was proposed to make a junction at a place called Lanpien, outside the city of Mukden. For this permission had to be obtained from the Tartar general of Mukden. This functionary at once proceeded to call in his geomancers, a species of soothsayers, who gave information concerning the good fortune and ill fortune of sites and were supposed by the Chinese to know what demons and dragons inhabited the earth under the surface. These wise men reported that the dragon whose body encircled the holy city of Mukden lay coiled up in such a way that if the railway came through Lanpien the long nails driven into the ties would pierce his backbone and in all probability set him to raging violently, to the great detriment of the people of Mukden.

The general consequently refused the application of the railway people and directed them to carry the road in a straight line from Kirin to Newchwang, avoiding Mukden. The engineers thereupon appealed to the viceroy, showing that, as this proposed route would go through a marshy and uninhabited country, it could not be profitable for their enterprise.

The viceroy wrote to the general of Mukden, highly commending him for his discretion in consulting the geomancers, but suggesting that these sage persons go over the ground again and see if they could not find a place where the nails would not be likely to strike into the dragon's back. Accordingly, at the command of the viceroy, the general had his geomancers indicate a spot for the junction at Lanpien where they thought that, after all, the dragon's backbone would be safe.—New York Press.

RICE PAPER.

Shaved From the Snow White Pith of Trees In Formosa.

The so called rice paper is not made from rice, as its name implies, but from the snow white pith of a small tree belonging to the genus aralia, a genus represented in this country by the common sarsaparilla and the spikenard. The tree grows in Formosa and, so far as is known, nowhere else. The stems are transported to China, and there the rice paper is made. It is used, aside from a number of other purposes, by the native artists for water color drawings, and sometimes it is dyed in various colors and made into artificial flowers.

The tools of the pith worker comprise a smooth stone about a foot square and a large knife or hatchet with a short wooden handle. The blade is about a foot long, two inches broad and nearly half an inch thick at the back, and it is as sharp as a razor.

Placing a piece of the cylindrical pith on the stone and his left hand on the top, the pith worker will roll the pith backward and forward for a moment until he gets it in the required position. Then, seizing the knife with his right hand, he will hold the edge of the blade after a feint or two close to the pith, which he will keep rolling to the left with his left hand until nothing remains to unroll, for the pith has, by the application of the knife, been pared into a square white sheet of uniform thickness. All that remains to be done is to square the edges.

If one will roll up a sheet of paper, lay it on a table, place the left hand on top and gently unroll it to the left he will have a good idea of how the feat is accomplished.—New York Herald.

Sawse Sawge.

Here is the old King Richard II. way of making sausage: "Pyggs in sawse sawge," or pigs with sage sauce. "Take pyggs yskaldid (scalded) and quarter them and seeth them in water and salt; take them and let them kele (cool), take parsel (parsley), sawge (sage) and grynde it with brede and yolkes of ayren (eggs) harde ysode (boiled); temper it with vinegar somewhat thick, and lay the pyggs in a vessel and sewe onoward (the sauce over them), and serve it forth." "Take pyggs" is pretty good. Size or number seems of no consequence.—New York Press.

"I ATTRIBUTE MY CURE SOLELY

And Entirely To Taking "Fruit-a-tives"

HULL, QUE., DEC. 24th, 1909

"For the past twelve years, I had painful attacks of Dyspepsia. I could not digest my food and everything caused the most agonizing pain in my stomach. I also had a fearful attack of Constipation and at times, I had no movement of the bowels for two weeks.

Three doctors attended me for two years and gave me all kinds of medicine but did me no good. My weight came to only 80 pounds and everyone thought I was going to die. Finally, I had the good fortune to try "Fruit-a-tives" and as soon as I began to take them, I felt better. I persisted in the treatment and to my great joy, I steadily improved.

Now I feel very well, weigh 115 pounds, and this is more than I ever weighed even before my illness.

I attribute my cure solely and entirely to "Fruit-a-tives" and can never praise them too much for saving my life. To all who suffer from Dyspepsia and Constipation, I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" as a miraculous remedy".

Mr. Robert Osborne, the veteran C. P. R. conductor on this branch, made his last run on Thursday, after which he retires on a superannuation allowance, besides which he has made ample provision to spend the rest of his days in peace and plenty with his family in Toronto. The place to take a true man's measure is not in the market place or in the amen corner, nor in the forum or in the field, but at his own fireside. There he lays aside his mask and you may learn whether he is imp or angel, king or cur, hero or humbug. We care not what the world says about him—whether they crown him or pelt him with bad eggs; we care not a copper what his reputation or religion may be; if his babies dread his home coming; if his better half swallows her heart every time she asks him for a five dollar bill, he's a fraud of the first water, even though he prays night and morn till he is black in the face and howls hallelujah until he shakes the eternal hills. But if his children rush to the front gate to greet him, and love's sunshine illuminates the face of his wife when she hears his footstep you can take it for granted that he is true gold, for his home is a heaven and the humbug never gets that near the great white throne of God.

MADE GOOD AS A COOK.

The Old Lumberman Got Supper Without the Least Effort.

"Nowadays a cook is provided for each camp," said the old lumberman who has worked on the St. Croix, the Penobscot and the St. John, "but in my days of lumbering we took turns, a week at a time, or one man would make all the bread, another the tea and coffee, and so on through the bill of fare. Once in awhile—generally before they'd got licked into their reg'lar winter mold—some fellow would kick against the routine; 'he's been hired to do something else,' or 'he'd be hanged if he'd cook, anyhow.' Then there were ructions.

"I remember one little rebellion that began hot and roaring and died down into a laugh all round, thanks to an ingenious old soul, all quiet good nature and fat—Uncle Ned, we called him.

"We got back to camp one night to find the fire nearly out and nothing ready for supper. We were all hungry—and grouty, as sometimes happens in the best regulated crews. Each in turn declared he wouldn't be cook, and it looked like a supperless night till Uncle Ned spoke up in his quiet way.

"'Dear me,' says he, 'what a time about cooking! Why, it's the easiest thing in nature to get supper. Now, boys, if you'll all wait on me I'll be cook.'

"They all agreed. This being settled, Uncle Ned sat down on a spruce chair and let his assistants have it.

"'Now, Dick,' said he, 'the first thing for you to do is to get a little wood and start up the fire.'

"'Isaac, just step down to the brook and fetch a pail of water.

"'You, Mac, while the fire's getting under way, wash a few potatoes and get 'em ready to put on when the pot boils.

"'Now, Jake, you cut a few slices of pork and put it on over the fire to fry.'

"'But, Uncle Ned,' we all shouted together, 'you was to get supper!'

"'Yes,' said he, calm and easy as ever, 'I was to get supper, but you were to wait upon me. Tom,' said he, 'you'd better get the dishes ready.'

"We kicked some, but 'twas no use; we'd agreed to wait on him if he'd be cook.

"When everything was ready for supper, there the old man still sat in his spruce chair—hadn't stirred an inch!

"'Dear me, dear me,' said he, 'here I have got supper, and 'twas one o' the easiest things in the world.'

"We were 'caught,'" smiled the old lumberman, "and we sat down to supper in good temper, and ever afterward we had Uncle Ned's proposition for a byword; we'd agree to do any living thing provided we could be 'waited upon.'"—Youth's Companion.

No Use For Them.

"I watched your sister fixing her hair the other day," said Mrs. Nagget, "and I must say she's not the most refined person in the world."

"No?" replied her husband, with a belligerent air. "You don't approve of her, eh?"

"Well," she retorted with a disdainful sniff, "you'd never see me with my mouth full of hairpins."

"Of course not," he snapped. "What would you want with so many hairpins?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Declined to Tarry.

Here is one of F. R. Benson's stories of his early days of trouping in the English provinces:

"At one town I was playing to poor business. The occupants of the gallery were few and not overenthusiastic. I was about to make an exit on the line, 'Tarry awhile and anon I will return,' upon which a voice from the gallery exclaimed: 'Don't trouble to return, guv'nor. We're going and shall not be back!'"—Chicago Tribune.

Up to James.

An official was describing, at a dinner at Washington, an unfair law.

"The people under this law," he said, "are very much in the position of a young Washington attache. As the attache was breakfasting the other morning his servant said to him: 'You are out of whisky, sir. Shall I get a bottle?'

"'Yes, I think you might, James,' the other replied. 'It's your turn.'"—Washington Star.

The Poor Man's Gym.

"Would you mind telling me," asked Mrs. Bourdalot, glancing admiringly at the athletic shoulders of the prospective boarder, "how you keep in such splendid physical condition?"

"I go through a few gymnastic exercises every morning," confessed the young man, flushing.

"Well, I'm sorry, but we can't board you. I've had the bathroom monopolized that way before."—Kansas City Times.

SHORTHORNS FOR CANADA

Important Purchase of High-Grade Breeding Cattle Made in England.

One dozen shorthorn bulls, chosen from the finest herds in England, are to be shipped to Canada shortly. This selection of high-grade breeding cattle has been made by Prof. Geo. E. Day, of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, along with Mr. C. E. Bailey, Deputy Assistant Minister of Agriculture, who have spent the last two months in the old country.

Mr. Bailey thinks the herd that Ontario has purchased represents the finest selection of shorthorn cattle that has ever crossed the ocean. With the exception of one bull, which will be used for breeding in Northern Ontario in connection with the live stock associations, the remainder of the herd will be stationed at Guelph.

"These animals are from the best milking strains in England and are eligible for registration in Canadian herd books," said Mr. Bailey.

Discussing the advantage of shorthorns as a milk supply, Mr. Bailey said that 90 per cent. of the milk supply of London came from shorthorn cattle. He saw several herds of high-grade shorthorns that were equal to any dairy herd in Ontario. The majority of breeders in England cull all cows that produce less than 6,000 pounds of milk per year. The average production in Ontario is about 4,000 pounds. Nearly every country in Europe and many of the colonies were hunting for this type of milkers. This fact is regarded with deep interest by breeders in the British Islands, and it is stated that the price of shorthorns has almost doubled within the last six or eight months, and will probably go higher. Drafts on the English herds have already been made for Argentina and the United States.

The cost of the animals is over $10,000, which was provided out of the Federal grant to agriculture last year. On arriving in Canada the herd will be held in quarantine at Montreal for thirty days and then shipped to destination.

While abroad Mr. Bailey was Ontario's representative with the United States Commission that went to Europe to study agriculture in all its branches. There were 110 members in the party, representing nearly every State in the Union, as well as Alberta, Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia and Ontario of the Canadian Provinces. The Commission sailed from New York on April 25 and returned from Europe on July 17th. Mr. Bailey remaining over.

There were lessons to be learned in every European country visited, said Mr. Bailey. In many countries the farmers were able to obtain advances at from 2½ to 4½ per cent. Two systems of credits were employed—long and short term—the landershaft system, under which last mortgage bonds are issued, and co-operative methods both for marketing and production were highly developed in many countries, along with the social problem in rural districts. The best results from these methods were observed in Denmark and Ireland, said Mr. Bailey. Germany led in the matter of banking, with France a close second.

Mr. Bailey was not able to say what immediate application could be made of these schemes to Ontario conditions. The European farmer was of a simple type, lacking education, and more easily handled as a body than the Canadian farmer.

Mr. Bailey is one of a committee of five appointed out of the membership of the party to go to Washington to draft the report, and he will attend there, if possible, some time next month.

CHURCH REDECORATED

Messrs. Fuller, Allen & Holmes recently completed the contract of repainting and decorating Burns' Presbyterian Church in Erin village. In last issue the Advocate gives the following description of the work:—

"The decorations on the interior are a great improvement. On entering the door the first thing that strikes you, over the entrances lobby, is the motto of the Presbyterian Church, "Nec tamen consumebatur," surmounted by a painting of the burning bush.

The inside has been very neatly and tastefully decorated. The ceiling was first canvassed, followed by three coats of paint, the panels being finished in a cream tint, giving it a very neat and chaste appearance. Immediately below the ceiling a wide colored border has been carried around the entire length of the building. The walls, which were also given three coats of paint, are finished in a pea green. The windows have been surmounted with a colored arch and a wide panel down each side. The seats, the old paint on which was all burned off, have been given three coats of paint, and then stained, the fret work on the end being bronzed. The choir platform has been moved behind the minister's desk and a small rail, with curtains around it, and a very pretty carpet laid, looks neat and attractive. The text on the wall over the choir is nicely lettered, the words being 'The Lord is in His Holy Temple. Let all the earth keep silent before Him.' The contract, which was taken by Mr. Holmes, of Fuller, Allen and Holmes, of Orangeville, has been carried out in a most satisfactory manner, and reflects credit on the firm."

Re-opening services were held a week ago Sunday, the collections for the day amounted to $473:

A swamp fire near Glencairn got out into the open and destroyed considerable fence, and also damaged a number of fruit trees in the orchard of M. N. Stephens & Sons.

MAITLANDS WIN O. A. L. A. SEMI-FINEL

Orangeville Juniors Beaten 7 to 2 After Making Game Struggle.

The Maitlands defeated Orangeville at the Island on Saturday by a score of 7 to 2. This gives the first round in the junior semi-finals of the O.A.L.A. to the local team by a score of 22 to 8. The boys from the northern town put up a very game struggle considering that that they had no chance of pulling down the big lead secured by the Maitlands last Wednesday. The visitiors did not have much weight and the little fellows on their home found it difficult to get in on the strong Maitland defence. The locals have a good combination and their home worked with speed and precision. The Orangeville defence made a creditable showing to hold them down to seven tallies, although it must be admitted that they might have scored more if the condition of the round had forced them to extend themselves. The Maitlands possess lots of men from whom to select a team, who were present in uniform, but did not have to play. The teams:

Maitlands—Goal, Thornton; point, Harper; cover-point, Newell; defence, Nunn, Dyan and Rass; centre, Chapman; home, Sanderson, Rowland and Johnston.

Orangeville — Goal, Henderson; point, Booth; cover-point, Densmore; defence, Morrison, Bennett and Stevenson; centre, Dawson; home, Conley McPherson and Wilson; outside, Wilcox; inside, Brawley.

The lacrosse match played on Idylwyld Park on Wednesday afternoon of last week between the Toronto Maitlands and The Junior Dufferins resulted in a rather one-sided score in favor of the visitors, who won by 15 to 6. Both teams played clever lacrosse, but the Maitlands had the advantage in weight and also played a rather better combination game. Jack Brawley was responsible for 3 of Orangeville's 6 tallies. The other goals were scored by Don McPherson and Will Ewing. Secretary Frank Doyle of the O.A.L.A. refereed the game. The line-up was as follows:—

Maitlands — Goal, T. Thornton; point, J. Harper; cover, G. Newell; 1st defence, P. Chapman; 2nd defence F. Nunn; 3rd defence, J. Dwan; centre, J. McLean; 3rd home, P. Sanderson; 2nd home, F. Roland; 1st, home, R. Hewitson; outside, W. Johnston; inside, R. Wright.

Orangeville—Goal, W. Henderson; point, S. Cranston; cover, D. Densmore; 1st defence, C. Morrison; 2nd defence, V. Dedrick; 3rd defence, E. Stevenson; centre, Jas. Dawson; 3rd home, W. Ewing; 2nd home, H. Keith; 1st home, H. Wilcox; outside, D. McPherson; inside, J. Brawley.

Brampton won the championship of the western senior O. A. L. A. group on Saturday by defeating St. Catharines, last year's C.L.A. champions, by a score of 12 to 2. The game took place on Brampton grounds before a large crowd. The losers defeated Brampton in St. Catharines some weeks ago and started off well in Saturday's game by scoring the first two goals. After that, however, they did not have a chance, as the Brampton home showed altogether too much speed for the visitors defence. Brampton will now meet Almonte, winners of the eastern group, for the senior championship.

NGT THAT ONE.

A man once received as a present from a sea captain a fine specimen of a bird which sailors call the laughing jackass. As he was carrying it home he met a brawny Irish navvy, who stopped and said to him:

Phwat kind of a burrd is that sor?

That's 'a laughing jackass, explained the owner genially.

The Irishman thinking he was being made fun of was equal to the occasion, and responded with a twinkle of the eye. "It's not yourself; it's the burrd I mane sor."

LEAPED FROM BUGGY

Brampton Woman Took Desperate Chance and Was Instantly Killed

Mrs. Palmer Masales, of Brampton, jumped from a buggy on Monday afternoon and was instantly killed. Her head struck a stone on the road, causing a fracture of the skull and instant death. Mr. Masales, with his wife and the latter's sister, Mrs. Brown, had started out for a drive shortly after dinner. As they were turning south near the Grand Trunk crossing in Brampton, the horse took fright at the 1.45 train just arriving from Toronto. Mr. Masales turned down Mill St., and believed that before the animal had gone far it would recover from its nervous shock. However, it did not slacken its rapid pace, but the driver held on grimly and appeared to have full control. As they were nearing a corner one of the reins broke above the bit. Mrs. Masales, believing the animal might throw them into the ditch at any moment and that she was safe to take a chance on jumping, made a leap out on to the roadway. Her husband and sister were thrown headlong out of the buggy a short distance farther along the street, both sustaining serious injuries, from which, however, it is believed they will recover.

Going back to ascertain the condition of his wife, Mr. Masles was horrified to find her lying dead upon the roadside. Dr. Bryden, who was summoned, pronounced death due to a fracture of the skull.

Death of Mrs. Tuck

Mrs. Tuck, widow of the late Dr. Herbert F. Tuck, who practiced medicine in Orangeville some thirty years ago, died rather suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. C. Bourne, in Grimsby last Thursday. The deceased lady was visiting with Mrs. Bourne, when taken with her last illness. The remains were brought to her home here for burial, the funeral taking place to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Saturday afternoon. Rev. J. A. Ballard, of Grimsby, was the officiating clergyman. The late Mrs. Tuck, who was 75 years of age, was a daughter of the late Col. Hewat, of Guelph, and a sister of the late Dr. Hewat, of Orangeville. Alex. Hewat, of London, Eng., Robt. J. Hewat, of Simcoe, and Misses Alice and Mary Hewat, of Orangeville, are the surviving brothers and sisters. Mrs. (Dr.) Harvey Macadam, of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Bourne, of Grimsby, are the daughters. Mr. H. F. Tuck, Deputy-Sheriff, Miss Laura Tuck and Mrs. C. R. Wheelock, Orangeville, and Mrs. John McLaren, Toronto, are stepchildren. The late Mrs. Tuck was a woman of many estimable qualities and her memory will be cherished by her numerous friends.

WHOOPING COUGH.

A Highly Contagious Disease That Should Not Be Neglected.

Many persons regard whooping cough as tedious and annoying, but quite without serious importance. Unfortunately that mistake often leads to the neglect of the disease itself and the failure to isolate the patient properly. Recent statistics show that of the children under one year of age who have whooping cough one in four dies. The mortality decreases rapidly with advancing age, and at five years of age only one patient in fifty dies. Ten thousand children die of this disease every year in the United States.

Even when whooping cough does not result fatally it is still to be dreaded, for it may be followed by consumption, since the patient's powers of resistance are often greatly weakened by the violent and exhausting cough.

The disease is highly contagious, although the offending germ has not yet been discovered. Consequently the mother or the nurse of a child with whooping cough ought never to take it into public conveyances or to entertainments or send it to school or to church—anywhere, in short, where it will expose other children to the infection.

The disease begins like a simple cold in the head and rapidly goes to the chest. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in paroxysms. At the end of one of these attacks the air is pumped completely out of the lungs and the child feels that he must take a deep breath at once. But now a spasm of the larynx occurs, and only a small opening is left for the air to enter. Through this opening the child draws his eager breath and thus makes the peculiar noise of "whoop" that gives the disease its name.

Often vomiting follows a severe attack of coughing, and sometimes there is nosebleed or hemorrhage from the throat or into the eyes.

Never neglect the treatment of whooping cough. At present we know of no cure for the disease, but the child should always be under the care of a physician, who can do much to mitigate the severity of the cough and to prevent serious complications.—Youth's Companion.

HE WON THE CROWN

The Ancient Story of the "Bloody Hand" of Ulster."

The emblem of the Ulster arms is a huge red hand, from the wrist of which is flowing drops of blood. An official of one of the courts of the line gave this explanation of the queer device:

"It was in the early days of Ireland when James I. was king and when Ireland was divided into four provinces, that the king of Ulster died. He had two sons, who were devoted to each other and who at the time of their father's death were on the Isle of Aaron, Scotland. In those days the eldest son did not always succeed to his father on the throne.

"They were brave lads, these two sons of the old king, and upon hearing of the death of their father they planned to race across the channel and be the first to place his hand upon the soil of Antrim and thus become king of all the north.

"With eight men each they started off from Mulicantry. On nearing the shores of the isles the youngest prince, whose name was Neill, seeing that his brother was in a fair way to become king, drew his sword, placed his left hand on the side of the boat and cut it off at the wrist.

"Quickly seizing the dripping hand he threw it on shore and thus won the crown. Since that time, it is told, the bloody hand of Ulster has led to victory on many a hard fought field and emblem on the shields of the young king and his followers. Ulster's name, whether in trade or war or sport or on a steamship line, is known by the sign."—Philadelphia North American.

PROVED HIS WORDS.

Still, the Philosopher Didn't Like It When Death Called.

A certain philosopher was in the habit of saying whenever he heard that an old friend had passed away: "Ah, well, death comes to us all! It is no new thing. It is what we must expect. Pass me the butter, my dear. Yes, death comes to all, and my friend's time had come."

Now, Death overheard these philosophical remarks at different times, and one day he showed himself to the philosopher.

"I am Death," said he simply.

"Go away!" said the man in a panic. "I am not ready for you."

"Yes, but it is one of your favorite truisms that Death comes to all, and I am but proving your words."

"Go away! You are dreadful!"

"No more dreadful than I always am. But why have you changed me? You have never feared the death that has come to your friends. I never heard you sigh when I carried off your old companions. You have always said, 'It is the way of all flesh.' Shall I make an exception in favor of your flesh?"

"Yes, for I am not ready."

"But I am. Your time has come. Do not repine. Your friends will go on buttering their toast. They will take it as philosophically as you have taken every other death."

And the philosopher and Death departed on a long journey together.—Charles Battell Loomis.

About Sneezing.

Hospital nurses when assisting at a delicate operation have their own way of suppressing a cough or a sneeze. The operator's attention must not be distracted for a moment. Coughs and sneezes, too, spread germs on surfaces carefully rendered antiseptic. So every nurse soon learns to press her finger hard on the upper lip immediately below the nose when she feels a cough or a sneeze coming on. A pressure in the neighborhood of the ear, too, or a hard pressure on the roof of the mouth will nip a cough in the bud. And the will has great power to control a cough or a sneeze.

There was a French surgeon who used to say whenever he entered the wards of the hospital, "The first patient who coughs gets no food today." This method was usually successful.—Chicago News.

What Came Up.

A young man wishing to have a bit of fun at a farmer's expense passed a few remarks about his cattle and his garden and then said he had set some lettuce and cabbage which had not grown up.

Then the farmer said:

"Oh, that's nothing! I set some carrot seeds, and what do you think came up?"

"Don't know," replied the young man.

The Turnip.

The turnip is supposed to be a native of Asia and Europe. It has been cultivated for centuries. The wild East Indian turnip is said to be remotely kin to the edible turnip. It is the size of a walnut and first tasted is sweetish, but in a moment the taster's tongue feels as though it were pricked by a hundred hot needles, and he feels like expectorating for hours after. It is the country boy's favorite medium for a joke on the visiting town boy.

Work and Worry.

"So you think worry kills more people than work?"

"I'm sure of it," replied the sarcastic scientist.

"Why?"

"Because so many people find it easier than work and devote their time to it."—Washington Star.

PASS MATRICULANTS

Names of Successful Candidates at Examinations for Entrance to Provincial University and Normal Schools.

The following are the names of the Dufferin and Peel County candidates, who were successful in whole or in part on the Pass Junior Matriculation examination. Normal entrance candidates, who were also candidates for matriculation, have been considered in the results.

In Group I. are given the names of all candidates who have obtained complete matriculation by passing on twelve required examination papers, which are as follows: English literature, English composition, British and Canadian history, ancient history, algebra, geometry, Latin authors, Latin composition, together with the four papers in any two of the following subjects: Experimental science (physics and chemistry), French (authors and composition), German (authors and composition), Greek (authors and composition).

In Group II. are given the names of those who have passed on at least nine of the papers required for complete matriculation and have obtained the minimum required on the whole examination. They have, therefore, failed in not more than three papers. This fact will be shown on their certificates. In order to complete their matriculation they must pass in all the remaining papers at one examination, the standard for pass being forty per cent. of the marks assigned to each paper.

In Group III. are given the names of all those candidates who have failed to obtain the minimum required on the whole examination, but who have obtained forty per cent. on each of at least eight papers of the same. Such candidates have been awarded partial matriculation, and in order to complete their matriculation must obtain at one examination forty per cent. on each of the remaining papers with an average of sixty per cent. on the same. Candidates for matriculation into the Faculty of Applied Science who have obtained forty per cent. on each of at least eight of their pass papers and an average of sixty per cent. on the same are reported in this list. The honor standing of such candidates in mathematics will be found in the honor matriculation results.

The results of the examination in the cases of candidates writing on fewer than eight papers are not reported in the lists below. This statement includes those candidates who have written only on the papers required for matriculation into the College of Pharmacy. All such candidates must await the receipt of their certificates in order to ascertain the result of their examination.

The statements of standing of all candidates will be sent to the principals of the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes, or to Public School Inspectors, in a few days. In the case of those who wrote at the University of Toronto, their statements will be sent to the registrar of that institution. Candidates will apply to these officials, not to the department, for the reports in detail.

Sold at Par

Notwithstanding the existing money stringency the city of Guelph has not experienced any particular difficulty in disposing of its debentures. This is doubtless due in part to the excellent credit of the city. At the present time the municipality has for sale debentures amounting to $72,448. The waterworks debentures, amounting to $8,396, were disposed of to a local investor at par. It is confidently expected that the balance of the debentures will be sold at the same price, the deal being almost closed. This, it is understood, is the highest price that has been paid for the 5 per cent. debentures of any municipality this year.

Tomlinson—Collins

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Grace Methodist Church, Port Simpson, B.C., on July 30th, when Miss Ethel Collins, eldest daughter of Mr. N. Collins, of this town, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Tomlinson, son of Rev. R. Tomlinson, of Meaniskinisht. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. H. Raley, ex-President of the British Columbia Conference. The bride, who was unattended, was tastefully gowned in white voile over silk and carried a bouquet of moss roses. Following the ceremony a reception was given by the ladies of the Crosby Girls' Home, which was prettily decorated with marguerites. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome organ. Among the guests present were Rev. R. and Mrs. Tomlinson, who for nearly fifty years have been engaged in missionary work among the natives of Northern British Columbia, the missionaries of the Women's Missionary Society and the members of the General Board of Grace Church. The happy couple left for Prince Rupert, Victoria and other points in the south. On their return they will reside at Kishpiax on the Upper Skeena River, where they will engage in missionary work among the native people.

With the Bowlers

Two rinks of Orangeville bowlers took part in the big tournament at Southampton last week. The players did not manage to land any of the prizes, but they report a delightful outing and royal entertainment while in Southampton. Those who made the trip were:—Dr. Price, H. F. Reid, Thos. Wright and R. H. Robinson, skip; T. J. Brown, J. D. Torrie, E. C. Clark and A. D. McKitrick, skip.

Two rinks journeyed to Arthur last Wednesday morning to take part in a one day tournament in that place. As the play commenced at 9 o'clock they were obliged to make the trip by auto. An accident near Grand Valley delayed one of the rinks nearly half an hour and as a consequence they did not reach Arthur until 9.30. Their surprise and chagrin can be imagined when the President of the Club refused to allow them to compete and insisted upon taking the game (the locals happened to be drawn against his own rink) by default. A number of the Arthur players protested vigorously against the unsportsmanlike treatment of the visitors, but the President was obdurate and his decision went. The members of the rink, which was composed of Alex. Johnston, J. E. Smith, J. H. Steele and Dr. Campbell, spent the day watching the horse races and other sports. The other rink won the Consolation event each of the players bringing home a handsome casserole. The rink was composed of Geo. Morrison, T. H. Greenis, D. McCallum and J. D. McMillan.

DO NOT FORGET.

On August 16th and 17th we are having the Earlscourt Salvation Army Band from Toronto. A great musical festival will be given in the Town Hall on Saturday night, August 16th. On August 23rd and 24th we are having Envoy Brewer Brown, Ex-Boozer and Prize Fighter. Do not fail to hear him.

Endacott Recommended

There is not likely to be any lengthy delay in appointing a successor to the late Sheriff Bowles. In fact Mr. C. R. McKeown, M.P.P., who virtually controls the appointment, has already recommended ex-Mayor H. Endacott for the vacant position. Mr. McKeown made the recommendation to the Government on Tuesday and it is expected that the appointment will follow as a matter of course. It has been generally understood for the last two years that Mr. Endacott had the promise of the office and his appointment will not create any surprise. He will fill the office worthily and his selection should meet with general favor.

Orangeville Fall Fair

The Directors of the Agricultural Society are already hard at work making preparations for Orangeville Fall Fair, which will be held on September 18 and 19. The Society has been fortunate in securing a number of exceedingly attractive special features for this year's Fair. The Band of the Royal Grenadiers—one of the finest regimental bands in Canada—has been engaged for the 19th. The band will furnish music on the grounds during the day and give a concert in the Town Hall at night. Another popular attraction will be the Kennel Dog Show. It is expected that between 100 and 200 dogs will be shown. Most of these will come from Toronto and Hamilton. Arrangements have been made for a dog race, which in recent years has proved a very popular feature at the Toronto Exhibition. Given favorable weather this year's Fair should prove a record breaker.

—Mr. Wm. Algie, proprietor of the Beaver Knitting Mills in Alton, has purchased a new seven passenger Russell auto fitted with one of the popular "silent Knight" engines. This engine, which is made in England, has the reputation of being one of the very best on the market.

Investigating Fire

A commission of the officers of the 36th Peel Regiment visited town on Friday for the purpose of inspecting the armoury over Ritchie Bros.' store and ascertaining as nearly as possible the extent of the damage sustained from the recent fire. The commission was composed of Lt.-Col. R. C. Windeyer, Lt. W. T. Blakeley, Lt. G. R. N. Collins and Capt. A. J. McCausland, commanding officer of the Orangeville Company. The officers found that the uniforms, rifles and other equipment had been badly damaged by smoke and water and were of the opinion that a new equipment will be required. For the present the commission made arrangements to have the contents of the armoury stored in the Town Hall. While in town the officers visited the site selected for the proposed armoury. They expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the site, which they said was admirably located and amply large for the purpose in view.

Located in Saskatoon

Dr. A. E. Kyles, a brother of Dr. R. N. Kyles of this town, has commenced to practice medicine in Saskatoon. Dr. Kyles went West a few weeks ago, took his Council examination at Regina and after visiting a number of towns and cities decided to locate in Saskatoon. He has opened an office on Main St., in one of the most desirable locations in the city. He will devote special attention to surgical work. Dr. Kyles, who is a graduate of Toronto University, has had the advantage of five years hospital experience in Buffalo and is therefore well fitted for his work. His many friends here will join heartily in wishing him abundant success.

FIRE ADJUSTERS ARRESTED

Toronto Man Charges Them With Theft of $900.00

The Toronto Daily Star states that Myron Stern and C. Trowbridge have been placed under arrest charged with the theft of $900. The complainant is a Toronto man named M. Herzlick. According to the story he told to the police, he called in the two men, who were known as the Reliable Fire Adjusters, with offices in Scott St., Toronto, and had them adjust a fire loss. He claims that the insurance company settled for $1,300, but that he only received $400. He alleges that there was a misrepresentation on the part of the two accused, and, after investigating, swore out the warrant for their arrest.

Since the arrest of the two men the police have been busy looking up their records and their actions since coming from the United States some time ago. Enquiries elicited the information that the two had been present at nearly every one of the supposed incendiary fires which have occurred in the last two weeks.

"In one instance," said Inspector of Detectives Kennedy, "they were at a man's house asking that they be allowed to make the settlement before he knew that his place had been burned. The two men came here from the United States—one from New York and the other from Ohio—about seven months ago. We will investigate their actions while over there."

Stern and Trowbridge arrived in Orangeville by the morning train the day after the big Broadway fire a week ago Thursday. They lost no time in seeking interviews with Messrs. Adamson and Ritchie, who were the heaviest losers, and made representations which induced the local men to employ them to adjust their claims with the insurance companies. Up to the time of their arrest they had not effected a settlement for either of the firms.

Classy Films

The pictures at the Dufferin Theatre this week are exceptionally good and clear. The story of Lady Clare and her wooing by Lord Ronald had its pathos and joys, with a live happy ever after ending? A tale of the North West Mounted Police, and the flying of the Canadian ensign at the outpost, came as a great relief to the audience, which fully expected to see "Old Glory" doing, as usual, all the brave stunts. Then the audience got a trip through rural England all for 10 cents, without being "touched" by bell-boys, porters and other pirates of the voyager. An excellent reel "When Persistency and Obstinacy Meet," will be shown on Thursday and Friday. It is a narrative that will appeal to all who see it; a tale of love and all its peculiar worries and joys. Do not fail to see this. Admission as usual.

WOMEN NEED A SAFE TONIC

And There is Nothing Better Than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Toning Up the Blood.

It is said that woman's work is never done, and it is a fact that whether in society or in the home her life is filled with more cares and more worries than falls to the lot of man. For this reason women are compelled regretfully to watch the growing pallor of their cheeks, the coming of wrinkles and the thinness that becomes more distressing every day. Every woman knows that illhealth and worry is a fatal enemy to beauty, and that good health gives the plainest face an enduring attractiveness.

What women fail to realize is the fact that if the blood supply is kept rich and pure, the day of the coming of wrinkles, and pallor, dull eyes and sharp headaches is immeasurably postponed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are literally worth their weight in gold to growing girls and women of mature years. They fill the veins with rich, red blood that brings brightness to the eye, the glow of health to sallow cheeks, and charms away the headaches and backaches that render the lives of so many women constantly miserable.

Mrs. William Jones, Crow Lake, Ont., says: "I feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. I was so badly run down that I could hardly drag myself around. I was so bloodless that I was as pale as a sheet, and you could almost see through my hands. In fact the doctor told me my blood had all truned to water. I was taking medicine constaatly, but without benefit. My mother had so much faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, that she bought me two boxes and urged me to take them. How thankful I am that I followed her advice. Before these were gone I began to feel better, and I continued using the Pills until I had taken five more boxes when I was again enjoying the blessing of perfect health, with a good color in my face, a good appetite, and I feel sure a new lease of life. I will always, you may be sure, be a warm friend of Dr. Willian's' Pink Pills.

If you are weak or ailing begin to cure yourself to-day with the rich red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. If you do not find the Pills at your dealers' send 50 cents for a box, or $2.50 for six boxes, to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and they will be sent you by mail, post paid.

Canada imported $10,000,000 worth of American automobiles during the last year. That's going some.

HEPWORTH STATION BURNED.

Hepworth's Grand Trunk station, erected but a year ago at a substantial outlay, was burned to the ground Tuesday, August 5th., a spark from the 1.17 southbound train being believed to be the cause of the blaze. The fire was discovered but a few minutes after the train went through. Two cars of furniture, shipments of the Hepworth Manufacturing Company, were also destroyed by the flames.

PROTECTING THE PUBLISHER.

A new newspaper law has been passed, which, in a measure protects the publishers of newspapers from being defrauded out of back subscriptions. Frequently cases come before the publisher where persons cancelled their paper, but incidentally "forgot" to pay arrears of subscription. Under the new law, however, the publisher can continue to send his paper (even if refused), until such time as said arrears have been paid. Several cases of this kind have come beneath our notice and we must say it is a cheap way of getting out of an honest debt. The courts class such an act as "wilful fraud," proceeding upon the basis that a man must pay for what he uses. This law has passed into effect and will most effectively assist the publisher in his fight against the man who refuses to pay for what he has received.

DOWNEY—MADILL.

At Sunny Slope, Shelburne, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Watson, the marriage took place on Wednesday, July 30th, at high noon, of Miss Margaret Madill, third daughter of Mrs. Wm. Madill, to Mr. Herbert Edmund Downey, of Bolton, in the presence of about 30 immediate relatives. Rev. Dr. Caldwell officiated. The drawing room was beautifully decorated with ferns and flowers. The bride was given away by her mother and wore exquisitely embroidered white marquisette and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies. A bracelet set with pearls and amethysts was worn, a gift from the groom. Miss Gladys Fawcett, niece of the bride, was flower girl and ring bearer, and wore a dress of white embroidery and carried a basket of pink roses. The groom's gift was a pearl crescent. The wedding march was played by Miss Mabel Madill, sister of the bride. After the ceremony a dejeuner was served. The tables were decorated with smilax and sweet peas. Later Mr. and Mrs. Downey left for a trip down the St. Lawrence. The bride travelled in a suit of saxe shot silk in Russian effect and panama hat. On their return they will reside in Bolton.—Economist.

Muskoka will vote on the Scott Act.

Hospital Notes

A visit to the Lord Dufferin Hospital is an inspiration during the very hot weather. The cool corridors and airy wards are in pleasing contrast to the dust-laden atmosphere of the street. The patients are all doing nicely, under kind and faithful nursing.

The Supt., Miss Barclay, intends having a few holidays in August.

The Canadian Newspaper Directory

We have just received from the publishers, A. McKim, Limited, of Montreal and Toronto, a copy of the 1913 Edition of the Canadian Newspaper Directory.

This is the eighth Edition of this valuable work, which fills a very real need in Canada, and deserves a place on the desk of every business man, whether he is an advertiser or not.

The Canadian Newspaper Directory lists and describes 1,688 periodicals in Canada and Newfoundland. Of these, 152 are daily, 1,279 weekly or semi-weekly, 232 monthly or semi-monthly, and 25 are published less frequently. This is a considerable increase over the last edition. There is also a specially selected list of leading British publications which will be of much use to those interested in Old Country trade.

In addition to these, the Directory supplies a comprehensive Gazetteer giving the population, the chief industries, the railway, the telegraph and banking facilities and other interesting features of every newspaper city, town and village in Canada.

This work contains over 499 pages. It is splendidly bound and is certainly a credit alike to the publishers and to the Canadian Newspapers generally.

A. McKim, Limited, are particularly well qualified to edit and publish this, the standard book of reference on Canadian publications. Theyare the pioneers in the Advertising Agency business in the Dominion, the McKim Agency having been founded in Montreal in January 1889, 24 years ago, by Mr. Anson McKim, who is still at the head of the business.

During all this time they have been acknowledged leaders in this line in Canada, and the Agency business has been developed from a very small beginning—then performing only the functions of the middle man—to a very large producing enterprise which runs into millions.

It goes without saying then that no other Agency is in closer touch with the publishers of the Dominion than McKim's, and they are able to get the most reliable information. The price of the 1913 Directory is $2.90.

A TRUE FISH STORY.

Every day will be Friday by and by if the Fisheries Department of the Dominion Government accomplish the object of their exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. This exhibit is intended to show the people of inland Canada what they are missing in not using salt water fish as a steady diet. It will show the various varieties of the finny tribe, and just how they should be cooked to become a delicacy. The Department is spending $10,000 on this exhibit, so it will be seen they are in deadly earnest. This should easily be one of the most interesting exhibits of the Fair.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Doucette Tells of her Distressing Symptoms During Change of Life and How She Found Relief.

Belleville, Nova Scotia, Can.—"Three years ago I was suffering badly with what the doctors called Change of Life. I was so bad that I had to stay in bed. Some friends told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the first. It is the only medicine I took that did help me and I recommend it. You don't know how thankful and grateful I am. I give you permission to publish what your good medicine has done for me."—Mrs. SIMON DOUCETTE, Belleville, Yarmouth Co., Nova Scotia, Canada.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

FOREST RESERVES.

Up to date 16,000,000 acres have been definitely set apart by act of Parliament in the Dominion of Canada to be administered as forest reserves. Additional areas are being examined each year, and some 6,000,000 acres additional are now under temporary reservation and will shortly be added to the reserves set apart by statute. In each of the 12 inspection districts is a technically trained man experienced in timber administration. These divisions do not include a patrol outside of forest reserves on the large area of forest not included therein. In such areas there are in addition twelve patrol divisions, each under charge of a chief fire ranger. On each of the forests, houses have been erected for the forest rangers, so that they may be close to their work, and give it careful supervision. At different points throughout the forest, huts have been erected as headquarters for summer patrols and in some of the more inaccessible districts; 470 miles of trails and roads have been constructed, and a 100 miles of telephone have been put in operation. A much enlarged program of such improvement work has been laid out for the coming year.

MR. JOHN FEATHERSTON.

Closely following the death of his brother, Joseph Featherston, who died about a week ago at his home near Streetsville, came the demise of John Featherston, drover, who died last Friday at the home of the Dowler brothers, of the sixth line, Trafalgar. John had never quite recovered from the accident at the C.P.R. station here a couple of years or so ago, during the loading of a car of live stock, he was caught between the platform and the hub of a wagon and had his thigh broken. Deceased was to the farmers of this section of Halton what his brother Joseph was to the farmers of Peel, and no man was better known to them or better liked. Many thousands of dollars were paid out to them by him for their live stock, and all his dealings with them were on the square. John was quite a familiar figure on the streets of Milton until the last year or so.—Milton Reformer.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught will start on the 17th of October on their voyage back to Canada.

Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. R. Bright, 215 Booth avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

THE FIRST BORN.

(From The Vancouver Province.)

Vancouver will welcome the battleship New Zealand in no mere spirit of curiosity. It is true that the ship is the first of its class on the Pacific Coast of North America. It is true that she is representative of a type of warship which many citizens have never seen before but of which illustrations have given them some conception. It is also true that just because she is the biggest warship that has ever sailed these seas she will arouse a great amount of interest. But the ship means something more than all these things to every British citizen. She is the first born of a new idea. That new idea is the federation of the British Empire and to the Dominion of New Zealand belongs the proud distinction of having mothered the first-born, the first Imperial whelp of the Dreadnought brood, the first practical production of the seed sown at the never-to-be-forgotten conference of 1909.

Ever since 1887 both Australia and New Zealand have contributed to the British navy. In 1909 they led the way at the Imperial Conference the way for the establishment of an Imperial fleet. New Zealand without hesitation, without making conditions and without attempting to barter, declared that as a beginning she would give a Dreadnought. There would be time enough while the ship was building to discuss her future; where she would be stationed and under whose control she would ultimately come. The main thing to be done was to act promptly and show that at the Dominion of New Zealand at any rate recognized that her contribution of 26 years was not to be understood as the limit of her responsibility. The white population of New Zealand is under a million and the area including all islands is less than one-third the size of British Columbia. The battle-cruiser which we welcome is the gift of that Dominion to the idea.

Thus the New Zealand is the practical illustration of the character and spirit of the people of New Zealand. They give in no niggardly spirit. They make up their minds to act and act promptly. They accept their responsibilities without questioning whether they are too heavy for them to bear, or whether their own development is not of more importance than the development of an Empire. They do not even count the cost. They cry to all the world, to their brothers across the Seven Seas, to their friends and foes alike. "We, the children of the Empire, are united. The friend of one is the friend of all." That is the spirit of New Zealand, and though its material form may be grim and foreboding, though instead of a spiritual robe it wears a coat of fourteen inch steel, though its voice is the thunder of guns, Vancouver welcomes it as the realization of a dream.

Here is a dream come true, a dream that one day the world would realize that the spirit of Nelson, of Howe, Drake, Frobisher, and Grenville, of a thousand sailor heroes, still lived in the sons of the men freed by the conquest of the seas they sailed. The same spirit as won Trafalgar went to the building of the New Zealand. She is no mere hull of steel carrying new guns, but a living, vital force encircling a world vibrating with the understanding of her significance.

Vancouver has had many Imperial visitors, but even the visit of our present King, then Duke of York, was not faught with such significance as the visit of the battle-cruiser, the gift of New Zealand to the Imperial navy. It is through this gift that the British navy in very truth becomes Imperial. The fine spirit which prompted the gift thrilled the chords of Empire as nothing else could have done. Here is no mere vain-glorious boast of what would be done when the time came or what might be done if an emergency arose. Here is realization, practical help from a practical people. Of a truth the New Zealand as she steams through the entrance to Vancouver's harbor is a proof of her readiness to defend that harbor. We instinctively rely on New Zealand, on Australia, on South Africa, and on Great Britain to come to our help if need be, and without parley silently, grimly, but proudly they came because we are all one. This is the meaning of the visit of the New Zealand. It is a dream come true and a promise kept. It is the honor of a brother pledged in the blood of a thousand years. It is the definite sacrifice made by New Zealand on the alters of our freedom and in the name of that freedom symbolized by the flag she bears we welcome the first born of our Imperial destiny.

SEWED THE FINGER ON AGAIN.

The little seven year old daughter of Mr. Irvine Gower, on Second Ave., east, had an experience on Thursday of last week which does not befall anyone, particularly a little girl, when she had a finger practically cut off and had it skillfully sewed on again in the course of a few minutes. She was quite interested in the operations of her brother, who was cutting a block of ice up fine with a cleaver. The idea suddenly possessed the little girl that she would like a chip of the cool ice and she shot her little hand over the block for a piece. But as she did so the cleaver descended and striking the foremost digit of the right hand cut it through the second joint until there remained only a fragment of the skin and flesh holding the dangling end of the finger to the stump. Dr. Murray dressed the hurt a few minutes after it happened and decided to sew the end back again. This he did and to all appearance the finger will be quite a serviceable member when it has healed up, though it will be always somewhat stiff.—Owen Sound Times.

CAMPBELL—SPEIRS.

The marriage of Miss Janet Scott Speirs, of Mayfield, to Mr. Herbert James Campbell, of Cheltenham, took place on July 30th, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. John Speirs, "Glenore," Mayfield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Cheyne, of Claude and Mayfield. The bride, who was gowned in ivory duchesse satin trimmed with shadow net and pearls, wore the traditional tulle veil crowned with lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, entered the drawing room under an arch of evergreens and sweet peas on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Mabel Campbell, sister of the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl crescent and to the pianist a hoop bracelet. After signing the register the guests, who numbered about seventy-five, repaired to the dining room which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, where a dainty luncheon was served. The happy couple who received many costly and useful presents, left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for Port Cunnington, Muskoka. The bride's going away dress was light grey whip cord with hat to match. On their return they will reside in Brampton—Brampton Banner.

Another daughter and her husband, Mr. Hartley, of Spokane, Wash., are also on the way here and are expected on any train.—Erin Advocate.

Big Deal in Regina

Real Estate Holdings to the Value of $1,500,000 Disposed Of.

One of the biggest realty deals ever ever put through in Regina has just been completed. Robert Sinton has sold his large holdings of horse barns, business property and farm lands to a Scottish syndicate for the sum of $1,500,000. The property includes Lots on Albert Street, Lorne Street and Scarth St.

—From Financial Post, June 7th, '13.

COST HIM $75.00

Sold For Half Million.

Robert Donald, of Edmonton, held on to two lots that made him wealthy.

Edmonton, May 22nd.—Two lots at the corner of Jasper Avenue and First Street, bought by Robert Donald twenty-two years ago for $75, were sold by him to-day for half a million. The site is to be occupied by a hotel.

—Canadian Press Despatch to The Toronto, News, May 22nd, '13.

In a few weeks time the street car service of Regina will be running to the boundary of the city limits on all sides. When the extensions are completed and the service in actual operation, an immense amount of outlying building property which today can be ourchesed at a very low figure, will be worth double its present value. New homes will be built and prices will naturally advance rapidly. The man who buys close-in property now will make a big turn-over. Act promptly Others are doing it and making money, why not you?

These furnish convincing reasons why investors should buy Western City Property.

I have some well located lots for sale which will increase in value very rapidly.

THE BANNER

THE BANNER, AUGUST 21st, 1913

THE MONEY BY-LAWS

On Saturday the property owners of Orangeville will be asked to vote on two by-laws to sanction the expenditure of $6000 on the renovation of the Town Hall and Public School buildings. Taxpayers are quite naturally averse to increasing the debenture debt of the town, but it should be remembered that a place is often judged from its public buildings. Every year the Town Hall is visited by public entertainers from Toronto and other outside places. These people form their impressions of the town to some extent at any rate from the appearance and condition of the hall in which they appear. In view of the deplorable condition into which the interior of the auditorium has been allowed to fall this impression cannot well be otherwise than unfavorable. It would be waste of money to reseat and decorate the interior of the building without first putting the roof into condition, making alterations that will modernize the auditorium and dressing rooms and also installing a heating system that will heat the hall even in the coldest weather. The antiquated wood stoves that have done duty for so many years are a poor advertisement for a town of Orangeville's size. They do not heat the building either, and if there happens to be a concert or other entertainment on a cold winter night the audience is under the necessity of listening to the programme wrapped in overcoats and furs. The Hall belongs to the people of Orangeville and every citizen should have an interest in having a public building, of which the town need not be ashamed. The $3000, which the by-law will provide, will put the building into first-class shape. It will spread the cost of the repairs over a period of ten years so that those who will reap the benefit of the improvement in years to come will bear their share of the cost. The by-law is deserving of the support of all property owners who wish to see Orangeville progress.

Nearly every person will admit that it is one of the first duties of a municipality to provide the children of its citizens with proper educational facilities. Good schools are absolutely essential to the well-being of any community. Like some other municipalities in Ontario, Orangeville has a public school building that has done duty for several decades. If a new school were being built now it is not likely that the plans would follow the lines of the present building. It would be an easy matter to design a more compact, a better lighted and a more easily heated school. Such a building would cost possibly $30,000 and would place a heavy burden on the shoulders of the taxpayers. While the old building is not all that might be desired, it is a substantially built structure, the walls and foundations are in first-class shape and with an expenditure of $3000 it can be put in satisfactory condition. As a preliminary to the repainting and refitting of the interior, the Board has had the whole building reshingled at an expense of between $400 and $500. The Board could have requisitioned the Council for say $1200 or $1500 this year and then ask for a similar amount next year and in this way meet the cost of the improvements. This would be neither wise nor fair because it would mean an abnormally heavy tax rate for a couple of years and would also compel taxpayers to pay in two years for improvements that are permanent in character and will serve for a number of years. The only equitable method is to raise the money by debentures and thereby spread the cost over a term of years. The members of the School Board are nearly all property owners and if the By-law carries will have to bear their share of the expense. After mature consideration the Board has decided that the repairs and improvements are necessary and should be made just as soon as practicable. Granted that they are necessary the only sensible plan of providing for the cost is by issuing debentures and before debentures can be issued the by-law must be sanctioned by the property owners. The time they spend in school constitutes the most important formative period in the lives of our boys and girls. They should be allowed to spend this period amid comfortable and pleasant surroundings. Orangeville's public school building may not be as modern as many of our citizens would like, but it can be fitted and equipped in a manner that will make it comfortable and pleasant for both pupils and teachers. Every person, who has a vote, should mark his or her ballot for the public school by-law on Saturday.

Inaccuracies in Report

The Banner received a call one day last week from Mr. R. Clewto, of Toronto, Inspector for the Yorkshire Insurance Co. The purpose of Mr. Clewto's visit was to object to certain items in The Banner's report of the investigation into the death from poisoning of Richard Woods two stallions. Our report, which was based on a report that appeared in the Toronto Globe, stated that the animals were insured in the Yorkshire for $2200. Mr. Clewto states that the Yorkshire carried only $1000 and that the other $1200 was carried by the General Animals Insurance Co., of Montreal. He also maintained that Mr. Gordon Waldron, of Toronto, one of the lawyers engaged in the investigation, did not appear for his insurance company, but was employed to assist County Crown Attorney W. J. L. McKay, the representative of the Crown.

SHERIFF ENDACOTT

Official Intimation of His Selection Reached Now Appointee Last Thursday

Choice Falls Upon Prominent Orangeville Man

As intimated in last week's Banner the Ontario Government has not lost any time making an appointment to fill the vacant Dufferin County shrievalty. Last Thursday Mr. Henry Endacott, who has long been regarded as the most likely applicant for the position, received notification of his appointment. Mr. C. R. McKeown, M.P.P., who controls the appointment, recommended Mr. Endacott as early as Monday of last week. The appointment, we understand, was made on Tuesday.

Sheriff Endacott, who is a man of about 60 years of age, was born in Devon, England. His parents came to Canada while he was a child and his boyhood was spent at Tullamore in the County of Peel. He came to Orangeville for the first time in 1871 as manager of the grocery department of Chisholm & Green's general store business. He remained here for two years and then returned to Brampton to become bookkeeper for the firm of K. Chisholm & Co. This position he held for ten years. In 1883 he returned to Orangeville as a partner in the business. Later on he formed a partnership with his brother, Mr. Geo. Endacott, and under the firm name of Endacott Bros., the partners took over the Chisholm stock and business. Public spirited and energetic Mr. Endacott took a keen interest in the municipal politics of his adopted town. About 1886 he was induced to stand for deputy-reeve in opposition to the late G. B. Island and after a stirring contest was elected by a small majority. He afterwards filled the offices of reeve and mayor, his term of active municipal service covering a period of seven or eight years. Mr. Endacott has also been a member of the High School Board and at the present time is Secretary of the Public School Board, Secretary Treasurer of the Dufferin Agricultural Society and Secretary of the Orangeville Board of Trade. These positions he will in all likelihood now resign just as soon as practicable. The new Sheriff is identified with the Anglican Church and has served the congregation of St. Mark's as church warden and also as treasurer. Mrs. Endacott is one of Orangeville's most estimable ladies and is deservedly popular among her friends. Like her husband she takes commendable interest in public matters and has shown zeal and ability in church and Women's Institute work. They have a family of four sons and one daughter. Two of the sons—Geo. M. and Douglas—are living in Vancouver, the daughter, Mrs. W. C. Hopkins, is wife of the manager of the Bank of Commerce at Elgin, Man., and there are two young boys—Ralph and Alan—at home.

As a citizen and business man Mr. Endacott has always enjoyed the respect and good will of the people of Orangeville and surrounding country. It goes without saying that he will fill the office of Sheriff with dignity befitting the importance of the position. He enters upon his new duties with the hearty good wishes of all classes in the community, who unite heartily in wishing him a long and happy official career.

Some Pertinent Questions.

A short time ago Saturday Night drew attention to a suggestion of a large American cattle exporter that the slaughter of female cattle under seven years be prohibited. It was pointed out that this at least seemed to furnish a remedy for the beef shortage on this continent, and for the present high and increasing cost of all products of the cow. It is hardly necessary to tell anyone that the cow is a basic factor in the nourishment and comfort of the people of this continent to-day. Our editorial seems to have annoyed a writer in Orangeville, Ont., presumably engaged in the cattle business, and who asks a series of questions of the advocates of the idea. His questions are in some degree pertinent, and are as follows:—

Granted that a possible fifteen or twenty per cent. of female cattle fail to reproduce, is there a satisfactory way to meet the situation as to when they will be slaughtered?

Since an actual practical cow ordinarily does not reach the acme of perfection before her fifth birthday, and has at least five years of usefulness after the seven year limit, which part of her existence is more profitable to all concerned?

If the capacity of the breeder is limited to a certain number, who will provide the necessary accommodation and fodder for the additional number he would be compelled to maintain?

Would not the breeder be forced to dispose of his best female animals in their prime, and his males as soon as the law would permit, and would the ultimate result not be an actual reduction of the number of his producing animals?

When "old" beef is being unloaded on the public, in quantities, at the price of choice meat, will the consumer himself be benefitted?

How would the suggested legislation affect the product of the milkman and the cheese factory patron, who now dispose of all surplus calves, when they would be obliged to reduce the number of producing cows, in order to accommodate the non-producing animals, under three years?

Would the breeder of pure-bred cattle, who now makes beef of those females which are not to his purpose, be encouraged or hindered?

During the first years in which such legislation would be in force, to what extent would the present scarcity be increased?

Deprived of her age-indicators, the horns, who will say if our cow is four years old, or seven.

Is either the cattle exporter or the Brooklyn "Times" a competent authority as to whether the farmer should be legally bound to keep his cattle for a specified time, or not?

The point that the gentleman who framed these questions seems to overlook, is that after all, the person most to be considered is the consumer. He is more important than the producer or the middleman, because he outnumbers him a thousand to one. "Saturday Night" is not an advocate of any system whereby the cattle breeder would be compelled against his will to maintain beasts to a certain age for the benefit of the community. The suggestion made, was that some Government provision be made whereby when a breeder desired to part with female cattle, they should be disposed of in a manner that would prevent their slaughter. The problem is no doubt a complicated one, but Governments ere now have solved ones more difficult.—Toronto Saturday Night.

FERGUS WON.

Thistles Were too Speedy for the Dufferins.

The Fergus Thistles and the Dufferins met in a semi-final game in the O.A.L.A. intermediate series on Idylwyld Park last Wednesday afternoon. The match attracted a splendid crowd, quite a number of visitors being present from Shelburne, Fergus and Grand Valley. The visitors had a strong, well-balanced twelve and had no difficulty in winning the game by the one-sided score of 9 to 0. They were in much better condition than the locals and this gave them a decided advantage in the fielding work. They also played a clever combination game and made good use of their opportunities when they had possession of the ball. Our readers must not infer from the score that the Dufferins did not play a good game. The locals presented the strongest line-up of the season and played an extremely creditable game. They had possession of the ball nearly as much as their opponents, but their home was not as aggressive as it might have been and the players were content to do most of their shooting at long range. At that the Fergus citadel had a number of narrow escapes and had it not been for Calder's exceedingly clever work in goal the Dufferins would undoubtedly have placed a number of goals to their credit. Booth did the most of the shooting for the locals, although Keith and Ewing sent in a number of warm ones, some of which Calder was more than lucky to stop. Dr. Campbell, one of the old time Dufferins, played a sterling game at point and generalled the defence in a way that showed that he had not forgotten the tactics of the game. The defence played an unexpectedly strong game and made the fast Thistle home work hard for every goal they got. Secretary Frank Doyle, of the O.A.L.A. refereed the fixture. The players were :—

Fergus—Goal, Alex. Calder; point, W. Chapman; coverpoint, J. Cushing; defence, A. Black, J. Black, A. Weadick; centre, L. Chapman; home field, O. B. Brown, J. McCulloch, A. Cuthbert; outside home, A. Farnell; inside home, J. B. Brown.

Dufferins—Goal, A. Jones; point, Dr. Campbell; coverpoint, B. Bennett; defence field, C. Morrison, D. Densmore, V. Dedrick; centre, J. Dawson; home field, W. Ewing, H. Keith, A. A. Smith; outside home, Bert Booth; inside home, D. McCallum.

Record Ambulance Work.

A Brooklyn Physician Answers Three Calls in Twenty Minutes.

Answering three ambulance calls in twenty minutes is the record made by Dr. Matthews, of the Norwegian Hospital.

At 10.45 he went with the auto ambulance to 329 Fortieth street. Living at that address was Mrs. Mary Nelson, aged 69, who, while hanging out washing from a rear stoop, had fallen into the yard. She sustained lacerations of the scalp and contusions of the body.

Ten minutes later the doctor went to 236 Forty-ninth street, where two-year-old Ellen Antoine had fallen from a window of the second floor. Suffering from a fracture of the right thigh the baby was removed to the hospital.

At 11.05 the ambulance went to Fourth Avenue and Twenty-seventh Street, and Dr. Matthews attended James McAllister, 10, who had been bruised by being struck by a street cleaner's cart. — Brooklyn, N. Y., Home Talk.

Dr. Matthews is a son of Mr. Jas. A. Matthews, of this town.

BEE INDUSTRY THRIVING

The bee industry of Ontario is no small thing, said Morley Pettitt, Provincial Apiarist, speaking at the recent Rural Educational Conference. At a recent committee meeting of beekeepers, held in Toronto, the five members present reported a combined output of 50 tons of white clover honey for the season. The estimated output of the white clover honey for all Ontario for this season is 18,000,000 pounds, with a wholesale value of nearly $2,000,000. The buckwheat honey harvest will add to this total.

"There is no line in agriculture," said Mr. Pettitt, "that lends itself so readily to nature study in animate things as bees, because they can be observed so easily.

"There is nothing so well adapted as a sideline for the teachers as bee keeping. In the early part of the season, all the attention the bees need can be given in evenings and on Saturdays. The rush of the bee season comes in the summer vacation, when the teachers have time to attend to them."

CHIEF BADLY BEATEN

Patrolman Savage, of Copper Cliff, Nearly Killed.

Patrolman Savage, of Copper Cliff, while arresting a man in Little Italy at 12.30 Friday night, was set upon by a gang of about thirty men, who assaulted him with their feet and any missiles which were handy, beating him into insensibility. At three o'clock this afternoon he had not regained consciousness. His skull is fractured and broken and his nose broken, besides innumerable body bruises. He has a fighting chance for his life, the doctors say.

Friends of the police quickly got word to Chief Clark, who with other members of the force, removed their comrade to the hospital and spent several hours searching for his assailants, making one arrest, but it is fully believed the whole gang will be rounded up.—Sudbury Star.

Savage was Orangeville's Chief of Police for a few months early in 1912. He resigned his position here to go to Copper Cliff.

MAMMOTH SPECTACLES.

John Henderson, English Producer, Now in Toronto Conducting Rehearsals.

John Henderson, the famous English producer of spectacles, who is staging Nero and the Burning of Rome and the Musical Surprise at the Canadian National Exhibition, has arrived in Toronto, and rehearsals are now going on. He brought eighteen cases of uniforms with him and will train 800 people for the big features. Mr. Henderson will also sing songs of his own composition. He is said to be the only man in the world who can sing so that every one of the 30,000 people in the stand can hear him distinctly.

Wingham will hold an Old Boys' Reunion in August, 1914.

Kindness is the golden chain by which society is bound together.

GRATITUDE PROMPTED THIS LETTER

Prominent People Proud To Testify For "Fruit-a-tives"

DR. TIMOTHY McGRATH

130 ATLANTIC AVE., MONTREAL, MARCH 1st, 1912.

"For years, I suffered from Rheumatism, being unable to work for weeks at a time and spent hundreds of dollars on doctor's medicines, besides receiving treatment at Notre Dame Hospital where I was informed that I was incurable. I was discouraged when a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives". After using three packages, I felt relieved and continued until I had used five packages when a complete cure was the result after years of doctoring failed. I consider "Fruit-a-tives" a wonderful remedy. You are at liberty to use this testimonial to prove to others the good that "Fruit-a-tives" has done me"

TIMOTHY McGRATH.

NEWS NOTES.

The port of Windsor is now the fifth port of entry in Canada. The indications are that receipts for the year will be about $4,000,000. In 1900 they were $300,000.

The Bank of Hamilton has refused to allow the town of Sarnia any more money for local improvements. The municipal account is overdrawn to a considerable extent.

Alex. McCowan, M.L.A., for East York, has resigned his seat in the Legislature and will likely become Sheriff of York County, succeeding Sheriff Daville, who died recently.

Fruit growers throughout the St. Catharines district are clamoring for more baskets. The supply is not equal to the demand, albeit the factories have been working overtime.

Present indications point to the apple crop in Kent county being a short one. Orchards which have been sprayed are doing well, but other orchards show half-sized and wormy fruit.

Mr. F. J. S. Martin, who has been practising law at Sault Ste. Marie, has been appointed Crown Attorney for Algoma in succession to Moses McFadden, elevated to the Bench.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. McCulloch, of Grand Valley, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Eugene W. Stone, of Buffalo, N.Y. The wedding will take place late in August.

Marcus Vanderburg, a well known contractor, of Welland, had a narrow escape from instant death when he was run down by a motor driven by Street Commissioner W. G. Minnes.

Mr. Andrew Henry, a young farmer, near Brampton, was kicked in the head by a young horse that he was holding for a vet. to examine. Mr. Henry was badly cut across the forehead.

Collector J. Hallett, of Guelph, reports the customs receipts for July, 1913, as being $20,187.55. Those for the same month last year were $19,974.76, and increase for July, 1913, of $212.79.

The Salvation Army at London, Ont., has had plans prepared for the reconstruction of the front of its citadel on Clarence street. The Army Home will be improved to the extent of $10,000.

At Belleville a young man hired a horse and buggy, which were found at the G.T.R. station hours later at night. The horse was in an exhausted condition, and the buggy badly smashed.

Mrs. Emma Blohm, wife of John Blohm, the well known picture show man of Chesley, Walkerton and Southampton, is suing for divorce on the grounds of alleged infidelity, says the Hanover Post.

In a fire at Orillia, the sheds behind the old Grand Central Hotel, the house of Swinton & Son, and some other buildings, were burned. The sheds where the fire started were 310 feet long, and of wood.

Messrs. Greer & Lethbridge, subcontractors of the stone and brick work of the new post office for Shelburne, have started work. They have a gang of men and teams at work excavating for the basement.

The lack of rain all over the country is causing a scarcity of water. The spring that supplies the Creemore waterworks is very low and the council have shut off the street watering and using water on lawns.

Andrew Aikins, an Englishman, aged 40, crawled under a T. H. & B. freight train at Hamilton, which was standing near Trolley street, when it suddenly started. He lost both hands and sustained other injuries.

Joseph Richardson, a colored man of Sarnia, was charged with smuggling clothing valued at $12. The penalty is a $50 fine or a month in jail, but the Collector of Customs was satisfied with forfeiture and costs, $21.10

HE FINALLY GOT WARM.

A Writer's Indoor Experience on a Cold Night in Bordeaux.

What beautiful sunshine we had at Bordeaux, and how nice and warm it was in the daytime! As long as the sun kept out it was lovely; but, oh, when the sun went down!

They gave gave me a beautiful, large, lofty room at the hotel with doors and windows all over it. After dinner I went up to try to write, and then I found that Siberia had come again. I put great logs of wood upon the fire and blew them with the bellows till the flames roared up the chimney, but still I shivered in the icy blasts that blew through every crevice. I put on my ulster, I dragged the blankets from the bed, I ran races around the room and practiced the Indian clubs with a heavy portmanteau in each hand, but still I felt my blood congealing, and the horrors of the early morning came back again.

In this dilemma my companion's Sudan experiences stood us in good stead. He was with Gordon in the expedition of 1876-7. He took our walking sticks and umbrellas, and with these and the blankets and the rugs he rigged up a nice, comfortable tent in front of the fire.

Sitting in this tent in our big room we at last got warm, and my fingers were able to hold a pen.—George R. Sims in "Dagonet Abroad."

AN ARCTIC DELICACY.

Eskimo Soup Would Hardly Tickle Refined Palates.

Kane and Dr. Hayes, the first white men—apart from an occasional whaler—to visit the Eskimos, found some difficulty in accommodating themselves to local customs. In "The Toll of the Arctic Seas" D. M. Edwards quotes Hayes' account of his first visit to a native hut. After a cordial welcome he was pressed to eat.

"This," says Hayes, "was an invitation which I feared, but now that it had come I knew that it would be unwise to decline it. The expression of thanks was one of the few in their language that I knew, and I made the most of this. They laughed heartily when I said koyenak in reply to their invitation, and immediately a not very beautiful young damsel poured some of the contents of the pots into a skin dish, and, after sipping it to make sure, as I supposed, that it was not too hot, passed it to me over a group of heads. At first my courage forsook me, but all eyes were fixed upon me, and it would have been highly impolite to shrink. I therefore shut my eyes, held my nose, swallowed the dose and retired. I was told afterward that it was their greatest delicacy—a soup made by boiling together blood, oil and seal intestines."

"Three Sheets in the Wind."

"What was the origin of the phrase for drunkenness, 'three sheets in the wind?'" a landsman asked a sailor the other day. "Well," said the sailor, "I'll explain that matter to you. The two lower corners of a ship's sail are held taut by two ropes, one called a tack and another called a sheet. The tack is always kept very tight, but the sheet is loosened according to the wind, and the looser the sheet is the more freely the sail swings. If the sail is quite free its sheet is said to be 'in the wind.' Now, suppose that all three of a ship's sails were quite free. They would then fly about very crazily, and the ship would wabble. The course of the ship would be a zigzag one, and the reason for this would be that she had 'three sheets in the wind.' That, I guess, is why a man when he zigzags in his course is said to be 'three sheets in the wind' also."

He Was Not Laconic.

John Morley in his life of Gladstone tells the story of the statesman's examination for admission to Oxford university when he was a youth. The examiner, having utterly failed to floor the candidate on some point of theology, said, "We will now leave that part of the subject." "No, sir," replied the candidate; "if you please, we will not leave it yet," and proceeded to pour forth a fresh stream. The dean in Mr. Gladstone's day was Gaisford, famous among other things for his trenchant brevity. "This laconic gift," observes Mr. Morley slyly, "the dean evidently had not time to transmit to all of his flock."

Genius and Goodness.

I have had sometimes in mine the gloved and white palm of the upper class and the heavy black hand of the lower class and have recognized that both are but of men. After all these have passed before me I say that humanity has a synonym equality and that under heaven there is but one thing we ought to bow to, genius, and the only thing before which we ought to kneel, goodness.—Victor Hugo.

Saving.

Saving produces a peace of mind unknown to him who in time of misfortune must depend on the bounty of his friends. Determine to save, for will power is the prime essential. Deposit regularly. Lay aside some portion of each week's or month's income. Deposit extra and unexpected receipts.

Worse Than Hard Words.

"Why did you kill your parrot? The poor bird meant nothing by its profanity."

"I could stand its profanity, but it learned to imitate the lawn mower last summer."—Washington Herald.

Prayer carries us halfway to God, fasting brings us to the door of his palace, and almsgiving procures us admission.—Koran.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

are not a new and untried remedy—our grandfathers used them. Half a century ago, before Confederation, they were on sale in nearly every drug or general store in the Canada of that day, and were the recognized cure in thousands of homes for Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness, Rheumatism and Kidney and Liver Troubles. To-day they are just as effective, just as reliable as ever, and nothing better has yet been devised to

REAL BONANZA FOR GAMBLERS

Famous French Resort Nets $20,000,000 a Year from Games of Chance.

Means Adopted to Bring the Town of Enghien Into Prominence.

Just eight miles north-east of Paris is a lively little town of about 10,000 inhabitants, named Enghien, which is euphemistically described as a "health resort." Its attraction, however, is so potent that the Northern Railway Company finds it profitable to run 150 trains a day to and from Enghien, and frequent trains from the centre of Paris take you there in an hour. Economical people who like a little exercise can walk there in two hours.

Enghien is advertised by the municipality and the Northern Railway Company as a "first class thermal station," possessing the "most sulphurous" springs in the world; it also contains a large pond, described as a "beautiful lake" where "boating and other aquatic sports may be indulged in."

The salubrity of the "lake" is, however, open to question, as Dr. Calmette, director of the Pasteur Institute at Lille, reports the presence in its waters of sewage and other putrescent matters, and describes it as "dangerously contaminated." Another attraction advertised is the "superb concert hall, where music lovers can listen to opera every day of the week at a moderate cost."

As a dollar will buy a good seat at the Opera Comique in Paris, where you can hear some of the best singing in the world, it hardly seems worth while to go and hear a lot of third-raters at Enghien. The charm of this town, however, lies neither in the "sulphurous springs" nor in the odoriferous lake, nor in the concert hall. The word "casino," printed in small type at the bottom of the artistic pictorial posters that advertise Enghien to the world explains the town's real attraction.

Since gambling was officially abolished in France about 20 years ago, it has flourished like the green bay tree at various seaside and health resorts which obtained permission to open a casino for the benefit of visitors. About this time a landlord at Enghien discovered that the little town possessed a lake and mineral springs, and so might be described as a health resort.

He at once communicated these interesting facts to a number of impecunious Deputies, who persuaded their friends to vote a short bill which authorized the construction of a municipal casino at Enghien. These authorized gambling houses pay a certain percentage of their winnings to the Government.

According to the figures published in the Official Journal, the Enghien casino netted $20,000,000 last year. There are, of course, some fine pickings in this, and it is not surprising that a number of Deputies strongly oppose the closing of this gambling place at the gates of Paris.

Anybody can obtain admission on payment of 20 cents, and stakes of the same amount are accepted at the roulette tables. This enables the young clerk, the working man and the little dressmaker to risk their weekly earnings on the rolling ball. As the maximum stake is $5, the small punter has about as much chance of winning as if he exchanged pocket books with a confidence trick man.

It is a pathetic sight to see them "doubling" until they have reached the maximum—at which point their weekly earnings are raked in by the wooden-faced croupier. The upstairs rooms are devoted to baccarat, "trente et quarante" and "chemin-de-fer," but admission to these can be obtained only by joining the club at a yearly subscription of $10. These rooms are mostly frequented by people with money to lose, but the $5 limit roulette tables, where the bank wins by a mathematical certainty, are open to the public, and no questions are asked.

The doors of the casino are open to the humble worker, the absconding clerk and the prodigal son. The dishonest cashier can either fritter his money away at roulette or pay $10 and plunge at the baccarat tables upstairs.

The impassive croupier, like the bloated British bookmaker, cannot be expected to know the numbers of stolen notes. Although it is well-known that a thief who has made a successful haul takes the first train to Enghien, it is a significant fact that no arrest has ever been made in the neighborhood of the casino. On the other hand, every train crossing the frontier is carefully watched. In France they believe in keeping money in the country. How many ruined homes, bankruptcies and suicides Enghien is responsible for it is impossible to calculate, but hardly a day passes without the papers mentioning it in connection with some unfortunate creature's downfall.

The scandal reached such gigantic proportions recently that a public-spirited Parisian deputy, Georges Berry, succeeded after many years' efforts, in forcing a Parliamentary debate on the Government, with a view of suppressing the casino. In the course of the debate he produced a report made by a police commissioner on April 4th last.

This report says the croupiers employed at Enghien are mostly "men with a bad record," and that frequent complaints are made of "irregularities" at the gaming tables. He further offered to produce a list containing the names of 40 Deputies who were in receipt of monthly subsidies from the Casino Company.

M. Berry was not allowed to produce this document, which would have created a storm violent enough to sweep away the present Government. It looked at one time as if another "Panama" scandal would shake the French Parliament to its foundations, but Berry, like Clemenceau, was persuaded to keep the list of compromised Deputies in his pocket.

After a heated debate lasting all day, the Chamber voted the suppression of the Enghien Casino by a large majority. As the original 18 years' concession expires next December, it looked as if the "health resort's" days were numbered.

But the minority who voted against the suppression looked so cheerful that a deputy of an enquiring turn of mind happened to ask the Finance Minister if the concession had been recently renewed. He was informed that "a few days previous to this debate a further concession of 18 years was granted to the Enghien Casino!"

As a sop to public opinion a Parliamentary Commission has been nominated to enquire into the charges brought against the casino by Georges Berry, but by the time they have finished their labors some new scandal is likely to monopolize the attention of the press and the public.

As the French say, "there are still fine days" ahead of the picturesque lake, the thermal springs, the superb concert hall and the casino of Enghien."

Baby's Great Danger During Hot Weather

More little ones die during hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentry, cholera infantum and stomach disorders come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

At St. Catharines an Italian and a Pole jumped into the cupola in the foundry of Steel & Radiation, Limited, which was full of gas, and threatened to explode momentarily, to rescue Percy Roberts, a young married man.

Born in Ireland in 1815, the year that Waterloo was fought, and when George III. had still five years to reign, Mrs. Elizabeth Scott Pickup died last week in Toronto at the great age of 98. She enjoyed the use of all her faculties until the end.

While Robert Whitehead, a young farmer about seventeen years of age, was driving into his father's gateway near Elmbank, Peel County, on a load of grain, the waggon struck one of the posts. The young man was thrown from the load, and when found a short time afterwards it was found that he had a broken leg.

Dan O'Keefe was fined $20 and costs by P. M. Crawford, of Brampton, for ill-treating a horse hired from Wm. Harriss, the Brampton liveryman. E. Herbert and H. Bailey, who were with him were let go. Another man, named Moskell, also charged with ill-treating one of Mr. Harriss' horses failed to appear and is supposed to have fled the country.

Mrs. Bell, of Georgetown, mother of Mrs. W. S. Murphy, of Brampton, met with a very serious accident a week ago Sunday. Mrs. Bell was putting her grandchildren to bed when the light went out. She went out into the hall to turn it on again when she made a mistep in the dark and fell to the botton of the stairway. Some of the neighbors heard the fall and came to her assistance. It was found that both wrists were broken and that she has sustained other very painful and serious injuries. Mrs. Bell is 76 years of age and her fall will be a serious shock to her.

CURING BAD HABITS.

Try a Little Self Hypnotism on Your Pet Weaknesses.

In a large eastern city is a professional hypnotist who has a wide reputation for curing the habit of intemperance. His method is dirt simple.

"There is no real hypnotism about it—unless it is a matter of self hypnotism," this professor once said. "I simply observe the mind process of the man that drinks and advise him how to reverse it. The subconscious soliloquy in the mind of the man that drinks runs something like this: 'When did I have my last ball? Whew! Long as that! I don't see how I stood it so long. Wouldn't have thought it possible.' And so on the victim repeats to himself on the principle that he needs this periodical stimulant just as it is necessary to heap coal on to fire to keep it from burning out. In a word, that man self hypnotizes himself into the belief that he needs a drink.

"My advice to cure this craving is not to fight the appetite, but to fight down the cause that leads to the appetite. Let a man repeat to himself over and over again: 'I really don't need this drink. If I take it, it's simply a matter of pouring so much down my throat superfluously, for I could get along without.' Before long he will be surprised how instead of hypnotizing himself into drink he will hypnotize himself out of it."

Simple, isn't it? But if this self hypnotism or whatever you choose to call it is a cure for intemperance why is it not equally a recipe for curing other bad habits?—Chicago Tribune.

KNEW HIS BUSINESS.

This Parisian Beggar Realized the Value of New Shoes.

Begging has long been a great art in Europe. By using subtle touches of misery and calculated effects of disease and dismemberment the beggar became a master of pathetic appeal. A delightful story of Dupre, the sculptor, is quoted by Hamilton W. Mabie in the Outlook.

Looking out of his window in a hotel one bleak wintry morning in the good old times, Dupre saw an old beggar sitting barefooted on the stone steps below. His heart was moved with compassion, and he began to search for a pair of shoes. He found two pairs, one of them new.

"Do not give the new pair away; you will need them yourself," urged his prudent wife.

"No," said the sculptor, "I shall find the old pair more comfortable. Moreover, if I am to give anything away I am going to give the best I have."

So he hurried downstairs and put the new shoes in the hands of the barefooted old man. The next morning the beggar sat on the steps as usual, and, as usual, his feet were bare. Dupre hurried down to him. "Where are the shoes I gave you? You are not wearing them," he said.

"No," replied the old man, "I could not wear them, excellency. If I did nobody would give me anything. I have pawned them."

Lakes of Blood.

The name Lake of Blood or its equivalent has been given to places as far apart as England and South America.

"Sanguelne"—i. e., the Lake of Blood—was the name given by the victorious Normans to the battlefield at Hastings, where the Saxons were overthrown and slain with terrible carnage.

For a similar reason Lake Trasimene has borne the name "Sanguinetto" because its waters were reddened during the second Punic war by the blood of some 15,000 Romans who fell before the troops of Hannibal.

Yet another Lake of Blood, called also "Yagunr Cocha," is situated in the state of Ecuador. It is one of a series of lakes formed by the extinct craters of volcanoes on the towering heights of the Andes range of mountains.

The Donkey's Head.

Among the most extraordinary pieces of symbolism known to have been used by the early Asiatics was a figure of a donkey's head used as a representative of the deity. There is no doubt whatever that the same emblem was once used among the Hittites, the Egyptians and one or two other nations as a symbol of their red god, Sut. The superstition of the yellow donkey of India, the story of the swift ass of eastern Asia and the ass of Dionysius and many other marvelous ass stories are all survivals of that curious form of religious worship the adoration of the ass' head.

They Both Knew.

The fool said one day in the king's presence, "I am the king!" And the king laughed, for he knew that his fool was wrong.

A week later the king was angry because of an error he had committed and exclaimed, "I am a fool!" And the fool laughed, for he knew that his king was right.

THE FLY ON THE PANE.

It Will Crawl to the Top, but Will Fly Back to the Bottom.

A fly on a window pane will crawl to the top, fly back to the bottom and crawl up again. This order is seldom reversed—why no one knows. It is on record that a fly crawled up a window pane thirty-two times, returning each time a-wing.

Hens scratch for food with the sun behind them, the reason being that the rays reflect on the minute particles. A blind hen will pick grain and not miss a kernel.

Cats seldom lie with their feet to the fire. Usually they lie on the left side. Dogs lie with their fore paws to the fire.

A mouse will ignore a food supply sufficient for a meal and run great risks to nibble at a wholesale supply. It will hide at the source of food supply and not depart therefrom until actually disturbed. It isn't true that a mouse runs to its hole at the first alarm.

Find a harmless little snake the length of a lead pencil and provide a box for it in the house, visit it daily and at the end of three months it will crawl to you for food.

Goldfish usually swim around a globe to the right. They can be taught to take a fly out of the hand in six weeks' time. The presence of other fish in the globe is generally ignored by goldfish. Drop a piece of chip on the surface of the water and it will frighten a fish.

Sheep spend more time grazing than do cattle and horses. Sheep will eat for twelve hours out of twenty-four.—New York World.

FIGHTING NATURE.

What One Man's Patient Effort Wrung From a Desert in France.

In the southwest of France, between the rivers Adour and Garonne, are long stretches of pine woods, green and cool.

Where these pines now stand was a barren waste in the middle of the last century. Sun and wind vied with each other in making the land drier and dustier. Over the stormy bay of Biscay came winds that set up great sandstorms and sometimes buried whole villages. The whole region was one of hopelessness and despair. Fate was against it.

But finally there came a man who acknowledged fate only as something to be overcome. This man, one Bremontier, was an inspector of roads. He began fencing in the desert. He built a fence and behind it planted broom seeds. Behind the broom seeds he put seeds of the pine. The fence protected the broom seeds, and the broom grew. Then the broom in its turn afforded shelter to the delicate pine shoots.

Soon the pines spread, and their tough roots bound the sandy soil together. The first step was accomplished. Then canals were made to drain the wet parts and carry water to the dry.

Thus did one man by patient effort turn a dreary desert into a home for an industrious and healthy population. It was an instance of triumph over fate.—New York Tribune.

The Business of Life.

Life is a business we are all apt to mismanage, either living recklessly from day to day or suffering ourselves to be gulled out of our moments by the inanities of custom. We should despise a man who gave as little activity and forethought to the conduct of any other business. But in this, which is the one thing of all others, since it contains them all, we cannot see the forest for the trees. One brief impression obliterates another. There is something stupefying in the recurrence of unimportant things, and it is only on rare provocations that we can rise to take an outlook beyond daily concerns and comprehend the narrow limits and great possibilities of our existence.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Those Newspaper Yarns.

A worthy old dame of New England once invited her husband's attention to what seemed to her a curious item in the journal she was looking at. "Listen to this," said she, reading.

"The Mary H. Barker of Gloucester reports that she saw two whales, a cow and a calf, floating off Cape Cod the day before yesterday."

"Well, what about it?" asked the husband.

"Only this," replied his spouse. "I can understand about the two whales, but what beats me is how the cow and the calf got way out there."—Lippincott's.

A Useful Remedy.

Little four-year-old Billy was visiting his neighbor, Jerry. Billy showed every evidence of a bad cold. Jerry's mother asked with grave solicitude, "Doesn't your mother give you anything for your cold, Billy?" whereupon Billy answered, feeling in all his pockets at once, "Yes, ma'am; she gives me a clean handkerchief."—Lippincott's.

Quite Pretty.

"Of course not," said the local critic. "I noticed its gilt edges and the beautifully colored frontispiece."—Atlanta Constitution.

THE GROWTH OF DICTIONARIES

The dictionary makers estimate that the English language grows at the rate of 5000 words a year, so nearly as they can judge by the steady thickening of their books.

In 1616, the year of Shakespeare's death, Bullokar's "Complete English Dictionary" contained 5,080 words. Forty years later Thomas Blount's "Glassographia" showed a considerable growth in the words admissed as in the language and Edward Phillips' dictionary, "New World of English Words," a small folio published in 1658, held 13,000 words, and when the sixth edition of this book appeared in 1706, the number of words exceeded 20,000.

When Johnson's Dictionary was published, in April, 1755, it was instantly acknowledged to be the only dictionary worth considering, by reason of its system and the evident soundness and breadth of its reading; yet it contained only 50,000 words. Even at that it remained the sole authority until Noah Webster's great book, published in 1828, containing 160,000 words, and Worcester's "Comprehensive Pronouncing and Explanatory English Dictionary," published in 1830, containing 105,000 words.

In the latter part of the nineteenth century the dictionairies grew in size like rolling snowballs. The "Imperial Dictionary" contained 200,000 words and the "Standard Dictionary" (1894) appeared with 318,000 words. Several additions of this last dictionary have been printed and the latest, to appear in the autumn of the present year, will reach the high-water mark of 450,000 words, nearly all of which can present good claims to usage as true English words.

The scholars who have worked upon this latest word book agree that some 3,500 languages, or sub-languages, are in use at present in the world, and among these the use of the principal European languages is distributed as follwos:—English is spoken by 160,000,000, German by 130,000,000, Russian by 100,000,000, French by 70,000,000, Spanish by 50,000,000 and Portuguese by 25,000,000. This paramountcy of the English language is becoming more firmly established year by year and while no statistics of growth in other languages are at hand, the fair presumption is that English, through its increasing use throughout the world, is accreting more new words than any other.

The gradual loss of obsolescent words from the dictionary is small in comparison with the influx of new ones. In the matter of pronunciation it is said that the American pronunciation is becoming more and more surely assimilated with the English. In this forth-coming edition of the "Standard" many varying pronunciations of the same word are noted as found in good contemporary English usage. For instance, half a dozen pronunciations of the word "vase" are given.

The vagaries of the simplified spellers are not followed by the editors of the new book, but the so-called "Americanisms" of "labor" and "honor" for the older "labour" and "honour" are given since there is good Latin authority for them; also, where a good reason seems to exist for the economy of letters and the elision of mutes, the American style is preferred. For example "program" and "catalog" are defended and included as perfectly comprehensible.

In the matter of slang, the policy of the editors has been to include all slang which is alive and to provide a place for it until it dies. Many slang words and phrases have only an ephemeral or local existence, while other bits of slang soon become firmly embedded in the language. It is remarked that many fine old English words which have almost died out of usage except in Ireland are now finding new leases of life in the United States and Canada. All such are carefully included by the philologists.

THE TEACHING OF YOUNG CHILDREN.

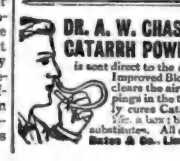
The Montessori method of teaching young children, which has attracted so much attention in the educational world during the past four or five years, is to have a practical try-out at Atherton, San Mateo County, California, where Mrs. Beach Thompson has equipped a schoolroom and put it in charge of competent persons. There are to be three periods of one month each during the current year, and by the end of the last of these the merits of the system should be fairly well determined. Mme. Montessori and her followers have assuredly achieved very notable results, yet we think there are considerations with respect to the system which remain to be tried out in broad applications, says the Editor of the "Argonaut." Originally and fundamentally the system was devised for defective children. The theory under which it is applied to normal children is that what may work well with a defective child of say ten or twelve will be equally effective with a normal child of say four or five or six. That this theory is a sound one we doubt. Between the defective child and the normal child there are, we suspect, differences of mind and disposition, of receptive powers and of capacity for establishing habits, not measurable by difference in years. In other words, there are radical variations between the defective mind and the normal mind. But be this as it may, the experiment is worth while, and it will be followed with attention by many who have been attracted by Mme. Montessori's system, both by its success in her school in Rome and by the philosophy upon which it is founded. One thing is certain, namely, our present methods of teaching children are very far from being perfect. In many respects we question if they are as effective as the old-time school when the alphabet was written on a clapboard, the reverse side of which was a ready instrument of pedagogic discipline. Learning indeed has been made easy, and we sometimes think too easy.

It is only a few years ago that the educational world gave its unqualified endorsement to the kindergarten system, which took children almost from infancy and turned the work of education into diverting games. Measured by conceptions of idealism and judged by certain sentimental and picturesque standards, the kindergarten was a tremendous success. But later the more sober judgment has not tended to confirm earlier opinions. It has been found—at least we have the word of experienced teachers for it—that children of the kindergarten, while in many ways they exhibit a certain mental efficiency, gain little or nothing in the way of real training. They have been taught, not to work, but to play. They have acquired neither habits of industry or obedience. Coming from the kindergarten to schools of more serious purpose and severer method they have much to unlearn—much which tends to turn the hair of the academic teacher gray. If it be true, as certain psychologists have declared, that the most important formative years are those of early childhood, then it can not be true that a system of teaching which does not in those years enforce habits of diligence and obedience is a good one. A child fixed in the habit of following its own whims and of turning work into play is a child essentially damaged in its capacity for serious effort.

It is a trite remark that education, as the etymology of the word reveals, is a process of individual development—of bringing out inherent qualities and capacities and making the most of them. It follows in logic and common sense that any scheme of education which reverses the order must be wrong. Nature is a pretty good schoolmistress, though a hard one. She instructs in a thousand subtle ways, but in her method there is a remorseless severity. She does not attempt, as does the kindergarten, to make things easy; she does not, as does the Montessori system, temper the wind to the shorn lamb. The rule of the survival of the fittest is nature's rule in education as in other things. And we suspect that for normal children this is the correct principal. When work is turned into play, when things are made easy, when cajolery is established in place of duty, when art is made to serve instead of utility—there is, we suspect, a flying in the face of nature which may produce Lady Clares and my Little Lord Fauntleroys of eight or ten, later to grow into pretentious sissys and insufferable prigs.

JAPANESE FIREWORKS.

They come on at three o'clock every afternoon at the Canadian National Exhibition, and they never fail to start a craning of necks all over the grounds. The youngsters go wild with delight as they scramble for those tissue paper figures that float gently down from the exploding balls high above the banners and towers of the Exhibition City.



TWISTERS IN ENGLISH.

"How do you pronounce 'pneumonia'?" asked the French boy, who had come to England to learn the language.

His only chum told him.

"That's did" replied the young Gaul. "It says in this story I am reading that the doctor pronounced it fatal."

At Uxbridge Orval Sellers, a boy ten years of age, was drowned in the Oat Mill pond, in which he was bathing, in company with several others. He got beyond his depth.

To Our Friends and Neighbors

You know us. You know we would not—that we could not afford to—go back on our word. Nor can you afford to ignore this money-back-if-not-satisfied offer on this splendid laxative.

We honestly believe we have the best bowel remedy ever made—the most pleasant-to-take, most permanently beneficial laxative for relief from the miseries and dangers arising from constipation.

We wouldn't say this if we didn't believe it to be true. We wouldn't risk our reputation by making such statements did we not feel sure you would find them true.

Our faith is built both on the knowledge of what Rexall Orderlies are made of and on observation of very many severe cases in which they have proven their merit.

Try them at Our Risk

If they do not abundantly prove their merit with you also—if you are not entirely satisfied with them—we will refund your money—and we will do that on your mere say-so. We don't ask you to risk a penny. Isn't that fair?

Just let the bowels fail in properly doing their work—just let their action be delayed and incomplete and the entire system and every other organ suffers. Wastes that should have been dispelled remain to poison the system.

Headaches, biliousness, nervousness and other tormenting and serious ills are common when the bowels fail to act daily as nature intended. All this may be avoided, if you will accept our advice.

Rexall Orderlies

taste just like candy. They are soothing and easy in action. They do not cause griping, nausea, purging or excessive looseness. They tend to tone and strengthen intestinal nerves and muscles. They promptly relieve constipation, and help to permanently overcome it.

Rexall Orderlies promote better spirits and better health. In all of these things they are vastly superior to old-fashioned, harsh salts and other purgatives, which are not only unpleasant to take but which usually leave the bowels in worse conditions than before. We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, aged and delicate persons.

Rexall Orderlies come in vest-pocket tin boxes. 12 tablets, 10c; 36 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c.

CAUTION: Please bear in mind that Rexall Orderlies are not sold by all druggists. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at the Rexall Stores. You can buy Rexall Orderlies in this community only at our store:

Mrs. John Erskine

The death of Isabella Scott, relict of the late John Erskine, took place at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Duke, Grand Valley, on Tuesday, Aug. 12th, 1913, after an illness of over a year, the last three months of which she was confined to her room, where all that loving care and attention could bestow was given, but the grim reaper held sway, and she passed to her rest after a life of 80 years and 5 months. She was born in Chinguacousy township on March 8th, 1833. On January 4th, 1856, she married the late John Erskine, which union was blessed with a family of nine children—four daughters and five sons. She is survived by the following children: Mrs. H. B. McClellan, Fullarton ; Mrs. Jas. Duke, Grand Valley ; Robert, of Euphrasia ; John, of Alton ; William, of St. Catharines, Jacob, of Grand Valley. At the time of her marriage she settled on lot 25, con. 6, Caledon township, where they resided until 1893, when they removed to Grand Valley at which place she has resided for the last 20 years. A service was held at the home in Grand Valley on Wednesday evening by Rev. D. Smith, and on Thursday morning interment took place at Alton. Among those who attended from a distance were Mrs. O. McArthur and Mr. S. Scott, of Hamilton, Mrs. A. McLean, Moncrieff, brother and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. L. Scott, Elora, nephew, Mrs. Jas. McKinley, Toronto, niece, Mr. Jas. Erskine, Markdale. Besides her family mentioned above she leaves nineteen grand children. Her husband predeceased her nearly ten years ago.

NOTHING LIKE IT FOR COLDS.

Mrs. Holland Ferguson, Sheffield, N.B., writes : "Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has cured my children and myself of severe colds. We are never without it in the house. There is nothing like it for throat trouble, and it is so soothing and pleasant to take, my children would drink a whole bottle if they were permitted."

The last of the small-pox has been stamped out in Meaford, all the patients having been dismissed from the Isolation Hospital and the building is now closed. None of the cases proved fatal and no further trouble is anticipated.

One of Five Big Stores. ORANGEVILLE

CALEDON EAST.

(Bolton Enterprise)

Mr. Alex. Davis, a resident of this village for a few years back, expired at an early hour a week ago conducted by Rev. Mr. Herman, after painful illness with cancer of the jaw at the age of about 46 years. Deceased was for a considerable number of years engaged in farming near Cardwell Junction, but rented his farm and came to reside in the village. He leaves a widow, one son, and a daughter. The funeral took place on Saturday morning, when a service was held at his late home conducted by Rev. Mr. Herman after which the remains were taken to Caledon East cemetery and laid to rest.

Mr. Ball, of the Imperial Bank staff, took the train at the depot here one evening last week end to recuperate during his holidays in the Muskoka district.

Mrs. Charles Kearns, 3rd line, Albion, left on Saturday night on a visit for a few days to her daughter in Hamilton.

Mr. John Campbell, of Palgrave, with Mrs. Campbell and family, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Young on Sunday.

Miss Fry, clerk in the store of R. W. Burrell & Son, left last week end to spend her two weeks' vacation at Listowel. She was accompanied by Miss Mabel McCaffrey.

Mr. Tom McCabe, of Collingwood, is holidaying in town for a couple of weeks.

Mr. C. G. Berney, who with his brother-in-law went out to the West a few weeks ago to locate a place to commence business, arrived in town on Monday night. They have been fortunate in buying out a general store in a thriving little village about fifty miles out of Winnipeg. Mr. Berney leaves again this week end taking along with him Mrs. Berney and furniture and all household effects.

Quite an excitement was caused in town on Saturday night, somewhere around the hour of ten, when a horse came galloping into the village unattended. It was known that the owner of the animal, who hails from the 4th line, Albion, had called in the village for his lady love, who went out with him for a drive towards the fifth line, Caledon. On the return of the horse in such a manner, without the buggy, grave fears were entertained for the lovers, and a posse of villagers was immediately organized, who set out to investigate the accident, if such there had been. The couple, no doubt, thinking they would be sought after, made their way to the village by another route, and the searchers would probably have searched all night, had it not been for the accidental meeting with an individual, who happened to know of the couple's return to the village. It seems the horse somehow became entangled in a telephone guy wire, and not liking the position, broke free from the vehicle, and made its way into the village causing the consternation. The young couple were happily none the worse.

The Rev. J. G. and Mrs. Rogers are spending a couple of days with relatives here.

The engagement is announced of Harriet Boomer, youngest daughter of Rev. Geo. Gandier, formerly of Caledon East, to Mr. Arthur J. Ham, of Coboconk. The marriage will take place in September at Christ Church, Cobocouk.

AIREDALE AS AN ALL-ROUND DOG.

(By W. Berwick.)

For a long time the Airedale has stood out in the front rank in Great Britain as the best all-round dog living, and in the last ten or twelve years has leaped to the forefront in other countries, particularly in the northwest portion of Canada and the United States. The Yorkshire workingman, who originated him, little dreamt that some day their waterside working terrier (as he was first called) would be the most sought after and popular dog in the world.

It is not the intention of the writer to discount any other breed, or grind anyone's axe, because all breeds have their good points. But the Airedale, when properly trained, can be taught to do anything any other dog will do. Being first bred as a water dog, he will retrieve on either land or water, is used to do the work of the Pointer or Setter, and he will run by scent, giving tongue like a hound, when after rabbits, foxes or deer; you will find him in Muskoka and New Ontario more every year during the hunting season. The one strong feature he has is in refusing to work for any other than he knows. His affection is concentrated on his master.

Nearly every kennel paper has published at different times stories relating to the Airedale's good qualities, and it might be in order to mention one that has recently come to my notice. Early last year I sold an Airedale bitch to a farmer, who, with his wife, is deaf and dumb and I was naturally anxious to learn how she was getting on, and how she would take her orders from people who could not talk. One day a neighbor of his came in and told me that the "dummy" had a wonderful dog. I was so interested in what I heard that I went out to see for myself, and what I witnessed was remarkable. The woman, at milking time, would come out from the house with her pail, stamp her feet slowly, and the Airedale would at once go and bring the cows to her on the walk ; and as soon as milking was over the woman would stamp her feet quickly, and the dog would drive them back to pasture, on the run. The man then showed me how he had trained her to kill groundhogs. He would let the Airedale get the scent of a hide he had there, and then point to the fields. The dog would go and watch there by the hour, and, if I remember correctly, she had killed and brought home something like nineteen up to that time. The animal also had killed three skunks and two weasels last summer. Needless to say, this man is very enthusiastic over his Airedale, and another thing I noticed was the way the dog would avoid familiarity with anyone who could talk. He intends breeding her shortly, and he is a great believer in keeping up the quality. This bitch is sired by the well-known stud dog, "Caerphilly Marvel," owned by F. Bawden, Ridgetown, Ont., which gives more proof of the kind of stock this dog is leaving in this country, and Mr. Bawden deserves the support of all breeders who wish to keep the Airedale up to the standard.

I have seen the Airedale run rabbits, giving tongue as well as any hound, and retrieving the game after shooting. Every year the demand for Airedales is increasing, not only for his sporting qualities, but he has proven of great help for the police, and a great number of cities have installed the canine policeman. As a companion for the home he is wonderful, will romp all day with children, and in winter can be easily taught to draw a sleigh. Regarding fighting, he will not fight unless he has to, and then he can always hold his own. A Scotchman I know well brought one over from Edinburgh recently, and shortly after his arrival he was asked by a friend what kind of a dog that was with him, to which he replied "An Airedale. Why?" The friend said he had never heard of that breed before, and said, "What are they good for?" The Scotchman was a trifle angry at such a question and said, "The Airedale can do anything any other dog can do, and after he has done that, he can turn and lick the other dog."

As has already been said, the Airedale can be trained for any kind of work needed, and all who know him agree that he is one of the most useful dogs living, with an individuality all his own.

Something unique in the line of demonstrations was held on Mr. Thomas McCandless' farm near the village on Saturday afternoon last, when Mr. J. B. Moriarty, of Montreal, demonstrated to the members of the Farmers' Institute and a large number of others, the uses of blasting powder manufactured by the Canadian Explosives Limited, for the purpose of clearing the land of stumps and boulders. The first subject was a large stone, which was blasted from the top and broken up so that it will be easily removed. The next stone was what is generally known as a "hardhead." After an unsuccessful effort to get a hole under it, it was also charged from the top and split in two pieces, but not shattered. Some of those present then wanted to see the powder tried on something "big." A huge boulder was found, one that would measure about ten or twelve feet in diameter. All hands went to work and a hole was bored under it and about 15 lbs. of powder placed in it and the fuse started. With a tremendous roar that sent the earth and smaller stones skyward in a shower, the huge rock was raised fully two feet out of its resting place. It was not expected that this stone could be broken but it was a test of the strength of the explosive. A number of those who were present have since been using the powder successfully and it looks as though it would fill a long felt need for those who are troubled with stones that are too large to be removed with horses. It is safe to handle and also speedy as no drilling is required and is cheaper than the ordinary black blasting powder. A quantity of it has been left with Mr. J. A. Vance, Sec.-Treasurer of the Farmers' Institute, for the convenience of any who have any use for it.

Motion Pictures Are Good

The patrons of the Dufferin Theatre were treated to a rare reproduction of Sir Walter Scott's famous "Lady of the Lake," on Monday and Tuesday nights of this week. This noted drama was given in three reels and was in every way true to the original poem. The first reel showed the Court of James V. of Scotland, and the banishment of Douglas, who seeks shelter with Roderick Dhu, the Clan-Alpine chieftain. The second reel showed where the King goes incognito as Fitz-James on a hunt and is lost. He meets Roderick Dhu and engages in deadly combat in which the chieftain is killed. In the third reel Douglas is pardoned, and Ellen, the heroine of the story, is made his wife. Other pictures, both stirring and comical, were flashed on the screen. One film, "A Girl's Bravery," gave the audience an insight into the perils and the human endurance the players have to go through to satisfy the public appetite for thrilling incidents. The films for the remainder of the week are well chosen. During the hot nights the theatre is kept comfortable by the electric fans.

Barn Burned

Shortly before midnight on Saturday night fire destroyed a frame barn, 30 by 60, on lot 2, con. B., East Garafraxa. The contents were also destroyed. These included two wagons, a seed drill, a set of harrows, ten loads of rye, eight loads of hay and four loads of fall wheat. The building, which belonged to John Dobson, of Toronto, was insured for $200 in the York Fire Insurance Co. The insurance will not begin to cover Mr. Dobson's loss. The contents belonged to Peter Edwards, who has the farm rented from Dobson. They were insured for $500 in the Peel and Maryborough Mutual. It is thought that the fire was started by some tramps, who had been hanging about the place during the day.

On Sunday services were held on the street, a sacred concert was given in the Town Hall at 3 o'clock and a concert and service in the same place at 7.30. The afternoon and evening meetings were both largely attended. At the latter Rev. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Rev. G. W. Tebbs, rector of St. Mark's, and Rev. A. W. Rolfe, pastor of Bathurst Mission in Toronto, who took the services in the Methodist Church on Sunday, occupied seats on the platform. Sunday morning Col. Chantler, of Toronto, occupied the pulpit in St. Andrew's Church, where he delivered an impressive discourse from the text, "As Workers together with Him." The collections for the day amounted to about $100.

Farewell Presentations

On Wednesday evening of last week a large number of the Baptist people met in the church and presented Rev. and Mrs. B. Davies with a well-filled purse and an appropriate address.

On Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Thos. Henderson the Ladies of the W.C.T.U. presented Mrs. Davies with a valuable gift as an expression of their esteem and appreciation. Mrs. Davies was President of the local Branch for a number of years.

Dog Show Specials

Exhibitors, who intend competing for any of the special prizes at the Dog Show in connection with Orangeville Fall Fair, are reminded that they must conform to the rules of the Canadian Kennel Club, which require that every animal shown must be registered. Some may be inclined to take objection to this stipulation, but the object of the Show, as of any other purebred stock show, is to encourage the raising of thoroughbred stock.

Farewell Sermon

Rev. B. Davies, who resigned the pastorate of the Baptist Church some weeks ago, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday night. The large congregation present listened to a very impressive discourse. The pastor referred feelingly to the very pleasant and harmonious relations that had existed between his people and himself. He also spoke of the encouragement he had received and the success he had met with in his work here. A happy reference was made to the cordial relations he had enjoyed with the ministers of the town and their co-operation in work of an interdenominational character.

Dr. W. G. Wilson, Mrs. Wilson and their son, Clark, of Erie, Pa., are spending a month with Ontario friends. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wilson, of Caledon, last week and left this week for a trip on the Upper Lakes.

A BUFFALO LETTER.

Mr. G. B. Wylie Sends The Banner a Characteristic Epistle.

The Banner is in receipt of the following interesting letter from Mr. G. B. Wyllie, at one time C.P.R. agent in Orangeville:—

220 Ellicott Square,
Buffalo, N.Y.

Editor Orangeville Banner.

Dear Sir.—I was very much interested in a letter published in your paper, written by Mr. Hawkins, who was for a long time agent at Alton and prior to that my assistant at Woodbridge in the '70's. I should like Mr. Hawkins' address so I could write him. Can you give it to me?

For your information I may say that in 1874 I took over the Orangeville station as agent until a new man could be selected, returning afterwards to Woodbridge and leaving in 1875 to come with the Lake Shore Road at Goschen and Elkhart, Ind., where I was Ticket Agent and Train Despatcher for ten years. In 1887 I went over to the Illinois Central R. R. in Memphis, Tenn., Cincinatti and Chicago and in Buffalo for 14 years in charge of passenger business originating in Canada and New York State. Am still at it, hearty and happy, and always glad to meet my Canadian friends and be of service to them in any capacity. Glad to have a call from any of them at any time. Supposed to be a walking, talking encyclopedia on travel, places, and things, so command me. Should any of your friends drop into this beautiful city, have them see me. Do us both good.

Yours Very Truly
G. B. Wyllie.

REGINA'S TAX RATE
TEN MILLS ON DOLLAR

Regina, Aug. 1.—The city council yesterday struck the lowest tax rate in the history of the City of Regina when they, upon the recommendation of the commissioners, set this year's general rate at ten mills on the dollar.

The public school rate was struck at three mills on the dollar; separate school rate four mills on the dollar; library rate 1-3 mills, and the collegiate at 2-3 mills.

The general levy of $606,195.95 is raised by a ten mill tax on $54,516,512 of private property liable to full taxation. $15,339,915 of annex property assessed at 1-5 of the general rate, or two mills, and a levy of the full rate on $2,990,100 of City of Regina property.

ESTIMATED CROP

Now is the time to buy lots in Regina as they will increase in value very rapidly. I have some well located lots for sale.

Concrete is the best building material

ABROAD statement—Yet literally true. The aim of man from the beginning has been to make his building materials as nearly like natural stone as possible. The great labor required to quarry stone led him to seek various manufactured substitutes. The only reason he ever used wood was that it was easiest to get and most convenient to use.
Wood is no longer easy to get. Like most building material, its cost is increasing at an alarming rate.
The cost of concrete is decreasing. So, from the standpoint of either service or economy, Concrete is the best building material.
Canada's farmers are using more concrete, in proportion to their numbers, than the farmers of any other country. Why?
Because they are being supplied with a cement of the highest possible quality, which insures the success of their concrete work.

Canada Cement—

The secret of concrete's popularity in Canada lies in the fact that while we have been advertising the use of concrete, we have also been producing, by scientific methods, a cement so uniformly high in quality that the concrete made with it gives the complete satisfaction our advertisements promised.
Concrete would not have been in such universal use today, had an inferior grade of cement been supplied. Insist upon getting Canada Cement. It is your best assurance of thoroughly satisfactory results from your concrete work. There is a Canada Cement dealer in your neighborhood.

Without this label it is not "Canada" Cement.

Write for our Free 160-page book "What The Farmer Can Do With Concrete" —No farmer can afford to be without a copy.

A GRUESOME FIND.

Skeleton of a Man Found in Swamp Near Markdale.

While in search of stray cattle on Monday last the John McFadden family came across the skeleton of a man in a swamp across the road from their farm which is a mile from Markdale. Other members of the McFadden people viewed the remains. The authorities were notified, and on Tuesday morning Coroner Bibby, of Flesherton, accompanied by Dr. Ego, of Markdale, visited the spot and found the skeleton of what appeared to have been a man of medium size and probably 60 years of age. They considered that death had taken place fully a year ago, as the clothing fell into pieces when handled, an evidence of being thus exposed for a considerable length of time. Of course, not a particle of flesh was found on the bones. The body had evidently lain undisturbed, and had on a suit of blue serge with striped vest, gray overcoat, guernsey, and wool shirt, black felt hat, pair good laced boots not much worn. There was found in the pockets a pair of spectacles, with cover, pipe and matches, catarrhozone pipe, tooth pick, and piece of comb. The Coroner considered an inquest unnecessary, so the remains were buried where found, by Chief McCutcheon.

There is no clue to his identity, neither has any person of the community disappeared mysteriously, so that the case fails to even arouse any suspicion as to who it might be or the cause of death. It was certainly a gruesome find.—Markdale Standard.

The leader of the Chinese colony at Windsor, Frank Lee, who pleaded guilty last week to having opium in his possession, was fined $50 and costs or 60 days in jail.

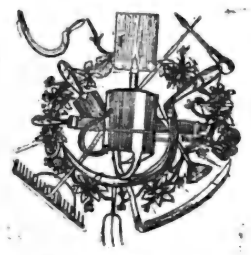
REASON FOR TIPS.

A gentleman in Dublin, speaking of the Irish cabmen, said that nothing ever satisfied them, and that he was willing to prove his words on a wager that if he should go to the door and call a cab, no matter what fee he should give, the driver would ask for more. The wager was taken for ten pounds sterling. The gentleman called a cab, drove about a quarter of a mile, stepped out and handed the driver a ten-shilling gold piece, the legal fare being one shilling. Cabby drove off. The gentleman, who had taken the wager was exulting in his triumph, when suddenly the cabby returned, and touching his hat said: "Please, sir, have ye a dirty threepence bit about ye? It would be such a pity to break a bright piece of gold like this for a drink!"

ALL OF A KIND.

Two lads of eight or ten years of age on Wednesday afternoon of last week took a horse and buggy out of the Grand Central shed and went off for a drive. After they had got away, the owner, who hailed from Egremont, missed the property and got wind of the boys, who were overtaken near Harriston and brought back. The boys have been in trouble before and seem to be incorrigible. The Children's Aid Society have the matter in charge and the Rev. Mr. Tovell is expected here shortly to look into it. A sequel to the incident is somewhat peculiar. The party whose outfit was taken by the boys, after it was recovered was seen going out of town with a hound tied under the buggy. Chief Cringle some time after missed the hound, went out to the place and found his dog tied in the suspected party's barn. He brought the dog home, and explanations are in order.—Mt. Forest Confederate.

GOT THE WRONG GIRL.



One evening last week two ladies were walking along Birmingham St. when someone overtook them. When he was expected to pass one of the ladies felt his arm pass around her waist, felt herself drawn quickly towards the unknown, and heard him murmur, "Let me have a kiss." She turned her face towards him. Then was the time to turn on the white light for a tableau. The face was turned, but not to kiss. Oh no! the look was cold enough to freeze the warmest osculation on the lips of the most ardent swain. There was natual surprise at the unexpected acquaintance. He was no Jack the Hugger. He had thought he was beside his sweetheart, who, similarly dressed in white, he had been observed overtaking and putting his arm around the evening before. He was cruelly mistaken. He dropped his arm and made off in all haste. The lady was speechless. She would have dropped, she declared, if she had been alone. As it was she was powerless, and unable to give the swain the bat in the face that the other lady declared he should have had.—Mt. Forest Conferate.

DIFFEREOCE BETWEEN EAST AND THE WEST

In Canada, if one lives west of Winnipeg, he is a Westerner; if east an Easterner. And these distinctions are not merely geographical, but are the result of subtle differences in practical every-day sentiment and aspiration, if not in patriotism. These differences are real. One of them is to be seen in the demonstrations of loyalty. For, while the West looks coolly at the material aspect of things, the East waves the flag and sings the National Anthem. In the West one does not hear incessant talk about the patriotism of Canadians and Canadian loyalty to the British Crown. Mr. Newton MacTavish, who writes thus in the Westminster Review (London), gives also the following description of the great Canadian West and of the political sentiment prevalent there:—

The West is a vast new country, throbbing with new life. With the exception of the coast line of British Columbia, it is entirely insular—so insular, indeed, that the people scarcely can imagine a foreign foe marching in upon them. They see no need for war. Their battle is with the elements, with the soil and the wind, and the rain and the heat and the frost. Their duty, as they see it, is to replenish the earth and subdue it. Instead of building a Canadian navy, or contributing $35,000,000 towards the defence of the Empire, they would do something to ameliorate their condition in life now. They would build elevators large enough and plentiful enough to store their grain until they should wish to sell it, thereby avoiding the forced sales that take place almost always as soon as the grain is threshed. They would construct great district highways of macadam and place thereon immense government owned gasoline trucks for hauling grain to the nearest railways. And yet, while thousands of families who have come out from England or Ireland or Scotland, from Norway or Sweden or Denmark, from Russia or France, or even Germany, have been living on from year to year in the hope that these necessaries would soon appear, the proposal comes to them from the Government that instead we should send the money to help Great Britain. From the opposition comes a proposal to spend the money on a navy at home. So that no matter which party is victorious, the money will go for something for which Westerners can discover no need. The high rate of interest on borrowings in the West, especially borrowings by farmers, is notorious, and yet the money that it is now proposed to spend in some form of naval defence would go a long way towards obtaining for Western farmers' loans at a rate of interest which, if not merely so low as the money obtained for property holders in Ireland, would be at least within reason. Or, looking at it another way, the interest on the cost of a navy of our own or on a cash contribution to the British Government would pay the premiums on insurance against losses to crops from any cause, and the losses could be distributed so that except in extraordinary seasons every farmer would receive a livable return from his land and labor, whether he would be able to harvest his grain or not.

A Saskatchewan farmer said to me the other day that they would get what they wanted in the West just as soon as they were separate from the East. And when I laughed at his remark, he complained that it was nothing to laugh at to see thousands of bushels of wheat and flax lying in heaps on the ground all winter just because there was no means of getting it to market.

The five provinces composing the Canadian East are Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario; and since 1867 (the time of Confederation) they have had a preponderance of membership in Parliament; but if the present rate of increase of population in the West continues, it is estimated that twenty years hence the balance of power will have swung to the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia. "And," says Mr. MacTavish, "if the West ever gets the controlling voice, the destiny of Canada and her place in the Empire will be settled permanently, and it will be settled not as most of us in the East see it settling to-day. For why should Western Canada be expected to favor and foster the Imperialistic and jingoistic sentiment that has grown in Ontario to an amazing extent ever since the German bogey was set up?"

The trail of the United Empire Loyalists does not extend so far westward. Out there one does not find enough Colonels George Denison and Doctors George Parkin to keep erected the Imperialistic wave. Apart from Victoria and Vancouver there is not in all the West one social or political club at whose board the greatness of the British Empire is the great topic of discussion. Discussion of that character is enjoyed by millionaires who do not eschew knighthood, and who cry loyalty to the British Crown so loudly that the common people, deceived by prosperity, join lustily in the chorus. But the chorus in the West will be different. West of the Great Lakes the millionaires are making their millions out of the soil, and the common people, who are close to the soil, who for the most part have no ties of blood reaching back to Devonshire or Northumberland, to Cork or Donegal, to Dumfries or Caithness, will see their god, in an absolutely untrammelled system of government for the people.—Review of Reviews.

WOMAN COULD NOT WALK

She Was So Ill—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pentwater, Mich.—"A year ago I was very weak and the doctor said I had a serious displacement. I had backache and bearing down pains so bad that I could not sit in a chair or walk across the floor and I was in severe pain all the time. I felt discouraged as I had taken everything I could think of and was no better. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am strong and healthy."—Mrs. ALICE DARLING, R.F.D. No. 2, Box 77, Pentwater, Mich.

Read What Another Woman says:

Peoria, Ill.—"I had such backaches that I could hardly stand on my feet. I would feel like crying out lots of times, and had such a heavy feeling in my right side. I had such terrible dull headaches every day and they would make me feel so drowsy and sleepy all the time, yet I could not sleep at night.

"After I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a week I began to improve. My backache was less and that heavy feeling in my side went away. I continued to take the Compound and am cured.

"You may publish this if you wish."—Miss CLARA L. GAUWITZ, R.R. No. 4, Box 62, Peoria, Ill.

WATER SUPPLY AND MILK FLOW.

In the purchase or lease of a farm for dairy purposes, an abundant and continuous supply of good water for the herd is the first consideration. It is important for the healthy maintenance of the animal, more so probably than is commonly supposed, if inferences may be drawn from recent teachings regarding the desirability of the freer use of drinking water by man. During the heat of summer plenty of water is required to supply what is so freely given off in perspiration. As a winter ration or supplementary summer feed, one of the chief benefits of silage is due to its succulence,—the moisture lacking is cured fodder or in the brown pasture grass. Even though knee-deep, which is not likely to be, the latter does not keep up the milk supply. We remember how well the cows milked on the juicy June grasses, but they are gone now, and, in most cases, fresh corn fodder for soiling is hardly at its best. Plenty of water must be accessible. If it does not flow into the cows, the milk will not flow into the pail. Fortunately, the law does not allow us to add it from the pump afterwards. The dairy cow will put up with a shortage of food even better than a scant water supply, and still maintain for a time a fair milking. This is reasonable from the basis fact that milk itself is about 88 per cent water, and only some 12 per cent. solids. Just think of it—nearly 88 lbs. out of every 100 lbs. of milk, water to begin with! The cow cannot continue taking it out of her body unless it goes in at her mouth. If the well or the spring in the field is running dry, so will the cow. Let us make no error about that. Unless we have fresh water flowing or lakelet water, better lose no time in hitching a windmill or other engine on the well, so that the cows may drink at will two or three times per day. And give it to her clean and pure. Do not ask the patient and often long-suffering cow either to make milk out of nothing, or to eliminate all the filth and germs found in bad water. She has enough to do without acting as a microbe killer.—Farmers Advocate.

Cured Eczema Like Magic

Suffered for Years—Tried All Kinds of Treatment—Surprised at Results From Dr. Chase's Ointment.

You can soon tell when people are enthusiastic about medical treatment by the language they use. After experimenting with all sorts of ointments in a vain effort to obtain relief and cure, the writer of this letter was astonished at the quick and satisfactory results obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"It worked like magic," she writes. Indeed, it is surprising the healing that is often effected in a single night by this great ointment. The stinging and itching are relieved at once, and cure is only a matter of time and patient treatment.

Mrs. Clements, 13 Strange street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have suffered from eczema for years, and after using all kinds of ointments, at last tried Dr. Chase's Ointment. It worked like magic and proved a God-send to me. I would advise anyone suffering from eczema to try one box and be convinced." 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

OBLIGING HER.

The sweet young thing was being shown through the Baldwin locomotive works.

"What is that thing?" she asked pointing with her dainty parasol.

"That," answered the guide, "is an engine boiler."

She was an up-to-date young lady and at once became interested. "And why do they boil engines?" she inquired again.

"To make the engine tender," politely replied the resourceful guide.—Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

DRY HUMOR—The chief forest ranger of the big Government reserve along the Grand Canyon, in Arizona, had occasion lately, in the course of a somewhat extended trip, to travel as far east as Kansas City. When he returned to his post of duty he brought along an Irishman who had expressed a desire to go West and grow up with the country.

When they struck the desert the Irishman looked for a spell at the dry and arid prospect. Then he said: "Mister, I don't want to say anything unpleasant about this country, but it looks to me like it would take nine acres of it to rust wan nail!"

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

SUPPLYING FOR YOUR FAMILY

SUPPLYING your family with present day comforts, does not constitute your only financial obligation to them. Their future demands more consideration than their wants of to-day.

If anything should happen to you, you would not want your boy to give up his education, or your wife and daughter to be thrown on the world to struggle for a living.

The surest way of providing for your family's future is to save your money. Deny yourself a few extravagances now, that they may have comforts always.

THE BANNER, AUGUST 28th, 1913

UNDER LOCAL CONTROL.

Movement on Foot to Transfer Public Libraries to Municipalities.

Among the library workers of the Province an effort is being made to bring about legislation whereby every library in the Province will come under municipal control and be free to every resident. This would, it has been stated by the library authorities, build up a library system in this Province which will have no equal the world over. The present system where the libraries fail to get municipal support has proved discouraging. During the past six years 90 libraries have quit business, and this means that 90 districts are placed without the library privileges which have done much to [illegible] country life on a better plane.

The system originally known as the Mechanics' Institute was started nearly as far back as the public school. Unlike the schools it never became the property of the municipality except in cases where there was a by-law passed that made it such. In Ontario 136 municipalities have done this, but 228 remain still on the old lines. Many of these latter are in the townships and there is no provision at present whereby these may become free libraries.

The Chatham Library Institute at a recent meeting made the following recommendations which the members believed would help the situation:

"That all the libraries now in the Province shall be surrendered by the directors and assumed by the municipality, on a vote by the present directors and subscribers, and shall thereafter be conducted as a free library. And new ones shall be established where one-fifth of the ratepayers ask for it.

"Many of the free libraries now in existence are hampered for funds. An increase of the amount to be provided by the public is asked for in these cases. And as at present there is no provision for free libraries in the townships, it is asked that the townships where these exist or may be started shall extend support to an amount not exceeding $200."

Finally to equalize the cost of the maintenance of the libraries, it is suggested that the County Council should duplicate the Government grant. This is done to some extent already by a number of counties, and would not be an excessive tax. On the contrary, divided among forty-three counties, it would be very moderate, for the Government divided a little less than $30,000 among these 364 libraries in 1911 and 1912.

This Institute also expressed disapproval of the proposed changes in the regulations regarding the appointment of members of library boards.

WON $100 PRIZE

Former Mono Farmer Shows the Way to Western Grain Growers.

Mr. W. J. Reid, of Macleod, Alta., won the first prize of $100 for the best acre yield of wheat at the recent Fair in Calgary. The competition, which attracted a great deal of interest and attention, was open to the world and there was a large number of competitors. Mr. Reid's winning plot was the well-known Red Fife variety. At Calgary Mr. Reid also won the first prize of $15 for the best two bushels of wheat. He was also a successful exhibitor at Macleod Fair, winning first prizes for the best grain in bag and the best collection of sheaves, consisting of wheat, barley and oats. Mr. Reid formerly owned and worked the J. H. Anderson farm, lot 10, Prince of Wales Road, Mono.

Liquor Cases

Police Magistrate Pattullo held Court in the Town Hall on Monday afternoon for the purpose of hearing the evidence in a number of liquor cases. Interest centred in the case of Geo. Lawson, a resident of the East Ward, who was summoned on a charge of keeping liquor for sale in a local option municipality. Lawson did not face the music and it is reported that he left town on Saturday. The case was proceeded with and after hearing the evidence of Arthur Shain, Dominion Express Co. agent, Fred Patterson, who drives the express wagon, and Harry Barber, the Magistrate held that the case had been proved and imposed a fine of $100 and costs. John Hunter and W. J. Ferns pleaded guilty to charges of being drunk and were each fined $20 and costs. Geo. Nicholson, against whom Chief Marshall had lodged a similar charge, failed to appear and his case was adjourned. A case against Harry Barber on a charge of stealing whiskey was also adjourned. The charge was preferred at the instance of George Lawson, who attributed the disappearance of a case of wet goods to the agency of Barber, who had helped him to cache them. Unless Lawson, who was the defendant in the case just reported, returns to give his evidence the case will likely be dropped. Mr. A. A. Hughson prosecuted in the Hunter, Ferns and Lawson cases and acted for the defendant in the Barber case.

BY-LAWS CARRIED

Light Vote Polled on Saturday

Voting took place on Saturday on the Public School and Town Hall improvement by-laws. The by-laws are for the purpose of authorizing the municipality to issue debentures to the amount of $6000 to pay for improvements to these buildings. Of this amount $3000 will be spent on the Public School building and a similar amount on the Town Hall. Generally speaking the property holders were apathetic and, as there was little canvassing and no organized effort to carry the measures, a decidedly light vote was polled. The majority of those who took the trouble to go to the polls were favorable to the by-laws and they were consequently carried with comfortable majorities. The vote for and against was just about the same for each by-law in all the wards except the south. Here the deputy's returns reveal the curious fact that [illegible] persons voted on the school by-law, but did not take the trouble to mark the ballot for the town hall by-law. The official returns show a total vote of 117 for and 56 against the school by-law and 93 for and 61 against the town hall measure. The vote by wards was as follows:—

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT BY-LAW

	For.	Against
West Ward	20	17
North Ward	23	11
East Ward	22	10
South Ward	52	18
	117	56

Majority for By-Law 61.

TOWN HALL IMPROVEMENT BY-LAW.

	For.	Against
West Ward	19	18
North Ward	23	11
East Ward	21	11
South Ward	30	21
	93	61

Majority for By-Law 32.

John Paisley Dead

Mr. John Paisley, a former well-known resident of Orangeville, died at his home, 41 Concord Ave., Toronto, on Saturday after an illness of five weeks. His end is attributable to acute indigestion from which he suffered greatly and which in the end affected the heart. The late Mr. Paisley was born in the north of Ireland but came to Canada when a young man. He went into the hotel business in Orangeville about 1866, purchasing a log tavern, which stood on the ground now occupied by the Hotel Alexandra, from a man named William Meek. He built the present Hotel Alexandra, which was known as the Paisley House for a score of years or longer. Mr. Paisley moved to Toronto in 1887, but returned to this town for a few months about 1897. Since then he has lived retired in the city. His wife died about three years ago and he is survived by one son, Mr. J. K. Paisley, a well-known hotelman in Ottawa, and five daughters, Mrs. Alfred Jackson, Detroit; Mrs. S. T. Stevenson, Vancouver, and Misses Jennie, Amelia and Eva Paisley. The funeral took place to Prospect Cemetery, Toronto, on Monday afternoon.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE.

The shower early on Tuesday morning and the lowering clouds during the forenoon were the cause of many doubts and fears as to the weather outlook for the day. In the afternoon, however, this town, at any rate, was favored with glorious summer weather that was exactly to the liking of the ladies of the Women's Institute, who had made arrangements to hold an outdoors meeting on Mr. and Mrs. H. Endacott's beautiful lawn. Day and place combined to attract an unusually large attendance. A number of the ladies of the Blount Institute were present as visitors and spent a delightful afternoon as the guests of the Orangeville Institute. Mrs. W. J. Gordon occupied the chair and added zest to the programme by her bright, cheery and appropriate remarks. Mrs. Langford, the new Secretary, read the reports of recent meetings and also of the executive meetings. Programmes for the coming year were distributed. Miss Frank, who intends engaging in Women's Institute work in the West, was unfortunately unable to be present and Mr. Dorrance was called upon for his speech on "House Plants." After a few preliminary remarks, the District Representative outlined a thorough method of planting and keeping bulbs in winter and spoke at some length on making and starting cuttings. He also gave a number of helpful suggestions on the proper method of caring for foliage plants and the various window plants, including the propagation of chrysanthemums from year to year. Mr. Dorrance also discussed the most effective methods of getting rid of the pests that attack indoor plants. The address was very helpful and the Institutes throughout the county would do well to hear Mr. Dorrance on this subject at some time or other during the year. At the close of the programme refreshments were served and a pleasant social time was spent for an hour.

Mrs. H. C. Moody Injured.

Mrs. H. C. Moody was badly hurt in a runaway accident on Main St. on Friday evening last. With two children and Mrs. Gardiner she was driving about town when one of the shafts of the buggy became loose and fell. The horse took fright and Mrs. Moody was thrown to the hard road, receiving several severe cuts about the head. Mrs. Gardiner, with great presence of mind, held the two children in the bottom of the buggy until the horse was stopped, near the elevators. The locking of one of the wheels by the loose shaft prevented a more serious accident.—Dundalk Herald.

A Reactionary Storm Period will be in full strength on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd. This period will feel the shock of the Moon's eclipse conjunction with Earth and Sun on August 31st, intensified by Moon in perigee and on the equator on the 1st. Equinoctial storms attended by great electrical disturbances and widespread earthquake convulsions, will very probably occur at this time. The first day of September, and days next to it, will be a critical storm and seismic centre. Change to much cooler weather, with frosty nights in northern latitudes, need not be surprising from about the 2nd to the 6th, with daily progression from northwest to southeastward.

A Regular Storm Period is at its centre on the 8th, covering the 6th to the 12th. It will be remembered by those who have studied our forecasts closely, that September the 11th, and a few days before and after that date, as a rule brings a phenomenal crisis in the magnetic and electrical elements. Northern lights, electrical storms, earth currents, volcanic unrest and all related phenomena are most probable about this time. If the barometer fluctuates rapidly, finally falling to very low readings, any time in or about this period, such may be regarded as evidence of violent winds, hurricanes and possibly tornadoes. These disturbances will probably culminate on the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th. Cool nights with frost in the northwest will follow this period, spreading eastwardly over the country from about the 10th to the 13th.

A Reactionary Storm Period will bring storms and other disturbances on and touching the 14th, 15th and 16th. The full Moon is at an eclipse node on the 15th, and on the same date it is in apogee and on the celestial equator. The great planet, Saturn, is in quadrature with Earth and Sun on the 10th—a fact that almost certainly increases the tendency to severe earthquakes for several days before and after. This period is also near the centre of the Earth's autumnal equinox, and at the entrance of the Mercury equinox. Watch your barometer at this period; it will foretell the approach of any possible danger from atmospheric convulsions. Earthquakes and storms will reach a marked crisis within sixty hours of sunset on the 15th. Another high barometer, and change to much cooler, with frost northward, will follow on the western flanks of these storms. Watchfulness may save many perishable plants and fruits from damage—especially in the northwestern to central sections.

A Regular Storm Period involves the 17th to the 22nd. This period is at the centre of Earth's autumnal equinox. The Vulcan, Mercury, Earth and Jupiter disturbances will all combine their forces on this period. Equinoctial storms of wide sweep and violent force are more than probable at this time. A correct interpretation of barometric readings will foreshadow the nature of approaching storms, long before they strike. Boreal storms from the northwest will meet tropical storms from equatorial regions at this time, resulting in tornadic storms over central to southern states, and change to high barometer, very much cooler and frosts will result in many states as a sequel to these equinoctial convulsions.

A Reactionary Storm Period is central on the 25th, 26th and 27th. This period is at the centre of the Mercury period, and at the culminating crisis of the autumnal equinox of the Earth. There are strong probabilities of a spell of threatening, stormy weather extending over several days, and perhaps filling the gap between the regular storm periods immediately before and after these dates. We calculate that equatorial, or equinoctial storms and hurricanes will be more numerous and more severe during this autumnal period than common. In their progress from the West Indies, under the influence of the Jupiter and Earth periods, they will outlast and overlap the normal limitations of regular and reactionary storm periods. But they will take on increased energy, and be joined by local and inland storms of intensifying violence, during the central days of the storm periods. There will be danger of frosts at nights in the high barometer areas that follow on the heels of storm areas, and the danger of frosts at those times will be in proportion to the lowness of barometer readings attending the storms. The 29th and 30th belong to a regular storm period central in October. On and about the 29th there are good reasons to expect violent perturbations of Earth, atmosphere and seas. On that date Moon is in perigee, on the equator and new at an eclipse node. One of the maximum seismic periods of the year is central on the 29th, extending from about the 25th to October the 5th. Sea coasts not elevated well above sea level, in all parts of the globe especially exposed to equinoctial storms and tidal waves, will be subject to such dangers at this time. In such localities, the barometer should be closely watched, and storm warnings heeded.

THAT BASEBALL DISPUTE

One of the Rocktown Players Takes Hand in War of Words.

Granger Aug. 23, 1913.

To the Editor:

Sir:—As a member of the Rocktown Baseball Club and consequently somewhat interested in the controversy now on between the captains of the Camilla and Rocktown clubs, kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to "butt in."

In the first place, Mr. Editor, Capt. Lewis failed to nail the erratic statements of "A Fan," that two of the Camilla boys were absent and that the Alton players were not asked to play until we were ready to play. As to the first statement the truth is that several, or all, of us saw one of the two on Mr. Curry's lawn shortly before we started for the ball grounds, and as for the second statement, the facts are that before we were all on the grounds and before we were all fully prepared to play, we found the Alton boys all ready to play with Camilla and dressed in Camilla uniforms.

Judging by the tone of Capt. Canning's letter, it seems to have made him very indignant for Capt. Lewis to make what he (Canning) claims to be an untruthful statement about him, but it was amusing to observe that he can, with equanimity wonderful to behold, make a statement about us which is without foundation whatever, i.e., that the majority of us were satisfied and willing to play with the Alton boys on their team.

Mr. Canning seems to be of the opinion that there is some small honor attached to the position of Captain. Perhaps there is. Never having been one, I am possibly not in a good position to judge, but from this distance I fail to see where there is any honor in being Captain of a ball team which has to press into service players from a distance, who "happen" to be where we are to play, or of a Club in which I would have to ask the advice of every Tom, Dick and Harry on it before I would know what was the proper course to take.

No, Mr. Editor, it seems to me that being a Captain under those conditions would be rather much of a joke.

Thanking you in advance,
I remain
Yours very truly,
A ROCKTOWN PLAYER.

—Tuesday afternoon the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Pletzer, William St., was run over by Denny's threshing tank while playing on the street near his home. Two of the wheels passed across the lad's chest. Eye-witnesses thought he had been killed but strange to say there was not a bone broken. Beyond a few bruises, the boy does not seem any the worse from his experience.

PALGRAVE.

The quietness of our town was terribly disturbed on Friday night when some beastly, drunken sots amused themselves by kicking and beating a citizen. It must have been a premeditated thing, for they first gave him of their slops, and when they got him partly intoxicated, they knocked him down and kicked and beat him shamefully. If this conduct should be repeated, woe be to the doers. They shall never again be excused as they have been this time. We don't want people who are law-breakers here.

The weather has turned cooler and the rains have made things take on a more pleasant appearance.

Some of our people have already hied away to the Toronto Exhibition.

Mr. Geo. Jackson was in town last week.

A 1,000 Mile Trip

Mr. C. R. McKeown and family reached home on Tuesday after a week's trip by auto through Ontario and New York State. They first visited Hagersville, Port Dover, Niagara Falls, Brantford and other points in southwestern Ontario and then journeyed east along the north shore of Lake Ontario as far east as Kingston. Here they crossed into New York State visiting Syracuse, Rochester, Geneva, Buffalo and other points of interest in that State. From Buffalo they crossed into Canada again via Niagara Falls, returning home by way of Guelph. During the tour the party travelled almost exactly 1000 miles. The trip was made without accident or any serious delay from any cause. The only mishap of any kind was a tire puncture about twelve miles out of Guelph on Monday evening and this Mr. McKeown was able to repair in less than half an hour. Mr. McKeown is intensely loyal to Canada and everything Canadian, but at that he finds himself obliged to admit that the State roads of New York are very much better than the best roads in Ontario. They are in many instances almost as smooth and hard as asphalt pavement and are delightful for motoring. Some of the country is very pretty, but our member says that the neighboring State has nothing on rural Ontario in this respect.

RHEUMATISM KEPT HIM IN BED

Suffered Tortures Until "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

McMILLAN'S CORNER, ONT., Sept. 30th, 1910

"Your remedy, "Fruit-a-tives" is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pain from Sciatica or Sciatic Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year for days at a time. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything—it would pass away. They gave me mustard plasters and other remedies that did no good. Plasters took no effect on me—except to blister me and make raw spots. I took many advertised remedies without benefit, but fortunately, about two years ago, I got "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me.

Since then, I take "Fruit-a-tives" occasionally and keep free of pain. I am satisfied "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism and they will cure anyone who takes them as directed. If this letter would be of value to you, publish it" JOHN B. McDONALD.

Indeed, this letter is of value to us and to the thousands of sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago and Neuralgia. It points the way to a certain cure. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50 trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN OSPREY SAWMILL.

Young Man Thrown Over Shaft and Leg Was Torn Off at Knee. only Lived Five Hours.

A tragic event occurred near McIntyre, Osprey, on Friday, 15th, when Herbert Wesley Scott, eldest son of Nelson W. and Emma Scott, met with a fatal accident while working in Bailey's sawmill on the north line.

The unfortunate young man was engaged in running the engine when he observed a belt broken. While he was attempting to repair it, the belt, without an instant's warning, became wound about the main shaft and the boy was drawn with it. He was thrown over the shaft and his leg torn off at the knee while several severe wounds were inflicted on the head and body. Dr. McFadden, of Singhampton, was called and was on the spot in less than three quarters of an hour and immediately telephoned Dr. Bradley, of Creemore, who arrived shortly after. The doctors decided the only hope of saving his life was to immediately amputate the injured leg further up. This they did and the wounds on the head were treated, but the shock to the nervous system was too great to be withstood and he rapidly sank. Death took place about 7 o'clock, five hours after the dreadful accident.

The interment took place on Sunday afternoon. A short service was held in the home and the remains were removed to Badjeros church, where service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Smith, assisted by Rev. Mr. Meredith. The body was then placed to rest in Badjeros cemetery.

The funeral procession was one of the largest and most impressive ever held in that section. Hundreds of friends attended to bear tribute to the deceased and to express sympathy with the grief-stricken family in the hour of their sad bereavement.

The young man would have been twenty years of age in November, and was a fine, big, manly fellow, a popular young man in the neighborhood and was a favorite with all with whom he came in contact. He is survived by Mr. N. W. Scott, father, Emma Scott, mother, Linnie Scott, sister, and Leslie Scott, brother. The greatest expressions of sorrow that people can act or utter are expressed for the sad occurrence and great sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.—Markdale Standard.

Chas. Green, fifteen years old, died as a result of breaking his back when he dived into shallow water at Crystal Beach.

O, WOODMAN, SPARE THAT TREE.

The man who starts to cut down a good tree, as some do occasionally, in order to make room for more light, does not stop to think what a loss he is creating to the surroundings and his own property. It is to be regretted that though Guelph has arrived at the stage when houses are moved weighing many tons each, it has not yet come to a realization that trees can just as safely be moved, and that they are too valuable to be cut down. Thoughtlessness, more than anything else, accounts for this attitude; timber has in the past been so little prized that Canadians have not grasped the value of the comparatively limited number of trees remaining.

If we only stop to think how long it takes to grow a tree a better realization of the value of trees would be obtained. A recent issue of the Pulp and Paper Magazine contains an interesting article by G. E. Bothwell on The Age of a Tree and Its Significance, from which we learn that, taking the country as a whole, the average tree in a Canadian forest takes one hundred years to attain a diameter of twelve inches. A tree every year produces a new ring of wood, and in order to determine the age of the tree it is only necessary to count the number of rings on the stump. Simple as the operation is it was not until a comparatively recent date that observations were made and records taken on any extensive scale in this country. The method of determining the age of the tree was known, but the knowledge was not put to any general use until the technical forester appeared on the scene; now practical studies of tree growth have been made in every Province in the Dominion. It is quite possible that some trees on good soil may attain a twelve-inch diameter in half the time required by others. There will be the same number of rings, but the rings will differ in size, according to the soil and perhaps other conditions. But on the soils to which Canadian forests are now mostly confined the average tree takes a whole century to attain merchantable dimensions.

One hundred years of time for a tree to grow—double the average age of mankind—and yet people sometimes ruthlessly destroy in a couple of hours that which nature has taken a century to bring about. It is sometimes necessary for trees to give place, but surely this can be accomplished by removal, a practice which is indulged in by many of the larger cities, which absolutely forbid the chopping down of some of the giant remnants of the forest, so valuable have these become. We require to copy the example thus set.—Guelph Herald.

NAIL CAUSED LOCKJAW.

Ten days ago Mrs. Daisy Caldwell, of Meadowvale, stepped on a rusty nail in her yard at her home. At first she did not bother with the wound but later she applied some home remedy. To-day she is in the Western Hospital with lockjaw and her condition is serious. It is feared that owing to the advanced stage of the case she has but slight hopes of recovery. For three days she has been unable to eat anything and the doctors have been unable so far to do her much good. It was not until Saturday morning that symptoms of lockjaw were noticed, then Dr. Bowie was summoned and at once declared it a case of lockjaw. Her case was not regarded as a very serious one at first although she could not eat, but Monday it was decided that she should be taken to the Western Hospital. She arrived Monday evening and Dr. Carveth took charge of the case. This morning her condition is reported to be about the same and still very serious. This is the second case of lockjaw that the Western Hospital has had in the past month, a little boy having been taken there with the disease.—Brampton Conservator.

Varicose Veins and Itching Piles

Usually Arise From Same Cause—Relief and Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Nearly everybody knows of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the most effective treatment for piles or hemorrhoids that medical science has been able to compound. So much suffering and misery arises from this ailment that one is not long in telling his friends when he has found an actual cure. This accounts for the enormous sales of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This letter tells of relief from the suffering of varicose veins by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Many suffer from this trouble not knowing the comfort to be obtained by the use of this great soothing ointment.

Mrs. R. J. Evans, 187 Munro street, Toronto, writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years. I have been troubled with varicose veins, and find it the only thing that gives relief. For every purpose when a soothing, healing ointment is needed there is nothing so good as Dr. Chase's Ointment." 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

RURAL ROADS.

Width of Road Allowance May be Reduced.

Hon. Dr. Reaume is likely to introduce legislation at an early session changing the rural main road allowance from 66 feet, as at present, to accord with newer standards. It is pointed out by the government's engineers that the standard rural main roads are but 24 feet, and with allowance for paths of four feet on each side and ditches 40 feet would be ample.

The present road allowance leaves a vast acreage of land which might be planted, and forms many miles of growth of vicious weeds.

The new standard road likely to be authorized on recommendation of the highways commission will be of slight grade, 24 feet wide, and with very sharp curves obliterated. The data obtained by the department show that the use of motor cars in Europe has multiplied the traffic in the main highways ten times, with the consequent cost of maintenance in proportion.

A CURE FOR POISON IVY.

Poison ivy is the curse of many summer vacations, and if the curative qualities of the golden rod juice were known, the sufferings of many unfortunates would be ended, says a Boston Transcript correspondent. Just as soon as the poison appears or the itching begins, the sufferer should apply the juice of the crushed leaves, blossoms or stems of the golden rod plant of any species. The poisoned place should be rubbed briskly, and if the skin is broken the effectiveness of the golden rod juice will be increased.

The Melancthon council has added another polling sub-division known as No. 8. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. William H. Gill, No. 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

Autumn Sown Crops

Results of Experiments Conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College and Throughout Ontario in 1913.

C. A. Zavitz, Professor of Field Husbandry, Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont.

1.—Co-operative Experimenters.

Nearly five thousand Ontario farmers conducted co-operative experiments in Field Agriculture at their own homes within the past year. Of this number, experiments with autumn sown crops were conducted by two hundred and seventy-five farmers. We hope to receive the results of all the spring experiments quite soon after harvest, and we take this opportunity of requesting each experimenter to be as prompt as possible in forwarding his report.

2.—Weather Conditions of the Past Year.

At the Agricultural College, Guelph, the autumn was comparatively wet, the winter was rather mild, the spring was fairly early, and the summer was about normal in regard to both temperature and rainfall. These general remarks will probably apply fairly well to the Province, except in the eastern portion, and in some of the northern sections where the amount of rainfall in June and July has been comparatively light.

3.—Results of Experiments with Autumn Sown Crops at the Ontario Agricultural College.

During the past year, experiments have been conducted at the College with Winter Wheat, Winter Rye, Winter Emmer, Winter Barley and Hairy Vetches.

Winter Wheat.—About two hundred and seventy-five varieties of winter wheat and also a large number of crosses and selections have been grown under experiment at the Agricultural College within the past 24 years. Nearly all the varieties have been carefully tested in each of five years, after which the inferior kinds have been discarded and those which have given the best results have been continued in the experiments. In the last year, eighty-six different lots of winter wheat were carefully tested under uniform conditions. These included thirty-one named varieties, twenty-eight hybrids and a number of straight selections.

The average results of the fourteen are as follows: yield of grain per acre, 37.9 bushels for 1913 and 44.7 bushels for the eighteen year period; yield of straw per acre, 2.2 tons in 1913 and 2.9 tons for the eighteen year period; and weight of grain per measured bushel, 62.7 lbs. for 1913 and 61 lbs. for the seventeen year period. These results show that in experiments at the College for 1913, the winter wheat gave a yield of grain per acre, and a yield of straw per acre slightly below the average of the past eighteen years. In weight of grain per measured bushel, however, the results for 1913 are somewhat higher than the average of the past seventeen years, the difference being 1.7 lbs. per measured bushel. In the last eighteen years the lowest average yields per acre of the fourteen varieties mentioned have been as follows: 20.2 bushels in 1912; 28.3 bushels in 1895; 32 bushels in 1908; and 34.1 bushels in 1904, and the highest yields have been as follows — 66.7 bushels in 1900; 61.6 bushels in 1902, and 60.5 bushels in 1903. In 1899 and in 1901 the results were so poor that no satisfactory tabulated returns could be made.

According to information obtained through different sources it was found that Dawson's Golden Chaff winter wheat is still grown more extensively in Ontario than any other variety. It will be seen that it has given the highest yield of grain per acre of the fourteen varieties which have been grown at the College in each of the past eighteen years. It produces a very stiff straw of medium length, beardless heads with red chaff, and white grain which weighs slightly over the standard per measured bushel. It is probably safe to say that the Dawson's Golden Chaff, which was formerly quite soft, appears to be improving somewhat in quality for bread production. The Imperial Amber variety produces a large amount of straw which is medium in strength, a bearded head with red chaff, and a red grain of very good quality. The early Genesee Giant has a compact bearded head, and a grain which is sometimes classed as white and sometimes amber. The early Red Clawson variety has a comparatively weak straw and grain of poor quality. The Egyptian Amber winter wheat has a bearded head with white chaff, and a red grain of good milling quality.

Twenty-five varieties of winter wheat grown in 1913 have been under experiment for at least five years. In the five years' test, the highest average yields in bushels of grain per acre of the named varieties have been produced by the American Banner, 43.4; Dawson's Golden Chaff and American Wonder each 42.6; Crimean Red, 41.2; Abundance, 40.5; Michigan Amber, 40.3; and Imperial Amber, 40.1. The first three varieties named are of the Dawson's Golden Chaff type, and resemble each other closely in their various characteristics. The heaviest weights of grain in pounds per measured bushel in the five years' test have been produced by the Northwester, 62.7; Rudy, 62.5; Egyptian Amber, 62.3; Tasmania Red, 62.1; Michigan Amber, 61.9; and Geneva, 61.9; and the lighest weights by the Gillespie White, 58.3; and the early Red Clawson, 58.4.

In the average results of the five years' test, the Dawson's Golden Chaff and the American Wonder were the earliest to mature, the date being July 24th, and the Yaroslaf was the latest to mature, the date being July 29th.

In each of the past six years the varieties of winter wheat grown in the Experimental Department have been carefully tested for Bread production in the Bakery Branch of the Chemical Department at the College. The varieties of winter wheat which produced the largest loaves of bread from equal quantities of flour in the average of the tests made in the five years, are as follows: Banatka, Crimean Red, Yaroslaf, Tuscan Island, Tasmania Red, Rudy, Egyptian Amber, Buda Pesth, Kentucky Giant, Treadwell, Bulgarian and Geneva.

The plant breeding work at the College has included winter wheat as well as the other spring crops. A considerable amount of work has been done at the College during the last few years with the object of improving some of the best varieties of winter wheat by means of systematic selection and by cross-fertilization. The Dawson's Golden Chaff has been used extensively for crossing such varieties as the Crimean Red, Tasmania Red, Buda Pesth, Imperial Amber and Turkey Red. In 1912 the highest yield of winter wheat obtained at the College was from one of the hybrids which we have originated, and in 1913 the three highest yields of grain per acre were produced by three of the crosses between Dawson's Golden Chaff and the Bulgarian, one giving a yield of 64.9, another 61.5, and still another 61.1 bushels per acre. All other plots of winter wheat, whether hybrids, selections or named varieties gave less than 60 bushels per acre. The highest yield per acre of all the named varieties was 55 bushels, which was produced by the "Wrinch's Volunteer," a wheat grown this year for the first time.

In each of nine years, experiments have been conducted in treating winter wheat in different ways to prevent the development of stinking smut, and the results have been very satisfactory. In the average results for five years, untreated seed produced 4.2 per cent. of smutted heads, while seed which was immersed for twenty minutes, in a solution made by adding one pint of formalin to 42 gallons of water, produced a crop which was practically free from smut.

The results of twelve separate tests made at the College show an average increase in yield of grain per acre of 6.8 bushels from large as compared with small seed, of 7.8 bushels from plump as compared with shrunken seed, and of 35.6 bushels from sound as compared with broken seed. Seed which was allowed to become thoroughly ripened before it was cut produced a greater yield of both grain and straw, and a heavier weight of grain per measured bushel than that produced from wheat which was cut at any one of four earlier stages of maturity.

In the average of five years' experiments, varieties of winter wheat gave practically the same results when sown separately as when sown in combination.

In the Experimental Department, winter wheat which has been grown on clover sod has yielded much better than that which has been grown on timothy sod.

In the average of eight separate tests, land on which field peas were used as a green manure, yielded 6.5 bushels of wheat per acre more than land on which buskwheat was used as green manure.

Winter Rye—

In each of the past ten years, four varieties of winter rye have been under experiment at the College. The following average results in yield of grain per acre and in weight of grain per measured bushel have been obtained: Mammoth White, 58.7 bushels, 7.5lbs.; Washington, 55.5 bushels, 57.7 lbs.; Thousand Fold, 53.4 bushels, 57.4 lbs.; and Common, 53.3 bushels and 57.0 lbs. Of the four kinds of rye here referred to, the Mammoth White variety gave the greatest yield per acre in each of seven out of ten years. In strength of straw, the Mammoth White and the Common varieties proved to be the strongest, and the Washington the weakest, although there was practically no lodging in 1913. The average height of the Mammoth White variety was about 72 inches in 1912 and 70 inches in 1913.

In each of the past two years a German variety of winter rye, known as the Petkos, has been grown in competition with the four varieties here referred to, and it has produced, the greatest yield of grain per acre in each of these years.

Winter Emmer—

Emmer is a species of wheat, the grain of which is used principally for feeding purposes, and is considered to be about equal to barley in this respect. The Black winter emmer has been grown at the College in each of the past six years, and the average yield of grain per acre during that length of time has been 2,049 lbs of grain. The yield of grain in 1910 was 3,809 lbs., and in 1913 it was 2,979 lbs. In 1912 the crop was almost a failure, there being only 138 lbs. of grain per acre, as the crop was badly winter killed.

Winter Barley—

One variety of winter barley has been grown at the College for 20 years. In each of three years it was badly winter killed, and in the other seventeen years it produced an average yield of 51.7 bushels of grain per acre, which weighed on the average 47.9 lbs. per measured bushel. In 1913 the yield per acre was 45.4 bushels, and the weight per measured bushel 51.1 lbs. Winter barley is somewhat less hardy than winter wheat in Ontario.

Hairy Vetches.—In experiments, covering a period of twelve years in which Hairy Vetches were sown in the autumn for the production of seed in the following Year, an average of 7.7 bushels of seed per acre has been obtained. In three of these years the yield has been upwards of 18 bushels, and in four other years less than 2 bushels per acre. The Hairy Vetches of the past year were badly winter killed, this being one of the greatest failures with this crop of any time in recent years. The Hairy Vetches which we have grown at the College for several years, have produced about fifty per cent. greater yields of seed per acre than the Hairy Vetches which have been more recently imported. The home grown seed proved to be somewhat more hardy than the imported seed in the past year.

4.—Results of Co-operative Experiments with Autumn Sown Crops.

Two hundred and seventy-five farmers throughout Ontario conducted experiments with autumn sown crops during the last year. Reports have been received from thirty counties in Ontario in 1913. The average results of the carefully conducted co-operative experiments with autumn sown crops are here presented in very concise form.

Winter Wheat—

Five varieties of winter wheat were distributed last autumn to those farmers who wished to test some of the leading varieties on their own farms. The average yields per acre are given in the following table:

Variety.	Straw Per Acre. (Tons)	Grain per Acre (Bush.)
American Wonder	1.96	31.79
Tasmania Red	2.10	30.80
Imperial Amber	2.05	29.26
Banatka	1.87	27.22
Crimean Red	1.92	26.13

It will be seen that the American Wonder has given the largest yield of grain per acre throughout Ontario during the past year. This is a white grained variety, resembling very closely the Dawson's Golden Chaff. The Tasmania Red gave comparatively high results over Ontario during the past year, being surpassed by the American Wonder by an average of less than one bushel per acre. The Imperial Amber, which occupies third highest place in the co-operative experiments, occupied second highest place in yield per acre in the average results of eighteen years' test of each of fourteen varieties. The Banatka and the Crimean Red, the two best varieties of winter wheat for bread production, occupied lowest place in yield of grain per acre throughout Ontario during the past year.

Winter Rye—

Two varieties of winter rye were distributed in the autumn of 1912. The results show that the Mammoth White variety came at the head of the list in yield of grain, with an average of 25.5 bushels, in comparison with the Common variety, which gave an average of 22.1 bushels per acre. In experiments throughout Ontario for the last seven years, the Mammoth White surpassed the Common rye by an annual average of practically four bushels per acre.

Fertilizers with Winter Wheat—

In the co-operative experiments with different fertilizers applied in the autumn to winter wheat, the average yields of grain per acre for eight years were as follows: Mixed Fertilizer, 23.5 bushels; Nitrate of Soda, 22.5 bushels; Muriate of Potash, 21.5 bushels; and Superphosphate, 21.2 bushels. On similar land, Cow Manure, at the rate of 20 tons per acre, gave an average yield of 25.8 bushels per acre, and the land which received neither fertilizers nor manure gave an average of 18.1 bushels per acre. The Superphosphate was applied at the rate of 320 pounds and the Muriate of Potash and the Nitrate of Soda each 160 pounds per acre. The Mixed Fertilizer consisted of one-third of the quantity of each of the other three fertilizers here mentioned. In the past year the fertilizer experiment with winter wheat was the same as in other years, except that the fertilizers were applied in the spring instead of the autumn of the year. From the spring application the land which received the Mixed Fertilizer gave the highest yield, and the unfertilized land the lowest yield of grain. The cost of fertilizers used in this experiment would be approximately from four to five dollars per acre.

In another experiment it has been found that nitrate of soda applied in the spring gave slightly over one bushel per acre more than that which was applied in the autumn. Nitrate of Soda increased the yield of wheat more than Common Salt when applied either in the autumn or in the spring.

Winter Emmer and Winter Barley—

A comparative test of Winter Emmer and Winter Barley has been made throughout Ontario in each of the past four years. The average results for the three years previous to 1913 show that the Winter Emmer gave 1,830 and the Winter Barley 1,812 pounds of grain per acre. No complete and satisfactory reports have as yet been obtained of this experiment in the past year.

Hairy Vetches and Winter Rye for Fodder—

In each of the two past years Hairy Vetches and Winter Rye have been compared as fodder crops, in the co-operative experiments. Four reports were received in each of the past two years. In 1912 the Hairy Vetches gave the highest yield in each experiment but in 1913 the Winter Rye produced a greater yield than the Hairy Vetches in each of the separate tests. The comparatively low yields of the Hairy Vetches for the past year were caused by the fact that this crop was quite badly winter killed, proving to be less hardy than the Winter Rye. The average yield per acre of the Hairy Vetches for the past two years has been about fourteen tons.

PATROLMAN SAVAGE OF COPPER CLIFF IS SLOWLY RECOVERING FROM HIS ORDEAL.

Patrolman Savage, of the Copper Cliff police force, formerly Chief of Police of Orangeville, for a few months, who was brutally assaulted by a gang of Italians in Little Italy last Friday night, is slowly recovering from his terrible ordeal and his recovery is confidently looked forward to.

The circumstances surrounding the affair are harrowing. Patrolmen Savage and Arthurs were making their usual rounds at 12.30 midnight when they were attracted by a crowd of men acting in a disorderly manner at the rear of the Italian barber shop, where a dance was in progress. The gang was ordered to move on and all entered the premises excepting one, Vannali Rovinelli, who became obstreperous and was placed under arrest by P. C. Savage, but refused to submit quietly. The tussle which followed was a signal for the dastardly attack on the patrolman, who was first laid out with a rock weighing fully twenty pounds, and then slugged in a horrible manner, with stones and bottles and a liberal number of severe kicks. P. C. Arthurs appears to have emerged from the fracas unscarthed.

Several of the gang have been arrested and have been identified at the hospital by Savage as his assailants.

Savage is making a splendid fight for his life, under the almost constant care and attention of Dr. McAulay.

The affair has been the biggest sensation in Copper Cliff in years and Little Italy, as a result, is believed to be due for a clean-up. Great praise is due Patrolman Savage for his pluck in the exercise of his duty.—Sudbury Star.

NOTHING LIKE IT FOR COLDS.

Mrs. Holland Ferguson, Sheffield, N.B., writes: "Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has cured my children and myself of severe colds. We are never without it in the house. There is nothing like it for throat trouble, and it is so soothing and pleasant to take, my children would drink a whole bottle if they were permitted."

FINE YOUNG BULLS.

Several fine young Holstein bulls are now in the herd at the O.A.C. One, a grandson of Boutsje, with a double cross of Johanna Rue's 4th Lad, has behind him one grandmother with a milk record of 20,000 pounds and the other grandmother has a milk record of over 10,000 pounds of milk per year. His grandsire before coming to the College had 20 daughters and 5 sons in the advanced registry, and his sire had 29 sons and 27 daughters in the advanced registry. Three other young bulls also have excellent pedigrees.

New Preserving Agent For Eggs.

A new agent for the preservation of eggs has been found and placed upon the market by a Zurich concern, and from all accounts has met with very good results. The preservative is called Ovo Conservator, and consists of a prepared liquid sunstance of adhesive character, the ingredients of which may be easily and cheaply obtained in any country. The process of preservation is very simple. A flat vessel of about 100 quarts is filled to half its capacity with the preservating agent, into which the eggs are dipped for two minutes and then allowed to dry. For the dipping process the eggs are placed in flat wire baskets, each with a capacity of 300 to 500 eggs. One basket is dipped after the other, and by employing a larger vessel several baskets may be dipped simultaneously. In this manner two or three persons can dip 200,000 eggs per day.

The inventors claim that the treatment is superior to the cold storage and pickling methods of preservation. Cold storage eggs become decomposed in a few days after being removed from the refrigerating rooms, and the pickling method seriously affects the taste of the egg, while considerable expense is involved in the application of both of these methods, whereas economy is one of the chief advantages possessed by the new treatment. No special machinery is required and the new agent is guaranteed to preserve the eggs for nine months, causing them to retain their freshness, weight, transparency, appearance, smell and taste.

GOOD YEAR FOR LAMBS.

This seems to have been an exceptionally good year for lambs. At the O.A.C., out of a total of 36 lambs, only three were lost. The period of lambing ranged from January 29 to June 10. Three lambs dropped about January 20 sold at Easter as spring lamb for $12 each, their weights running from 10 to 12 pounds. The average weight of the remaining lambs at weaning time, August 4th, was from 70 to 90 pounds. Thirty-three lambs were raised from twenty-three ewes.

Mr. Robt. W. Steele, of the Dominion Securities Corporation, Toronto, spent a couple of days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Steele, last week. Mr. Steele has just returned from a business trip through Western Canada in the interests of the Corporation with which he is connected. He states that the West has come through the financial crisis fairly well. The country is feeling the money pinch, but the fact that a good crop is now assured will do much to set matters right again. The collapse of the real estate boom has had a very noticeable effect in a number of the cities. There is very little doing now in outside subdivisions, but inside property that is revenue producing is still in steady demand. Victoria, Winnipeg and Medicine Hat have, Mr. Steele thinks, come through the ordeal of the last nine months better than other Western cities. The reason is that while these places have had a great [illegible] increase in population and property values, they have not been unduly boomed.

ANOTHER FIRE

Three Water Street Stables Destroyed Early Friday Morning.

Nearby Dwelling Houses Were in Grave Danger.

Orangeville had another destructive fire early on Friday morning. Shortly after two o'clock the clanging of the fire alarm aroused citizens from their slumbers and brought them to the streets in all stages of deshabille. Over the buildings on the south side of Broadway and toward the east end of the town a ruddy glow illumined the sky and dense clouds of smoke rolled across the lighted space, growing indistinct with distance and finally disappearing into darkness far to the north. The recollection of the recent Adamson conflagration and the possibility of a similar disaster in the business part of the town served as a spur to many of those who had been so suddenly disturbed and in a few moments hundreds of citizens had reached the scene of the blaze which proved to be some large frame stables situated south of Broadway a little east of the Market and directly north of Water St. When the fire brigade got on the ground J. Kolman's stable and the large frame building at the rear of the egg warehouse were a seething furnace of fire. The flames were just finding lodgment in the Funsten stable to the east. The blaze was intensely hot and the fire fighters found it no easy matter to withstand the heat. A southwest breeze carried clouds of sparks and cinders to the roofs of the houses along Broadway to the east of the egg warehouse. Some of these caught fire, but a score or more citizens did yeoman service with buckets of water and in a short time had the roofs dampened so that the danger from the flying cinders was greatly minimized. Fortunately the egg warehouse has an iron roof, which prevented the fire from getting a start in this building. Had it taken fire it would have been impossible to save the houses to the east.

While the fire was both fierce and hot it did not last very long. The brigade got two lines of hose at work, one running from the hydrant on Broadway and the other from the hydrant at the Mill St. bend. Pressure was excellent and the fire was under control in less than half an hour. The Kofman and egg warehouse stables were reduced to ruins, but the Funsten stable is still standing, although the roof is badly burned. Wm. McConnell's large stable directly east of the Funsten building was in imminent danger, when the fire was at its worst, but came through unharmed. Mr. McConnell moved his horse and other contents to a place of safety. Funsten also managed to save his horse and most of the other contents. Kofman had a horse burned and all the contents of the building met with the same fate.

Kofman had the contents of his building insured in the York Fire Insurance Company for $250. The building itself is owned by the London, Canadian Loan & Agency Company, of Toronto. The building at the rear of the egg warehouse was owned by Mr. H. E. Stuckey. We understand that Mr. Stuckey did not have it insured. The Funsten building is owned by Mr. S. Donner and was also uninsured.

It is strongly suspected that the fire was of incendiary origin. The suspicion is strengthened by the fact that there seems to have been an explosion of some kind about the time the fire was first noticed. Several people in the neighborhood heard the explosion quite distinctly and some of them state that immediately afterwards flames broke forth from every part of the building. One citizen who lives nearby states that he was awakened by the barking of a neighbor's dog. He arose and looked out of a window, but could see no sign of fire although he was looking in the direction of the burned buildings. He had only been in bed again a moment or so when he heard the explosion and running hurriedly to the window was startled to see the Kofman stable enveloped in flames. The same man avers that while he was out of bed the first time a horse and buggy drove through an alley from Broadway to Water St and came to a standstill near the doomed stable. A little later the vehicle returned by the same way reaching Broadway about the time the explosion occurred and then drove west at a rapid gait.

Bought Matthews Property

Mr. J. M. Dods will build his knitting mill on the property now occupied by Mr. Jas. A. Matthews as a lumber yard. Last week Mr. Dods closed a deal for the purchase of the Skating Rink property, which he bought from Mr. Jos. H. Hughes for $1500. He then traded this property with Mr. Matthews for his lumber yard. Mr. Matthews is now busy moving his stock of lumber to the Skating Rink and expects to have everything moved this week. Just as soon as this is done, Mr. Dods will start men at work getting ready for building operations. One of the first things to be done will be to pull down the old roughcast building on Mill St. at one time occupied by Jam's Mole as a pump shop. By securing the Matthews' lumber yard Mr. Dods has undoubtedly acquired one of the most desirable factory sites in the town. A few weeks ago he bought the James Riley property immediately west of the lumber yard. This fronts on Church street and runs south to the C.P.R. tracks, so that there will be no difficulty running in a switch. The property which Mr. Dods now controls has a frontage of 132 feet on Mill St. and a depth of 490 feet along Church St. The factory, which will be a three storey brick building with basement, will front on Mill St. It will be 75 feet in width and about 100 feet in length. Mr Dods hopes to get the building up this year.

Won Parlor Table

No less than fifty rinks took part in the Grand Valley Tournament last week. Of the seven rinks from Orangeville, the McMillan rink was the only one that brought home prizes. This was virtually a colt rink, as all the players with the exception of the skip are comparatively new men at the game. In view of this the excellent showing which the quartette made was a source of gratification to the Club at large as well as to the players. The rink were runners-up in the Trophy competition, which was the main Tournament event. In the semi-finals they defeated McBrine, of Berlin, after a hard game and in the final were nosed out by Laverock of Harriston, after an equally strenuous contest. Their prizes were four handsome mahogany parlor tables. The members of the rink were T. H. Greenis, Geo. Morrison, Carson Jeffers and J. D. McMillan, skip.

Councillors Norton and Arnott and Reeve Leavens have been notified by T. J. Blain, solicitor for Jacob Shore, that they have forfeited their seats in the council by reason of their having contracted with the council. They will likely hand in their resignations at once. The clerk on Thursday received the resignation of Councillor H. W. Shoemaker, who removed to Berlin on Saturday. A nomination to fill the vacancies will no doubt be held at once.—Bolton Enterprise.

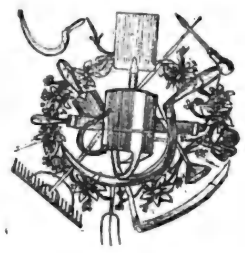
NO LONGER A MYSTERY.

Remains Found in Swamp Near Markdale were Identified as Those of John Orr, a Former Inmate of House of Refuge.



The remains of an unknown man found over a week ago in a swamp in the suburbs turns out to be those of one, John Orr, who had been an inmate of the House of Refuge in Brampton. He had previously been a resident of Owen Sound, a married man, with two children. His wife, some years ago, went to Michigan, where they had previously resided on a visit, taking the children with her, and after some weeks absence sent him word she had decided not to return. This preyed upon the mind of Orr so that he became melancholy and partially demented. In the fall of 1911 he was placed in the Home, where he remained until early in June of 1912, when, apparently sane, and perfectly harmless, was allowed his liberty. Some months later a brother in Owen Sound learning of his release from the Home began an enquiry by letter among his relatives, but could get no tidings of the missing brother until he saw the account last week of the finding of the remains of a man near Markdale. The clothing as well as pipe, catarrhozone pipe all went to show that this was his brother.. He, Mr. Samuel Orr, having interviewed first Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Harness in Owen Sound, former manager and matron of the Home, on Monday came to Markdale and examined the records of the House of Refuge as to dates and was fully convinced that the remains were those of his brother.

He decided to leave the remains where they were buried — in the swamp a mile north of Markdale. We think the least the authorities could have done would have been to give the remains a decent burial in the plot provided in the Public cemetery for such.—Markdale Standard.

Changes have occurred in the offices of General Secretary and Physical Director of the Orillia Y.M.C.A.

THE FEDERAL ELECTIONS

Important Increase in Percentage of the Total Vote Polled.

The Clerk of the Crown in Chancery is preparing a series of resumes of the Federal general elections since 1896. The figures show a steady increase in the vote polled, and an increase in the proportion of the electors going to the polls. In 1896 the electors who voted were between 64 and 65 per cent. of the number of those on the lists, while in 1911 the proportion had risen to between 73 and 74 per cent.

In 1896 the total vote polled was 899,000, of which the Conservatives polled 416,600, while the Liberals obtained only 399,700. Thus the straight Liberal vote was some 16,000 smaller that the straight Conservative vote. The Independent vote, however, was abnormally heavy, 82,600, and most, if not all of it, was cast against the Government of the day. In 1900 the total vote had risen to 950,000, of which the Liberals obtained 494,000 and the Conservatives 450,000, the Independent vote being only 5,000; the Liberals thus had a majority of nearly 44,000.

In 1904 the total vote was 1,014,000; of this the Liberals obtained 528,000 and the Conservatives 475,000; in this election, which was the high water mark of the Laurier Government, its majority over the Conservatives was nearly 53,000. In 1908 the total vote was 1,176,000, of which the Liberals obtained 587,000 and the Conservatives 563,000. In this election the Independent vote was nearly 25,000, and the situation was that, while the straight Liberals had a majority of 24,000 over the straight Conservatives, they did not quite get half of the votes, the straight Conservatives and the Independents combined having a majority of nearly 1,000 over the Ministerialists.

In 1911 the total vote cast was 1,307,000, or 230,000 more than three years previously. The Conservative vote was 669,000,—or, if the vote cast for Joseph Russell in East Toronto be added, 671,000; the Liberal vote was 625,000; the Independent vote, excluding that cast for Mr. Russell, was about 10,000. Mr. Borden's majority was nearly 47,000 over the straight Liberals, while the total majority from all sources against the Laurier Government was over 51,000.

Roadway Traffic Census

One of the first things that will be undertaken by the new Highways Improvement Commission in investigating the road system of Ontario will be a traffic census. The object of this, Mr. W. A. Maclean, Vice-Chairman of the Commission, said was to study the traffic in different sections with a view of understanding what class of road was required in each district. This census will also include a study in the population of the different localities to see what line of traffic development would likely follow road construction.

In October it is the intention of the Commission to visit different parts of Ontario as well as a number of States of the Union to study road organization and maintenance.

When asked what point of view would be kept in mind in formulating a road system, Mr. Maclean said: "Primarily the whole scheme would be for the benefit of the farmer."

With regard to automobile traffic, Mr. Maclean pointed out that some arrangemeat would have to be made to harmonize automobile and ordinary vehicular traffic. Where both were using the same road system, as for instance between Hamilton and Toronto, a special class of road would have to be provided, and some reasonable distribution of cost arranged.

The program of work of the Commission will relate to road laws, regulations, economic features, finance, organization for construction and maintenance, educational facilities. Mr. D. P. Wagner, B.A., of Toronto, has been appointed Secretary of the Commission. The statistical work will be committed to Mr. F. G. McAlister, B.A., Secretary of the Good Roads Educational Association.

While working at the harvest Mr. John Batchelor, of Bruce Hill, had his hand badly torn in a binder. He was finishing up cutting a field of oats and pushing in some straw with his hand to make up the last sheaf, the hand was caught by the needle, which penetrated right through the back of the index finger and tore the flesh and cords right out between that finger and the thumb.

Nurse's Years of Experience

Proves Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Best Treatment for Kidney and Stomach Troubles.

The trained nurse has even greater opportunities than the doctor himself to watch the action of medicine in specific cases.

For years the writer of this letter has been recommending the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills among her patients, and is firmly convinced that no treatment is so prompt and effective.

This is the most valuable evidence obtainable, and we believe that all who know Mrs. Duffy will appreciate it to the full, knowing that she would not recommend anything in which she had not the fullest confidence.

Mrs. Duffy, nurse, 25 Lewis street, Toronto, writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for years, and recommend them to my patients for all disorders of the kidneys, liver and stomach. In all my professional experience I have found nothing better." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

NERVOUS CHILDREN

Are Often in the Early Stages of St. Vitus Dance.

They Need a Tonic to Strengthen the Weak Nerves and Restore Them to Natural Health.

Many a child has been called awkward, has been punished in school for not keeping still, or for dropping things, when the child is not really at fault, as the trouble is really St. Vitus' dance in its earlier stages. So common is this nervous disease in childhood that in some schools one-fifth of its pupils have been found suffering from it in one form or another. Before the presence of the disease is betrayed there is usually a disturbance of the general health. The child shows listlessness and inattention. Then it becomes restless, and twitching of the muscles and jerking of the limbs and body follow. A remedy that cures St. Vitus' dance and cures it so thoroughly that no trace of the disease remains is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make the new blood necessary to feed the starving ones and gives them the nourishment they demand.

Mrs. Hiram Barnhardt, Scotia Junction, Ont., says: "About two years ago my eldest daughter, Mabel, then ten years of age, was stricken with St. Vitus' dance. She could not keep still for half a minute, no matter how hard she tried. Her limbs would jerk and twitch and every little thing would start her crying. I gave her several bottles of medicine said to be good for the nerves, but instead of helping her she was steadily growing worse. Her voice would change so that we could hardly understand her, and her face became twitched until she did not look like the same child. I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills myself when run down, and finally decided to give her these. When she had taken two boxes I could notice an improvement, and by the time she had used five boxes she was fully cured. However, I was determined to make the cure permanent if possible, and I gave her two boxes more, and I can truthfully say that she has never had a symptom of the trouble since, and is now as bright and active as any child of her age. I heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all mothers as the result of what they have done for my child and myself."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The foundation for the sidewalks prior to the laying of the concrete, will soon be completed, that is as far as the concrete will be laid this year, and in taking up the platform in front of McElwain's store, Mr. Wm. Borland, in making explorations, unearthed a silver mine, bringing up two silver nuggets of the pure stuff. Speculation is now rife as to the possibility of some rich treasure having been buried there in prehistoric times, and operations, it is said, may be commenced shortly with a view to further discovery.

Two of our elderly village widow ladies had the time of their lives last Friday. When Mr. Warbrick brought up one of the bank staff, he, as usual, immediately returned to Bolton with the auto, taking the two ladies along with him for an outing. Before leaving the young folks of the house had a busy time fixing the two old ladies up in their veils, silks and furbelows, and as the auto left they certainly looked as spruce and spry as some of the younger ladies. Mr. W. brought them safely home in the evening, greatly delighted with their outing and the kindness of Mr. Warbrick.

The other day James Wellwood, a Dundalk implement agent, was splicing ropes for barn forks. He used a hickory skewer, about three-quarter of an inch thick and six inches long, pointed sharply at the end, to make the splice. When pressing very hard the skewer slipped and was forced up into his nose. The point protruded through the side of the nose not far from the eye.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Fergus Auto Party Have Exciting Experience at Grand Valley.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week, Dr. McFadzean, of Fergus, and two other men, one of whom was Mr. William McDermott, formerly a well known West Garafraxa farmer, had an experience in Grand Valley which will probably remain fresh in their recollection when all other automobile trips are long forgotten.

The party had motored to Orangeville and were making the return journey. They had reached Grand Valley covering the distance from Orangeville at a record breaking clip. Near the Grand Valley station, the road leading out of town takes a somewhat sharp curve around a steep embankment, which is protected by a railing. Just at that point the auto met a team. The driver of the team took the wrong side of the road and to avoid collision, Dr. McFadzean, who was driving the car, was forced to pull over towards the railing. The machine which was running at a high rate of speed swerved off the road, ploughed through the railing, tearing the greater part of it away, and pitched into the gully below, a distance of some fifteen or eighteen feet. The car fortunately landed right side up with its occupants still in their seats, although, it is alleged, two complete revolutions were made by the machine in the downward plunge.

The only injury sustained was a cut on the forehead of one of the party. The machine was very little damaged.—Arthur Enterprise.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. REGINA'S TAX RATE TEN MILLS ON DOLLAR

Regina, Aug. 1.—The city council yesterday struck the lowest tax rate in the history of the City of Regina when they, upon the recommendation of the commissioners, set this year's general rate at ten mills on the dollar.

The public school rate was struck at three mills on the dollar; separate school rate four mills on the dollar; library rate 1-3 mills, and the collegiate at 2-3 mills.

The general levy of $606,195.95 is raised by a ten mill tax on $54,516,512 of private property liable to full taxation. $15,339,915 of annex property assessed at 1-5 of the general rate, or two mills, and a levy of the full rate on $2,990,100 of City of Regina property.

THE BANNER

THE BANNER, SEPT. 4th, 1913.

At the annual Convention of the Ontario Municipal Asociation last week Mayor Lees, of Hamilton, advocated the creation of a new municipal department of the Ontario Government. There is much to be said in favor of the organization of such a department. It could do the municipalities helpful service by collecting and disseminating knowledge on such subjects as road construction, sewerage, waterworks and fire protection methods. Municipal councils are frequently called upon to deal with difficult and complex problems and costly mistakes could sometimes be avoided if expert advice were obtainable. A sewerage system for instance is a very expensive undertaking and it is a matter of the first importance that the municipality which decides to provide its people with this service should put in a system suited to its needs. To ensure this, expert opinion and advice are very essential. Another important matter discussed by the Association was the system of municipal accounting. One of the speakers made the statement that "The Municipal accounting of the Province is the poorest class of business carried on in Ontario. The means used," he stated, "are the most simple and the returns are not such as should be compiled." A good deal of fault was found with the manner in which the comparative municipal statistics are published. Some of the speakers were strongly of the opinion that a uniform accounting system should be devised for the whole province. This would make it possible to collect municipal statistics that would have a real value and would show accurately the cost of the different public services.

The Orange Sentinel presents some weighty arguments against the proposal to admit Sir Charles Fitzpatrick to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council as a judge representing Canada. Our cotem points out that the Judicial Committee is frequently called upon to decide constitutional questions from Canada in which the Roman Catholic hierarchy is perhaps the most interested party. Sir Charles has acted as the legal adviser of the Church and has shown on different occasions that he is thoroughly devoted to its interests. Moreover he assisted to frame the educational clauses of the Autonomy Bills, which may possibly yet be tested in the Judicial Committee. Sir Charles is a prominent member of the Catholic Extension Society and in a public address has stated that "Union between Catholics regardless of language or of race is what the present demands." "In short," the Sentinel states, "Sir Charles has demonstrated that he admits the supremacy of the Pope, the superiority of Church over State, and the right of the Vatican, which is hostile to democracy in religion or national affairs, to rule the world. Thereby he is disqualified to pass on the validity of marriage laws and other constitutional questions affecting Romish pretensions."

The Public School.

Orangeville Public School reopened on Monday with its full complement of teachers. There is only one change in the teaching staff this term. Miss Flora Donaldson, whose health has not been the best, has been granted leave of absence until the New Year. Miss Ruby McGillivray, of this town, is filling the vacant position. The Trustee Board has made a number of important improvements to the school during the summer vacation. The building has been reshingled at a cost of about $400. New eavetroughing has been put on the building and a new metallic ceiling in one of the upstairs rooms. A number of minor repairs have also been made to the interior of the school. Now that the by-law to provide $3000 for improvements has been sanctioned by the property holders, the Board is planning to have the entire building repainted both inside and out, the cellar cemented, a cement walk placed to the west of the school similar to that put down on the east side last year and other repairs made that may be necessary to put the school in first-class condition. The improvements will likely be completed during the summer vacation next year.

The Dufferins of 1901.

Elsewhere in this issue our readers will find a group photo of the champion Dufferin lacrosse team of 1901. Of the fourteen players who appear in the photo, only four are now residents of Orangeville. They are Dr. G. H. Campbell, W. E. Irvine, Will Kearns and A. Clarridge. Ernie Menary and Charlie Shore live in Toronto, Fred Dowling is a Presbyterian Minister at Deseronto, but is on six months leave of absence at present, owing to throat trouble, Jimmie Irvine is in business in Toronto, "Jack" Kearns is a barrister in Arthur, and Harry Goodall, Joe Hatcher, Walter Swain, Art Kirkwood and Bert Henry are in the Canadian West. Henry, however, has been at his old home here this summer. "Andy" Jones, the field captain, lives in Toronto. Of the officers C. R. McKeown, Jas. Armstrong, Dr. T. H. Henry, J. W. Aikon and W. G. Kearns are still prominent residents of this town. J. N. Fish is practising law in Regina and Harry Gillespie died in Toronto some years ago.

FIRE AT CEMENT PLANT.

Coal House Cot Scorching on Tuesday Morning.

The fire brigade was called out shortly after three o'clock on Tuesday morning by an alarm from the Superior Portland Cement Co's big plant near the C.P.R. station. A spark or spontaneous combustion had ignited the ground coal that is used in the burning kilns causing an explosion. The flames got into the roof of the coal room and also found lodgement in the wooden beams of the partition between this room and the main building. The roof of the coal room was pretty well burned before the firemen managed to get the blaze under control. A good deal of the grinding machinery is supported from the roof and was badly damaged. The engine was also injured by the heat and water and it is feared that it is practically worthless. The brigade got the fire in hand in about half an hour. The coal used in the rotaries is very combustible after it is prepared for use. It is first heated, then ground into a fine powder, after which it is conveyed to tanks and forced from these into the big rotaries as required. A falling spark is sufficient to start a dangerous fire at any time. There are several instances too of an explosion and fire from spontaneous combustion. It is impossible, until the insurance adjusters have done their work, to form an accurate estimate of the damage to the plant, but it will amount to several thousand dollars.

As a result of the fire the plant has been closed down except the grinding department which is still running. Whether it will be closed long or not will depend largely on the extent of the damage to the machinery. The damage to the roof and woodwork can be quickly repaired, but if any of the machinery has to be replaced it may take considerable time to get the new machinery here and into running order. The Company, which has been running the plant at full capacity nearly all summer, gives employment to about 70 men and has a monthly pay roll of about $4500. The shut-down will therefore mean a serious loss not only to the employees, but indirectly to the whole town. It is to be hoped that the management will be able to get the mill running again in a few weeks.

Mrs. Wm. Wallace.

Mrs. William Wallace, an old and greatly respected resident of Amaranth township, passed away at her home on lot 20, 5th line, last Thursday. Her death resulted from injuries received in a runaway accident on the preceding Saturday. While she was returning home from Shelburne with her brother, Mr. George Brown, their team became restive. Through some cause the tongue of the democrat broke and before the horses could be stopped the broken portion attached to the vehicle ran into the ground upsetting the democrat. Mr. Brown had a rib broken, Mrs. Wallace sustained severe internal injuries and her daughter, Mrs. Eversden, of St. Louis, Mo., was badly cut and injured about the head. Mrs. Wallace lingered in great pain until Thursday when death brought relief from her sufferings. The deceased was the widow of the late William Wallace, who died about eleven years ago. After their marriage they lived near Farmington for a number of years, but moved to the Black's Corners neighborhood about twenty-five years ago. Mrs. Wallace was 76 years of age and is survived by a family of five sons and four daughters. The oldest son, Jno. S., is a farmer in Amaranth, Alf. is farming near Regina and the other three, George, Edward and Herbert, are living in the Western States. Three married daughters—Mrs. Parke, Mrs. Pichon and Mrs. (Dr.) Eversden also live in the Western States. The fourth, Miss Lucy Wallace, is a nurse in New York. The late Mrs. Wallace was a member of Blacks Corners' Presbyterian Church and a consistent Christian woman in her daily walk of life. She was of a kindly, sympathetic nature and was always ready to do her neighbors any service she could in cases of illness or distress. By the community at large she was held in the highest esteem and her memory will be cherished with the sincerest affection. She was the last surviving sister of Messrs. S. J. and George Brown, of Amaranth. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held to Greenwood Cemetery on Monday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. J. R. Bell, of Laurel, the family pastor. The pallbearers were the five sons and a brother, Mr. S. J. Brown.

Orangeville High School.

There has been quite a large registration of new students at the Orangeville High School this week and indications are that the attendance is going to be above the average during recent years. The teaching staff is as follows:—Alex. Steele, B.A., teacher of English and Mathematics; Miss Grace M. Strang, B. A., French, German, etc.; R. P. Allin, M.A., Natural and Physical Sciences; Miss Sada McIntyre, Professional First Class, Art, Commercial Work, etc.; G. E. Evans, B. A., Latin, Greek and Physical Exercises.

SKIN SOFT AS A CHILD'S.

"I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years," writes Mr. John W. Naas, Lunenburg, N.S. 'Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment."

MRS. PATTULLO DEAD.

Was Widow of Former Brampton Physician.

There died early Friday morning, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Gregory, 56 Rowanwood avenue, Toronto, Mrs. Alexander Pattullo, widow of the late Dr. Pattullo, formerly a prominent physician at Brampton, and latterly of College street, Toronto. Mrs. Pattullo's maiden name was Rebecca Bull. She was the last survivor of the large family of the late Bartholomew Bull, the site of whose residence on the Davenport Road is now within the city limits. Here Mrs. Pattullo was born in 1829.

At the time of her death she was one of the oldest residents of Toronto born within the city. Three of her brothers were the late John F. Bull, Dr. Edward Bull, and T. H. Bull, K.C., formerly Clerk of the Peace for the County of York. Two daughters survive Mrs. Pattullo, Mrs. W. D. Gregory, and Miss Pattullo, both of the city, the latter being now en route from England. Two sons, Dr. Bart Pattullo and James, a university student in arts, died while yet young men. The large farm of her father is now subdivided into city lots, and forms an important section of Toronto. She remembered distinctly the military troubles of 1837. Among other incidents she could recall William Lyon Mackenzie and some of his followers calling at her father's house for food.

For some years past she had resided at Oakville, and only last June returned to Toronto. Mrs. Pattullo's home was always one of wide and generous hospitality.

CANAL OPENED.

Waters of Pacific Flow into Panama Channel.

Twenty Tons of Dynamite Used in One Blast.

The last remaining barrier at the Pacific end of the Panama Canal was up by dynamite on Monday. It was an interesting spectacle. At exactly 9.30 o'clock an electric switch was turned on and a moment later the 1500 spectators, including the Shriners visiting the Canal and the officers of the New Zealand battleship-cruiser "New Zealand," were rewarded by a wonderful sight. Hundreds of tons of mud and stones were thrown high in the air; there they hung suspended and then fell back, as the thunderous roar of the explosion re-echoed in the nearby hills.

About twenty tons, equivalent to 44,800 pounds of 45 per cent. dynamite, constituted the blast, which was one of the largest ever set off in the canal.

The charge, which was planted in 541 holes at an average depth of 30 feet, tore a big gap in the barrier, but not to a sufficient depth to permit the water to flow through as the sea level channel was at low tide.

Equally interesting as the explosion was the actual breaking of the barrier in the afternoon, the tide creeping steadily up until it was level with the top of the gap. A workman seized a shovel and made a small trench, through which a rill of water trickled. Gradually it widened, until an hour later a raging torrent with a thirty-five foot fall poured through an opening 400 feet wide into that part of the canal between Gamboa Dike and Miraflores Locks, which has previously been excavated by steam shovels.

This cut, which is 5,000 feet long, 500 feet wide and 41 feet deep below mean sea level, was entirely filled by 3 o'clock when the waters of the Pacific laved for the first time the solid masonry of the Miraflores Locks.

Dredges passed through the opening last night, and in a few days the last vestiges of the barrier will be removed, establishing a practically completed channel at the Pacific end. These dredges will begin on Sept. 2nd to remove the last barrier of the Atlantic channel. When this is accomplished the ships may navigate to the locks at both ends.

The Milliners Here.

The ladies, who take charge of local millinery departments, arrived in town this week and with their staffs are now busy preparing for the fall openings. Miss McCarthy, of Pembroke, succeeds Miss Davidson as head millimer in Hill & Co's, Miss Peterson, of Leamington, is here again as assistant. Miss Neely, of London, is in charge at Marshall Green & Co's and Miss McGill, of Erin, is filling the position of first assistant. Miss Beatrice Reid is in control at W. E. Rogers' with Miss Annie Nodwell as her first assistant. Owing to the fire a short time ago Ritchie Bros. have been obliged to give up their millinery department for this season. Miss Brooks, head milliner last season, has gone to Milton for the fall, but will probably return to Orangeville next spring.

Mr. Ross Kearns, of Sc Thomas, is holidaying at his home here.

FARMER'S WIFE ALMOST A WRECK

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Her Own Story.

London, Ont.—"I am a farmer's wife and a very busy woman. Last summer I was taken with severe pains in my back so bad that I could not get up or scarcely move without pain, and my periods were painful. My husband called in a good doctor and I was under his care for some time, but he did me little or no good.

One day a friend of mine told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had been greatly helped by it. I began taking it and soon got well, and my periods became natural again. Since then I have had perfect health. In fact I have never felt so well in my life. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine many women need. If you think this letter will help other women please publish it."—Mrs. K. C. YOUNG, Tambling's Corner, London, Ontario, Canada.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Tolton, of Waldemar, was the scene of a happy gathering of friends and relatives on August 15th, when they celebrated their golden wedding. Some of those present were guests at the marriage some fifty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Tolton are among the oldest and most respected citizens of Waldemar, having lived there for over forty years.

At 5 o'clock there was a dinner to the relatives, children, and grandchildren and in the evening a reception for their friends from Grand Valley and Waldemar.

There were about seventy-five guests present including some from Toronto, Trafalgar, Guelph, Southampton, Walkerton, Grand Valley and Sacramento, California, also many of the old time residents from in and around Waldemar, who came to extend their congratulations.

The bride and groom of fifty years were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents suitable for the occasion.—Star & Vidette.

Clifford, the eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edmonson, of Arthur township, met with a nasty accident one day recently. His father was getting the binder in shape for cutting and the little fellow was looking on. Mr. Edmonson gave the binder a turn by hand, when one of the reels pushed the boy onto the knife. A bad cut in the leg was the result. He was hurried to a doctor and several stitches were required to close the wound.

SAWDUST FOR FLOORING.

Artificial floorings are now being made out of sawdust concrete. The cement used consists of a solution of magnesium chloride to which pulverised magnesia is added. The sawdust is then used in any desired quantity. Floors manufactured in this way are more resilient than concrete, and are not conductors of heat. They wear well, and do not burn, charring under the fire test.

FOREST FIRE FIGHTING.

Forest fire fighting is being carried on along scientific lines on the American continent. In many forests a signal system is installed, and, in connection with this system, mounted rangers are located at convenient points throughout the forest. The horse carries tanks of fire extinguisher, and the ranger is equipped with an asbestos shield which protects the upper part of his body. Armed in this manner he is well equipped to fight the flames.

INTEREST, AND HOW IT EATS.

One of the causes of bankruptcy is that so few persons properly estimate the difference between a high and low rate of interest, and therefore often borrow at a ruinous rate that no legitimate business can stand. Few have figured out the difference between 6 and 8 per cent. One dollar loaned for one hundred years at six per cent, with the interest collected annually and added to the principal, will amount to $340. At 8 per cent. it amounts to $2,203, or nearly seven times as much. At three per cent., the usual rate of interest in England, it amounts to $19.25; whereas at ten per cent., which has been a very common rate in the United States, it is $13,809, or about seventy times as much. At twelve per cent. it amounts to $85,075, or more than four thousand times as much. At eighteen per cent. it amounts to $15,145,007. At twenty four per cent. (which we sometimes hear talked of), it reaches the enormous sum of $2,551,799,404.

One hundred dollars borrowed at six per cent., with the interest compounded annually, will amount to $1,842 in fifty years, while the same one hundred dollars borrowed at 8 per cent will amount to $4,690 in fifty years. One thousand dollars at 10 per cent. compounded, will run up to $117,390 in fifty years.

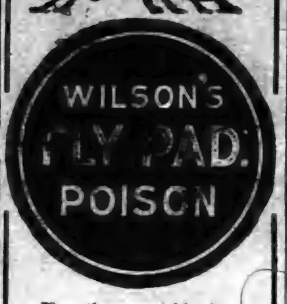
Guard Baby's Health in the Summer

The summer months are the most dangerous to little ones, the complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentry, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to cure them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Magistrate Watt fined a resident of Guelph $25 and costs for procuring liquor for a person on the prohibited list.

Frank Madigan, of Tavistock, who was on the Hamilton-Toronto flyer the other day, wanted the train to stop at Oakville which it was not timed to do. He pulled the emergency rope, stopped the train, and hustled down the street to one of the hotels. He thought it a big joke that he should stop the train, but found out otherwise. He was arrested at the hotel, and appeared in Police Court at Oakville, on Monday. Then he found out that he might have to go to the penitentiary for tugging the rope, but he did not. The Magistrate fined him $35 and bound him over by a $3,000 bond to keep the peace.



The Government has taken action to prevent the congestion of the Muskoka rivers between Bracebridge and Lake Muskoka. An order-in-council dealing with the matter provides that between July 31st and September 1st in the present year and between June 30th and September 1st in every year hereafter lumbermen driving logs on these rivers will have the logs made into rafts of not more than 100 feet in length and 100 feet in width, and these rafts shall be towed by tugs "in a safe and orderly manner to Muskoka Lake." Lumbermen breaking this law will be liable to a penalty of not less than $100, and this fine will not prevent anyone who has suffered, taking action to recover the amount lost.

MAD DOG IN ADJALA TOWNSHIP

Some of the residents of Adjala township have been in a state of suspense for several weeks over a rabies scare. An infliicted mongrel made his appearance there some months ago. Where it came from is a mystery and what animals it nipped in its career was not known. It was the fear of rabies breaking out among the domestic flocks and herds that has kept the farmers in suspense. The dog was first noticed on the farm of Mr. John Tackaberry, among the cattle pasturing there. One cow lying down was approached by the dog, but the cow rising in alarm frightened it off. Another cow was attacked and as she turned to run the dog caught her tail. It then took to the road and was noticed by Mr. John Lawlor approaching his place. He was suspicious that it was mad and got his gun. Mr. Lawlor's two dogs, a collie and a spaniel, ran out to meet the newcomer, but instinct seemed to prompt caution and the two dogs retreated round the house followed by the yelping visitor. Each in turn was attacked by the mad dog, but neither would fight and quickly got away from the stranger. As soon as he got a chance Mr. Lawlor shot the strange dog. His own dogs were closely examined by hands incased in binding gloves. Not a trace of a scratch could be found on them and the froth from the mouth of the mad dog was washed off with a solution of carbolic acid. A veterinary surgeon was called in and put the dogs in quarantine. The head of the infected dog was sent to Toronto for analysis and was pronounced to be badly infected with the rabies germ. The cow bitten on the tail is said to have finally disappeared in the woods and later was found dead. A couple of days ago Mr. Lawlor's dogs were released from quarantine and no further cases of the disease having developed among cattle the people in the locality are beginning to feel at ease again.—Alliston Herald.

MRS. JAS. H. PLATT.

One of the saddest affairs happened in Grand Valley on August 14th, when Jemima Martin, beloved wife of James H. D. Platt, was called to her Heavenly home. Wednesday morning she gave birth to a child, her death being due to hemorrhage, intensified by shock due to prolonged labor. She was a quiet, amiable woman and well liked among her acquaintances and was born in West Garafraxa in 1874. Two years ago she was married to Mr. Platt, living in Grand Valley since.

The funeral, which took place on Saturday from her late residence, River street, to Union Cemetery, was very large, the baby being in the casket with the mother.

Besides her bereaved husband she leaves to mourn her loss, her father, George Martin, seven sisters, Mrs. Green, of Erin; Mrs. Sam. Campbell, Grand Valley; Mrs. George Nodwell and Mrs. Andrew Nodwell, of Garafraxa; Mrs. Clulow, of Reddickville; Mrs. King, in the West, and Maggie, of Toronto; and four brothers, William, Samuel, Henry and Thomas, all of the West, to whom the deepest sympathy is extended. Many floral tributes evidenced the sympathy of the people, including wreaths from Scott Lodge A.F. & A.M., and the Royal Black Preceptory.—Star & Vidette.

THE MORAL QUALITIES OF THE HOE.

Charles Dudley Warner was wont to dwell long and thoughtfully on the romance of the hoe even though he knew it in its primeval state of incompleteness. He said: "To own a bit of ground, to scratch it with a hoe, to plant seeds and watch their renewal of life—is the commonest delight of the race, the most satisfactory thing a man can do. One gets strength out of the ground," he reflected, "as often as one touches it with a hoe."

During the summer that Mr. Warner spent in his garden, the garden he turned into literature, he came to the conclusion that weeds had hateful moral qualities: "To cut down a weed is to do a moral action."

The pith of his argument however is that, "in a garden man needs a cast iron back with a hinge in. The hoe is an ingenious instrument, calculated to call out a great deal of strength at a great disadvantage."

This observation of Mr. Warner's recalls to many nature lovers the insects with scale-covered backs showing a conformation that answers to his desired hinge in the back. In fact, these smug creatures are able to approach a hole, sniff about it, and then, should they feel a slight tremble of the earth beneath them, to swiftly enter, apparently unhinging the scaly portions of their backs and taking whatever form enables them to slip out of sight most quickly. The future may reap suggestions from such insects that will perchance evolve the hoe of the gardener's dreams. —The Craftsman.

HIS KIND.

A quarrelsome couple, having exhausted many subjects, came to discussing tombstones, and the husband asked—"My dear, what kind of a stone do you suppose they will give me when I die?" "Brimstone," was the reply.

Mr. Finlay Gordon, a well known farmer near Kingarf, the other day counted one head of oats and found it contained 140 grains of fine matured oats.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Robert Nixon Knocked off Wagon While Unloading Hay and Dies from Injuries.

A fatal accident took place at Riverview Tuesday forenoon, resulting in the death of an old resident in the person of Mr. Robt. Nixon. The accident happened between 8 and 9 o'clock. Mr. Nixon was engaged drawing in grain, and was taking off the load with slings in the barn. He was in some way knocked off the rear of the wagon by a bundle in the slings, lighting on the barn floor on his neck and shoulders with great force. When John McIntosh, who was working with him, reached him, he found that he was completely paralyzed from the neck down. Dr. Smith, who was at once summoned from Shelburne, found that his back had been broken high up between the shoulders. The injured man succumbed to his injuries about 9.30 p.m. He was conscious until nearly the last but had no control of any of his muscles. Deceased was in his 69th year. He is survived by a son and two daughters—J. E. Nixon, Miss Florence Nixon, at home. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the community in the sudden affliction that has befallen them. The funeral takes place to Shelburne this (Thursday) afternoon.—Economist.

HUMIDITY A FRIEND, NOT A FOE.

There can be no doubt that most of us have been very much to blame. Time and again we have vented our wrath upon the demon of discomfort, Humidity, which turns out one of our best friends. Dr. P. W. Goldsbury, in the Medical and Surgical Journal, demonstrates the importance of humidity in hygiene. He writes:

In the popular mind, only the discomfort felt on hot, close days is associated with this word. The impression may be gained that humidity is something to be deplored, but, properly speaking, a better term would be sultriness. For this means a high percentage of moisture along with excessive heat. On days when the temperature is not high, the amount of humidity may be the very cause of the agreeableness of the air. During the summer when the days are hot and dry, the freshness of the morning and the soothing coolness of the evening are enjoyable, not only because the heat is diminished, but also because the air is tempered with a higher proportion of moisture. If we substitute for the word "humidity" the phrase "moisture in the air" we shall know better what is meant.

The term "humidity" is used in two senses: absolute humidity, which refers to the actual amount of water in the air per cubic foot at a given time; and relative humidity, which is the percentage of water in the air at any time as compared with the total temperature without some form of precipitation such as dew or rain. To quote further from the article under consideration:

If a heated flat in winter be at a temperature of 70 degrees, and the absolute humidity or amount of water held in suspension be the same as the air outside, where the temperature is only 18 degrees, the relative humidity there will be only one-eighth, or 12½ per cent. and that only providing our outside air be saturated with moisture, which is often not the case.

If the air outside, at a temperature of 18 degrees, have an absolute humidity of but half a grain, then its relative humidity will be only 50 per cent., and the air inside, though having the same absolute humidity, may have, by reason of its higher temperature, a relative humidity of only 6¼ per cent. If we reflect that a humidity of from 60 to 75 per cent. is none too much for average conditions of human life, we can realize how far below normal is the air in which most of us are housed during the winter. As a matter of fact, various tests of air in schoolrooms, hospitals and living rooms during the winter time have been made here and there through the country; these show that the humidity often went below 40 per cent., and upon occasion got down below 10 per cent.

Under such conditions indoor air in winter is very dry and irritating. This is one of the prime causes of chapped hands and parched lips.

One of the important problems of modern building construction is that of making indoor conditions more nearly like outdoor as regards humidity. Methods for raising the humidity in buildings are still in the experimental stage. Dr. Goldsbury has made various attempts to improve the moisture quality of the air in different rooms. He says:

When the building was heated by furnace, a dish of water was kept over the register. A muffin tin was used for this purpose, as its form presents an exceptionally large surface below for the heat to strike and therefore, increases evaporation. The muffin tin had to be filled much oftener when cloth was hung over it so that the water was sucked up into the meshes by capillary force, thus increasing the evaporating surface. I have found wet towels or newspapers, too, spread about the room somewhat helpful in moistening the air, but it proved difficult by such means to increase the humidity above 5 or 10 per cent. This, however, was enough to give a sense of increased comfort, for our delicate tissues respond to even such slight favoring changes.

Closing the register at night lowers the temperature of the room and, therefore, lessens the amount of moisture required for comfort. Merely in the condition of one's throat in the morning one would find ample warrant for the shutting off of the heat at night.

Under our conditions of indoor life, we suffer not from too much humidity, but rather from too little.

RETAIN THE DEAD LANGUAGES

In his address to the students of the University of Michigan, Hon. James Bryce, recently ambassador to the United States from Great Britain, made an earnest plea for the retention of Greek and Latin in the schools.

Mr. Bryce, in fact, believes thoroughly in that much-abused term "culture," says The Athenaeum. In the various branches of learning he regards specialization as a thing to be avoided at the outset, though he cannily refrains from laying down any general law as to the precise moment when it should begin. He pours mild scorn on the historical student who, when asked for information about some event, will airily dismiss it because "it is not in my period." Mr. Bryce's conception of the generally cultivated man is interesting. He should be acquainted with one at least of the more abstract subjects, such as economics or politics. He should be acquainted with the principles of language, and with at least one inflected tongue possessing a literature. Finally, he should be acquainted with the record of human effort and development through the ages. The scheme may appear old-fashioned, but it strikes us as thoroughly sound.

History, Mr. Bryce most pertinently contends, to be scientific need not necessarily be dull. "There is nothing to-day," he says, "any more than in the by-gone days, to prevent him (the historian) from being both a careful investigator and agreeable writer." That lesson, on which we have often insisted, should assuredly be taken to heart by our own universities no less than the American. But Mr. Bryce goes even further in his revolt against the tendency to apply scientific methods to the study of human phenomena. When he contemplates Buckle and Herbert Spencer he almost loses his temper. "What that school has given," we read, "is a mass of general propositions couched in what sounds like scientific language, but the contents and substance of which are either threadbare truths so dressed up in solemn phraseology as to appear to be novelties, or theories too vague and abstract to be serviceable either as interpretations or as summaries of the facts."

Here again we get a conservative view of the functions of history which is all the more sensible because Mr. Bryce fully admits that history has its philosophy. What he cannot endure is the pretence to lay down general propositions about all men and all communities.

WAR IN INSECT WORLD

Potato Bugs Likely to be Annihilated.

Little Insect Called The Perillus is Waging a Deadly War, And Potato Bugs Have Little Chance.

Is the potato bug, which for years has been the curse of the potato patch and the sworn enemy of farmers, to be annihilated? If the plucky little insect which etymologists call the Perillus keeps up its fight the doom of the potato beetle is sealed. For the last two years potato patches in Ontario have been the scene of a deadly warfare. On the leaves of the plants our old enemy writhes in agony as the deadly Perillus pierces it with its spearlike proboscis and carries it away for food. The mature beetles, the young larvae or the eggs are alike relished by the Perillus, and day after day potato bugs are sacrificed to the insatiable appetite of this welcome new visitor.

The Perillus is smaller than the potato beetle. It is flat-backed and of brilliant hues of red, yellow or brown, with stripes around the back. It was first reported in Ontario in the summer of 1911, but since then it has been spreading rapidly, and is now common in the potato patches in many sections. Near Toronto, James McArthur has a patch of potatoes which has not been sprayed this year, and yet is green, healthy and free from the ravages of the old-time potato beetle. The Perillus is quite plentiful on this patch, and Mr. McArthur thinks the potato beetle will trouble farmers very little in the future.

VIM, VIGOR AND VITALITY.

Be Buoyant if You Want to be Beautiful Says Actress.

Vim, vigor, vitality—these are the essentials for beauty as one of the most successful actresses sees them. She says:

"Vim, vigor, vitality, a tolerant spirit toward the world and its inhabitants, and buoyancy to carry you over the jolting, rough places will not only make you happier, but will bring out your good points better than a diet list and a course of facial massage.

"You know the woman who is always peeking and perking and digging at life, who criticizes all things that fall outside her own interests and inclinations. Her expression and attitude can ruin even a collection of perfect features and coloring.

"Vim will help keep you above the dead level of mediocrity; vigor will carry you on to ambition and achievement; vitality will make you ready to meet every occasion; and buoyancy will keep you from getting the wrinkles and lines and spiritless eyes that are foes to beauty, and will put spring into your step.

"You must walk along on the balls of your feet with buoyant spring instead of laggard slouch if you want to be truly attractive. Walk as if you could conquer worlds and you will conquer hearts."

THE TOWN BEAUTIFUL.

The following is clipped from an exchange. Think of what a change in the appearance of any community it would make and what sweet repose at night would be had if all citizens would subscribe to and observe faithfully:

I promise to keep my sidewalk clean.

I promise to keep the gutter in front of my premises free from weeds.

I promise not to throw fruit skins or paper on the street.

I promise to keep the weeds cut down on my premises.

I promise to keep my back yard neat and clean.

I promise to do all in my power to help others keep this pledge.

I promise not to walk across other people's lawn or pathway.

I promise to do all in my power to keep the town neat and clean.

I promise to keep my hens in my own back yard.

I promise to keep my cat in my own back yard.

I promise to get rid of my dog if it annoys my neighbors or is a nuisance to others.

I promise to attend to my own affairs and not speak slightingly of my neighbors.

I promise not to sing grand opera after midnight, nor slam the door at 1 a.m. after the hasty exit of my daughter's beau.

Stomach Troubles and Weakness of Kidneys Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

There is an enormous amount of suffering from liver and kidney derangements and stomach troubles that could easily be avoided by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. If you could only realize the scores of everyday ills that arise from a sluggish condition of the kidneys, liver and bowels you would not be long in giving this medicine a trial.

Mrs. Edward Stewart, New Richmond West, Que., writes: "I want to tell you how thankful I am for using your Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for stomach troubles and backache caused by weak kidneys. I was unable to wash any clothes for over two years on account of my back being lame. I read the Almanac and began using these pills. Two boxes made a complete cure. I can do my own washing and other work now, and want to say to lady friends that they do not know how much I appreciate Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

GREAT POSSIBILITIES OF WATER POWER.

The wonderful possibilities of water power as applied to industrial life are reviewed in Scribner's Magazine by Davis B. Rushmore. "Of all the different phases of water power development in this country," he writes, "none have been more useful or more important than those in connection with the Reclamation Service of the Federal Government. The object of this work has been the development of the arid lands of the country into homes for settlers, by supplying the rich soil with sufficient water to make the cultivation of crops a valuable industry.

The primary object of the Reclamation Department has been the storage of water and its supply through the canals and ditches to the farms. With the large amount of water stored and the head, which is almost always available, the possibility for a hydro-electric development usually exists, and in most cases this has been a part of the work of the Reclamation Service in its different projects. In most cases the power is developed at the dam site, and in other cases part of it there and part of it flows from the reservoir into the valley where it is to be used for irrigation. The electrical power generated in this way is largely used for pumping in order to reach higher levels than are possible by the natural flow of water, and partly to keep the water from reaching the surface and evaporating. There is always a considerable auxiliary load of lighting and miscellaneous power work in the towns through which the transmission lines pass.

Of the many developments of the Reclamation Service in the different Western States, probably the most interesting, and certainly a representative one, is that of Roosevelt, Arizona. The so-called Salt River Project is something over sixty miles from Phoenix, and about forty miles from Prescott, in a place so inaccessible that Government roads had to be built to allow the material for the construction work to be hauled in. Here a lake is formed nearly 30 miles in length, by damming up the water of two streams, and an area of 240,000 acres in the Valley around Phoenix is to be irrigated by this water. There is a development of some magnitude at the dam and a number of powerhouses at different places below, as the same water is used over and over in its falls to the plains where it is used for irrigation. The dam itself is a marvel of engineering construction. It is 284 feet high, and 168 feet thick at the base. Its construction at this most inaccessible place was accompanied by many interesting features of road construction, cement manufacture, etc. The ownership of this great work will pass from the Federal Government to a Water Users' Association, which is composed of the owners of the land to be irrigated.

Other developments along these lines have taken place in Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington and Wyoming, and many more are still under consideration.

The possibilities of the use of electricity in connection with agricultural work are many, and this is one of the most promising fields of the future. The direct use of electricity for stimulating plant growth is a subject which is being actively investigated at present, and with as yet unknown possibilities.

The development of the electrical side of power transmission is but entering its second decade. From 10,000 volts electrical pressure, in the old Telluride Plant, 145,000 has now been reached. The advance is due to an increased knowledge of electrical science, and a constant improvement in the materials used for insulation of apparatus and line. The old glass telegraph line insulator evolved into a complicated porcelain structure of many petticoats and various forms, and the insulators suddenly ceased to be the limiting feature in transmission voltage when the suspension or disk type was produced. The old-line construction of wooden poles, cross-arms and pins, has given place to modern pole or tower structure of galvanized steel, which give greater strength, a longer life and freedom from many causes of interruption. Copper and aluminum, both stranded in the larger sizes, are used for the line conductors, as the prevailing price and judgments dictate. Where the electrical pressure and wire diameter are so related that the electricity is at the point of escaping into the air, the wires become luminous, the glow being distinctly visible in darkness. This is one of the limits to increasing pressure which must be respected especially at higher altitudes. On the lines of the Central Power Company, where they cross the Continental Divide, the critical point is just reached.

The large generators which change the mechanical power of the water wheel into energy have increased greatly in size. They are being constructed to-day in steam turbine units of 30,000 horse-power and for water wheel service the same capacity is being considered. Such units are economical in cost and in space. In installations where but one power house supplied the transmission system, it was considered good practice to use not less than four units so as to provide for a possible shut-down over one unit, in which case the other could be run over-loaded while repairs were made. In modern systems with a number of generating stations, the number and size of units is generally determined by other considerations.

The modern three-phase, high voltage power transformer of 20,000 horse-power bears slight resemblance to its puny ancestors. With its tanks and huge cooling coils, it has become a wonderful piece of apparatus. The [illegible] and large capacities has entirely changed its relative position in importance, magnitude and cost. When a switch is opened under emergency conditions, a flow of energy is interrupted and all of the elements necessary for a powerful explosion are at hand. The successful solution of the switching problem for modern power stations has been the result of much careful study and costly experimenting.

The cost of producing power is not understood by all. In any kind of manufacture we have two classes of charges which make up the cost of the product. The first, known as the fixed charges—interest, depreciation, insurance and taxes, is independent of the output. The second, the operating expenses, such as fuel, salaries, repairs, etc., is in some measure directly proportional to the quantity of goods manufactured. If the fuel is free, as in a water power, the other items all remain, and the power cost is only fractionally reduced. Again, it, as is often the case in a water power plant, the investment per horse-power of capacity is several times that of the steam plant, it may happen that the fixed charges are increased more than the operating expenses are reduced, and thus the electric power generated by the water actually costs more than a steam plant. When the long and expensive transmission lines and the necessary steam auxiliary stations are included, water power is not necessarily a cheap source of supply. In most cases, however, where a sufficient quantity of water is available at all times, hydro-electric power is the cheapest in the world.

As the supply of fuel becomes exhausted our water powers will naturally enhance in value and we shall become more dependent upon them for power purposes. But a fraction of the available powers have as yet been developed. The present policy of the Federal Government makes it extremely difficult to develop those streams and rivers where some question of public land is concerned. It is probable that in the near future some reasonable method of Federal and State regulation will be evolved, and the continued development of our water powers will be one of our great future industrial possibilities.

FIRE PROTECTION.

Erin Village Council Wants Information Before Submitting By-Law.

In its report of the last meeting of Erin Village Council, The Advocate states that the question of fire protection was taken up and after some discussion it was moved by Councillor Gibson, seconded by Councillor Justice, that a By-law be submitted to the ratepayers asking for $1500 to be expended in securing fire protection, including pump, engine and hose.

Moved in amendment by Couns. Wilson and Hamilton, that a Committee be appointed to ascertain what an equipment for fire protection suitable for the village can be purchased for before passing a by-law. A lengthy discussion followed, Councillor Gibson claiming that enough time had already been lost and that if the motion asking for the submission of a by-law was carried it would be put through and in the meantime the Council could be busy getting necessary information as to what equipment to buy. He considered that $1500 was not too large a sum to ask for, as there would be a pump engine, hose and a small building erected to keep the outfit in. Councillor Justice concurred in Mr. Gibson's ideas and considered it the proper move to make. Councillors Wilson and Hamilton and the Reeve opposed the motion, arguing that they had better get prices first. The amendment carried, the original motion being lost on the following vote: Yeas—Gibson, Justice. Nays—Wilson, Hamilton, the Reeve giving his vote against it.

"I'm sorry I ever married you!" shrieked the bride, on the occasion of their first quarrel. "You ought to be," retorted the groom, really angry and bitter for the first time. "You did some nice girl out of a good husband."

MR. ALEX. McCARTER

WALKERTON ONT., MAY 9th, 1911.

"I have been in Walkerton in business for a good many years and many of my townsmen know that my health, for long periods was precarious. My trouble was extreme Nervousness, brought on by Indigestion and Dyspepsia, from which I suffered in the most severe form. It was so bad that I could not sleep before about four in the morning. I noticed one of your published testimonials of how someone had used "Fruit-a-tives" for similar trouble and asked Mr. Hunter, my druggist, his opinion on the matter and he advised their use. I immediately procured several boxes and I am pleased to say that I now enjoy splendid health and could not possibly feel better. I can eat with every degree of satisfaction and sleep without an effort. I strongly advise anyone suffering from like complaints, to commence using "Fruit-a-tives". ALEX. McCARTER.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

On Saturday afternoon while returning home from Shelburne, Geo. Brown, of Laurel, and his friends who were with him met with a bad accident. Mr. Brown has a span of horses and a democrat wagon. Through some cause the tongue of the wagon broke and before the horses could be stopped the wagon was upset and the occupants injured. Mr. Brown had one rib broken and received other injuries; Mrs. Wallace, of Black's Corners, mother of John S. Wallace, received serious internal injuries and is in a very critical condition; Mrs. Eversden, of St. Louis, Mo., was badly injured about the head, two arteries were cut and she received wounds on the head that required twenty-two stitches. There was also a young woman who received minor injuries. Dr. H. D. Thompson, assisted by Dr. S. T. White, attended to their injuries.—Free Press.

Make Us Prove It

We dare not exaggerate to you. We are dependent upon your patronage. To get it we must have your trust and confidence. We make the following statements with a full understanding of what they mean to us. You are safe when you believe in these statements.

For the Bowels

If you only knew as much as we and those who have used them know about Rexall Orderlies, you would be as enthusiastic about recommending them as we are. They taste just like candy. They act so easily and so pleasantly that the taking of them is a pleasure.

Even children like Rexall Orderlies; and you know that if a medicine appeals to a child, it will appeal to grown-ups.

Rexall Orderlies

help chase gloom, dispel blues and make you feel happy by their splendid tonic, cleansing and strengthening effect upon the bowels. — They act to free the system — and keep it free — from the distress and ill feeling that naturally results from irregular and inactive bowels.

Rexall Orderlies do this quietly, without griping or causing nausea, purging or excessive looseness. They act to overcome and remove the cause of bowel ills and in a short time usually make unnecessary the continued use of physics and purgatives, thus tending to stop such unhealthy habits as may have been formed.

Make us Prove This

We do not ask you to take our word for this. We want you to make us prove it, and at no cost to you.

Buy a box of Rexall Orderlies at our store. Use them once, or use up the whole box. Then, if you are not thoroughly satisfied, just come back empty handed and tell us. Without obligating you or questioning you we will return the money you paid us for them.

Doesn't that indicate that Rexall Orderlies are at least worthy of trial? Doesn't it prove our faith in them? Doesn't it merit your confidence? Could any offer be more fair to you?

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, delicate and aged persons. Rexall Orderlies come in convenient vest-pocket size tin boxes. 12 tablets, 10c; 36 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c.

CAUTION: Please bear in mind that Rexall Orderlies are not sold by all druggists. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at the Rexall Stores.

Made a Settlement.

We are pleased to learn that after an annoying delay Ritchie Bros. have at last succeeded in getting a settlement of their insurance claims. In making the settlement the interested companies took this delay into account and agreed to make a payment that was quite satisfactory to the firm. The delay has tied up the business nearly a month and leaves Ritchie Bros. that much less time to get their business in shape for the fall and winter trade. The firm is losing no time now that the insurance difficulty is out of the way and is arranging to put on a big fire sale beginning on Saturday morning. The Sale will give buyers an opportunity to secure genuine bargains in nearly every line of drygoods. See advt elsewhere in this issue or posters for full particulars.

Lacrosse in Fergus.

Mrs. E. C. Clark, Miss H. Wallace and Messrs. F. J. Marshall, Jos. J. Kelly, E. C. Clark, J. E. Booth, L. K. Johnston, H. Keith, Ivan Fleming, Charlie Morrison, Erle Stevenson, Dr. Carson, Will Kearns, R. H. Robinson, A. D. McKitrick, Mel Glover and Charles Edwards were among the Orangevillians who witnessed the Fergus-Hanover lacrosse match in Fergus last Wednesday afternoon. The game was the fastest and one of the most exciting witnessed hereabouts for several years. Hanover went on the field with a lead of 6 goals from the game on their home grounds. The quarter time score was 4 to 2 for Fergus, at half time it was 6 to 2 and at the end of the third period 8 to 2, making the teams a tie on the round. Fergus got another early in the last quarter, but Hanover rallied and put their supporters on tiptoe with excitement by scoring twice. Fergus got another and the round was a tie for the third time. By taking desperate chances Wendort tallied what proved to be the winning goal for Hanover. With seven minutes to play the Thistles worked like demons, but were unable to get the one goal they needed so badly. Hanover's 200 supporters cut loose after the match and gave their players a red-hot ovation. About 1000 people witnessed the game.

—Friends in town have received word from Rev. G. A. Rix and family conveying the information of their safe arrival in Port Rupert.

WHEN ORANGEVILLE PLAYED LACROSSE

TWELVE YEARS SINCE DUFFERINS WON C. L. A. CHAMPIONSHIP AND GLOBE TROPHY.

7,000 People Saw Final Game With St. Catharines at Toronto Island.

Twelve years ago Orangeville was one of the warmest Lacrosse Towns in Ontario. The famous Dufferins were then at their best and closed a remarkably successful season by winning the Senior C.L.A. Championship and the magnificent Globe trophy, a cut of which is shown herewith. The final game was played at Toronto Island on Sept. 14th, 1901 and was witnessed by between 7000 and 8000 people. The Dufferins had worthy opponents in the famous St. Catharines Athletics and the game was easily one of the most strenuous and exciting contests that has ever taken place on a lacrosse field. The score when time was called was 7 to 5. The scene that followed beggars description. Hundreds of excited Dufferin supporters rushed on the field, cheering, shouting and even embracing one another in wild transports of joy. Members of the victorious team were picked up and carried shoulder high to their dressing rooms. The gate receipts amounted to $2080 and the match netted the two teams about $700 apiece. The story of the game, as told by The Banner of the following week, was as follows :—

"James A. McFadden, formerly of Stratford, had been agreed on for referee and promptly at 3.30 o'clock the teams lined up as follows:—

St. Catharines.	Orangeville
Goal.
Dixon.	J. Kearns
Point.
F. Williams	W. Kearns
Coverpoint.
Elliott	E. Menary
1st. Defence.
R. Williams	C. Shore
2nd Defence.
Harris	A. Kirkwood
3rd Defence.
C. Downey	H. Campbell
Centre.
Cameron	J. A. Irvine
3rd Home.
Hagan	F. Dowling
2nd Home.
McIlwain	W. Swain
1st Home.
Hare	J. Hatcher
Outside Home.
Gourley	W. E. Irvine
Inside Home.
G. Downey	Bert Henry
Field Captain.
C. Kingstone	A. Jones

"A silence fell over the crowd as Jimmy Irvine and Cameron knelt for the face-off. The referee's whistle sounded and the next instant Irvine had picked up the ball and was racing for the St. Kitt's flags. Two or three passes followed and then Elliot got the sphere and back it travelled. The defence sent it down again and Bert Henry got in a shot that struck one of the goal posts and bounced to one side. The Dufferins home was pressing vigorously and the Athletics' defence was working overtime. Up the field again came the sphere, this time dangerously near the flags, but the shot went wide and Shore and Hare were away in hot pursuit of the ball. A hard check and Hare went down and remained there. In a few minutes he was ready to start again, but scarcely was play well under way when the St. Catharines' man got another upset, this time from Jack Kearns. The referee thought there had been a trip and sent Kearns to the fence for five minutes. Will Kearns went into the flags and for a time Shore, Menary, Kirkwood and Campbell fought off the attacks of the St. Kitts' home. Finally Charlie Downey got his chance and notched the first goal. Early in the second game Harold Campbell was ruled off and with twelve men to the Dufferins' ten, G. Downey managed to put in another for St. Kitts. The Dufferins got Kearns and Campbell back again, but the team was plainly nervous and hardly played up to the mark for the remainder of the quarter. No further scoring was done and the whistle blew with the Athletics two goals to the good.

"The five minutes rest served to steady the Dufferins, who by this time realized that they could play just as fast, if not faster, lacrosse than their opponents. Between them Irvine and Campbell got the best of the face-off and the ball travelled toward Dixon's citadel with lightning speed. Back it went only to be sent up again even faster than before. Billy Irvine and Bert Henry both shot, but both times either Elliott or Williams was in the way. On the latter shot the ball was knocked out some little distance and bounced. Campbell, who was coming in on the dead run, sent it back to the flags. A scuffle followed and then St. Kitts' net bulged for the first time. Encouraged by the turn matters had taken the Orangeville home became more aggressive and what was more to the point played more effectively. The lightning rushes and short swift passes were plainly bothering the St. Kitts' defence and already some of the spectators were confidently predicting that Orangeville would win out. Still St. Kitts' defence was putting up wonderful lacrosse, and the home made good use of the ball every time it went down to them. But when it went it seldom remained long and every time it came back there ensued a determined attack on the St. Kitts' flags. At last Dowling got the ball on a pass from Campbell and, dodging his check, came in at lightning pace and passed to Hatcher, who was out to the east side of the flags. Joe made a pretty check and ran in, passing to Billy Irvine when checked. The ball hardly touched Irvine's stick until it was speeding toward the net and Orangeville had evened the score. It was one of the fastest plays of the day. Hitherto keen, the excitement now became intense. Orangeville's joy was short-lived for just before the whistle blew for half-time, Downey sent in a swift one and the Athletics were once more ahead.

"Orangeville was coming faster and better all the time and the turn of speed they developed after half time gave their supporters unbounded delight. The home combination was exceedingly pretty and just about twice as swift as St. Catharines. The defence, too, was playing as it has not played before this year. Kearns seemed well-nigh invincible in the flags and outside he got nearly every ball he went after. Will Kearns was not one whit less effective at point, while farther out, Shore, Menary and Kirkwood were intercepting pass after pass in wonderful manner. Their covering and checking too were well-nigh perfect. In centre field Campbell, Irvine and Dowling were covering the ground in lightning style and simply running their checks off their feet. Two minutes after play started, Walter Swain took the ball on a pass from Dowling, made a quick pass and was away from his check in time to get the return ball and score with a very pretty shot. Eight minutes more hard play followed with one momentary pause, while the referee ruled Kirkwood off for some foul which few of the spectators saw or understood. Then Jack Kearns had a bit of hard luck which was responsible for the Athletics getting the lead once more. McIlwaine sent in a hot shot which Kearns caught safely, but the ball stuck fast in his stick and before he could get rid of it he was checked and the ball was knocked into the net. Even with a man short the Dufferins would not be denied, and just 30 seconds after the face-off Joe Hatcher tied the score for the third time. The Athletics' field was tiring badly and The Dufferins continued on the aggressive and in quick succession Billy Irvine and Bert Henry notched one apiece. When the Dufferins took the lead the scene in the big stands was one not to be forgotten in a hurry. The Orangeville twelve were evidently hot favorites with the crowd and over one half of the spectators seemed to rise from their seats to cheer the team to the echo. Toward the close of the quarter Field Captain Kingstone interfered with Menary and was sent to the fence for a five minutes breathing spell. The quarter ended with the Dufferins pressing hard and St. Kitts badly in need of a rest. The Toronto Telegram describes the last quarter as follows —

"It is magnificent, but it is not lacrosse for a team with a lead of two goals to despise block tactics in the last quarter. Orangeville started the fourth quarter with the idea that attack was the best kind of resistance. It looked as if they were wrong, when Eddy Hagan scored the eleventh game for St. Catharines. Another goal for St. Catharines. Kirkwood and Campbell on the outer defence field began to outpace their checks harder than ever. The St. Catharines' heavy weights were worn down, but they fought their passage, and "Spikey" Jones, the Orangeville Field Captain, had many an anxious moment down on his own flags. Critics, who say there is no science in lacrosse should have seen the generalship of Shore and Menary moving their defence field around when St. Catharines' home was developing its attack. The lesson of the day's play seemed, to be that the home which moves in on the flags with long passes gives the defence a chance to steady down and cannot beat out a fast-going home, which gets in with short, quick passes and scores at full speed.

"The two types of home play were illustrated in the tactics of the opposing teams and after eight minutes of brilliant conflict, W. Irvine again got his chance and scored. Orangeville now had a lead of two goals, with ten minutes of playing time left. Eliott was down in the home and St. Catharines was still aggressive, but Orangeville's defence held its flag safe, even when Charlie Shore got himself ruled off and the team had to play without his invaluable services for the last three minutes and a half. The thirteenth game lasted nearly ten minutes, and when the whistle blew the Orangeville excursionists and the rejoicing Dufferin County Old Boys were embracing the conquerors and dancing jigs on the field."

The Globe Trophy

Something Tasty in the Sweet Line.

TURKISH PASTE.—Turkish paste or Turkish Delight is a simply-made confection that is generally liked. Soak two level tablespoonfuls of powdered gelatine in half a cup of cold water until the water is absorbed. Then add two cupfuls of granulated sugar and boil gently for 20 minutes, taking care that it does not scorch. Remove from fire, flavor, and color if desired with vegetable coloring; pour into a pan about an inch deep, that has been moistened first with cold water. When cold cut into squares, and dust with powdered sugar.

MARSHMALLOW FUDGE.—Cook together two cupfuls granulated sugar, two ounces bitter chocolate and one-half cupful of sweet cream, or milk to which is added a teaspoonful of butter. When it forms a soft ball in cold water remove from fire, add one-half pound of the best marshmallows and beat briskly until it stiffens. Pour into buttered plates, and when cool mark into squares.

SEA-FOAM FUDGE.—Put two cupfuls of light brown sugar and one cupful of thin cream into a saucepan; boil together until it can be moulded into a ball in water, but do not to the brittle stage. Have ready one egg-white beaten until stiff and dry, over which pour the boiling syrup, beating constantly. Add any preferred flavoring and continue beating until stiff. Drop on buttered plates in teaspoonful portions, giving each candy a pointed look.

FROSTED FUDGE.—Cook to the soft ball stage three cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of milk (or water) and two squares of chocolate. Remove from fire and add one tablespoonful of butter and one teaspoonful vanilla; beat until thick and creamy, and turn into a candy box, which has been lined with oiled paper. Set the box just inside the oven, or where it will keep warm. Now boil together two cupfuls sugar (white) and one-half cupful milk. Remove and add one tablespoonful milk and beat until creamy. Pour this white candy over the chocolate mixture in the oven, and set aside to cool. Break down sides of candy box, and cut candy in thick slices, dividing slices into squares as desired.

MAPLE CREAM FUDGE.—To one cupful maple syrup allow one and one half cupfuls light brown sugar and half a cupful of sour cream. Boil gently. When done according to the usual test beat with a fork until cold. Nuts may be added if desired.

MEXICAN FUDGE.— Boil together two cups sugar (white or brown) and one cup milk to soft ball stage. Into another saucepan put one cupful sugar caramel stage, that is browned, but not burned. Add slowly to the other mixture, beating briskly until the caramel is dissolved. When creamy add one cupful chopped pecan meats (or a mixture of nuts will do). When cold cut into squares.

FOOTBALL NICKNAMES.

In England the big football teams have nicknames just as the baseball and lacrosse teams have here. For instance the Norwich City professionals are the "Canaries." Other clubs bear the names of either bird or animal. Millwall are described as "Lions," and their playing pitch as the "Den." Newcastle United are the "Magpies," and Hull City are "Tigers." In fact, nearly every professional club has a second name of some sort. Bury are usually referred to as the "Shakers," and Woolwich Arsenal as the "Gunners." Fulham, the "Cottagers," and Nottingham are the "Lacemen." Sunderland are called the "Wearsiders," because of their close proximity to the River Wear, Chealsea are the "Pensioners," and Southampton are more often known as the "Saints."

FARM LABOR SCARCITY IN ENGLAND.

Ontario farmers are not the only ones to complain of the lack of farm help. English farmers are beginning to feel a labor scarcity, says Prof. G. E. Day, who has recently returned from there. The skilled farm laborers are being enticed to the colonies by different colonization agencies, and this drain is being felt by English farmers, who have always depended upon cheap efficient labor, rather than labor saving machinery. There is, however, a general air of prosperity in rural England. A good harvest has been secured and farmers are quite optimistic as to the future.

Disease and Cost of Living.

The subject of the cost of living has been considered from many different points of view, and, with regard to the industrial class of the population, it may be said that the term expresses the relation between the cost of food, shelter and clothing, and the wages received. It follows, that anything which increases the efficiency of the people as a whole or the personal efficiency of the individual, tends to lower the ratio of expense to income, and hence affects the cost of living.

The prevention of disease, therefore, is necessarily a factor of the utmost importance in connection with the cost of living. Testimony of a reliable nature can be adduced to show that 42.3 per cent. of the deaths each year might be postponed, that 50 per cent. of the cases of serious illness might be prevented, and that 12.3 years might be added to the length of the average human life. If, therefore, the present waste of health were conserved, innumerable invalids would become wage earners; instead of being a burden upon others, they would be self-supporting, and, as a result, the average income would be increased. Continued ill-health of even a trivial nature undoubtedly decreases the efficiency and consequently the earning power of the individual. Preventive medicine has already done much and can still do far more in this respect. The physicians can point the way, education can fit society to cope with the diseases and a unison of the two will result in a further conversation of health.—Conservation.

The new sub-station has been completed at Georgetown and the town now has a 24 hour service, the Harley-Kay Company being the first to use Hydro power.

Girl's Nerves Fully Restored

Was Never Able to Obtain Lasting Benefit Until Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Was Used.

Too many girls grow up with weak, anaemic bodies and exhausted nervous systems. Indoor life and too much application in school are sometimes the cause.

The blood needs enriching and the nerves need strengthening by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This food cure is doing wonders for many thousands of girls whose parents had almost despaired of their ever developing into strong, healthy women.

Mrs. J. Bagnall, 395 Woodville avenue, Toronto, writes: "My daughter suffered from nervousness since childhood, and any medicines she tried did not do any lasting good. We read in the papers about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and my daughter used it with wonderful results. This treatment has built up her system and so strengthened the nerves that she feels like another girl."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

An indication of the rapidity with which the population is changing and increasing in Toronto Township is furnished by the number of appeals made in this year's revision of the voters' list. The assessors completed their work about the first day of August. Appeals were forwarded to the township clerk to the number of about 350. The revision of the list is made from year to year by the two political parties. The Conservative appeals numbered about 225 and the Liberals about 125.

Mrs. Fretts, who has been living with Mrs. James Algie, Brampton, as housekeeper for the past few months was found dead in bed on Friday morning, August 29th. Mrs. Fretts had retired in her usual health and when she did not rise on Friday morning, Mrs. Algie went to her room and found her cold in death. Her sudden death was a great shock to her relatives and friends.

A considerable portion of the spoils secured by burglars at Hespeler recently was discovered at Guelph. Two boys, who were playing near a water tank at the G.T.R. diamond crossing discovered it hidden in a hole near the tank, covered with grass. There was a quantity of whiskey stolen from Wayper's hotel, also a number of razors, razor strops, brushes and other articles of considerable value. It is thought that the thieves after securing the booty went to Guelph to dispose of the spoil, and had hidden it until such time as they could safely get rid of it.

Many phones in town were kept warm on Tuesday morning about 6 o'clock, by several women, as well as by the prospective maiden, for fear that a friend should sleep in and so be unable to attend the 7 a.m. wedding in one of the local churches. There was a great turnout of the fair sex that morning. It is surprising what a woman can accomplish when she wants to.—Fergus News-Record.

A very serious accident was narrowly averted Saturday evening as the five o'clock train was coming into the station. Mrs. Thomas Aitchison, of the suburbs, was at the depot waiting to take the train to visit friends at Fergus, and, standing too close to the track, was struck by the cylinder of the engine and thrown to one side. Luckily no bones were broken, but Mrs. Aitchison got a severe shaking up. The train being held for ten or fifteen minutes, she was able to proceed to her destination. A basket of eggs came to grief on the platform.—Dundalk Herald.

THE BANNER

THE BANNER, SEPT. 11th, 1913.

It is not often that both political parties are satisfied with the result of an election. This, however, appears to be the case so far as the East York bye-election is concerned. Both parties profess to be quite satisfied with the result. The Globe states that the verdict will come as a surprise to Conservatives who expected that Mr. Chamberlain would be buried beneath a huge adverse majority. It contends that the vote indicates that in the rural districts Conservatives and Liberals are favorably disposed toward Mr. Rowell's policy of "abolishing the bar" and that in the cities the electorate is dissatisfied with Sir James Whitney's failure to take advanced ground on the questions of tax reform and social betterment. On the other side the Mail and Empire describes the election as an "utter Liberal rout." The senior Conservative organ declares that the East York electorate preferred to be influenced by the achievements of Sir James Whitney in the interests of temperance and by his rigid enforcement of temperance legislation rather than by a mere shibboleth.

We note that the Social Service Council is up in arms over the Midway attractions at the Canadian National Exhibition. "Vulgar, indecent and immoral" were some of the terms, which speakers used to voice their condemnation. The criticism is well deserved. The Midway, as it was conducted this year, does no credit to the Exhibition management. Some of the shows were both vulgar and suggestive. Many of them were mere catch pennies and scarcely made a pretence of giving their patrons value for the admission fees. The work of the "spielers" who were stationed outside to attract the crowds inside the tents was not infrequently the best part of the performance. Such attractions as "the human mystery," a person supposed to be half male and half female, the woman snake charmer, and the cigarette fiend have nothing to commend them. They are neither elevating nor edifying and have not even the merit of being interesting, save to the morbidly curious. Shows like "The Girl in the Moon," are indefensible and should not be allowed on the grounds under any circumstances. The Midway is one of the Exhibition features that needs a thorough overhauling and a general house cleaning.

The fires which occurred on Broadway last Thursday morning have a significance, which should cause our citizens grave concern. They reveal a source of danger, which is always in our midst and might at any time be the cause of a serious conflagration. The Banner has contended time and again that the local electric light and power companies do not exercise sufficient care in the stringing of their wires. For one thing they are placed too close together at many points, so that if the upper wire happens to sag from any cause trouble is almost certain to occur. Improper or insufficient insulation where the wires enter buildings or pass over, or through, wooden supports is another source of danger. The want of proper cut-outs is also a very frequent cause of trouble. The Town Council would be doing a useful service by taking immediate steps to have the lines of both companies inspected and compelling them to shift their wires, wherever danger points may be discovered. Citizens too would do well to have the wiring in their houses —particularly where it has been done a number of years ago—gone over carefully with a view to locating and remedying any possible danger spots. This is a case where an "ounce of prevention" might save a great deal of trouble and expense.

HENRY WON.

Conservatives Carried East York by Upwards of 600 Majority.

The bye-election held in East York on Monday to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Alex. McCowan, who was recently appointed Sheriff of the County, resulted in the return of Mr. Geo. Henry, the candidate of the Conservative party. Incomplete returns give the member-elect 616 of a majority, which is 116 less than the majority recorded for Mr. McCowan at the last election. Little interest was taken in the contest and less than one-third of the total vote was polled. In one of the urban sub-divisions not a single voter took the trouble to go to the polls. In other city sub-divisions not a vote was cast until noon hour and not more than twenty per cent. of the electors marked their ballots. The Liberals made the temperance question one of the main planks of their platform and this seems to have brought them strength in the rural parts of the riding, where their candidate, Mr. Albert Chamberlain, ran somewhat better than expected.

Fair Day Procession.

The procession of Rural and Orangeville School pupils will leave the Public School grounds for Exhibition Park at one o'clock on Friday, Sept. 19th, the second day of Orangeville Fall Fair. The procession will be headed by the Band of the Royal Grenadiers and the High and Public School Cadet Corps.

Back from the West.

Mr. J. C. Reid, County Clerk of Dufferin, and Mrs. Reid arrived home on Tuesday morning after a two months' visit in the Canadian West. They report a delightful trip and return home looking much benefitted in health by the change of air and scene. On their way west they spent a few days in Fort William, where they were the guests of Messrs J. R. and W. H. Gillespie, former Orangeville business men. The Gillespie Bros. are running four drug stores in Fort William and are both getting along well. They also visited a nephew, Mr. Hugh Reid, a son of Mr. Thos. F. Reid, of Amaranth. Mr. Reid has made good money in real estate since going to Fort William. His holdings at present include 4½ acres on the outskirts of the city, which he bought for $1000. He has been offered as high as $12,000 for the property, but is holding for a still bigger profit. Mr. and Mrs. Reid spent most of their time with their sons, J. C. Reid, of Suffield, Alta., and Oliver Reid, of Champion, Alta. The former is the manager of a chain of hardware stores and receives a handsome salary besides his profits from an interest in the business. Oliver, who has been in the West only a short time, has a hardware, furniture and undertaking business in Champion. While in Medicine Hat, Mr. and Mrs. Reid visited with Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Porter. Mrs. Porter is a daughter of James Cook, a onetime resident of East Garafraxa, but has lived in the West since her marriage. They also spent a short time with her brother, Henry Cook, who is ranching some distance from Medicine Hat. Mr. Reid states that the Western farmers have excellent crops this year. In Southern Alberta the yield per acre is not heavy, but the quality of the grain is all that could be desired. In Saskatchewan, however, many farmers have wheat fields that will turn out 30 and even 40 bushels per acre. The crop is being harvested in first-class condition and the damage from frost is practically nil. Money is very tight and business is comparatively dull in the cities. However, everybody is optimistic and all are looking forward to an early return of good times.

W. H. Murphy Dead.

Mr. William H. Murphy, a resident of Orangeville for nearly 40 years, passed away at his home on Mill St. about 9 o'clock on Monday evening. The deceased had been poorly for some time and his demise was not unexpected. The late Mr. Murphy, who was 71 years of age, was born in Kingston. He came to Orangeville in 1876 and has resided here continuously since that time. He ran a store on Mill St. for a number of years and was also in business on Broadway for a time. Of late years he has lived retired. He owned considerable property in the south end of the town. He is survived by a widow, but no family. Ex-Reeve T. J. Murphy, of Mono, is the only surviving brother. There are four sisters, namely, Mrs. Arch. Lindsay, of Aylmer, Que., Mrs. Gordon Waldron, of Kingston, Mrs. Alf. Brown, of Kingston, and Mrs. David Thompson, Orangeville. The funeral will be held from his late residence to the Forest Lawn Cemetery at 2.30 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon. In the absence of Rev. Wm. Morris, the services at the house and grave will be conducted by Rev. J. R. Bell, of Laurel.

Mrs. Annie Duckwith

Mrs. Annie Duckwith, wife of Mr. George Duckwith, died at her home on John St. last Thursday at the age of 74 years and 5 months. Her death was due to heart trouble, from which she had been ailing for a considerable time. Mrs. Duckwith, whose maiden name was Annie Germaine, was born in Easingwold, Yorkshire, Eng. She came to Canada forty years ago with her husband and young family and has been a resident of Orangeville for 37 years. She and her husband celebrated their golden wedding three years ago. She was well and favorably known in and about Orangeville and her demise has occasioned sincere sorrow among her numerous friends. Besides her husband she is survived by a family of two sons and one daughter. These are George, of Caledon township, Arthur in Toronto and Mrs. George Nicholson, of Orangeville. The aged husband and family have the sympathy of the community in their sorrow. There was a large attendance of friends and acquaintances at the funeral, which was held to the Forest Lawn cemetery on Saturday afternoon. Rev. G. W. Robinson, pastor of the Methodist Church, was the officiating clergyman. The pall-bearers were Messrs. W. J. Gordon, D. Thompson, J. Sanderson, J. McLean, J. Davison and H. Carson.

Misfortunes Seldom Come Singly.

Mr. Joseph Davis, a West Caledon farmer, has had a convincing demonstration of the truth of the familiar saying that misfortunes seldom come singly. One Sunday recently he lost a valuable driver, which took ill and died quite unexpectedly. On the same day his hired man was taken ill with appendicitis and was obliged to undergo an operation. Mr. Davis, himself, was obliged to go to bed with blood poisoning in one of his knees. Fortunately his troubles have had a favorable ending. He is himself able to go about again, his hired man has recovered and he has replaced the lost equine by buying a stylish driving horse from Mr. Robt. Clark, of Alton, at the handsome figure of $200.

The crowds at Ritchie's Fire Sale were so great that the doors had to be locked several times during the day.

Without a Judge.

Dufferin County has been getting along without a County Judge for about six weeks. Early in July Judge McCarthy, who had reached the age at which the statute requires judges to retire, tendered his resignation, which was accepted by the Government. His successor has not yet been appointed. Because of this it was impossible to hold the September sittings of the different Division Courts of the County. In the Orangeville Division Court, which should have been held a week ago Tuesday, there were nine cases entered for trial. They will, of course, have to stand over until Judge McCarthy's successor is appointed. None of them happened to be very important and the delay will not make any great difference to those who are interested. A number of wills have been filed for probate and require the attention of the Judge in the Surrogate Court. The young Englishman, who was sent up for trial on the charge of firing ex-reeve H. T. Anderson's house in Mono, is lying in the county gaol awaiting his trial. The fact that there is no Judge has in a measure tied up the legal machinery of the County. It is likely, however, that the appointment will not be long deferred now that the mid-summer vacation is at an end. The Banner understands that John Best, M. P. for Dufferin, is urging the appointment of G. M. Vance, K.C., of Shelburne. The Government is opposed to the appointment of judges for the counties in which they have practiced their profession. Mr. Vance can get a judgeship, but those who are in authority at Ottawa would prefer to send him to another county and give a stranger the appointment in Dufferin.

HESPELER PRESENTATIONS

Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Tebbs Honored Prior to Their Removal to Orangeville.

Boys and Girls of Irish Orphans Home Say Good-Bye.

The Hespeler Herald gives interesting accounts of farewell presentations to Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Tebbs, prior to their removal to Orangeville. Our cotem's report reads as follows:—

"On Monday last a large crowd of the boys and girls who have passed under the care of Rev. G. W. and Mrs. Tebbs gathered at the Home to say goodbye to them before they leave for Orangeville.

Every road and train led to Hespeler on that day—to the boys and girls at all events—from every part of the Province, and by noon nearly 120 of them had arrived. Mrs. Tebbs served dinner and tea on the beautiful lawn of the Home, the afternoon being spent in games. In the evening the party assembled indoors for the final gathering. A programme of music, speeches, etc. was arranged by the boys and girls themselves, and at the close of the evening, Miss Lizzie Cassidy, one of the girls, read the following address:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Tebbs:

It is with great pleasure we are gathered together in what we believe to be our last reunion with you as our head. We are not gifted with speech eloquent enough to express in words our feelings in regard to all you have done for us and the good work you have accomplished, not only in acting as father and mother to us all, but also as an example of true Christianity to us and the town at large. With all our pleasure there is a feeling of regret and sorrow when we think of you leaving us, but we hope and trust it is for the best, and our best wishes and prayers go with you. We wish you both every success in Orangeville in your new work. Tonight we have the pleasure on behalf of all your boys and girls, and as a small token of our love and esteem, in presenting you with this buffet.

Signed on behalf of your boys and girls.

Several other little individual gifts were also presented by the boys and girls. Mr. and Mrs. Tebbs both made suitable replies, and Mr. A. Pullam, who will probably be the new Superintendent, also spoke. The sleeping accommodation of the Home was overtaxed that night, and tents were erected for the boys on the lawn. It was Wednesday before the last of those present at this 'red letter' gathering finally left the old Home for their places on the farms of Ontario.

On Friday last the regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. James' Church, Hespeler, the following address was presented to Mrs. Tebbs:—

To Mrs. Tebbs,
Vice-President of the Women's Auxiliary of St. James' Church, Hespeler.

Dear Mrs. Tebbs:

We, the members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. James' Church, Hespeler, desire to express our great sorrow on your departure from our town for Orangeville. Your quiet influence and power for good will be greatly missed in our midst, in our Church and in the work of the Auxiliary, where your true missionary zeal has done so much to inspire us all and has helped to make our Branch what it is. We therefore ask you to accept as our parting gift a Life Membership in the Women's Auxiliary in the Diocese of Niagara to which you are going, with the accompanying Certificate and Gold Badge, combined with our loving wishes for your happiness in your new home. We feel that it has been a privilege to have known and worked with you and your zeal and devotion will long be an incentive to us to go forward.

That God's blessing may rest on your work always as it has been here is our earnest prayer, and may the little Gold Badge always remind you of the love of your sisters of the Women's Auxiliary in Hespeler.

Signed on behalf of the W.A.

THE MARKETS.

Taken from the Toronto Sun's Weekly Report.

New hay sold in London on Saturday at $13 to $15; St. Thomas, $10 to $12; Owen Sound, $15 to $15.50; Peterboro, old hay, $18 to $20, and at Belleville new hay sold at $11 per ton.

WHEAT.

On the street in Toronto fall wheat is 88c to 90c.

At local points outside new Ontario fall wheat is 84c.

At lake ports No. 1 northern is 99c; No. 2, 98c; No. 3, 93½c; feed wheat, 65c; new wheat, September shipment, No. 1 northern, 95c; No. 2, 93c; No. 3, 91c.

At Chicago yesterday, wheat for September delivery sold at 88½c to 89½c.

New wheat sold in London on Saturday at 85c per bushel; St. Thomas, 85c; Stratford, 85c; Sarnia, 82c; and Belleville, 83c per bushel.

POTATOES.

The United States crop of potatoes will be the smallest in years, says the American Agriculturist. Cold, wet weather has curtailed the yield of potatoes in Europe to a very marked degree, says the same paper. In Ontario, while potatoes have looked well all season, there is every reason to believe that the tubers will be small, owing to the continued dry weather. We look for higher potato prices during the coming months.

Potatoes are selling in Toronto this morning for 85c to 90c per bag.

Potatoes sold in London on Saturday at the retail farmers' market for 70c per bushel; St. Thomas, 90c per bushel; Brantford, 25c per peck; Stratford, $1 per bag; Sarnia, $1 per bag; Owen Sound, $1 per bag; Peterboro, $1.40 per bag, and at Belleville for $1 per bushel.

EGGS AND POULTRY.

A further advance of three cents is recorded in the local egg market this week. Receipts of strictly new-laid quality eggs have fallen off considerably and the market is on a much firmer basis.

Gunn's quote quality new-laid eggs at 28c per dozen, and store eggs at 24c per dozen, delivered in Toronto.

Gunn's are paying for live birds, delivered in Toronto, as follows: Broilers, 15c; fowl, 12c; ducks, 12c; roosters, 9c; and turkeys, 14c per pound.

BUTTER.

Gunn's quote finest creamery butter, 25c; creamery solids, 24c; farmers' separator prints, 24c; separator solids, 23c; and store dairy at 20c, delivered in Toronto.

Butter sold retail on the farmers' market at London, on Saturday, at 24c to 25c; Guelph, 20c to 30c; St. Thomas, 28c to 30c; Brantford, 30c; Stratford, 25c to 26c; Owen Sound, 25c to 26c; Peterboro, 59c to 31c; and in Belleville at 30c to 35c per pound.

CATTLE.

Although we quote the top price this week 20c lower than last Tuesday, yet the general tone of the market is stronger. The market for butchers' cattle ranges about 25c higher.

For prime export cattle weighing from 1,300 to 1,500 pounds the prices ranged from $6.50 to $7. Very few sales were made at these prices, however.

For butchers' cattle of all kinds the market was strong. Good butchers' cattle weighing from 1,100 to 1,300 pounds at $6.25 to $6.75; medium butchers' cattle sold at $5.75 to $6.25; common butchers' steers and heifers sold at $5 to $5.75.

There was a more active demand today for both butchers' bulls and cows. Choice cows sold at $5 to $5.75; medium cows, $4.25 to $4.75, and common to fair cows, at from $3 to $4. Butchers' bulls sold from $3 to $5.50.

There is a fairly good demand for stockers and feeders, although this week's prices are not quite as high as last Tuesday's. Stockers weighing 800 pounds sold at $5 to $5.10, while 600 pound stockers sold at $4 to $4.25.

There is no change in prices for milch cows. The market ranges from $45 to $85, according to quality.

Butchers' calves were stronger on to-day's market. There were very few good calves in and as high as $10 was paid. The market ranged all the way from $4.50 to $10.

AT IT AGAIN.

Another Chapter Added to Baseball Controversy—A Camilla Enthusiast Takes a Fling at Rocktown's Captain.

Camilla, Sept. 8th, 1913

Truth half told is often very deceptive. Reading the explanation of Mr. Rocktown Captain and Mr. Player proves this to a nicety. Mr. Captain starts out by saying, "I wish to state the true facts of the case." His true facts are almost as far, if not farther, from his veracity than his sportsmanship is from that of a true sport and that is a mighty long way. If he so smothers his conscience to the truth (probably it's long dead) and tries to pose on the pedestal of chivalry, when none is there, then we can readily understand how it is that he failed to nurse his child-like wrath into subjection and play that game as any other sport would have done, instead of running about like a scolded child. Neither his vociferous bellowings, nor those of his team mates, will avail anything now, because anyone who knows anything about that game knows that the Rocktown captain failed to act the part of anyone in his position—we were almost going to say that of a gentleman.

We wonder how the Mono Centre baseballists like the nettled Captain's statement. "I offered as a compromise any Mono Centre player there." Are these latter subject to the beck and call of the Rocktown captain? We hope not. We think much better of them than that, but then this big "I" evidently presumes he is the whole thing and that what he says he ought to—but it doesn't. Why did he not, as any sensible sport would have done, as anyone who has the honor of being captain would have done, play the game, when the Camilla boys who were late came to replace the strangers. But no! With haughty air disdaining all sensible explanations he walked off the field and sought refuge behind a poor shallow subterfuge. It is too bad that such a person as Mr. Captain should dominate the Rocktown Club and a lesson or two in sportsmanship would not come amiss. But what's the use? It is likely that it would take a thought or suggestion so long to penetrate to a place where it would do any good that it would get lost before it could reach its intended destination.

Mr. Player states that one of the two absent Camilla players was on the grounds before there was any thought of baseball. No doubt this is true, but that player had informed the Camilla captain sometime previously that owing to ill-health he would not be able to play at the garden party, this necessitating the presence of another player. It will be quite apparent that my statements, although possibly somewhat erratic, are more accurate than the true facts presented by Mr. Captain or the flatulent story of Mr. Player.

SKIN SOFT AS A CHILD'S.

"I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years," writes Mr. John W. Naas, Lunenburg, N.S. 'Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment."

A NEW ZEALAND ESTATE.

Miss Florence Laughlin, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Brawley, received word recently that her grandfather, Mr. W. Laughlin, of Plymouth, New Zealand, died in July, bequeathing his estate of $9000 to her and her two brothers—George, Mono Mills, and John, Mono Road. Mr. Laughlin left Canada a good many years ago and after the death his son and son's wife instituted a search for their children, but it was not until December, 1911, that he learned where they were. He was too ill at that time to come to Canada, and never regained sufficient health afterwards to visit them. However, when he learned that all three were living he made his will, leaving his estate to them in equal shares.—Beeton World.

HOW THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

Would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for All Rest of Medicine in the World.

Utica, Ohio.—"I suffered everything from a female weakness after baby came. I had numb spells and was dizzy, had black spots before my eyes, my back ached and I was so weak I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I had displacement. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am stout, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and can walk to town and back and not get tired. I would not give your Vegetable Compound for all the rest of the medicines in the world. I tried doctor's medicines and they did me no good."—Mrs. MARY EARLEWINE, R.F.D. No.3, Utica, Ohio.

Another Case.

Nebo, Ill.—"I was bothered for ten years with female troubles and the doctors did not help me. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and every month I had to spend a few days in bed. I read so many letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound curing female troubles that I got a bottle of it. It did me more good than anything else I ever took and now it has cured me. I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be living to-day but for that."—Mrs. HETTIE GREENSTREET, Nebo, Illinois.

PASSING OF THE HOME.

Will the Very Wide Rift Cause a Rebound to the Real Life.

Margaret Woodward in a recent issue of Suburban Life writes: there is much about our modern city life which is attractive. Indeed we cannot well spare what Emerson calls "the commanding benefits of cities." Our cities are centres of learning. Hither flock the great, the wise, the talented, to entertain and instruct the people. They come hither for the simple reason that a large and ever-increasing percentage of the people live in cities. Nor is education the only benefit conferred by cities. It is in the city that the health of the public is especially safeguarded. Sanitary conditions are a matter for careful consideration and neither pains nor expense are spared to preserve the public health and to guard against the encroachments of disease. The school doctor, a strictly modern city product, has done much in the line of helping and protecting children who otherwise would have remained neglected physically by their parents.

Police protection and fire protection enable us to rest quietly at night; while the many devices and equipments in the modern city apartment for making work easy add much to the attractiveness of city life.

Amid all the luxury and delights which surround our daily walk in life there already looms above the horizon a cloud much larger than "a man's hand." This cloud is rapidly assuming gigantic proportions and threatens to darken the sky. I refer to that unfortunate condition of modern city life which may be styled "the passing of the home." A writer in one of our current magazines goes a step farther and claims that in our cities the home, as such, has practically ceased to exist. If such is the case (and there is much evidence which goes to corroborate this statement), I consider the other commanding benefits of the city as nil when placed in the scale with the home and what the home represents.

DEATH BOARDS.

Curious Custom That Prevails in Eastern Bavaria.

In the eastern half of Bavaria, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine on the borders of Bohemia, lies the so-called Bavarian forest. This part of the country, although it boasts beautiful scenery, is seldom visited by tourists, probably for the reason that the charms of the region are little known even in Germany. This part of Bavaria has been in many ways untouched by civilization, and owing to its seclusion from the outer world some very strange customs are still in vogue strongly reminding one of the middle ages.

One of these strange customs, strictly observed by the population, is the way in which they keep alive the memory of their dead by the erection of what are called "totenbretter," or "death boards." These are wooden planks cut in the shape of tombstones and roughly painted. Sometimes they bear also the image of a saint. They are erected—often in a row of thirty and more—on the roadside, in fields and meadows, near chapels and crucifixes, in the village streets—in short, everywhere; they are even nailed to houses and barns.

They do not mark burial places, as might be supposed. As soon as a person has died the corpse is put on a board, and there it lies in state until it is put into the coffin shortly before the funeral. These boards, then, are the so called "death boards," and after the funeral they are cut into a suitable shape and decorated with an inscription containing the name of the deceased, his age and in most cases some lines of poetry.

These short poems, which are, of course, meant in sober earnest, are occasionally very amusing. The boards are then stuck somewhere near the road or in the fields, where they sometimes accumulate to an alarming number. In the poorer districts these boards are not always cut into shape and painted, but are simply deposited just as they are at the foot of some crucifix, where they remain untouched until they molder away.

A REAL POISON PERIL.

Venom of the Most Deadly Creature In This Country.

One venomous creature there is in this country which may justly be termed a public peril in the wildest sense. Proportionately to population more victims fall to it yearly in the United States than to the dreaded cobra in India. Some 12,000 Americans are killed every year by its bite. Three hundred thousand more are made seriously ill from the after effects. Unfortunately the virus works so slowly that alarm is stilled. The victims do not sicken at once. The bite is forgotten, but ten days or two weeks after the subject falls into a fever. His blood is poisoned within him. Eventually in extreme cases he becomes delirious, succumbs to a stupor and dies.

Yet because there is nothing horrific to the sensation loving imagination in the malaria bearing mosquito public inertia or ignorance tolerates it with a grin and permits it to breed in city and country alike throughout the length and breadth of the nation. Compared with it as a real menace all the combined brood of snakes, scorpions, centipedes, tarantulas and other pet bugaboos of our childish romanticism are utterly negligible, are as figment to reality, as shadow to substance. It is perhaps characteristic of our wryly humorous American temperament that we should have invested the unimportant danger with all the shuddering attributes of horror and have made of the real peril a joke to be perennially hailed with laughter in a thousand thoughtless prints.—Everybody's Magazine.

The Drummer.

Drummers seldom pray much, pay their bills, usually hate shams, dodge touches, have warm hearts, quick wits, much nerve and more courage, but are born scoffers. They have good memories, much humor and a fund of stories limited only by time. They can preach a sermon, lead in prayer, time a horse race, umpire a ball game, make a stump speech and have an opinion upon every known subject from prize-fights to the nebular hypothesis.—Commercial Traveler's Magazine.

Firmness.

"When my wife makes up her mind," said Mr. Meekton, "there is no use of arguing with her."

"But every woman changes her opinion sometimes."

"Yes. And Henrietta is particularly resolute when she makes up her mind to change her opinion."—Washington Star.

A Healthful Town.

"If this town is as healthful as you say it is, why do there happen to be so many doctors' signs in evidence?"

"They are nearly all the signs of eye doctors. The people are so healthy here that they stay up nights enjoying the climate and injure their eyes."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Evidence of Faith.

Mrs. Brooke—Have you any faith in life insurance? Mrs Lynne—Yes, indeed; I've realized $100,000 from two husbands, and they weren't very good ones either.—Judge's Library.

Descriptive.

Stella—Would you say she was a well dressed woman? Bella—No; she looks like a Wall street bear who has covered in a desperate hurry.—Puck.

A STORY OF TRUE LOVE.

Farmer's Son Willing to Marry Girl that Another Had Wronged.

A remarkable story, more than once told in fiction, but seldom exemplified in real life, comes from the Salvation Army Rescue Home at 25 Augusta Avenue.

A farmer and his wife, whose family were grown up, and scattered from the homestead, with the exception of one son, were lonely without the young folk about them, and took from a children's home a girl of ten years, adopting the child as their own. Eight years later, the son, still living at home, sought to win the girl as his wife, but she was enamoured of a youth in the neighborhood. A few months later the girl insisted upon leaving the home of years and came to Toronto seeking work. Finally she went to the Rescue Home for her child's birth.

Efforts were made to have the "youth back home" marry her, but in vain. The son, who loved the girl, was foremost in these efforts, but on Monday of this week he came to the home and confessed failure. He said that his own affection for the girl was unchanged and she, on her part, now realized his worth. It was finally settled that if the matron gave a good report on the girl in three months' time, the two would wed; the farmer's son taking for his wife the lass whom another had wronged.

But on Wednesday, when the son was supposed to go back to the country, he went to the Home instead. He said:

"I can't go back without her. If she will give me her promise to be true, and to live in my home, as she is doing here, I will marry her now."

He supplied $20 wherewith to purchase good clothes for the girl and her babe, obtained the license, and Thursday the ceremony was performed.—Daily Star.

Sale Register

Mr. J. Beatty Lindsay, lot 12, con. 1 Adjala township, will hold a clearing auction sale of his Farm Stock, Implements, etc. on Friday, Sept. 12th. See advt. in this issue or posters giving list and full particulars. Jas. A. Patterson, Auctioneer.

Martin, the 7 year old son of Mr. Geo. Bye, Holstein, suffered sadly the other day at the hands of some older boys. While about the engine of the mill at Holstein they got him to look with one eye at a steam tap, then one of them turned the tap. The boiling hot steam came out with full force on his face and scalded one side of it from breast to the forehead most severely. It is believed that the sight of the eyes may be saved, but the injury is of a very serious nature.

The people around Honeywood are putting up quite a kick at the way the Post Office Department is trying to force the rural mail delivery from there to Shelburne. It seems that it requires 50 per cent. of the people to get the rural mail and tenders have been called and closed and the Department did not get 45 per cent. and when the tenders were opened they were too high, so they are talking about having the route start at Shelburne, and this will likely do away with their stage line. So a meeting was called last Wednesday evening for the purpose of trying to have the mail and stage run together as it has been in the past.

THE JOY OF LIVING.

I have loved the feel of the grass under my feet and the sound of the running streams by my side. The hum of the wind in the treetops has always been good music to me, and the face of the fields has often comforted me more than the faces of men. I am in love with this world because by my constitution I have nestled lovingly in it. It has been home. It has been my point of lookout into the universe. I have not bruised myself against it, nor tried to use it ignobly. I have tilled its soil, I have gathered its harvests. I have waited upon its seasons and always have I reaped what I have sown. While I delved I did not lose sight of the sky overhead. While I gathered bread and meat for my body, I did not neglect to gather its bread and meat for my soul. I have climbed its mountains, roamed its forests, felt the sting of its frosts, the oppression of its heats, the drench of its rains, the fury of its winds and always have beauty and joy waited upon my goings and comings.—John Burroughs.

HEADING FOR POOR HOUSE.

I put a mortgage on my house to buy a motor car, and now all joyously I roam on rural roads afar I take the children and the wife and scout the countryside; I'm bound to lead a merry life and let all business slide. We pass the poorhouse as we race, and wearily my frau remarks: "Alas! the dismal place! It's where we're heading now!" I go in debt for gasoline and this and that repair; but, oh, the country bright and green, and I am happy there! We pass the poor house as we scoot, and wife she says to me "Oh, mark it well my dear galoot—that's where we'll shortly be!" I used to deal in earthern jars and made all sorts of chink; but now the chugging motor car is all I think. The clerks condemn my little store, and when I am away, they take their coats and lock the door, and fishing go, folk say. But merrily my good car spins and on the poorhouse grass the pauses stroke their chins and hail me as I pass.—Walt Mason.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC.

Hon. Adam Beck Addresses Meetings in Elora and Fergus.

Commission Would Furnish These Towns with 400 h.p. at Rate of $33.67 Per Annum.

Last Thursday Hon. Adam Beck addressed meetings in the neighboring towns of Elora and Fergus on the electric power question. The Minister sought to show the citizens of these two places that it would be to their advantage to make contracts with the Hydro-electric Commission for 400 horse power at the rate of $33.67 per annum. The "Minister of Power," as Hon. Mr. Beck is frequently styled, pointed out very forcibly that there is practically no risk in making such a contract. Many towns and cities had made contracts for more power than they subsequently found themselves able to use, but in no instance had the Commission exacted the penalty. The reason for this was that the original estimates were very much on the safe side. As a consequence the Commissioners now find themselves in a position to supply the energy at a very much reduced rate and under a contract that is by no means rigid.

In Elora the Hydro-Electric engineers advise the purchase of the present privately owned plant at a valuation of $2100. The present cost for light is ten cents per kilowatt hour with a minimum consumption of $1 a month and 25 cents meter rental. For each of the eight are lamps that light the streets the Council pays $60 a year. On a 200 h.p. contract the engineers submitted an estimate, which on a 30 year debenture plan of repayment, would mean an annual repayment of $33.67 per h.p. The Hydro-Electric proposal is to place 73 lamps on the streets. The estimated cost of the distribution system is placed at $8,474.15. Council would require to submit a $10,000 money-bylaw to cover the initial cost.

The following are some of the more important parts of Hon. Mr. Beck's address:

"I am not one who is prepared to say that we can supply electricity to all parts of the province," said he, "but I do believe that when the people understand it more thoroughly, when the scheme evolves itself from time to time, covering district after district, you will be surprised and probably I will be surprised, at the extent to which electricity can be carried to small communities and farmers, and profitably used by them in the greatest of all industries — agriculture. I cannot see why this district should not lend itself especially to the use of electricity, because it largely depends on the intelligence and enterprise of the people whether electricity can be used to advantage on a farm or not.

"I will give you an instance of what enterprising farmers are doing in districts adjacent to central stations. I visited Europe where they are much more advanced in the use of electricity on farms. In one regard our enterprise is a unique one. Although in Europe, they supply electricity to the people as a public undertaking, yet there is no public undertaking that is supplying electricity to municipalities and the municipalities in turn to the people at cost. They all expect to derive some revenue for the city or Government. Therefore you can hardly compare theirs with our enterprise which supplies power at cost.

"There is an enormous profit from the sale of electricity. In the small communities on the continent, electricity is one of the commodities, It is used most largely in the dairying districts of Saxony. The farmers there, however, live in villages, whereas in this country, the farms are great distances apart. Seldom do we get more than four or five farms within a mile on the highway. The difficulty of distribution is very much greater here, but electricity is very much cheaper. In Saxony the cost is seven and a half cents a kilowatt hour, but even at that they told me they would not be without it though it cost double that amount.

"I contend that it is the duty of the province, having launched this undertaking, to make it available to the smaller communities. At first we were told this was a project only concerning the city of Toronto. Toronto certainly originated the idea of securing power from Niagara Falls. They asked for legislation to generate power and bring it to the city on their own account. A corporation secured the franchise, however. My opinion is that Toronto was bound to have this source of supply, and so was Hamilton. We need not stretch our imagination to convince ourselves that the large industrial centres would have comprised Toronto, Hamilton and the Welland district, and that they would have had an enormous advantage over the other industrial communities in the province. We got Berlin, Stratford, Brantford, St. Thomas, and other towns to join with Toronto to undertake the project. At the start we had twelve municipalities joining in, and now we have contracts with fifty-six municipalities. Within two or three years we have practically five times as many customers as we had when we began.

"We could have supplied Toronto with a power of 60,000 volts, but that would have limited us to a ramification of 80 or 100 miles. We made the greater effort and undertook to distribute power at a voltage never before attempted in the world, so that we might take it not only to Toronto, but to Owen Sound, and to Goderich. We had in mind, Sarnia and Windsor, probably 300 miles distant from the Falls. We took the greater risk and became the pioneers. We did not become generators of power at the inception of the movement, because we found a company developing power at Niagara Falls, who were in dire need of a customer. We negotiated with them and got a contract at a price never known or equalled in the world. We have a contract for $9 per h.p. for 30 years until the expiry of the lease. That contract made the project at once feasible. We began well and we have some reason to believe that we will end well. Within the next year or two I feel confident we will be selling to one hundred municipalities.

"The principle of our work is this: The province undertakes to finance and administer the project. They charge you the interest they have to pay on the Provincial bonds. So far we have been able to secure the money at four per cent. It may be that we will not be able to get four per cent. at par when we require the money. You also pay a sinking fund which requires that indebtedness in thirty years. You also maintain the plant in first-class condition and pay for the operation, administration and the power, with which we supply you. Then you undertake to erect a distributing plant in your own community, issue municipal debentures for the purpose, and we see that you charge enough. In thirty years the plant is paid for by the users.

"In London the result was to be awful. The result has been that they get the water pumped more cheaply, have the streets better lighted and have power available to run their own railroad now leased to a steam road. Manufacturers reap enormous benefit, cleanliness is prevalent, and there is not a shack on the outskirts of that town need use the unattractive candle or the dear and dangerous coal oil. Last year they had a surplus of $17,000, and this year the surplus will amount to over $40,000. On an investment of $403,000, that would pay to a corporation five per cent. dividend on $800,000 common stock.

"Covering the nine months of operation in Guelph, the accounts show a similar state of affairs. They contracted with us for 2,500 h.p. at $24 per h.p. At the time Mr. Lyon was severely censured for having made such a contract, while the shrewd Berliner, who would use lots of power, as everything is municipally owned, only guaranteed 1,000 h.p. We have never yet charged a municipality for power they did not use. Guelph anticipated a large use within four or five years, and we built lines to meet the demand that is coming. During that period Guelph has worked out this way, while the contract rate was $24, the rate they now pay is $22, and after all payments have been made they have a surplus in the treasury of the power commission of $940.88."

"Are you referring to the Power Commission or to the local end?" an auditor asked.

"That is our end but I will give you the local end in a minute. London's surplus with us is $1719.08, and they are to pay half a dollar less than contract price; Toronto has a credit balance of $1,072 and their rate has been reduced from $18 to $15; St. Mary's have $2,231.26 to their credit, Stratford, $681, and Brampton, $299.83. Every municipality shows a surplus.

"New Hamburg, where the conditions approximate to those in Elora and Fergus, also have a surplus although they did not take the contract load. As to the local end of the Guelph station the gentleman asked about, for four months ending April 30, they have a surplus of $10,685, and there they have the old plant to take care of in the expenditure. Treble that and you have $30,000 a year surplus. That's some money. In far-away Seaforth, after large reductions in the cost, there is a surplus for the six months of $926, and in Brampton for the same period, $2,371.76.

"The cost in Elora and Fergus is estimated at $33.67, and I predict that that would soon be reduced. I can't see that you are taking any great risk in taking power from Guelph at $22 with the farm district between. And now I want to say a word about electricity on the farm. Take Mr. Raymond's farm near Ingersoll as a typical instance. His farm is one and a half miles distant from the station. We should have a half a dozen farm along that line but as it is, we are only $10 or $15 a year short. It costs Mr. Raymond little less than two cents a kilowatt, however, as against the seven or eight cents in Germany. His service charge is $2 a month and $36 per h.p. The $2 pays the fixed charges, and he pays $5 for 'stepping down.'' He uses two horse power and his yearly account is about $96. It costs him 1.08 cents per kilowatt hour to run a thousand watt heater; his cows are milked at 1.75 cents per cow per milking; he grinds his oats at a cost of 27 cents per 100 bushels, and to cut corn, 5.04 cents an hour. He heats a thirty gallon boiler of water while he sleeps ready for use in the morning. A drag-saw is operated at 1.8 cents per hour, three-quarters of a cent to pulp his turnips. The clothes are ironed at a cost of less than one cent an hour."

A MESSAGE FROM A WOMAN TO WOMEN

"Every Woman Should Take "Fruit-a-tives"

LAKELET, ONT., MAY 12th. 1911

"Kindly publish this letter of mine if you think it will benefit other women who might be afflicted with the diseases I have had in the past, but am now, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives", completely cured of. It is my firm belief that every woman should take "Fruit-a-tives" if she wants to keep herself in good health.

Before taking "Fruit-a-tives", I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as "Nerves" or severe Nervousness. This Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking doctors' medicine without any permanent relief. Constipation was also a source of great trouble to me and for which the Doctors said "I would have to take medicine all my life", but "Fruit-a-tives" banished all these troubles and now I am a well woman"

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years' Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my housework with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

BI-LINGUAL POSTCARDS.

The bi-lingual posteard has made its appearance and marks the latest concession to those Canadians who desire to have French placed on an equal footing with English. French, as one of the official languages of Canada, will hereafter appear on all such cards issued by the Post Office Department. So far the innovation does not apply to postage stamps, the authority of Parliament being necessary before these can be changed.

The Postmaster-General, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, has authorized the bi-lingual postcards, and the initial supplies are being sent out. Beneath the words "Post Card" are "Carte Postale," and the notice respecting the side reserved for the address is also translated in French, "Ce cote reservee pour l'addresse."

Grand Valley Council will apply to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for an estimate for the delivery of 100 horse power electric energy from the nearest point ready for distribution by the said municipality.

NOVEMBER BY-ELECTIONS

Three Vacant Seats in Ontario and One in Quebec.

Ontario Ridings Were Held by Conservatives and Quebec Seat by a Liberal.

With the return of the Cabinet Ministers to Ottawa and the close of the summer holidays, interest is reviving in things political, and attention is being turned to the four Federal bye-elections which are now pending. The dates have not yet been fixed, but unless Parliament is summoned early, which does not seem likely, they will not be held until November. They are all rural constituencies and this will suit the convenience of the farmers.

Three of the vacancies are in Ontario and one in Quebec. The Ontario seats are South Lanark, made vacant through the death of Hon. John Haggart; South Bruce, vacant through the elevation of J. J. Donnelley to the Senate, and East Middlesex, through the death of Mr. Peter Elson. The Quebec vacancy is Chateauguay through the death of Mr. J. B. Brown, who next to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was the oldest Liberal member in the House.

The three Ontario seats were held by the Conservatives, while the Quebec seat was held by the Liberals. South Lanark and East Middlesex are traditionally Conservative ridings. The very strength of the Conservatives is their ugly danger. The late Hon. John Haggart held South Lanark without a break from 1872 until his death and always with large majorities. Last election he had over a thousand majority. The Conservative convention has been held and a strong candidate nominated. As Independent Conservative has also announced that he is in the field. The Liberals have not yet named a man and are not likely to unless both Conservatives run.

In East Middlesex [illegible] Conservative stronghold than ever, as consistently so as South Lanark, a peculiar situation has arisen. Recently a convention to nominate a standard bearer was called. There were 97 delegates and when the votes came to be counted, it was found the vote stood 48 to 49. One of the ballots, however, had not been regularly issued and was thrown out, leaving the vote 48 to 48. The chairman would not take the responsibility of breaking the tie and as many of the delegates had left the hall, it was decided to call another convention which was held Saturday. It is considered very doubtful whether the Liberals will put a man in the field.

South Bruce will be a bitterly hard fight. It is a notoriously close seat and has changed allegiance as often as any riding in the Province. J. J. Donnelley carried it the last two elections, largely through his personal popularity, though his majority in both cases was low, being only 103 in 1911. The Liberals hold all three seats in the local Legislature which will give the Opposition a big advantage in the contest.

Both sides have already men in the field, who are already vigorously campaigning. The Conservative candidate is the son of a former Conservative member for South Bruce, the late Henry Carroll. The Liberal nominee is Mr. R. E. Truax, a former member defeated by Mr. Donnelley last election.

[illegible] remains an Liberal stronghold. It has never left the Liberal allegiance since Confederation. However last election for the first time in its history, the Liberal majority was below one hundred. Mr. Brown only retaining a forty majority and the Conservatives feel, under the circumstances, that they have good chances of redeeming the seat. Neither side has as yet nominated their candidate, but conventions will be held shortly and there will be a battle royal. The contest will be a splendid test of the feeling in Quebec. It is a riding with about three-fifths French and two-fifths English although it has always been represented by an English-speaking member.

JUVENILE LACROSSE

Maitlands Defeat Durham by a Score of 12 to 1.

Quite a large crowd witnessed the lacrosse game on Idylwyld Park last Thursday afternoon between Durham and the Maitlands of Toronto. The match was a sudden death fixture in the Juvenile O.A.L.A. series. The game put up by both teams was a revelation to the spectators. The fast combination, good passing and running and the system developed by the youngsters was certainly surprising considering the youthfulness of the players. Durham scored the first goal after some very pretty combination work, but their advantage was shortlived as Maitlands added two to their credit before the quarter ended. The game was well contested in the initial period, although it was evident even at this stage that the Maitlands had the edge on their lighter opponents. Durham seemed to lack condition, while the Maitlands were trained to the minute. The half time score stood Maitlands 5 and Durham 1. The next two quarters also ended in Maitlands' favor, more particularly the last when Durham had faded badly and the Queen City boys scored almost at will. The final tally was 12 to 1 in their favor. The game was well handled by Frank Doyle, of Newmarket, and both teams were made play lacrosse. The Maitlands, however, drew the most of the penalties. One feature of the game that the spectators liked very much was the prompt manner in which the referee checked any attempt to use profane language.

The Maitland team will now meet Bracebridge in the final game for the 1913 championship. Unless Bracebridge turns out very strong it looks like the Toronto kids for the medals. The lineup of the teams last Thursday was:—

Durham—Goal, Moorby; point, Calder; coverpoint, Grant; 1st defence, Allen; 2nd defence, McLaughlin; 3rd defence, Thompson; centre, Elvidge; 3rd home, Sutton; 2nd home, Saunders; 1st home, McGirr; outside, Saunders; inside, McDonald.

Maitlands—Goal, Sutherland; point, McKay; coverpoint, Rodwell; 1st defence, Grand; 2nd defence, Stroud; 3rd defence, Abbott; centre, Daniels; 3rd home, Moore; 2nd home, Brown; 1st home, Green; outside home, Dowling; inside home, Swanson.

WHITE SLAVE LAW NOW IN OPERATION.

Criminal Code Amendments of Last Session Are in Force.

The amendments of the criminal code for the protection of women and the suppression of white slavery, which were passed at the last session of the Dominion Parliament, went into force Monday. Moral reformers are greatly pleased with the new sections dealing with the latter subject. Rev. Dr. J. G. Shearer said that they were the best on the statute books of any country. They were more stringent than the British law of 1912 or the United States Federal laws. "When the proposed amendments were drawn," said Dr. Shearer, "we had the Imperial law and the Mann White Slave Act before us, and I am glad to say that the Government has incorporated in the revision the strongest features of the two."

A most sweeping change refers to men found in disorderly houses. Such men will be considered frequenters unless they can justify their presence there. Deserting husbands will be liable to criminal prosecution instead of civil action, and volunteer or amateur detective operations will be stopped. Another section will permit the punishment of men who have lived by the white slave traffic and who have gone free when the women have been imprisoned.

The National Committee for the Suppression of the White Slave Traffic will make another effort to have the "age of consent" raised. It will also endeavor to secure the passage of an amendment making employers criminally liable for offences against their women employees. At present the law makes employers liable for offences against girls under 21 years "in any shop, workshop, store, mill or factory." That amendment was rejected by the Senate. "We cannot understand the Senate's action," remarked Mr. Shearer, "and the Social Service Council is about ready to join the Government in a movement for the abolition of the Senate."

The amendments, which became operative yesterday, contain provisions desired by the police of Toronto to enable them to deal with cases of wife desertion. It is now only necessary to prove that a wife and children are in necessitous circumstances to secure a conviction against the husband.

Since the opening of the hospital there have been thirty-six operations, all of which have been successful. All the patients in the hospital at present are improving.

He will be provided with an exhibit of modern appliances used by beekeepers and also a case of live bees working behind glass. On the following Sabbath, Sept. 21st, Thanksgiving services will be held in St. John's Church, Mono, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. L. J. R. Naftel, of Elora, will conduct both services.

What About a Rink?

The old Mill street skating rink is now a lumber yard and if another is not built skaters will have to go without a rink next year. It is improbable that a building will be erected this fall, but most likely some person will provide an open rink and next year some provision may be made for the erection of a modern rink. The old rink was erected about thirty years ago for Eri and John Whaley. The work was done by John Wallace, who now resides at Cartwright, Man. Many a gay old night was witnessed there when masquerade carnivals were popular. It would cost a big sum of money to build a rink to-day, but if this town had a big rink it should be a paying proposition. Hockey is almost a lost art in this town because the old rink was a little too small for the game.

Orangeville Presbytery.

Orangeville Presbytery held one of its regular meetings in St. Andrew's Church here on Tuesday. A short time ago Rev. Dr. Harvey, of Worcester, Mass., accepted a call to the pastorate of Dundalk and Ventry churches. Two days afterwards he received an appointment as professor in Howard University at Washington and thereupon wrote cancelling his acceptance. The matter was dealt with formally by The Presbytery on Tuesday. Remits from the Presbytery of Winnipeg with reference to giving assistant pastors the same standing in the General Assembly as regular pastors and from the Presbytery of Sydney, N.S. in favor of reducing the representation of Presbyteries in the General Assembly from one-sixth to one-tenth of the ministers and elders were laid before the Presbytery and will be fully considered at next meeting. A committee was appointed to act with a committee from Guelph Presbytery in the matter of the proposed rearrangement of the Waldemar, Grand Valley, South Luther, Dracon and Metz fields. Rev. J. H. Edmison, Home Mission Secretary, addressed the Presbytery at some length relative to the Mission Budget for 1914. $12,025 is the amount apportioned to this Presbytery. Presbytery was advised that the Executive of the Laymen's Missionary Movement is planning to hold a County Conference in Orangeville on November 5th.

Three Fires.

Live wires were responsible for no less than three Broadway fires shortly after midnight last Thursday morning. The first blaze was in R. G. Harshaw's store, the next at the front of M. E. Henry's premises and the third in the basement of McMillan's Clothing Store. Fortunately all three fires were discovered shortly after they started and were extinguished before they had done very much damage. The brigade was called out in the case of the McMillan blaze, but its services were not required. This might have proved a bad fire, as it was located where it was not likely to be noticed until it had gained considerable headway. Fortunately Mr. Harry Reid, who had been helping to put out the blaze at Henry's, happened to enter the store on his way home. Smoke in the store led him to investigate and he discovered the fire in the basement. The blaze started toward the back of the store in a beam, which the electric light wire crossed. The fact that crossed wires should have caused three fires shows that the electric light wiring is far from being in a satisfactory condition. The two companies have their wires strung too near each other at many points, for safety.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thompson left for Lethbridge on Tuesday. They expect to spend a month in the West.
—John and James Patten, Scotch farm hands, who have been working for J. J. Leighton and Jno. R. Bracken, of Mono, left on Tuesday for Glasgow. They are sailing on the Allan liner S. S. Hesperian.

Hereford Prize Winners

Mrs. W. H. Hunter & Son, The Maples, were among the large exhibitors of Hereford Cattle at the Canadian National last week. Their herd carried off no less than 23 prizes—6 firsts, 3 seconds, 7 thirds and 7 fourths. They were awarded first prizes for the best Canadian bred senior bull, the best Canadian bred junior bull and the best Canadian bred senior female. We understand that the winnings of the herd aggregated about $300.

Grand Valley Postmastership

Sam Maxwell has been appointed Postmaster of Grand Valley and will succeed Mr. R. F. Taylor, the present Postmaster, in about two months time. The appointment is somewhat of a surprise, as it was generally understood that the real fight for the position was between John Small and Thos. Watson, of Grand Valley, and W. B. Bourn, of East Luther. The Star and Vidette states that it is understood that Mr. Best's recommendation for Maxwell's appointment came from Dr. Berwick, Vice-President of the Conservative Association.

The Moderator Coming.

Rev. Murdoch McKenzie, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, will conduct both services in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday, Sept. 21st. Rev. Mr. McKenzie is best known for his work as a missionary in Honan, where the greater part of his life has been spent. He is a man of striking personality, an eloquent speaker and his coming to Orangeville will be awaited with keen interest. The people of St. Andrew's are fortunate indeed to have the opportunity of hearing the Moderator of the Assembly in their church.

The Globe Doubles.

The Orangeville Lawn Bowling Club's representative pairs made a very creditable showing at the Globe Scotch Doubles Tournament in Toronto last week. J. D. McMillan and Carson Jeffers won their first game from Robertson and Beckett of the Brantford Heather Club by 16 to 14. They had some hard luck in their second, which they lost to Rev. J. Muir and McConachie, of Grimsby, by 16 to 9. Dr. Carson and A. D. McKitrick defeated A. C. McPhee and H. Martin, of High Park, by 14 to 5 in the preliminary match. In the first round they won from Dr. G. Chambers and C. Kelk, of Lorne Park, by 25 to 5. They next encountered Muir and Chambers, of the Hamilton Victorias, and after a hard game won with Dr. Carson's last bowl. The score was 14 to 13. In the third round the locals were put away by Sprague and Little, of the Alexandras, by 18 to 14. Over 90 rinks took part in the Tournament, which was the largest and most successful yet held. The trophy was won by Prof. Day and R. Mahoney, of Guelph. Courtice and Hoover, of Clinton, were runners up.

Half the Town Dead.

Prior to the commencement of the big lacrosse match in Brampton on Saturday, Mr. Thos. Mackle, the genial honorary President of the O.A.L.A. and Manager of the Excelsiors, entertained a few friends to a drive around the town in Mr. Sam Mitchell's big touring car. Among the favored ones were Messrs. James Murphy, President of the N.L.U., Fred. Thompson, ex-President of the Toronto Lacrosse Club, B. McGuire, ex-President of the O.L.A., and Jack Carmichael, trainer of the Excelsiors. Naturally of course, Tom waxed both enthusiastic and eloquent over Brampton's growth, prosperity and prospects for the future. He told his guests of the number of hands employed in the famous Dale Conservatories with their 27 acres under glass, dilated upon the success of the shoe factory, upon the importance of the foundry with its great furnaces and tall chimneys and predicted that thousands of hands would ultimately find employment in the large implement works that the Massey-Harris Co. is building. Driving down one of the streets after they had been pretty well over the town one of the party noticed a hearse standing in front of an undertaker's establishment.
"You have funerals in Brampton, too?" he queried.
"Yes," answered Tom, "half of the people of the town are dead ones anyway—that is—I mean—"
"Oh, never mind apologies, Tom, we've been letting you have all the rope and you hanged yourself," retorted an Irish member of the party.
The merriment over the joke did not cease until the car reached the lacrosse grounds.

CORRECTING THE ANSWER.

At a horse-stealing trial out west a jury was gathered and shut up in a room after a brief trial, and when an hour had gone by a mob burst in and unceremoniously demended what the verdict was.

Not guilty, said the foreman.

That won't do, said the leader of the mob fiercely. You will have to do better than that. And he shut the jury up again.

In half an hour the door was opened once more.

Well, gents, your verdict, said the leader.

Guilty, the foreman replied.

There were hurrahs from the crowd and the leader said:

Correct. You can go now. We strung him up an hour ago.

R. M. Mortimer & Son, "Merton Lodge," Honeywood, were successful in winning the first prize at the Canadian National Exhibition for the best sheaf of oats from the standing field crops. Division No. 3, in which they were grouped, comprises York and Simcoe counties and all counties west thereof.

DO YOU LOVE YOUR WORK?

If You Do Not, Then You Are Simply Wasting Your Efforts.

If your work is a burden, if it is drudgery to you, you have not found your place in life. If you are in the right place you will feel every faculty and function in you tugging away at your purpose with delight. Everything within you will give its consent, its approval to your choice.

The mental attitude which we hold toward our work or our aim has everything to do with what we accomplish. If you go to your work like a slave lashed to his task and see in it only drudgery; if you work without hope, see no future in what you are doing beyond getting a bare living; if you see no light ahead, nothing but poverty, deprivation and hard work all your life; if you think that you are destined to such a hard life, you cannot expect to get anything else than that for which you look.

Every one should go to his work with the same eager spirit as the great master approaches his canvas—with his soul, led by a great longing and heart hunger, an all absorbing eagerness to transpose to the canvas the mighty picture which is consuming his soul.

If you approach your work as though it were a burden which you would gladly get rid of if you could and do it merely from a sense of duty you will continue to be a nobody in the world. That sort of spirit never lifts a man out of mediocrity.—Orison Swett Marden in Nautilus Magazine.

Lovers of Sports.

The Anglo-Saxons love sport. No matter in what part of the world they are found the spirit is strong among them. Wherever the restless Anglo-Saxon dominates the love of sport is dominant. The Americans are—at least the most of them—descendants of this virile race, and nowhere is the love of sport so much exhibited as in this country. Our people are patrons of horse racing, of baseball, of golf, of football, of all out of door sports as no other people. The English are great sportsmen, but not to the extent that Americans are, for the reason that the opportunities are greater here.—Nashville American.

Bad Advice.

Friend—What's worrying you? Manager—The prima donna of my company refuses to sing oftener than twice a week. I am making only hundreds where I ought to be making thousands. Friend—I'd settle that. If I were you I'd marry her. (A year passes.) Friend—My gracious, you look seedy! What's happened? Manager—I took your advice and married the prima donna, and now she won't sing at all.

Reciprocity.

There is one word which may serve as a rule of practice for one's life. That word is "reciprocity." What you do not wish done to yourself do not do to others.

Friendship—One soul in two bodies.—Pythagoras.

A meeting of the Good Roads Committee of the County Council was held in Brampton on Tuesday of last week. The Committee is composed of the Reeves of the different municipalities of Caledon, Albion, Chinguacousy, Toronto Township and Toronto Gore. The Township of Caledon's portion of the Good Roads' Fund has been nearly all expended and there is yet a small portion to be completed. This is being arranged for by the committee. The township of Chinguacousy is in a somewhat similar position. As it is not the best time to place debentures on the market Mr. Wilkinson proposes that a sum sufficient to meet the present demand of his township be raised locally and repaid when the Good Roads debentures are sold. The question of maintenance of the county roads system is one that is being considered by the committee. There is a general feeling that in the apportionment of the money to be provided for good roads by the Provincial Government, provision should be made for a fund to be used exclusively for road maintenance.

ALL OF ONE NAME.

So They Had to Tag Each of the Many Tom Hazards.

Perhaps no community more carefully and frequently set forth its erratic fancy than did the early settlers of Narragansett, R. I., of whom W. B. Weeden tells in "Early Rhode Island." There were so many of one name that the bearer must have a descriptive prefix lest he be lost in a concordant multitude. Mr. Updike cites thirty-two Tom Hazards living at one time and thus illustrates a few:

College Tom, because he had been at college. Bedford Tom was his son and lived at New Bedford. Barley Tom, because he boasted how much barley he raised from an acre; Virginia Tom, because he married a wife there; Little Neck Tom, from the farm of that name; Nailer Tom, the blacksmith; Fiddle Head Tom, an obvious resemblance; Pistol Tom, wounded by an explosion of that arm; Young Pistol Tom, his son; Short Stephen's Tom, the father low, against Long Stephen's Tom, the father tall; Tailor Tom needs no explanation.

The Georges were not so numerous, but they were distinguished as Beach Bird George, of little legs; Shoestring George, an opponent of buckles; Wig George, Dr. George and Governor George.

A LIFE FOR A LIFE.

Cheerful New Guinea Custom Which Causes Frequent Murders.

Everywhere in New Guinea the traveler is continually brought face to face with death, and the natives are devoid of the slightest pity or respect for the dead or dying, although after a death they will often wail and mourn for a considerable time.

Murder is an everyday occurrence, and nothing could be worse than the morals of the natives. In fact, they have none. They thieve and lie with a persistence and cunning which are surprising.

The Papuans have a cheerful custom which demands a life for a life. Should any one die at the first opportunity they kill some one—they are not very particular whom—to make up for it. "While we were at Humboldt bay," says Professor Pratt in the Wide World Magazine, "a Malay died of dropsy. He was the first Malay who had ever come to that part, and the Papuans greatly respected him.

"'Very well,' they said, 'we must shoot a Malay with our bows and arrows to pay for his death.' And sooner or later some innocent person would be killed to square the account, when everybody—except, presumably, the victim's friends—would be satisfied."

A Disguised Toast.

At one time the officers under Lord Howe refused to drink his health at their mess, for, though a splendid admiral, he was not popular in the navy on account of a certain shyness and want of tact with those about him. The chaplain, who was a protege of his lordship, was mortified at this and determined that the officers should drink to Lord Howe. When called upon for a toast one day he said, "Well, gentlemen, I can think of nothing better at this moment than to ask you to drink the first two words of the Third Psalm, for a Scriptural toast for once may be taken from one of my cloth." The toast was drunk. Not one of the officers indicated by word or look that he was ignorant of the words alluded to. On referring to the Bible it was found that the Third Psalm begins, "Lord, how are they increased?"

Worth Her Weight In Butter.

Curious customs still prevail with regard to marriage. In some parts of Uganda the custom is to offer six needles and a pack of india rubber for a wife. Some of the Kaffirs sacrifice oxen. The Tartars of Turkestan give the weight of the prospective wife in butter. In Kamchatka the price varies from one to ten reindeer. Some savages require a certain amount of labor. Among the aborigines it is said the current rate for a wife is a box of matches, which prompted a Paris contemporary to speculate whether one of the French government boxes would be accepted.

Light on a Dark Subject.

Caller—There's one question I should like to have answered. When a thought flashes across the intellect does it effect any molecular changes in the cellular or muscular tissues composing the material substance of the cerebral mass, or does it operate merely in the realm of the spiritual ego, thereby leaving no truce subject to detection or classification in the domain of substantiality? Information Editor (turning again to his desk)—There is no premium on the coin.—Chicago Tribune.

HOW TO TREAT ALL SKIN TROUBLE

Greasy Ointments No Use—Must Be Cured Through the Blood.

It is not a good thing for people with a tendency to have pimples and a blotchy complexion to smear themselves with greasy ointments. In fact they couldn't do anything worse, because the grease clogs the pores of the skin, making the disease worse. When there is an irritating rash a soothing boracic wash may help allay the pain or itching, but of course it doesn't cure the trouble. Skin complaints arise from an impure condition of the blood and will persist until the blood is purified. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured many cases of eczema and skin diseases because they make new, rich blood that drives out the impurities, clears the skin and imparts a glow of health. The following proof is offered. Mrs. Fred Trenble, Gunter, Ont., says: "For more than a year I was steadily afflicted with salt rheum or eczema. My hands were so sore that I could not put them in water without the skin cracking open. I tried all sorts of ointments recommended for the trouble, but they did not do me a particle of good. I was told Dr. Williams' Pink Pills would cure the trouble, and began taking them. I took the Pills steadily for six or eight weeks and they completely cured the trouble. This was several years ago and I have never been bothered with it since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ROBT. H. STEPHENSON.

The sad news reached Dundalk on Tuesday of the death of Robert H. Stephenson (Bert), who, while working on the construction gang of the Hydro-Electric at Streetsville, came in contact with a live wire, killing him instantly. The home of the deceased is in Melanothon. He is a brother of James Stephenson of this place. The young man, who is about twenty years of age, started to work with the Bell Telephone Co. on construction work about two or three years ago. He was later changed to the Hydro-Electric. The last time he was home he intimated his intention of quitting the job on account of the danger. He was well liked by those who knew him, and his relatives have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement. The remains were conveyed by C.P.R. to Corbetton on Wednesday.

A CLEVER SWINDLER.

Man Named James Ray Obtained $10,500 from Ontario Banks.

A clever swindler, calling himself James Ray, victimized four Ontario branch banks to the tune of $10,500 last Thursday and Friday. The four banks are in different towns, one of them 118 miles distant from the others, so that the swindler did not lose much time. Here is his timetable:—

Thursday—11 a.m.—Called at Union Bank, Galt, and obtained $2,800.

1 p.m.—Reached branch at Berlin, where he secured $2,500.

2.45 p.m.—Arrived at branch in Guelph in auto, hired in Berlin, at 1.30 p.m. Here he got $2,700.

3.05 p.m.—Left Guelph for Toronto by G.T.R., reaching this city at 4.55, and took the 5 o'clock train for Lindsay.

Friday—10.30 a.m.—Called at the Lindsay branch and left with $2,500.

Making the net profits in less than 24 hours, $10,500.

The scheme pursued was the same in all cases and may be described as follows. A days ago Mr. Saunders, the manager of the Union Bank in Guelph, received a letter from the Union Bank at Saskatoon. The letter stated that Mr. Ray, a particularly good customer of the Union Bank at Saskatoon was going to take a trip east on business, and that Guelph would be included in his itinerary. Mr. Ray, the letter stated, might find it necessary to draw on his account while on the trip and the amount required at Guelph would be in the neighborhood of $3,000. The letter was signed by the manager and accomtant of the Saskatoon branch and contained a specimen signature of Mr. Ray. Living up to his advance notices Ray, Thursday afternoon about a quarter of an hour before closing time, entered the bank and identified himself as Mr. Ray, of Saskatoon. He calmly cashed a cheque for $2,700, appending exactly the same signature that the bank had received a few days before from Saskatoon. After cashing the forged cheque at the Guelph branch he took the 3.10 p.m. train for Toronto. Mr. Saunders is certain that the man who pulled the forgery off is a former employee of the bank.

About the most brazen as well as the most dangerous fraud heard of for some time occurred the other day right here in Mt. Forest and emphasizes the importance of having nothing to do with strangers who call at homes to sell or do something without unmistakeable references. The case in question was that of a man with medicine to sell or claimed to be a duly qualified medical doctor and a specialist who was calling by request of a local Dr. on three of the latter's regular patients. The result is one case was that the imposter's story was believed and some of his medicine was left in the home and paid for. The town doctor, whose name was used, is taking steps to acquaint the authorities with the case.—Mt. Forest Representative.

THE SMALL BOY'S QUESTIONS.

Small boy—"What is a roost, papa?"

Parent—"A roost, my son, is the pole or, which chickens roost, at night."

Small boy—"And what is a perch, papa?"

Parent—"A perch is what chickens perch on at night."

Small boy—"Well, papa, could a chicken roost on a perch?"

Parent—"Why of course."

Small boy—"And could they perch on a roost?"

Parent—"Certainly, of course."

Small boy—"But if the chicken perched on a roost, that would make the roost a perch, wouldn't it?"

Parent—"Oh, yes. I suppose so."

Small boy—"But if just after some chickens perched on a roost and made it a perch some chickens came along and roosted on a perch and made it a roost, then the roost would be a perch and the perch would be a roost, and some of the chickens would be perchers and the others would be roosters and—"

Parent—"Susan, Susan! take this child to bed before he drives me mad."

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why.

Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes:) "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me."

THE TOWN COUNCIL.

Electric Light Companies Ordered to Place Street Wires at Least Three Feet Apart.

Plans for Improvement of Town Hall Under Consideration.

The Town Council resumed its regular meetings on Monday night after a vacation of a little more than a month. There was not as much business awaiting despatch as might have been expected in view of the time that had elapsed since last meeting. This was largely owing to the fact that provision had been made for the payment of corporation wages and the carrying on of other necessary business upon the order of the Mayor or acting Mayor.

Payment of the following accounts was authorized :—McMillan Clothing Co., $7.75 ; McPherson & Johnston, $3.16 ; Adamson Hardware Co., $90.-95 ; Fuller, Allen & Holmes, $4.20 ; J. Ilroy, $1.53 ; W. O. Thomas, $20.40 ; Geo. King, $24 ; Gillespie Bros., $45.10 ; Dufferin Post, $38.50 ; The Sun, $28 ; Pine River Light & Power Co., $137.98.

An account from the Bell Telephone Co. for $24.70 was referred to the Finance Committee for report.

The Town Clerk submitted certificates as to the voting on the Town Hall and Public School Improvement By-laws.

Mr. M. H. Denton declined the Council's offer of $100 for a 10 ft. strip of land between the Fire Hall and the laundry building. Mr. Denton, who is now living in Saskatoon, wrote that the Council must have a "fertile imagination" to think that he would sell for $100. He intimated, however, that if the Council would buy the property in question outright he would name a price.

Rev. G. W. Tebbs, who was appointed to succeed Rev. G. A. Rix on the High School Board, wrote thanking the Council for the appointment.

Miss Nancy Ingrahan wants $10 from the town to compensate her for injury done to her potato patch the night of the Water St. fire. Her communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

Engineer Chas. King made application for an increase of salary. The matter was referred to the F. & W. Committee for report.

Robt. J. Bennett applied for a cigarette license for the Grand Central Hotel.

The unsatisfactory condition of the poles and wires of the two electric light and power companies was the subject of considerable discussion. Eventually Coun. White and the deputy-reeve fathered a motion instructing the Clerk to notify the two companies to place and keep their street wires at least three feet apart and the poles of one at least four inches from the wires of the other in accordance with the order made in Watson vs. The Cataract Electric Co. not later than Oct. 1st and to remove all dead poles from the streets.

Council spent some time in Committee of the Whole discussing the matter of remodelling and improving the Town Hall. Eventually a motion was put through instructing the Town Property Committee to employ James Duke, of Grand Valley, or some other competent person to prepare specifications for a metallic roof for the building and then obtain tenders from local firms engaged in this class of work and afterwards report to the Council. The Committee was also instructed to employ Charles King as architect to prepare plans and specifications for the other proposed improvements to the building.

The Public School and Town Hall Improvement by-laws were given their final readings.

The Engineer was instructed to burn some rubbish that has accumulated on the vacant lots to the south of Elizabeth St. at the rear of E. G. Bingham's, Thos. Henderson's and Jas. A. Matthews' properties and to post a notice forbidding further use of the lots as a dumping ground.

How often we hear the man who has been unsuccessful, or has made only a moderate success of life, attribute his failure to "luck." He will perhaps claim with some appearance of justice that he has been unlucky in his ventures. Enterprises that have turned out fortunately for others, not one whit better qualified to succeed, have gone wrong with him. There may be and sometimes is an element of truth in his contention, but it is after all a question if "luck" or "chance" has a great deal to do with success, or failure, in life's undertakings. Two men start out in life with equal fortunes and equal opportunities. The one succeeds and the other fails. It may be that the man who failed was "down in his luck," but it is more probable that he neglected to take advantage of his opportunities. The man, who succeeded, was probably the possessor of personal qualities, that enabled him to see and grasp the opportunities that presented themselves. Opportunity comes to everyone, but the misfortune is that there are many who do not realize until too late that it has come. Many a man makes the mistake of blaming his "luck," his environment or his want of opportunity, when the trouble is really in himself.

Tremendous Expenditure of Energy in Preparing Ground for Future Metropolis.

Bright and Interesting Letter from Rev. G. A. Rix, a Former Rector of St. Mark's.

Prince Rupert, B.C.
Sept. 6th, 1913

To the Editor of the Banner.

Dear Sir:

It will probably be of some interest to a section of your readers to hear something from me and may I therefore ask that you will be kind enough to insert this letter in your next issue.

I need say nothing of the trip from Toronto to Vancouver. That route has been travelled by so many from Dufferin that it would be but carrying coals to Newcastle to say anything of it. Most Canadians are now familiar with the weary stretch of bare rocks along the north shore of our great lakes, the rolling prairie and the magnificent scenery through the Rocky Mountains. It seems to me that before a Canadian does any other travelling he should see something of his own country. It cannot be that there is anything in any other part of the world that will surpass our own land, no matter from what standard it is measured—its cities, waterways, agricultural lands, or rugged scenery. I feel certain that I can never be greatly surprised by anything in the way of mountain scenery after seeing the Rockies.

At Vancouver it was almost like getting back east, for at the station were such familiar figures as the Rev. A. L. and Mrs. Burch, Mrs. J. J. Laverty and many others known in Ontario. During our short stay there we met Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Endacott and Mr. Douglas Endacott, all of them looking well and evidently doing well. Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Armstrong, who will soon be in their new home, Mr. and Mrs. John May, Mr. Armstrong, a brother of Mrs. Laverty's, Mr. Bowers, Mr. Art Douglas and many others.

I think I never before saw so much in a day and a half as I saw in Vancouver, thanks largely to Mr. Burch, who provided an auto and whirled me to almost everything that was worth seeing. One very interesting feature of my stay here was a visit to Chinatown and that visit convinced me that there is much to be desired in the way of improvement among that race. They are supposed to be, and no doubt are, an industrious race, but in Vancouver I feel sure that I saw at least over a hundred at different places playing different games of chance. Gambling seems to be a perfect infatuation with the Chinaman. As to their shops, they are simply inexpressible, both in appearance and smell. It was necessary only to get one whiff of their butcher shops, to deny oneself any closer acquaintanceship with them.

The trip from Vancouver to Prince Rupert is most interesting, although in our case it was marred by wet weather all the way, but the jumping salmon and the many wild fowl, beside the mountains on the coast lent enough variety to make it constantly interesting. We were on the look out for whales, but although they are seen on most of the trips up here, yet it was not our good fortune to see any. The chief interest along that line was what appeared to be a battle royal between two denizens of the deep. We were not able to find out what they were, but they made the ocean lively for fully a quarter of an hour, or as long as we were in sight of them.

No matter what one has seen in Eastern Canada, when Prince Rupert comes before the sight, astonishment is the only word that expresses the sensations. There probably never was a city quite like it. The site was not chosen because it was a good place for a city, but because it is situated on the best harbor on the Pacific Coast. It can receive the largest vessels afloat right up to its shores, and not one iota of dredging has to be done anywhere. I stood on the dry dock the other day and fished at low tide in fifty feet of water. Perhaps I might mention here that this is the land of fish. They are of great variety and size. A friend handed us an 18 lb. Coho salmon last evening. They are a most beautiful fish and larger than the sock-eye which is the chief canning variety. Cod can be caught anytime off the docks when the tide is coming in. Flounders are plentiful, and halibut, a most excellent fish, are caught out in the open by many large fishing steamers. One of the delicacies here is the sea crab. We tried some for the first time this week and we are prepared to back them up against most of the products of the sea. They are certainly a fearsome looking creature, and if any of them should ever happen to get on the hook of a Melville pond fisherman, I feel sure the said fisherman would think he had a glimpse of his Satanic Majesty, and afterwards he would seek some other spot to enjoy his favorite pastime. Although this is quite a city, yet we are in close touch with the virgin wilderness and I am told that big game is to be had quite close at hand. I know that although the deer season opens here on Sept. 1st, yet all the venison one cared to see was on sale the next day. I would not like to declare that it was all shot on September 1st. The previous day being Sunday. I have no doubt, but that many of those fond of hunting spent that day in the woods. Here, no one seems to mind breaking the Sabbath. Tell Rev. Mr. Robinson that a good Methodist, living near me, does all his work around his home on Sunday and tell Mr. Morris, that a good Presbyterian, who also lives near me, brings home excellent catches of fish on Sunday, and tell Mr. Tebbs, that one of my congregation, who is a good rifle shot, spends his Sunday mornings with others at the rifle range, on the other side of the harbor. It is said that we all get used to this out here, but I hope that is not so.

The energy that must have been expended here, during the first five years of the life of the place, must have been tremendous. No easterner can conceive of what it would cost in labor and money to build, as has been built here. Solid rock, a hundred feet deep, had to be blasted and carted away. Whole hills of this had to be mined in order that wharves could be reached and streets built and foundations of buildings laid. Then there in another place, where there was muskeg, there had to be piles driven down varying depths so that a solid base could be had for buildings. But with a vigor and a hopefulness worthy of the best British traditions, the pioneers set to work and they have succeeded in laying out the skeleton of what is sure, in the near future, to be an important city. Sewers, waterworks, electric light and telephones, all owned by the municipality, miles of streets, most of which last mentioned are yet plank and trestles, which as the growth of the city warrants, will be made permanent roadways.

As it is everywhere else, at the present time, business is quiet here. If it were not for the big government and railway works there would be hard times, but any man who really wants to work can get it here and demand a wage of $3.00 per day as an ordinary laborer. Mechanics get from 75 cents to $1.00 an hour, and a woman coming in to assist in housework gets at least 40 cents per hour, while a maid gets $35 per month.

The only thing which we have found cheap yet is fish. Everything else is about double the price one pays in Ontario. Milk is 20 cents per quart, and butter, which largely comes from New Zealand, is 45 and 50 cents per lb. We get 9 lbs. of potatoes for a quarter or "two bits" as a quarter is called here. Mr. T. Wright will shiver at the thought of how he is giving meat away in Orangeville when he hears that porterhouse steak is sometimes 50 cents per lb. I think it is 35 cents now. Paddy Burns controls the meat market. But while this all sounds very expensive, yet you will notice by the wages mentioned above that the two are fairly well equalized, and things go on about as they do in Orangeville.

This is a great place to get a wide view of life. One meets all kinds of people as well as many different nationalities. I believe that at least one-third of the people are from non-English speaking nations, although most can now speak the English language.

Every person here is waiting for the advent of through traffic on the Grand Trunk Pacific, which, it is said, will be inaugurated by May next, and it will most surely make a great difference to the place and, even, making a most conservative estimate, there will be 25,000 people here in 1916 or '17.

One of the chief objections to the place is the great amount of rain, although, since our arrival here, we have been favored with ideal weather most of the time. Even when it does rain the citizens do not seem to mind it; they all dress in rain coats of some kind, and wear rubber boots and fishermen's hats, and go out at all times, no matter what the weather. It is difficult sometimes to distinguish the men from the women—they dress so much alike during a rain storm.

But my letter has grown too long and I must stop, although I would have liked to say something of the political, the moral and the religious situation. I may do this at a later date, with your permission, and also when I get an opportunity to go up into the interior I shall send some account of it, so that those of your readers, who are interested in this part of Canada, may have some idea of the country here. To those contemplating coming out here, I would advise waiting until they can come through on the G.T.P. direct. It will shorten the journey a great deal and consequently lessen the expense.

Yours Truly,
G. A. RIX.

Toronto should have strong men in charge of its municipal affairs if one may judge from the character of the municipal problems that are to the fore at the present moment. The News enumerates five of these, any one of which would furnish a Controller or an Alderman with material for many hours of solid study and reflection. They are :—The purchase of the Toronto Street Railway, the maintenance of municipal lodging houses, the creation of a metropolitan area, the establishment of open markets and a survey of the civic service. One would think that the city council should be able to find plenty to do without descending to petty personalities and turning the council chamber into a bear garden as was done at a recent meeting.

It is said that every time the clock ticks some soul somewhere drifts out upon the great ocean of eternity. It is an endless procession that wends its way from this vale of tears to that bourne from which no traveller has yet returned. How awe-inspiring should be the thought that every tick of the clock marks the passing of some soul and brings each of the living one step nearer the ultimate goal of all mankind. The clock ticks on and with every swing of the pendulum the quick and the dead go their devious ways. The living remain, too often unthinking and heedless of the lessons that are taught by reflection upon the uncertainty of life and the fate that will sooner or later overtake every mortal. The gay continue to laugh and jest, the pleasure seekers to chase the butterfly diversions that this world affords, the workers to plod on and plan, worry and build. Each pursues his favorite phantom, but still the clock ticks on and with every tick some person is called from earth's cares, its toil and its ambitions.

A SUCCESSFUL SHOW

Hillsburg Horticultural Society Holds Its Fifth Annual Exhibition.

Large Entry List and Keen Competition—Names of the Prize Winners

Hillsburg Horticultural Society—an organization with a membership of about 165—held its fifth annual Show of Flowers, Fruit, Vegetables, Field Roots and Dairy and Domestic Products in the sheds of St. Andrew's Church, Hillsburg, last Thursday afternoon and evening. The Show created a great deal of interest and there was a large attendance, particularly at night, when a programme of music and speeches was furnished. The exhibit in the different departments was a credit to the Society. The arrangements for the Show and its management were entirely in the hands of the ladies, who were deservedly congratulated from all sides upon the success of their undertaking. The arrangement of the exhibits showed good taste and a keen appreciation of the beautiful. In the evening the large crowd that had gathered for the Show was entertained with some excellent music by the popular Dyer Bros. orchestra. Selections were also furnished by Mr. Campbell Hodgson, a comedian, who proved himself a pleasing and versatile entertainer. Dr. Gibson occupied the chair and short speeches were made by Hugh Guthrie, M.P. for South Wellington, and Mr. Kelly Evans, of Toronto.

LAUREL.

A log house on Herb. Hughes' farm, lot 11, 3rd line, was destroyed by fire on Saturday. The dwelling was occupied by a Scotch farm hand named Wm. Petrie. Mr. and Mrs. Petrie lost all their furniture and household effects. Neither building nor contents were insured. It is thought that the fire was started by a spark from a passing engine.

A large crowd turned out on Monday night to witness the baseball game between Laurel and Camilla teams. The spectators were treated to a fast and well-played exhibition. The visitors won by a score of 13 to 4. The locals lined up as follows:—Frank Gray, 1b; John Maltby, 2b; E. Richardson, 3b; Jos. McGowan, ss.; Geo. Hepton, rf.; Will Langtree, lf.; Norman Hinton, cf.; C. Groskurth, p; W. R. Groskurth, c.

Before the automobile came, a narrow roadway served for rural traffic. Then, when two horse-drawn vehicles met, they found it possible to cross each other even where the travelled portion of the highway was quite restricted in width. Now, with the auto here, the situation is quite different. When the horse-drawn vehicle and auto meet, even if the horse is ordinarily quiet, the animal desires to give the motor a good deal of room. In some sections of the Province the difficulty, which has been created by motor traffic, is being met by making a second, and inferior track, beside the one usually travelled. In such sections the driver of a horse or team always takes the poorer track when a motor comes in sight. The making of this provision has naturally added to the cost of roadway maintenance, a cost that, with a diminishing rural population, was sufficiently heavy before the day of the auto.—The Weekly Sun.

CANADIAN IMMIGRATION

"Immigration Facts and Figures" is the title of an instructive pamphlet issued a short time ago by the direction of Hon. W. J. Roche, Minister of the Interior. One of the tables gives the total immigration to Canada from 1897 to 1913. The total for 1897 was only 21,716. By 1901 it had increased to 49,149 and by 1902-03 to 128,364. The totals for the last six years are :—

1907-08	262,469
1908-09	146,908
1909-10	208,794
1910-11	311,084
1911-12	354,237
1912-13	402,432

The pamphlet states that from 1897 to 1913, eighteen per cent. British, 29 per cent. Continental and 33 per cent. of the American immigrants made entry for homesteads in Western Canada. It is a matter of satisfaction to note that the growth of immigration of English speaking people from Great Britain and the United States has more than kept pace with the increase in the immigration from foreign countries. In 1899 for instance almost half of the total immigration was from foreign countries. In 1912-13 on the other hand the immigration from either Great Britain or the United States was considerably greater than the total immigration from foreign countries. The following is a comparative statement covering the whole period:

	British	U.S.A.	Other Countries
1897—	11,383	2,412	7,921
1898—	11,173	9,119	11,608
1899—	10,660	11,945	21,938
1900 (6 mos)	5,141	8,543	10,211
1900-01 —	11,810	17,987	19,352
1901-02 —	17,259	26,388	23,732
1902-03	41,792	49,473	37,099
1903-04 —	50,374	45,171	34,786
1904-05 —	65,359	43,543	37,364
1905-06 —	86,796	57,796	44,472
1906-07 — (9 mos.)	55,791	34,659	34,217
1907-08 —	120,182	58,312	83,975
1908-09 —	52,901	59,832	34,175
1909-10 —	59,790	103,798	45,206
1910-11 —	123,013	121,451	66,620
1911-12 —	138,121	133,710	82,406
1912-13 —	150,542	139,009	112,881

The total British immigration from July 1st, 1900, to March 31st, 1913, was 973,730. 701,053 of the immigrants are classified as English, 11,011 as Welsh, 202,632 as Scotch and 59,034 as Irish. Japanese immigration amounted to 7,601 in the year 1907-08, but had dropped to 724 in 1912-13. The destination by provinces in 1912-13 was as follows: Maritime Provinces, 19806; Quebec, 64,885; Ontario, 122,798; Manitoba, 53,813; Saskatchewan, 45,147; Alberta, 58,073; British Columbia, 57,960. Nearly every country on the face of the globe has contributed its quota to the foreign immigration. The figures by nationalities for 1912-13 are :—South African, 22; Australian, 106; Austro-Hungarian, 21,875; Belgian, 1,826; Bulgarian, 4,616; Chinese, 7,445; Dutch, 1,524; French 2,755; German, 4,953; West Indian, 495; Greek, 1390; Hebrew, 7,387; Italian, 16,601; Japanese, 724; Newfoundland, 1,036; New Zealand, 39; Portuguese, 9; Polish, 9,945; Persian, 29; Roumanian, 1,116; Russian, 18,623; Finnish, 2,391; Doukobour, 108; Spanish, 296; Swiss, 246; Servian, 366; Danish, 798; Icelandic, 231; Swedish, 2,477; Norwegian, 1832; Turkish, 770; Armenian, 100; Egyptian, 7; Syrian, 232; Arabian 10; Maltese, 128; Negro, 211; Hindoos, 5; Mexican, 9; Montenegrin, 36.

The methods adopted to encourage immigration are also briefly set forth in the pamphlet. Canada, it states, advertises only for farmers, farm laborers and female domestic servants and these are the only classes who are guaranteed employment. In the British Isles advertising is done by :—(1) the establishment of regular agencies, of which there are eight in England and Wales, two in Scotland and two in Ireland; (2) newspaper publicity; (3) free distribution of pamphlets; (4) exhibits of Canadian fruit, grain, etc. in Canadian Government offices, in offices of the leading steamship booking agents, and exhibits at agricultural fairs throughout the United Kingdom; (5) exhibition wagons which carry samples of grain and grasses etc., and a stock of free literature. These travel through the country districts and into out of the way places; (6) illustrated lectures on Canada by regular agents and by farmer delegates; (7) payment of bonus to steamship booking agents, the bonus being paid on agriculturists and domestics whom they induce to come to Canada. The methods pursued in the United States are confined largely to newspaper advertising, the distribution of literature and exhibits at county and state fairs in the eastern, central and northern states. On the Continent advertising is done by the distribution of literature in the languages of the countries in which it is circulated, newspaper and magazine publicity wherever possible, the payment to selected steamship booking agents of a bonus on agriculturists and domestics and the establishment of regular agencies. At the present time there are two of these—one in France and the other in Belgium.

A doctor was summoned and found that in addition to injury to his head and shoulder Mr. Farquhar had sustained a bad fracture of the left arm at the elbow.

TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told.

Edmonton, Alberta, Can. — "I think it is no more than right for me to thank you for what your kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have done for me.

"When I wrote to you some time ago I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had organic inflammation and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend your medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, and think they are fine. I will never be without the medicine in the house."—Mrs. FRANK EMSLEY, 903 Columbia Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta.

The Other Case.

Beatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing for others and I used several bottles of it with the result that I haven't been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. B. CHILD, Beatrice, Neb.

Several of the skulls had nearly full sets of teeth in a good state of preservation.

A WOMAN-RULED COURT.

Showing the Paramount Influence Exercised Over the Court of Madrid by the Queen of Spain.

There is no court in Europe where the influence of women is so predominant as the court of Spain, says a writer in "The Lady's Realm." It is, as King Edward once remarked "a woman-ruled court." Kind Edward's comment was made on the occasion of the appointment of the Duc de Mandas as ambassador for Spain to the English court. King Alfonso had promised the Spanish embassy in London to another diplomatist, and the matter had gone so far that the latter's name had been forwarded to the British Foreign Office. Then suddenly and without apparent reason the Duc de Mandas was given the post.

The change was entirely due to femine influence. In short, the Duchess de Mandas wanted to go to London. One of her greatest friends was the Duchesse d'Arion, a beautiful woman who is one of the most influential members of the Spanish court. The King of Spain became godfather to her son a peculiarly high honor for the Spanish monarch to confer on a subject. The Duchesse d'Arion promised the London embassy to her friend and a couple of weeks later the Duc de Mandas was appointed to the vacant embassy. But the Duc de Mandas had never held an important diplomatic post previously and did not hold the position long; a little later he was recalled and the embassy was given to Senor de Villa Urrutia.

The Queen of Spain has no objection to these feminine influences over the King. She knows that her husband is not in love with any of the women who exercise so much influence over him and there is no breath of scandal, but he is extremely susceptible to feminine influence. The Queen herself is certainly not the least of these influences and if Her Majesty cannot always get her way at court, she can get it in most affairs of any real importance.

The Duchesse d'Arion, one of the most powerful women at the Spanish court, is one of the Queen of Spain's most intimate friends, and in the exercise of their influence over King Alfonso these two are mutually useful to each other, for if one of them cannot induce the King to yield, His Majesty never fails to do so when the influence of both is brought to bear on him.

These femine influences, though, do the whole, harmless, are certainly exercised from time to time in unwise directions. For example, the household appointments, which are extremely numerous, are made practically altogether at the direction and instance of the ladies of his court. One of the most important of these positions is the master of the King's exchequer, for that official has an almost absolute control of the royal purse. No payment, however small, can be made out of the royal exchequer without his consent, and he can sanction within certain defined limits almost any payment he pleases. Briefly his duties are to save the monarch any worry or bother in connection with his private or personal expenditure and to see that his expenses do not exceed his revenue. It is an office that obviously requires a level headed man of business to fill efficiently, and as he must be a person of high social standing and of ancient, if not actually of noble birth, it is not easy to find a suitable person for the position.

It was held up to a couple of years ago, by a pre-eminently suitable individual, a Count Romanones, a relative of the present Spanish premier. To this gentleman, however, the Queen, and several other ladies of the court, took a dislike, partly because the Count was a somewhat rigid economist.

King Alfonso resisted for a time the determination of the ladies of the court to get rid of this useful official, but it was no good: the efficient official resigned, and a gentleman was appointed in his place who so muddled the finances of the royal household that a year after his appointment King Alfonso had to apply to his parliament for what is known as a "grant in aid" to replenish the royal exchequer. The man who had succeeded in emptying it still remained in his office.

This influence is exercised sometimes in rather amusing directions. For example, it is an old established custom in Spain, or rather in Madrid, that, when the monarch visits the theatre, he sends a bouquet to the leading lady of the piece or play. There is no significance whatever attached to the gift of flowers; it is merely a traditional act of courtesy or grace upon the part of the sovereign and was customarily paid to any actress, whether old and ugly or young and beautiful, who happened to be playing the part of the leading lady when the sovereign visited the theatre.

A few months ago the King of Spain visited the Opera House at Madrid three nights in one week and on each occasion sent a bouquet to the soprano who was playing the title role and who happened to be a very beautiful woman. The Queen of Spain laughed at the idea that King Alfonso intended to show the singer in question any special attention in making her these gifts, but others regarded, or affected to regard them, in a different light, and at their instance and suggestion King Alfonso relinquished the custom and the leading lady now no longer receives a bouquet from the royal box when King Alfonso visits the theatre.

Like many other men who are greatly influenced by their womenkind, King Alfonso would probably be the first to deny that he was in any way unduly under petticoat government. In this connection the following story was told to the writer on excellent authority. A few years ago Prince Arthur, of Connaught, attended by an equerry, paid a visit to the Spanish court. On the last night of the Prince's stay, King Alfonso, the Prince and the equerry went to a masked ball given in aid of some charity, and subsequently returned to the palace for supper which was served in the King's personal apartments. In conversation after supper whilst the king and his two guests were enjoying their cigars, the Prince rather unwisely let slip a remark, prompted evidently by his thoughts, on the many signs there were at the Spanish Court of how greatly feminine influence predominated there.

"I don't quite understand you," said the King, and he evidently did not. The Prince could and would have readily explained that he meant nothing in particular and then turned the conversation, but unfortunately, the Prince's equerry broke in with the remark.

"His royal highness means, sir, that you allow the women here to do pretty well what they like with you."

The observation brought the supper to an abrupt end. It was, of course, an appalling piece of impertinence and the equerry was instantly dismissed from the room by the Prince. When he had gone, the Prince made what apologies he could for his equerry to the King.

"Oh, that is all right," said King Alfonso, who was quite ready to overlook the offence, "but what on earth put it into his head to say such an extraordinary thing?"

The Prince explained that nothing could have done so but champagne, a fact that the King readily believed, and the equerry, ere he and the Prince left the next day, received the monarch's laughingly granted pardon for the offence.

King Alfonso does not find his personal liberty much curtailed by feminine influences, at all events not in directions that matter much to him. But for the danger that ever lurks round the crowned head, especially a Spanish one, King Alfonso is a very happy monarch and freer to do what he likes than most kings.

Prominent People Proud To Testify For "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. TIMOTHY McGRATH

130 ATLANTIC AVE., MONTREAL, MARCH 1st, 1912.

"For years, I suffered from Rheumatism, being unable to work for weeks at a time and spent hundreds of dollars on doctor's medicines, besides receiving treatment at Notre Dame Hospital where I was informed that I was incurable. I was discouraged when a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives". After using three packages, I felt relieved and continued until I had used five packages when a complete cure was the result after years of doctoring failed. I consider "Fruit-a-tives" a wonderful remedy. You are at liberty to use this testimonial to prove to others the good that "Fruit-a-tives" has done me"

John Standbrdge's Lesson.

All day Standbridge and his guide had stumbled through the deep Canadian woods and when they finally reached their tent, the young surveyor had taken a flask of liquor from his pack. He tendered it to his companion.

A gruff sound sounded from the lips of the old timber cruiser as he waved the bottle aside and stretched himself at full length for rest.

"What, Brandon!" exclaimed the young man in surprise, "don't you drink?" He uncorked the flask and placed it to his lips.

Brandon sat up, a stern look on his face, but before he could speak, something from without arrested his attention.

"It's old Saco," he said in a moment, "and he's drunk."

Marvelling at the keenness of hearing displayed, Standbridge followed the cruiser outside, leaving the bottle of whiskey on his blanket. Soon they heard the sound of snapping twigs, and the newcomer lurched into view. He came on unsteadily and with no word of greeting. Then Brandon's voice broke the stillness of the night.

"Whar did you get the liquor? he demanded.

The man stopped short and gazed stupidly at them. Then he burst into a discordant laugh that seemed to spur the cruiser. The next instant Saco's feet left the ground and the body impelled by the mighty arm of Brandon lay within the tent.

Still chuckling, the drunken man hunched his coat back to its normal position, while the now thoroughly irate cruiser took from a pocket in the rumpled garment a half-emptied flask. This he hurled from the tent far out among the trees, and evidently sent with it his choler, for he returned with his face free from any trace of anger.

There was no resentment on the part of the intoxicated man. He merely adjusted himself with an eye to greater physical comfort, and sobered slightly by his heroic treatment handed Standbridge a small packet.

"That's odd," said the young man, as he ran rapidly through the letters, "the 'Anna Belle' brought no orders from the office."

A thick voice disturbed them. "Funniest shing ever saw," it said drowsily; "them Injuns—eh! game lot."

Brandon whirled on the inebriate. "What's that?" he asked sharply.

The heavily-lidded eyes wavered as they sought to fix themselves on the woodsman.

"Tim blowed whishle," he maundered, head nodding; "little red-headed Tim blowed whishle."

"Saco," said the cruiser, his swift signal to Standbridge in strange contrast with the subtly softened voice, "what about the Indians?"

"Game lot—heh!" repeated the old man sleepily. "Had lots of fun all way up blowin' 'Belle's' whishle; powerful whishle; steamboat whishle—hurts ear—shake you off little boat. Tim'd get 'em aboard and then blow whishle. Ha! Ha! See 'em jump. Carpenter at Wanson jumped clean into water—fished him out with boat hook—couldn't hear for an hour—spunky fellow—wanted to fight."

His voice trailed off and he stopped speaking. The man was deadly sleepy. With a boot, the alert Brandon prodded him.

"Yesh, we had fun, lots fun," he continued uncertainly. "I blowed, Tim blowed, everybody blowed it. At Slater's Point, lots Injuns, twenty, thirty, all come aboard see boat—not whishle."

Again he laughed drunkenly and would have stopped, but the watchful woodsman urged him on.

"Stood around like shigar signs," he went on; "didn't shay a word. Tim shows 'em his watch; gets 'em alongside whishle; then he holds up two fingers and winks at me and I gets back of smoke-stack with my hands in my ears—watches Injuns. In two munutes Tim blowed whishle. Ha! Ha! Joke on Tim."

The old man slid back against the side of the tent, his body shaking. A series of hiccoughs interrupted him and he sat up. With owlish gravity, he levelled a finger at the cruiser and added: "Jim, when that whishle blowed, not—a—single—Injun—moved. Not a wink! Ha! Ha! Tim—"

A sharp crack silenced him. Brandon had brought one horny palm against the other; the report was like the discharge of a pistol.

"Saco," he called swiftly, "was Black Eagle there?"

The old man nodded uncomfortably. With pregnant calm, Brandon examined his watch.

"If the Great Father wills," he said, half to himself, "may be we can do it."

He turned to the wondering Standbridge. "Are you good for thirty-five miles?"

"When?" asked the young man.

"Now!" thundered the woodsman. Saco lay at full length, sleeping heavily, and did not see them leave.

Not understanding the significance of it all, Standbridge trudged silently along behind the cruiser. He sensed a danger to the practical jokers, and knew the next stop of the supply boat was at Big Bend, some 50 miles up the river. It was a good thirty-five miles overland, and he settled himself down to the steady grind.

For more than an hour, the two men pursued their way. Brandon did not talk, though Standbridge could hear him occasionally muttering to himself. Finally, the cruiser summed up his thoughts.

"This is what comes of havin' a man in a fifth-story office and a swivel chair bossin' things up here," he exclaimed. "Sandin' men like old Saco and Tim McMahon! That little red-headed rascal is a born trouble-maker. Why, that joke is so old it's jest naturally got moss onto it; every galoot thinks he's its inventor, and ever since Jeff Dawson rigged the "Belle' up with that steamboat whistle, it has been tooted at Indians till they go aboard with grass stuffed in their ears. But this Black Eagle crowd is diff'rent; they're new in this country, and there will be trouble afore this day is done."

All that night, led by the unerring instinct of the cruiser, the two men plunged through the trackless, virgin forest. Hours passed and no word was spoken. As they drew near the end of their journey, the two men dropped on their hands and knees and soon came to the river's edge. In the dim light of approaching morning, the "Anna Belle" could be seen riding peacefully at anchor, less than a stone's throw distant. Stealing quietly into the water, they swam to the side of the boat and clambered aboard, their figures being for a moment silhouetted against the sky. Standbridge sank exhausted to the deck and the woodsman had just leaned forward to help him to the cabin when a sharp crack of a rifle came from the shore. Brandon instantly dropped; the bullet buried itself harmlessly in the side of the boat.

A man's head with red hair and frightened features popped out of the cabin. He stared in amazement at the two men lying flat on the deck. "What's the row?" he asked.

"You'll blow your whistle, wi you, Tim McMahon!" angrily rejoined Brandon, worming his way to the cabin; "you drunken good-for-nothin', that's Black Eagle!"

A chorus of wild yells seemed almost to answer the woodsman and the next minute the shore-line was dotted with dusky, gliding figures. Below Brandon had kicked into wakefulness half the crew and under his presence of mind the engine was started. Slowly, at first, and then with gathering speed, the little craft shot down the stream, followed by the whine of bullets and the shouts of the discomfited Indians.

All that glorious morning, the little boat worked her way along the river, Brandon's masterful voice occasionally breaking the stillness to express contempt for the crew whose lives he had undoubtedly saved. He discovered the hiding place of their liquor and with no word of apology or explanation, dumped it overboard. Lying unheeded on the deck, the woodsman found a small packet of mail that Saco had neglected to bring with him the night before. It contained the missing orders: Standbridge was to stop work immediately and report to headquarters at Toronto.

One afternoon, a week later, John Standbridge, still tanned and hearty from his work in the woods, drew down the cover of his roll-top desk and signalled to the young man across the room. Together they passed to the rear of the suite of offices, where the surveyor removed a bottle from its hiding place and held it to the light.

"Jove, Marvin," he said, decanting some of the liquor, "I left a whole bottle of this stuff up in the woods."

"So?" replied the other, taking up a glass.

Both men stood straight, glasses in hand. Suddenly some one called Standbridge's name. He stepped to the door. An office boy handed him a letter. "Just came," he said.

The young surveyor nervously opened the envelope and read:

"Friend Standbridge: It didn't appear necessary after what occurred on that boat to say anything to you about the booze game; it was none of my business anyway, but it seems now I ought to tell you what happened later. When I got back to the tent, I found old Saco all cut up, and he died ten minutes after I arrived. He managed to tell me that the Indians got him about an hour before and said he'd a-been all right and could have got away if he hadn't found a bottle of whiskey in the tent and made himself drunker than ever. Jim Brandon

The letter crumpled in the surveyor's hand and his face paled.

"Come," said his companion, impatiently. "The boss'll be dropping in on us; drink up."

Standbridge leaned against the wall.

"Excuse me, Marvin," he said huskily, "but—but I've changed my mind. I'm not t-taking anything today. Read that."—Ray Kilman, in the "Union Signal."

An Operation For Appendicitis

Was Ordered by His Doctor, But Complete Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels.

Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctors had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine.

Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure."

Zam-Buk Proved Best

AMBULANCE BRIGADES ADOPT IT.

Zam-Buk has now been selected as the balm to be carried by the members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade. This is further proof of its superiority.

Mr. G. W. Payatt, of 15 Southview Avenue, Toronto, Superintendent of the Riverdale Division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, writes: "Both in personal use and in first-aid work I have proved Zam-Buk to be of great value. I have used it for the past five years, and do not believe there is any other balm to come up to it."

Mr. Geo. H. Westmore, of 127 Yonge Street, Toronto, Divisional Superintendent of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, also writes: "I am pleased to report that the members of this Brigade use Zam-Buk when on public duty, and find it very useful. It is a wonderful healer. Personally, I constantly use Zam-Buk in my calling as a chiropodist, and find it very helpful in healing sore feet, and as a dressing for corns and bunions after treatment and extraction."

Surely a balm that is worthy of a place in the wallet of an ambulance officer should find a place in your home! You may not require it to-day or next week, but as accidents don't give warning, be prepared. Zam-Buk is compounded on the latest scientific lines. It is at the same time soothing, healing and antiseptic; keeps good. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for skin diseases, eczema, piles, old sores, cuts, burns, poisoned wounds, ringworm, abscesses, sprains, scalds, boils, ulcers, blood poison, etc.

Mrs. James Woulf.

Mrs. Woulf, wife of Mr. James Woulf, lot 4, con. 7, Amaranth, died in the Toronto General Hospital on Saturday, Sept. 13th. Her death followed an operation for the removal of some growth from her throat. The deceased woman, who was 45 years of age, is survived by her husband and a family of four children. Mrs. Woulf was a daughter of the late James White, of Waldemar. Mr. James White, collector for the south half of the township for a number of years, is a brother. There was a large attendance at the funeral, which was held to Price's Corners Cemetery in East Garafraxa on Monday afternoon.

J. J. Marshall.

Mr. Robert Curry, a brother-in-law, received a telegram on Saturday morning conveying the startling news of the death at his home at Beadle, Sask., of Mr. Jno. J. Marshall, a former citizen of this town. Deceased had not been in the best of health for the last two or three years, but was as well as usual when he left for the West about four weeks ago. He had spent most of last and this year on his farm at Beadle, but came east this summer to visit his brothers in Mono. He left here about five weeks ago and started back for the West after spending a couple of weeks with his daughters in Toronto. Particulars regarding his death had not been received up to the time of going to press. The remains are being brought east for interment and will probably reach Orangeville this (Thursday) evening. In that event the funeral will be held to-morrow. The deceased was a son of the late James Marshall, of Mono, and farmed near Camilla for a number of years. After leaving his farm he lived retired in Orangeville until about two years ago. He was quite well off having considerable property in the West. A widow and a family of three daughters survive. Mrs. Marshall and the eldest daughter, Flavia, are at Beadle and the other daughters, Rilla and Minnie, live in Toronto. Reeve J. A. Marshall and Mr. Robt. Marshall, of Mono, are brothers. Mrs. Robt. Curry, 1st Street, is the only sister.

Mrs. John Rowan

Mrs. John Rowan, an old resident of North Erin, passed away at her home in Toronto early on Sunday morning in her 81st year. Despite her fourscore years, the deceased woman was smart and in good health almost to the time of her death. She was about as usual on Saturday evening and retired in good health and spirits. The end came about five o'clock and was caused by heart collapse. Mrs. Rowan, whose maiden name was Jane Clark, was born near Charleston in Caledon township. She was married about 62 years ago and settled in North Erin, where she lived for 50 years or longer. Ten or twelve years ago Mr. and Mrs. Rowan moved to Orangeville, where they resided for some years before going to Toronto. They had the unique experience of living long enough to celebrate their diamond wedding. The aged husband died only a year or so ago. The surviving members of the family are Mrs. James Pickering, Mrs. Angus Conley and Mr. Wm. Rowan, of Shelburne; Mrs. Wm. Henderson, North Erin; Mrs. J. D. McGill, Mr. John C. Rowan, Mr. J. E. Rowan and Miss Sophia Rowan, of Toronto. Mr. Edward Clark, of Orangeville, and Mr. John Clark, of Alton, are brothers. The surviving sisters are Mrs. Unger, of French River, and Mrs. Aikens, of Hamilton, the latter of whom is 92 years of age. There are also seventeen grandchildren and one great grandchild. The late Mrs. Rowan was a kindly, good living woman, who enjoyed the affection of her family and the respect and goodwill of her neighbors. The deceased was a consistent member of the Presbyterian Church. Rev. Mr. Wetherel held the funeral service at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. McGill, 346 Bloor St., west, Toronto, on Monday evening. The remains were brought to Orangeville for interment, the funeral taking place to Greenwood Cemetery from the C.P.R. station on Tuesday forenoon. Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Alton, had charge of the burial service. The members of the family were all present and there was also a large gathering of sorrowing friends and neighbors. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes. Among the friends from a distance, outside the family and immediate relatives, were Mr. and Mrs. Will Parks, Mr. John M. Rowan, and Mr. W. H. Maxwell, Toronto, Mrs. Jas. Morris and Mrs. Ed. Overland, Erin, Mrs. Geo. Cameron, Cataract, and Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Harris, Shelburne.

SCOTCH DOUBLES.

Local Bowling Club Held Successful Tournament on Friday.

Orangeville lawn bowlers held a successful Scotch Doubles Tournament last Friday. Visiting pairs were here from Shelburne, Owen Sound, Mt. Forest, Arthur, Grand Valley, Erin, Brampton and Bolton. Sixteen pairs of home players entered the competition. There were two events—trophy and consolation. Play began at 10 o'clock in the morning and continued, without interruption, until nearly midnight. Arch. Ramsay and Geo. Nodwell, of Grand Valley, won the main event, Dr. Campbell and T. J. Brown, of Orangeville, being runners up. The winners carried home a pair of beautiful casseroles and the losers got a silver fern pot apiece. Dr. Gear and Arch. McMillan, of Erin, and T. Thauburn and Alex. Young, of Brampton, got into the final in the Consolation event. Owing to the late hour and the chilly night they came to an agreement to divide the prizes without playing off. The prizes were a pair of sweater coats and two thermos bottles. Messrs. Geo. E. Brown, A. A. Snaith and D. McCallum were the committee, which had charge of the Tournament. The results follow:—

The ladies of the Lord Dufferin Chapter gratefully acknowledge the following donations:—

Damage From Frost.

The unusually severe frosts, that were experienced in this district Saturday and Sunday nights, did serious damage to corn, potatoes and garden vegetables. Corn, very little of which had been harvested, was badly frozen and farmers claim that the freeze has greatly impaired the nutritive qualities for feeding purposes. Potato tops were badly frozen and potatoes will as a consequence mature much earlier than they would otherwise have done. Garden vegetables also suffered severely. Tomato vines were blackened and in exposed places the tomatoes were themselves touched by the frost. Flowers did not fare any better and many a local flower lover was saddened by the sight of limp and withered foliage on Sunday morning. The public flower beds, which were looking just about their best last week, were sadly marred by the early visitation of Jack Frost. The foliage on the trees did not fare one whit better and the beautiful maples, which are one of Orangeville's chief ornaments, are now fast taking on their autumn colorings.

A GREAT SUCCESS

Orangeville Horticultural Society Holds First Annual Exhibition.

Arrangement of Exhibit was Highly Creditable to Directorate.

On Thursday last the first annual Exhibition of the Horticultural Society was held in the Town Hall. There was a large number of visitors both in the afternoon and evening, and all expressed in no unstinted way their surprise and appreciation at the splendid showing made by the local members of the Orangeville Society. Considering the fact that 1913 in an off-year in fruits, flowers and vegetables, owing to the long continued drought, the splendid display was all the more creditable, and it is safe to say that the Exhibition of 1914 will tax the accommodation of the Town Hall to the fullest extent. The very tasty and effective arrangement of the benches call for much praise to the Directors and their assistants. No pains were spared to make the blending of the multi-colored exhibits as perfect as possible. The evening was made more enjoyable by the assistance of Miss Ruth Shaw at the pianoforte.

The judges appointed were Professor Hunt, of the O.A.C., Guelph, and the Rev. Geo. W. Tebbs, of Orangeville, in the Fruit, Flowers and Vegetable Section, and Mrs. John Kearns, Orangeville, and Mrs. Thos. Harshaw, Mono, in the Pastry and Bread Section. Professor Hunt was delighted with the Show, and said it had but few equals in a Society the size of the local one.

A very noticeable feature of the exhibits was the display shown by the indefatigable Secretary, Mr. H. F. Tuck. In his collection of vegetables, which took the first prize, there were no less than 100 distinct varieties shown. Mr. Hunt said it would have taken the First prize if it had been exhibited at Toronto Exhibition. Dr. T. H. Henry's roses were a feature of the Show, and the school children's exhibits afforded keen competition. So splendid were some sections that the Judges had to award extra prizes, and create new sections. Special mention should be made of the exhibit of palms, begonias and plants shown by our local nurserymen. It is now up to Orangeville citizens to maintain the high standard set this year, and by joining the Orangeville Horticultural Society now, participate in making the 1914 Show larger and better, and thereby boom the best little town in this part of the Province.

The splendid flower beds which have been located in different parts of the town through the instrumentality of the Society call for much praise, and were very favorably commented on by the Judges.

—Mr. Jos. Wallace, a onetime resident of Orangeville, died in Toronto on Tuesday. The funeral will be held from the C.P.R. station to Greenwood Cemetery on the arrival of this (Thursday) morning's train.

Presented With Fern Bowl

On Friday evening the members of the White Shield Bible Class, in connection with the Methodist Church, met at the home of Mrs. T. H. Coulter, 1st Avenue, and surprised their President, Miss Katherine L. McBride, by presenting her with an address and a beautiful silver fern bowl. Miss McBride was taken completely by surprise, but was able to express her thanks in a brief address. The evening was pleasantly spent in music and amusements. Lunch was served by Mrs. Coulter, who entertained her guests with her usual warm hearted hospitality.

W. M. S. Meeting.

A very interesting meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church was held on Monday afternoon of this week at the home of Mr. D. C. Lamont. Miss Jean Lamont, who has lately returned from attending the International Sunday School Convention held at Zurich, Switzerland, in July, gave a delightful account of some incidents of her trip, including visits paid to the Azores Islands, Madeira, Gibraltar, Rome, The Hague, London and Edinburgh. The meeting was also favored with a vocal solo by Mrs. Meek.

Fined $1 and Costs.

Friday evening an Owen Sound man alighted from the Bruce train at the station here and walked into the C.P.R. restaurant, where he had lunch. He afterwards refused to pay for his meal and a couple of cigars that he bought for a friend and himself. When pressed for payment he swaggered through the restaurant as if he owned the place and coolly informed Mr. Hogg that there wasn't a man around who could handle him. Just then C.P.R. Constable Gordon arrived on the scene and took the Owen Sounder in charge. He spent the night in the town lock-up and on Saturday morning he was taken before P. M. Pattullo who fined him $1 and costs. It took a $5 bill to settle.

The adjourned investigation of the charge of indecent assault, which Mrs. Geo. Matthews, a Shelburne womah, preferred against Richard Woods, the Melancthon farmer, who had two stallions mysteriously poisoned a few weeks ago, was concluded before P. M. Rutherford, of Shelburne, on Monday. W. D. Henry, of Markdale, conducted the case for the plaintiff and G. M. Vance, K.C., of Shelburne, represented the defendant. Mrs. Matthews evidence was continued, but nothing new was disclosed. She averred that on two occasions Woods came to her house and misconducted himself. On March 1st, one of the dates sworn to by the woman, defendant proved by means of receipts that he had been in Dundalk. He admitted being in Shelburne on the other date, but denied that he was near the house. Mrs. Matthews' husband testified that his wife had complained to him about defendant's conduct and Richard Amess, a harness maker, told of overhearing quarrelling between plaintiff and defendant in the former's house and testified that he had heard Mrs. Matthews order Woods out of the house. The Magistrate fined the defendant $5 and costs.

YOUNG MAN'S DEATH.

Bert Stephenson, of Corbetton, Was Instantly Killed at Streetsville.

Coroner's Inquest Adjourned Until Next Monday.

County Crown Attorney W. J. L. McKay was in Corbetton on Tuesday attending an inquest into the death of Bert Stephenson, a lineman in the employ of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission. Stephenson, who is a son of Mr. Robert Stephenson, of Corbetton, was killed in Streetsville a short time ago. The unfortunate man fell from an electric light pole a distance of thirty feet or more and broke his neck, causing instantaneous death. It is supposed that he received an electric shock, which rendered him unconscious and caused him to lose his hold of the pole.

The inquest, which was held by Dr. Martin, of Dundalk, disclosed the fact that deceased was one of a gang of linemen who were putting cross-arms on a line of poles that the Hydro-Electric Commission is running to the new brick plant in Streetsville. Along Main Street in Streetsville the new line runs along the ground occupied by the municipal lighting poles. The Hydro-electric poles, which are about 10 feet higher than the poles of the local plant, pass between the wires of the latter and it was therefore necessary for the workmen to climb between the lighting wires in order to reach the cross arms. It was while Stephenson was passing these wires that he received the shock, which cost him his life. The evidence showed that at the point where he was climbing through, the insulating covering was off the electric wires for a distance of 15 feet. The fatal accident occurred about 11.30 o'clock in the forenoon. The current is usually turned off the Streetsville lines during the daytime, but for some reason or other the person who looked after this had apparently neglected his duty on this particular date. After hearing considerable evidence the inquiry was adjourned until Monday next at 12.30 o'clock in order to give an opportunity to summon witnesses from Streetsville to explain why the power was not turned off and why Stephenson was allowed to endanger his life by passing between two unprotected live wires. The unfortunate man was unmarried.

The members of the Coroner's jury are Albert French, Fred Brewster, Pat Mulligan, John Carter, Norman Byers, Jas. Campbell, Wm. Richardson, Wm. Dolmer, Geo. Wilson, Bert Henderson, Rundle Hunking and Henry Lyons.

Anniversary Services

Anniversary services will be held in Adjala Presbyterian Church on Sunday next, Sept. 21st, and will be conducted by Rev. W. E. Wallace, of Caledon East. Mr. Wallace will conduct both morning and evening services.

The Easy Laxative

In justice to yourself you should try Rexall Orderlies,—your money back if you don't like them. They are a candy confection that really do give easy relief from constipation.

Good health is largely dependent upon the bowels. When they become sluggish the waste material that is thrown off by the system accumulates. This condition generates poisons which circulate throughout the body, tending to create coated tongue, bad breath, headache, dull brain action, nervousness, biliousness and other annoyances.

Avoid harsh cathartics and physics. They give but temporary relief. They often aggravate the real trouble. They are particularly bad for children, delicate or aged persons.

Rexall Orderlies

Come in tablet form, taste just like candy and are noted for their easy, soothing action upon the bowels. They don't purge, gripe, cause nausea, looseness, nor the inconveniences attendant upon the use of purgatives. Their action is so pleasant that the taking of Rexall Orderlies almost becomes a desire instead of a duty.

Children like Rexall Orderlies. They are ideal for aged or delicate persons as well as for the most robust. They act toward relieving constipation, and also to overcome its cause and to make unnecessary the frequent use of laxatives. They serve to tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles of the bowels and associate organs or glands.

Make Us Prove It

We guarantee to refund every penny paid us for Rexall Orderlies if they do not give entire satisfaction. We ask no promises and we in no way obligate you. Your mere word is sufficient for us to promptly and cheerfully refund the money.

Doesn't that prove that Rexall Orderlies must be right? You must know we would not dare make such a promise unless we were positively certain that Rexall Orderlies will do all we claim for them. There is no money risk attached to a trial of Rexall Orderlies, and in justice to yourself, you should not hesitate to test them.

Rexall Orderlies come in convenient vest-pocket size tin boxes. 12 tablets, 10c; 36 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c.

CAUTION: Please bear in mind that Rexall Orderlies are not sold by all druggists. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at the Rexall Stores. You can buy Rexall Orderlies in this community only at our store:

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

Mulmur Farm Hand Fatally Injured as Result of a Peculiar Accident.

An accident that terminated fatally, took place on the farm of Thos. A. Ferguson, lot 11, con. 3, W.H.S., Mulmur, on Monday, Sept. 1st, 1913. A young man named Joseph Moulton, who was engaged as a farm hand, working for Mr. Ferguson, was engaged unloading buckwheat with a hay fork. Instead of using one horse, which was kept for the purpose, the young man took the team off the wagon and hitched them to the hay fork rope. When the horses started to draw up the load, the rope happened to be twisted and the fork did not trip readily. Just when the load stopped the young man was close behind the team and the end clevis came off the doubletree and the end of the doubletree flew back and struck him in the abdomen. Dr. Davis, of Hornings Mills was telephoned for at once, and despite the best medical attention and care he died on the following Monday morning at 4 o'clock. Mr. Ferguson was engaged helping a neighbor to thresh when the accident occurred. The remains were brought to Shelburne on Monday evening by undertaker F. C. Dance and sent by the morning train on Tuesday to his home in Toronto. Deceased was 25 years of age.—Free Press.

FELL FROM TRAIN.

Alliston Man Killed on Way Home from Exhibition.

Alexander Stevenson, after spending last Thursday at the exhibition grounds in Toronto, was unable to tell the frequenters of his billiard room, what had interested him most. Instead of walking into his premises as he had intended a few minutes after the train had pulled in at the depot, his lifeless body was carried into his home in the course of an hour after he had met his death by stepping off the incoming evening train from Toronto before it had come to a standstill. Mr. Stevenson got on the train at Parkdale shortly after six o'clock. He sat in a first-class coach all the way up from Toronto and occassionally as he caught the eye of some person he knew he nodded a recognition. As the train approached the station here it was quite evident to most of the passengers aboard that there would be a general clearing out of the coaches when this point was reached. For some reason, which will never be known, Mr. Stevenson was in a hurry to get off and while the train was some distance out of town he left his seat and went to the coach platform where he stood till the station was approached and then he went the two or three steps leading off the platform and stood on the bottom one. The train, which was an unusually heavy one, was coming in very smoothly and just south of the station platform Mr. Stevenson stepped off. No doubt he thought the platform had been reached and was unaware the train was moving as fast as it was. He fell to the ground, a distance of about three feet and died in about a quarter of an hour. An examination of the spot disclosed blood on the soil about three inches from a heavy timber which is sunk some two or three feet from the ties to prevent the water which escapes when engines are taking a supply from washing the ballast away from the ends of the ties. This timber is heavy and solidly imbedded. There were few marks about Mr. Stevenson's head and no serious contrusions were visible. It looked as if the unfortunate man had struck his chin on the retaining timber with such a force that an internal fracture, serious enough to cause death, was sustained. This supposition is supported by the discovery of one of the deceased's teeth, which had been broken off without any injury having been done to the lips. After his fall Mr. Stevenson was carried up on the platform. He was unconscious and died without uttering a word. Dr. Cunningham reached his side before he breathed his last and after death notified the coroner, who prepared to hold an inquest. Deceased was 62 years of age and was an inoffensive, kindly, jovial old man, whom everybody liked. He came to Alliston about three years ago from Stayner and opened a billiard and pool room on Victoria street. For many years he lived on a farm in Tecumseth township. He was twice married and is survived by a wife, and one son and two daughters. The funeral took place on Saturday morning the body being taken to Stayner for interment.—Alliston Herald.

IRISH HAVE THE BEST TEETH.

Vegetable Diet Responsible.

The best teeth in the United Kingdon are the Irish and the worst the Scots, says Dr. Stewart, the medical officer for East Suffolk, who read a paper at the conference of the British Dental Association at Cambridge recently, according to the London Chronicle's correspondent.

All the dentists consulted agreed that the assertion is substantially true. Scots' teeth are bad and are becoming worse. Dr. Stewart attributes the deterioration to the inordinate passion of Scots' children for sweets. Mr. Rhodes, the president of the Association, suggests as another cause the increasing habit of making meals of tea and bread and butter and the decreasing consumption of oatmeal. Another authority thinks that the deficiency of lime in Scottish water is a contributing factor.

The strong white teeth of the Irishman, which are the admiration of the dentist when he looks at them and his despair when he has to extract one, are attributed to his simple vegetarian diet. He eats little meat and few sweets, and his food is of the kind that requires biting. Soft food makes soft teeth; soft teeth rot, and rotting teeth, in the words of the president, injure the national health to an incredible extent.

We are far too carnivorous a race. Prehistoric man was wiser. Dr. Duckworth, the director of science of the university, interested the delegates with a lecture on the jaws of the prehistoric skull dug up at Piltdown, Sussex. The teeth are worn flat. They are of the kind fitted for a vegetarian rather than a meat eater. Their owner reached a ripe old age without the assistance of a qualified dentist.

Happily one does not need to denounce all the comforts of life in order to retain sound teeth. Dr. Stewart created enthusiasm by declaring that cheese and biscuits, nuts and port are the natural ending to a dinner—biscuits and nuts because they are crisp and clean the teeth, port because it contains acid salts.

At what age should a child's teeth first receive attention? School age is too late, it was urged, for by then the infant teeth have gone and on them depends the soundness of the permanent teeth. A dentist said that if he had his way every child's mouth should be examined at the age of three or four years. A doctor said he would prefer three or four months.

WHAT A LITTLE CLOCK DID.

A little clock in a jeweller's window in a certain Western town stopped one day for half an hour at fifteen minutes to nine. School children, noticing the time, stopped to play; people hurrying to the train, after a look at the clock, stopped to chat a minute with one another. And all were half an hour late, because one small clock stopped. Never had these people known how much they depended on that clock until it had led them astray.

You may think you have no influence, but you cannot go wrong in one little act without leading others astray.

WHEN THE COYOTES DINED ON CHICKEN.

"What is the dog barking at anyway? Such a noise as she has been making all night is enough to keep anyone awake," complained a young farmer early one fall morning.

"I am sure I cannot tell," responded his wife. "I hope the wolves are not at the chickens."

"Just listen to that," continued the farmer, "there is certainly something wrong outside. I will slip on my clothes and take the shot gun out. It is too dark yet to use the rifle. Those chickens have no show up at that stack if wild animals should happen along. Just as soon as I can I intend to build a henhouse. I wouldn't want anything to happen to our well bred birds after the money we have put into them."

In less than five minutes the farmer was ready and had provided himself with a gun and shells. The dog continued to bark furiously and ran back and forth from the house door towards a stack of straw, where were the twenty-six chickens, for whom no better place had as yet been provided on the new farm.

As the door was opened the little fox terrier bounded in with hair fairly bristling. Upon seeing her master with his gun in his hand, with a savage growl and a leap in the air, the terrier was off again in the direction of the stack, her master following hard on her heels.

"Looks as though that might be some of the chickens out a few yards from the stack," thought the man as he hurried on. On reaching the spot he exclaimed in consternation: "Great Scott! it's feathers."

Looking around he tried to accustom his eyes to the early morning light, but try as he might he could distinguish no living thing; not even a hen was in sight. On going farther around the stack he came upon his chickens and to his horror discovered that half of them were dead. The ground looked as though a feather tick had been emptied on it. Still there was no sign of the culprit. He continued on his way around the stack, walking through the feathers and among bits of chicken flesh, the remnants of the poor slaughtered fowl, towards where the little dog was in turns barking, whining, snapping and growling. There, tearing away at a chicken, stood a great, savage coyote.

Only for a second did the man hesitate for the dog was between the gun and the wolf. Then Bang! Bang! through the morning air. There was a howl of rage and pain, a turn to the right and then to the left, a leap, a bound and he was out of sight in the darkness of a ravine. The moment the man had caught sight of the wolf the wolf had also caught sight of the man. The brave little fox terrier had not been able to frighten him away but in less than a minute after the man had appeared the wild beast had put himself almost out of gunshot. The man ran towards the spot where the wolf had disappeared hoping to get another shot at him, but in the dim light nothing could be seen.

Out of the twenty-six full grown chickens only one could be found that day but the following morning three more appeared for food and drink and that was all that ever returned. Some had been eaten on the top of the stack, others at the bottom and still others had been carried to some small "bullallo willow" a short distance from the stack.

At intervals all through the following winter two large coyotes were seen, both on and around the farm. Several different ways were tried in order to get within rifle shot of them but owing to the lay of the land at that particular place the hunters never succeeded in getting another shot at them.

This incident happened on the "Soo line" between Moose Jaw and Estevan in Saskatchewan, less than two miles from town.—Mrs. C. H. Herron in Rod & Gun.

IS POTATO BUG DISAPPEARING

The Ontario crop reports notes that in a number of places fewer potato bugs than usual have been seen this summer. An insect described as a small flattish bug by the correspondents and recognized as Perillus Bioculatus var Claudus by the experts attacks both adult beetles and the larvae and destroys some of them. The potato bug first made its appearance in Canada in 1871, and appeared in large numbers in 1872 and 1873, coming along the lines of railway from its supposed home in Colorado. We were then told that in two or three years it would pass away, but there has been a strenuous fight against it ever since, and it would be interesting to have a computation of how many tons of Paris green have been consumed in order to protect the potato fields and patches from its ravages. If nature has at last come to the relief of farmers and gardeners the new bug will be welcomed by them.

"JUST THE MINISTER'S WIFE"

Mrs. Richard sat by the open window. Her happy gaze caressed the distant hills, the springtime hills that for so many weary months she had thought never to see again. Now she was up once more, a prisoner still, but able to look and listen and understand how beautiful was the world that she had so nearly lost. The church bells were ringing softly, their clearness muffled a little by distance, but still potently sweet in tone.

"They make me sad," thought the minister's wife. "I have been so long away from any service; it will be such weeks before I can go again."

Then, at the click of the gate, she pulled herself together. Dr. Richmond and the boys would soon be coming. "Mother's room" was their first goal, and it would never do to let them see that mother, always so bright and gay and cheerful, even when enduring greatest pain, was in a fit of the "dumps" just because she was getting well, just because the scent of the lilacs and the sound of the church bells had made her feel a little lonesome and away from the world.

But it was a girl's light step that ran quickly up the stairs, a girl's eager voice that begged to come in, and Elinor Lane, her arms heaped with daffodils, leaned over and kissed Mrs. Richmond's forehead.

"Where shall I put them?" she asked, holding out the flowers. "They're from the church. I've left them every week, you know, but today, when Dr. Richmond told me that you were sitting up, I begged him to let me really bring them. Now that you are getting well, I don't believe the parish will give you a moment's rest. You don't know how we've missed you!"

"You've all been so kind—too kind!" Mrs. Richmond murmured, her thin cheeks flushing with pleasure. "I had no idea I was so blessed in friends, but, of course, you would be thoughtful and attentive because of Dr. Richmond—"

"Not at all!" broke in Elinor, a little hotly. "It's you yourself! We love Dr. Richmond, too, but don't you realize what you've meant and do mean to the parish?"

"But, my dear," interrupted Mrs. Richmond, still flushed and a little bewildered, "you can't know how it's weighed on me, this uselessness of mine, for I've never been really the 'minister's wife'; I've just been Mrs. Richmond. I never had a voice so I couldn't take my place in the choir, I wasn't the least bit musical; I couldn't even play the organ accompaniments for the Sabbath School hymns. And there were always so many, many little children about my knees that I seemed constantly conducting home kindergarten classes and sewing societies all of my own. I thought so often, as I lay here this winter, how much better it would have been if Dr. Richmond had chosen some one more worthy, more able to help him, than I have been."

"And do you never remember," answered Miss Lane, gently, "the year I came here, a forlorn, little, frightened-to-death school teacher, and my Thanksgiving with you just because my home was so far away?

"Don't you ever think of the Baker twins from that forsaken copper mining region? They never would have known anything of Christianity or decency if you hadn't cared for them.

"Don't you know how much all of us realize that Dr. Richmond's splendid theories of life and charity and love come from his happiness with you? Oh, Mrs. Richmond, the parish would be so poor if it had lost you!"

After the girl had gone, Mrs. Richmond sat musing happily, and when the boys came trooping in they saw the same old glad, unquenchable smile that they always looked for and always found on their mother's face. At last Mrs. Richmond understood that her simple life had "smelled sweet and blossomed in the dust."—The Youth's Companion.

Concrete is the cheapest building material

WHETHER for a silo, a milk-house, or a million bushel grain elevator, concrete is the most economical building material in use today.

Concrete never requires repairs, and the saving in repair-expense alone makes the greater economy of using concrete more apparent every day.

The cost of other building materials is constantly increasing.

The cost of concrete is being reduced.

Canada Cement

which Canadian farmers use, with their own sand, stone and gravel to make concrete, is the only ingredient you have to buy.

We have, by reason of our large output and scientific methods, been able to bring the price of "Canada" Cement so low that it is within the reach of everyone.

An increase in demand results in a greater economy of production, and when conditions have warranted it, we have, from time to time, shared this saving with the consumer by reducing the price of Canada Cement. This demand will continue to increase—as fast as farmers learn of concrete's superiority over other materials.

When you buy cement, see that you get "Canada" Cement; by so doing you will assure the complete success of all your concrete work.

THE man who looks into the future and pictures himself the owner of a business, will live to learn that his visions will always be dreams unless his foresight has shown him the need of saving.

THE TOWN HALL

Harry May is Awarded Roofing Contract.

At a special meeting of the Town Council on Monday night the contract of roofing the Town Hall was let to Harry May for $765. The Adamson Hardware Co. submitted a tender for $734.30, which they subsequently withdrew claiming that they had made a mistake in the figuring. The plans, which the Property Committee had prepared for the other improvements were adopted, and the Committee was instructed to procure specifications. These will be submitted at the regular meeting of Council next Monday night. Chief Marshall was appointed to oversee the work of putting on the new roof. He will receive $15 for his services.

Council put through the following motion relative to liquor seizures :—"That in future the Town Constable inform the License Inspector of any cases of liquor that should be seized and ask him to take proceedings in regard thereto and that Mr. A. A. Hughson notify the Inspector as to the position of the Jas. M. Smith case and ask him to take it up as the Town will not proceed further with it.

The Streets Committee was authorized to put down a drain from the site of the Dods' factory.

NEW COUNTY JUDGE.

W. G. Fisher, of Alliston, Succeeds Judge McCarthy

Mr. W. G. Fisher, an Alliston lawyer, has been appointed County Judge of the County of Dufferin. The new appointee succeeds Mr. Maitland McCarthy, who resigned about two months ago owing to having reached the age limit. The new Judge is about 50 years of age and has practised his profession in Alliston upwards of twenty years. He is the senior member of the legal firm of Fisher & Bell.

FAIR NOTES.

Gate and concert receipts with the sale of privileges brought in nearly $1000.

The Grenadiers' Band was a popular attraction. The Band provided excellent music and was not a bit stingy about it.

Streetsville was represented by four auto loads. The visitors were conspicuous in silk hats decorated with red tickets advertising Streetsville Fair. Three of the autos provided an impromptu attraction in the form of a mile race. The event took immensely with the crowd.

Secretary Endacott put in a busy day looking after entry tickets, members' tickets and the multifarious duties that usually fall to the lot of the Secretary. He had a capable assistant in Mr. T. J. Bennett.

The Dog Show made good and was easily one of the strong attractions.

Fruit and peanut vendors did a roaring trade.

A number of games were in operation and the proprietors seemed to get all the business they could handle.

This will probably be Mr. Endacott's last year as Secretary. It would perhaps be considered infra dig to have the Sheriff of the County continue as Secretary. If he resigns the Society will lose the services of a capable and hardworking official.

Best Tuck's display of vegetables was a dandy.

President Leighton and the Society Directors are wearing the smile that wont come off. They worked hard and it is quite natural that they should feel elated over the success of the Fair.

No one was better pleased over the success of the Fair than ex-Postmaster John Park, who is one of the Society's hardest working directors.

This year's Officers and Directors are :—Hon.-Pres., Judge McCarthy ; Pres., Geo. A. Leighton ; 1st Vice-Pres., W. M. Green ; 2nd Vice-Pres., Jos. Gillespie ; Secretary-Treasurer, H. Endacott. Directors, D. A. Hogg, J. B. Armstrong, W. J. Holmes, S. Cruikshank sr., Peter Norris, John Park, Jno. J. Ellis, Nelson Black and O. Woodland. Lady Directors—Mesdames E. J. Ellis, P. Norris, N. Black, W. Frendin, Jos. Gillespie, W. M. Green, G. A. Leighton, J. B. Armstrong, W. J. Holmes, D. A. Hogg and Misses Sarah Ellis, A. Park and Lucy Cruikshank.

The District Branch of the Department of Agriculture had a tent on the grounds, wherein farmers had the opportunity of inspecting many exhibits of special interest and value to them in their farm work. The genial and energetic representative, Mr. H. A. Dorrance, was in charge and spent a busy afternoon greeting his numerous callers and answering the questions which they propounded.

Jno. E. Jackson, a young farmer from the Mono Mills district, showed a pen of fine Hampshire sheep.

The school children's parade took well and will grow in popularity from year to year.

The Society is indebted to Mr. James Curry, the Toronto broker, for his handsome prize of $10 for the best decorated wagon. Three schools entered for the prize and all three had exceedingly attractive entries.

The main hall was simply jammed during the greater part of the afternoon.

We hope to give the Dog Show prizewinners in next week's issue.

Messrs. Walter Berwick and Hugh Malconer, of Shelburne, and E. G. Bingham and F. W. Ritchie, of Orangeville, were the Committee in charge of the Dog Show.

THE FALL FAIR

A Fine Day—A Large Crowd and a Splendid Exhibition.

Attendance Away Ahead of Former Years.

The Directors of the Dufferin Agricultural Society were favored with ideal weather for their annual Fall Exhibition last Thursday and Friday. It would have been difficult to obtain a more favorable day than Friday for the fair. A warm sun shone from a cloudless sky flooding the land with brightness and casting over the great crowd that thronged the grounds its spell of all pervading cheerfulness. A gentle eastern breeze tempered the rays of old Sol and imparted an exhilarating quality of freshness to the air. With the splendid attractions that the Directorate had secured for the Fair and the ideal atmospheric conditions, it was not surprising that the attendance should surpass all previous records. Old timers talk of larger fairs twenty-five or thirty years ago, but so far as the recollection of the younger generation serves the attendance at Friday's fair constituted a record. Estimates of the attendance naturally vary a good deal, but a careful computation, based upon the amount of the gate receipts, the number of membership tickets issued and the distribution of tickets to school children, warrants the conclusion that there were close to 5000 people on the grounds on Friday afternoon. The countryside turned out splendidly and there were many visitors present from Grand Valley, Shelburne, Brampton and other outlying points. It is doubtful if the neighboring villages of Shelburne and Grand Valley have ever been so well represented at Orangeville Fair.

The exhibition itself was a credit to the Society despite the unfavorable year. Owing to the protracted drought and the consequent scarcity of pasturage it has not been an easy matter to put live stock in condition for exhibition purposes. For the same reason potatoes, field roots and vegetables are not up to the average in size and it is more difficult to get exhibits in these lines than is usually the case. There were not nearly so many potatoes shown as usual, but the display of other field roots, vegetables and fruit was quite as good as on former occasions. Grain was off in quantity and the same observation is applicable to the exhibit in the poultry department. There were more cattle on the grounds than usual and the showing of sheep and pigs was about the same as last year. There was a splendid turnout of horses in all the classes. There were more heavy horses on the grounds than usual. A significant feature was the great interest taken in the judging of the horses. The enclosures were always lined with interested spectators while the judging was in progress.

There was an exceptionally good showing of foliage plants and cut flowers, butter, home baking and ladies' fancy work in the main hall. The display of ladies work was probably the best that has ever been made at a Fall Fair here. The exhibit was not only noteworthy for the number of articles shown but for its excellence in point of quality. An interesting display of oil paintings, water colors, pencil and crayon sketches, burnt work, photos, plain and ornamental penmanship was made in the fine arts department. One of the most interesting features in the hall was Mr. H. F. Tuck's neatly arranged display of garden vegetables, which comprised about 100 kinds and varieties of vegetables.

Orangeville business men made a number of attractive displays. Upstairs McPherson & Johnston had a large display of boots and shoes. Alongside this exhibit Ritchie Bros. made an excellent display of rugs and carpets. Adjoining this the McMillan Clothing Co. made an attractive showing of fur and fur-lined coats, overcoats and suitings. F. H. Doherty showed Victrolas and a range of bicycles, bicycle lamps and other sundries. Downstairs, J. E. Smith & Co., showed several vehicles, cream separators, robes etc. E. H. Smith had a display of pianos, robes, whips etc. and the National Manfg. Co. showed some of their well-known ranges. Gillespie Bros. had a furniture exhibit and Wm. Fiddes, of Orangeville, and James Martin, of Brampton, made piano exhibits.

The procession of school children from the Public School grounds to Exhibition Park was a big success. The procession, which took place shortly after one o'clock, was headed by the Royal Grenadiers' Band, followed by the High and Public School Cadet Corps. Then came about three hundred school children marshalled by Principal Firth. The rear was brought up by the competitors for Mr. James Curry's prize of $10 for the best decorated wagon with school children from rural schools only. There were three competitors for this prize, namely, Laurel Public School (Miss Edith Liddy, teacher), Mono College school (Miss Ina Porter, teacher), and The Maples school in East Garafraxa (W. B. Groskurth, teacher). The wagons were all gaily decorated and each carried a capacity load of school children. The judges had no easy task picking the winner, but finally awarded the prize to the Laurel school. Mono College and The Maples were given second and third places respectively.

The speeding events were keenly contested, even though they were won in straight heats. The track was in excellent condition and the races provided some splendid entertainment during the early part of the afternoon. The results were as follows :—

The whippet races proved a popular and exciting event. There were three competitors and although the dogs ran a full 200 yards a blanket would have covered the three of them at the finish. They made the course at a speed equal to the fleetest horse. The pony and whippet race was marred by a bad start, the pony getting away to a lead that gave the dog no chance whatever.

The dog show was another extremely popular attraction. About fifty dogs competed, the majority of them being from Toronto and Hamilton. Airedales and bull dogs were very much in evidence. Some handsome collies were also shown and there were several diminutive terriers and toy poodles that attracted a great deal of attention. The prize list, which was quite extensive, included a number of valuable specials by The Canadian Kennel Club, the Bull Dog Breeders' Association, the Cocker Spaniel Club, the Canadian Fox Terrier Club and the Airedale Terrier Club.

The splendid Band of the Royal Grenadiers provided music on the grounds during the afternoon and gave a delightful concert in the Town Hall at night. The latter drew a capacity audience, every seat in the house being filled. The different numbers were enthusiastically received and in several instances Bandmaster Waldron and his musicians complied with the insistent demands for encores. The full band numbers were a descriptive piece, "Parade of the Tin Soldiers," the overture "Barber of Seville," Suite Americana introducing tubular chimes, a popular medley of airs, a whistling serenade "Pied Lied," "By the Swanee River" and "I Want to be in Dixie." The other numbers were a clarinet solo "Blue Bells" by Mr. Fred Collett, a cornet solo "Commodore Polka" by Mr. T. Meredith, a xylophone solo by Mr. H. Mead, a trombone solo "The Old Home" by Mr. A. Canham and vocal solos "Asleep in the Deep" by Mr. W. Mosier and "The Good Old Union Jack" by Mr. H. Mead. The concert receipts amounted to $170 or over.

IN ST. ANDREW'S

Moderator of General Assembly Addresses Large Congregations on Sunday.

Powerful Discourses on the Home and Foreign Mission Work of the Church.

Rev. Murdoch McKenzie, General Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, occupied the pulpit in St. Andrew's Church here on Sunday and addressed large congregations both morning and evening. In the afternoon the Moderator was driven out to Laurel, where he spoke to another large audience in the Presbyterian Church. His discourses were marked by clarity of thought, grace and eloquence in delivery and ripe scholarship. The Moderator is an earnest, convincing speaker, who has the faculty of making everything clear to his hearers, and his addresses made a profound impression upon all who had the good fortune to hear him.

In the morning sermon, which was based upon parts of verses 1 and 5 of the 20th Chapter, 1st Chronicles, he spoke particularly of the problems which confront the Christian Church in Canada and the magnitude of the work which lies at hand in this young and rapidly growing country. During the last year it had been the speaker's privilege to travel much through Canada and he had been profoundly impressed by the vastness of its territory and the magnitude of its resources. Not only was Canada a country of vast territory and great resources, but because of its position it was destined to play a great part in the history of the world. It was linked to the British Empire, the greatest nation that has ever stepped upon the stage of time. Canada was destined to be the great highway between the western nations and the more ancient nations of the East. It was well to remember, however, that extent of territory and wealth of resources did not necessarily make a nation great. Despite her immense population, China's right to rank among the great nations has been seriously questioned. Greece, Palestine and Scotland were not great in point of territory or wealth, yet each of them had exerted a profound influence upon the history of the world. In Canada the Church was confronted with great problems. There was the problem of assimilating and Canadianizing the foreign peoples who were pouring into the country. In Winnipeg alone no less than 120 languages and dialects are spoken. A blending of races and languages is taking place and upon the outcome will depend the future greatness of the country. These foreigners, the speaker pointed out, are coming to Canada not with the idea of doing something for this country, but because of what they expect to get out of it. Reference was also made to the French-Canadian problem and the desirability of welding all these diverse elements of population into one homogeneous whole that would be Canadian in sentiment and in which Canadian ideals and convictions should dominate. What after all makes a nation great? Each class considers itself indispensable to the welfare of the state, but it is the Church of Christ that is after all the mightiest transforming agent. Jesus Christ and the influence of His teaching had done more to make Britain a great nation than all the other factors that had been at work for the last nineteen centuries. There was something in the Christian religion that is at endless war with the forces and influences that are detrimental to man's physical, mental and intellectual well-being. The speaker closed his address with an eloquent plea for consecrated Christian living and service. If Canada is to be great Christ must be given his rightful place in life, in the home and in the school. "Who would not fight for such a land as Scotland" exclaimed Wallace, the Scottish warrior and patriot, to his men in one of his moments of deep emotion. Likewise, who would not live for such a land as Canada and who would not live for such a Captain as Jesus Christ, having the assurance that in so doing he is living for his country's truest and highest interests.

The text chosen for the evening sermon was "The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God" Mark, Ch. I.V.I. The history of the Christian Church, it was pointed out, was one series of beginnings. It had been the privilege of many branches of the Church to begin the teaching of the Word of God in many lands. For a quarter of a century it had been the privilege of the speaker to labor as a missionary in Honan and he purposed to speak of the beginnings of the Christian religion in North Honan. Why should a Christian man leave home and the comforts and advantages of his own land to give the gospel of Christ to a non-Christian people was a question which the Moderator discussed at some length. His conclusion was that it was Christ's desire that the Gospel should be made known to all peoples and that the command "Go ye and preach the Gospel" is just as definite as the injunction "This do in remembrance of me." The missionary in China began his work under very difficult circumstances. The first thing to be done was to endeavor to master the Chinese language. Even when this was done there was the problem of understanding the Chinese mind, the Chinese mode of thought and the Chinese attitude. The language conveyed Chinese ideas and thoughts and there was the difficulty of making it convey Christian thought and ideals. The missionary found himself placed amid a new and strange environment and face to face with life under conditions entirely different from those he had grown accustomed to in his home land. He found too at the outset that the Chinese refused to accept the view of life he presented—refused indeed to even believe in the sincerity of his motives. To the Chinese mind it was incomprehensible that any person would come 7000 miles to proclaim a new religion. They would not go seven miles to proclaim theirs and it was unbelievable that others would do what they would not do. The missionary, therefore, found that he was regarded as sailing under false colors, as being a political spy or some sort of advance agent who had come to the country to further the interests of the government of his own land. The missionary must study and endeavor to understand conditions of life in China—to understand if possible how the people live, how they labor, how they speak, think and act and how they are influenced by the force of custom. Having done this as best he can his hope of success lies in exalting the Lord Jesus Christ. He can meet the Chinaman and break down the barriers of suspicion and distrust by exalting the Christ and by putting Him to the test. The speaker told of his first convert in North Honan—a confirmed opium user. On the subject of the opium traffic he stated he had never been able to stand up for his own country. He considered that the attitude of Gt. Britain was morally indefensible. To show that the leavening influence of Christianity reached all classes Dr. McKenzie also told of the conversion of a Chinese scholar and of his splendid work for Christ after his conversion. From small and slow beginnings the work had grown until at the present time in the village in which he made his headquarters there was a self-supporting Chinese church capable of seating 270 people and Christian schools for boys and girls. A touching reference was made to the trying times of the Boxer rebellion, when an Imperial edict was put into circulation proclaiming that Christianity must be stamped out in China and when upwards of 10,000 Chinese Christians were put to the test and were faithful unto death. Instead of being stamped out as its enemies had hoped it would be Christianity had made greater progress in China in the last ten years than during the preceding fifty years. The first President of the new Chinese Republic and no less than sixty members of the Legislature were professing Christians. The Church of God was becoming deeply and strongly rooted in the Chinese nation and in the lives of its people.

The choir furnished special music at both services. The morning numbers were "Hark, hark My Soul" by Shelley and "What Are These" by Stainer. The evening anthems were "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," by Stainer and "I am Alpha," Stainer. The solo parts were taken by Miss Bea Harshaw and Mr. J. E. Jessop. The people of St. Andrew's have reason to be proud of their choir, which, under the leadership of Mr. Jessop, has developed into a strong, well-balanced organization.

THE ROCKTOWN SIDE

One of the Players Answers Letter of Camilla Fan.

Granger, Sept. 20th, 1913.

Editor Orangeville Banner

Sir—It is highly entertaining to see the way in which Mr. Baseball Fan handed around the bouquets in his last letter. We are surprised at the way in which he so far forgot himself as to throw filthy mud around. We are sorry that he hadn't more control over his temper than to allow it to run away with him. the way it did, and no doubt he is sorry himself by this time at his exhibition of sour temper. However, it only goes to prove that Mr. Fan has been sadly worsted in the argument which he started, as the party who gets the worst of an argument is always the first to pass around the flowers.

If we have not got the best of him, why does he leave the original topic? Why does he not defend his former statements that they were short of players, and that the Alton boys were not asked until the last moment etc. Suppose the two players did not turn [illegible] there only nine or ten boys [illegible] play baseball around Granger. If the Alton boys were not asked to play until the very last [illegible] come that they were ready [illegible] before we were? Possibly [illegible] last part of his letter [illegible] That possibly [illegible] Well Mr. Editor we [illegible] him they were somewhat [illegible]

If [illegible] with making [illegible] and exploding a [illegible] and hurling [illegible] in the direction [illegible] the way he did [illegible] as he had no [illegible] as it had no bearing [illegible] question whatever, he would [illegible] ridiculous in the [illegible]

He [illegible] Mr. Lewis, a gentleman [illegible] that as too bad [illegible] Mr. Lewis will [illegible] after that. However [illegible] not so surprising [illegible] is often very difficult [illegible] to honor [illegible] instance. If Mr. [illegible] topic be [illegible] better at [illegible] agree with [illegible] of modern [illegible] all the [illegible] when it [illegible] Mr. Fan had [illegible] hat almost [illegible] We are free to [illegible] lives up to [illegible] could not [illegible] foot pole, nor [illegible] his vile remarks [illegible] Lewis, we wonder what [illegible] gentleman he imagines [illegible]

Mr. [illegible] not be solicitous about [illegible] of the Mono Centre boys [illegible] can assure him that if [illegible] any more anymoved [illegible] there will be [illegible] we find to see how [illegible] any more disgraceful to be at our beck and call than for the Alton players to be at the beck and call of Camilla. By the way we rise to remark that when the Camilla players saw that we were not going to fall for their dirty work, they asked the Mono Centre boys to play for fun. Yes, the Centre players are good enough to play for fun, but when it is for a prize Camilla passes them up. No doubt the Mono Centre boys feel flattered.

Mr. Fan thinks we need some lessons in sportsmanship. Well, I guess if we are taking any lessons it will be from Camilla as they have the very latest brand right from Eaton's down there. Yes sir they have the very best XXX kind and they will give all the lessons you want for the asking, any one of which is worth the price of admission. Their only fault is that if you don't jump when they wink some of the fans get as mad as bunty and as likely as not will say all sorts of mice things about your leader.

We think we are quite right in saying that after having examined Mr. Fan's letter clean across and right through, up the middle and down the back, we have him on the jump, with the accent on the jump. However, if Mr. Fan has anything more to say let him get back to the original question and not emit any more of his puerile screechings.

Thanking you for your valuable space, we are as before

A ROCKTOWN PLAYER.

We think this controversy has reached the stage when both sides should be content to allow it to end. The subject has been pretty well threshed out and there is little to be gained from further discussion.—Ed.

CAMILLA.

Mr. Chas. Rayfield, of Montreal, is spending a few days at his home here.

Mr. Richard Burton, of Toronto, visited at Mr. A. Bremner's last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilson, of Corbetton, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. White, on Sunday.

Miss R. Adair, of the Queen City, is the guest of Miss Berdita Thompson.

Mr. Will Bremner, of Muskoka, spent last week at his home.

Mr. Fred Rayfield left on Tuesday for Toronto, where he will attend McMaster University.

Miss Lillie South visited Mono Centre friends last week.

The Camilla baseball team journeyed to Laurel last Monday afternoon and played an interesting game with the Laurelites. The Camilla nine won by a score of 13 to 4. Mr. Hanks acted as umpire. The lineup was:—p., E. Curtis; c., Edwin White; 1b., G. Canning; 2b., R. Bremner; 3b., C. Scott; s.s., W. Ewing; r.f., G. Langtree; c.f., F. Jackson; l.f., F. Thompson. A return game will be played here on Friday, Sept. 26.

CALEDON EAST.

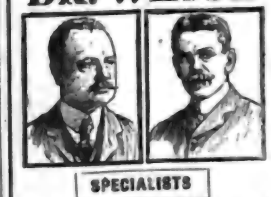
Mr. Jos. T. Proctor is busy laying cement walks on Main St. The cement is being put down from Mill St. to Burrell's store on the Caledon side and from McElwain's store to the upper end of the village on the Albion side.

The G.T.R. has a large gang of men at work widening the cuts on the railway just north of this village.

James Walker has purchased Mrs. York's dwelling house on Main St., south of the railway tracks. The price paid was $1500. The sale shows that Caledon East property is booming notwithstanding the high taxes and high cost of living.

There is an excellent apple crop in this section this year. Wm. Boland is buying and states that he expects there will be about 5000 barrels shipped from Caledon East this fall. Prices for fall apples are about $1.00 per barrel and for the winter varieties about $1.35 per barrel.

The grain crops were above the average in quality and yield in the Caledon East district this year. As a consequence most of our farmers are wearing the smile that won't come off.



Potatoes are an average crop here abouts. The quality is good and farmers are likely to realize good prices for all they have to market. R. W. Burrell & Son are paying 60c at present.

Mr. James Parsons attended Orangeville Fall Fair last Friday. Our townsman reports a large crowd and a splendid Fair. Quite a number of our villagers spent the day in the Dufferin metropolis.

Coroner's Jury Fixes Responsibility for Death of Bert Stephenson

At Corbetton on Monday Dr. Martin, of Dundalk, and a Coroner's jury concluded the inquiry into the cause of the death of Bert Stephenson, the hydro-electric lineman, who was instantly killed by coming in contact with a live wire while working on Streetsville a few weeks ago. The circumstances of the young man's death were fully set forth in last week's Banner. The only new evidence on Monday was that given by Wm. Moffatt. H. Trethewey and Wm. Casey, three Hydro-electric linemen, who were working with Stephenson when the fatality occurred. After hearing the evidence and the Coroner's remarks the jury brought in the following verdict:—

"The verdict of the jury is that Bert Stephenson came to his death by coming in contact with live wires while working for the Hydro-Electric at Streetsville on the 2nd of September, 1913, and that the Company was culpable in sending men to work in places that were known to be dangerous."

Campbellville is asking Halton County Council to be set apart as a police village.

Sam. Armstrong, a hydro-electric employee, was working near the top of a high pole in Elmvale, when he received a shock from the telephone wires, which in some unaccountable way had become charged with hydro current, and his body became rigid as he lay suspended from the pole by his belt. Two other employees rushed up the pole and brought him to the ground. A few burns on the arm and leg bear evidence to the passage of the current through his body.

A ROYAL TRAGEDY.

German Princess Suicided Because She Could Not Wed Man of Her Choice.

Was in Love with Son of a Wealthy Berlin Banker.

Princess Sophie, the only daughter of Prince Wilhelm of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, killed herself in her room in her father's castle last week by shooting herself. The act is supposed to have been caused by melancholia brought on because of the apparent unsurmountable obstacles to her marriage to the man of her choice, and the hopeless, loveless future before her.

The Princess, who was 25 years of age, was in love with the young Baron Hans von Bleichroder, son of the head of the famous banking house of Berlin, who was noted for valuable financial services to the empire, and who is one of the most influential financiers in Germany. This story has been rumored for some time, and it is said that the young Baron returned her affection; in fact, that they were pledged to each other.

The romance was shattered, however, by the opposition on the part of the family of the Princess. There have been vague rumors of violent scenes in the family of the young woman. The Princess made tearful, pathetic and hysteric appeals for permission to marry the man of her heart, but her relatives remained immovable.

The rock in the path of the happiness of the Princess is said to have been the Grand Duke Ernst of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, the head of the house, who is said to have declared his unalterable opposition to the marriage, not so much because the baron was beneath the Princess in rank, but because the young man's father is a Jew who had refused to renounce his creed.

It was given out early this morning that the Princess had been found dead in her room and that she had died from heart disease. Rumors that she had committed suicide soon began to circulate, which, while no official statement was made, were confirmed by well-informed persons who are close to the family.

According to the story told by these people, the Princess bade the family good-night as usual shortly before midnight, and retired to her apartments. A few minutes later a shot was heard and the Princess was found dead on the floor of her room with a pistol in her hand and a hole in her forehead.

A brother of the Princess, Count Ostheim, had to leave here to go to London, because of his marriage to an actress, and various scrapes in which he was involved. He got into the Bankruptcy Court in London shortly after his arrival at the English capital. He gave up his title of Prince Herrmann, of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach and heir-presumptive to the Grand Ducal throne.

After he had been deprived of all his honors and his title, and shipped to London, Count Ostheim married in London an Italian chorus girl known as Wanda Walters, who had won a prize as a beauty in Milan. His wife afterwards got a divorce from him in the Paris courts.

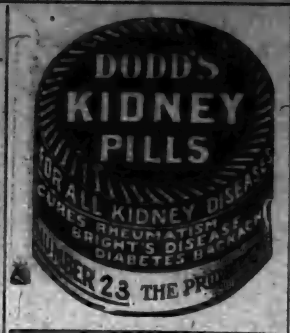
Princess Sophia was a beautiful young woman, unusually popular and much courted by the officers with whom she often rode behind the hounds at the Baden court hunts. Princess Sophia and her parents were much beloved in Heidelberg for the interest they had taken in the poor and the general public welfare, although the father was by no means wealthy and was living on an appanage from the reigning Grand Duke. Her father, it is said, was inclined to accede to his daughter's wishes, but was unable to take an independent stand owing to his financial dependence on the Grand Duke.

ACTON MERCHANT'S WHISKEY TRADE.

Morris Saxe Paid Heavy Fines on Two Charges.

Another Offender Sent to Prison.

Morris Saxe, general storekeeper at Acton, a Hebrew by origin, evidently has visions of living in a "baronial" castle. Acton has two regularly licensed hotels, but Saxe thought he could cater to the wants of the thirsty better, and incidentally make a little extra money for himself, so he proceeded to sell a select brand of "Baronial" whiskey at odd and sundry times, notably after legal hours on Saturday and Sunday. Provincial License Inspector John A. Ayearst elicited this information, and on two prosecutions Saxe was convicted and fined.



The first charge was for selling liquor without a license on August 20th. This charge amounted to $200 and costs. On August 26th, Saxe's premises were again searched, and although further supplies of the "Baronial" quality were found, he was able to prove a doubtful alibi. On September 6th the merry trade continued, but a separate charge was laid this time, that of keeping for sale without a license. This led to a fine of $150 and costs.

John Bridges, who conducts a similar illicit business at a private house, is serving three months at the Central Prison, as he did not have the $100 and costs demanded by the Magistrate.

A number of other complaints of infractions of the liquor license act were laid over until the following Saturday.

Mrs. Anderson Campbell, Brampton, announces the engagement of her second daughter, Clara Louise, to Mr. E. R. Fitzgerald, Baden, formerly, of London, the wedding to take place in October.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING.

Farmers Near Chatsworth Form Important Organization.

Farmers at Chatsworth and adjacent sections of the county of Grey have set themselves to the task of increasing their profits on many products of the farm by eliminating in large measure the profits of the middleman in Toronto.

With this end in view the Chatsworth Marketing Association has been formed. It is a co-operative marketing association, organized according to a Danish scheme. While it has been running only a month already its benefits have been very apparent in the increased returns to the members, and improvement in the quality of the products.

This association is a non-share company. Members on joining each gave a promissory demand note for one hundred dollars. The notes were deposited in the bank and used as collateral on which the bank agreed to lend money. Each member bound himself to market his produce, such as butter, eggs, poultry, fruit, potatoes, honey, wool, etc., with the association. No member may withdraw without the consent of the others, but the whole may be dropped on a vote being taken.

Each farmer sends his produce to Mr. J. C. Wilson, who has been appointed manager at Chatsworth. The produce is graded according to quality, and the farmer is paid there. The produce is then shipped to an agent at Toronto, and disposed of to retail stores. The manager at present is paid a commission on his sales, but later it is expected to put him on salary.

As the project has been entirely an experiment, being the only association of its kind in Ontario, if not in Canada, the originators of it have as yet been operating on a small scale, with only fifteen members. Now after one month a small dividend has been distributed among the members, the distribution being made according to the amount of business done by each member. This dividend is entirely out of profits, and is in addition to the payment originally made to the farmers for their produce.

The present officers, who were instrumental in organizing the association, are: President, Donald Macdonald; Vice-President, Alex. MacGregor; Secretary, Hugh C. Duff, District Representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, in the County of Grey; Manager and Treasurer, J. C. Wilson.

The officers are now assured that the undertaking will be a success, and are planning big things. Already they are seeking a larger membership, are talking of erecting a creamery and canning factory in the spring.

One of the principal objects of the organization is the raising of the standard of quality of their produce. This has been done already to a certain extent, but greater progress in this direction will be made. Careful instructions concerning the care of milch cows, the making of butter, the growing and picking of apples and other fruit, and other matters are given to the members. Accordingly it is anticipated that in addition to the quality of all kinds of produce being improved, a large part of what hitherto has been wasted will be conserved. Apples that formerly have fallen and rotted on the ground will be shipped in to the city and will bring in revenue to the producer.

Everything is graded strictly according to quality and sold on that basis. There is to be no such thing as dishonest packing of fruit on penalty of a fine. Eggs are all candled, and each egg is stamped "Chatsworth," so that the recipient may know where it comes from, and may be assured of the quality.

Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ills arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:

Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."

HE NOW BELIEVES IN "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Because He No Longer Suffers With Headaches

TAYLORVILLE, ONT.

"I was a sufferer from Fearful Headaches for over two years. Sometimes, they were so bad that I was unable to work for days at a time. I took all kinds of medicine, was treated by physicians, but yet the Headaches persisted.

A short time ago, I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I did so, with I must confess, very little faith. But after I had taken them for three days, my Headaches were easier and in a week they left me.

After I had taken a box of these tablets, my headaches were quite cured. My appetite was always poor and my stomach bad—and now my appetite is splendid and my digestion excellent.

I had become thin and weak from the constant Headaches but now not only have I been cured of all these awful Headaches, but my strength is growing up once more and I feel like a new man"

At the meeting of the county council of Wentworth, at Hamilton, Councillor Collins announced that Dundas would soon withdraw from the county. It had a population of 4,800 now, and as soon as it attained a population of 5,000 it would break away from the county. County County Solicitor Counsel gave it as his opinion that Dundas would be liable for up-keep of county roads within the town boundaries. The majority of the council agreed with him. It is proposed that Dundas shall be annexed to Hamilton.

BATTLES IN THE BLOOD.

Antitoxins Fight the Germs of Their Particular Disease.

When any animal has a certain disease its body produces large quantities of the particular antitoxin that will fight that disease. If the blood of this animal be introduced into another animal the latter will get the disease, but in a milder form, and will at the same time be stimulated to secrete large quantities of the antitoxin. It is now capable of resisting an attack by an army of powerful germs and becomes "immune" to the real disease.

If its blood be drawn and filtered to free it from red and white corpuscles the serum that is left is merely the watery part of the blood heavily charged with the antitoxins of that disease. This, injected into the blood of a person suffering from it, re-enforces the antitoxins already there and speedily routs the enemy by neutralizing the poisons that the toxic germs are liberating.

Serum is prepared in two ways—one by taking it from the blood of another animal, the other by a culture from the blood of the patient himself.

There are only one or two diseases that can be cured by medicine. In all others the medicine is given merely to stimulate the natural production of antitoxins. If we knew how to make an antitoxin for every disease we should have no more use for medicine. The number of diseases for which antitoxins are being discovered is multiplying year by year.—New York World.

FILLING THE SILO.

Pointers from the Experience of a Practical Farmer.

I have had nine years' experience in feeding silage and have two silos on my farm. I think there is no safer investment than a lot of green corn stored in the silo. It is not so likely to burn as is hay, and if properly stored and cared for it will keep for years without deteriorating; in fact, the older the better for feeding purposes, for in its ageing it undergoes a ripening process. But it must be carefully preserved.

In filling the silo there is sometimes a great temptation to use corn that is too green. Sometimes one feels that he can take advantage of changes in the weather to do what would naturally be done at another time. But we must by all means wait till the corn is at its best for silage. The best time is when the corn kernels are out of the milk stage and are glazed and quite hard. This is my practice, though I find that some farmers put their corn in when the kernels are just a little out of the milk. I like the corn at that stage of ripeness at which it will keep out the air. That is the difficult thing about it when it is a little too ripe at cutting time. It does not pack well, and the air gets in, and that produces mold. The corn should be cut when the lower leaves are still green but are beginning to show the effects of the summer's heat. If I have corn that is a little too ripe and some that is not so much so I put in the ripest first so that it will come at the bottom of the silo. The result is that the enormous pressure above keeps it packed tightly and keeps out the air, while if it were on top much air would work into it for some feet in the middle and for a long distance down the sides.

In the filling of a silo a man can easily lose a lot of money. He must plan his work so that the men that are running the silage cutter will not be standing idle, but will be able to keep things moving. This will have to be regulated according to the distance the corn-field is from the silo, for there will be more lost time if the corn-field is half a mile from the silo than if it is close by. If the hauling is a slow job then it is better to put the binder in early and let the hauling get a good start of the silage cutter.

There are a number of things about the filling of a silo that must be learned by experience. One of these is to set the blower as nearly perpendicular as possible so that the wind will come from below and push the silage up. If the blower is allowed to slant the silage will settle on the lower side, and the wind will blow over it without disturbing it. To have the silo properly filled the silage must settle evenly. The leaves must not be in one place and the coarser parts of the stalks in another. It must be thoroughly mixed, and in my experience I have found nothing that will do this mixing so well as a man. The silage must also be tramped thoroughly next the sides of the silo, as there it is likely to lie so lightly as to permit the air to enter. The top of the silage should be composed of corn as green as it is possible to secure, as this will decay and seal the whole, thus keeping out the air. I find that too dry silage can be helped somewhat by running water into the top at filling time and after the silo is filled and tramping the silage hard. The idea is to get a hard, wet surface that will decay and keep the rest of the silage from decaying.

In localities where there are many silos they can be filled cheaper than where there are few. The isolated farmer who has a silo has to have more money invested in silage machinery of various kinds than does the farmer in a community where silos are numerous. In such a community the planting of the seed for silage corn can be so timed that the silage crop of one farmer will be suitable for the silo at a time a little earlier or later than that of another farmer. This makes it possible to use the same machinery on more than one farm and expense, is reduced.—Farm and Fireside.

Causes Much Disease

Advice about Stomach Troubles and how to relieve them.

Don't neglect indigestion, for it may lead to all sorts of ills and complications. An eminent physician once said that ninety-five per cent of all ills have their origin in a disordered stomach.

Our experience with Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets leads us to believe them to be one of the most dependable remedies known for indigestion and chronic dyspepsia. Their ingredients are soothing to the inflamed membranes of the stomach. Rich in Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medicine, the relief they afford is very prompt. Used persistently and regularly for a short time, they tend to relieve pains caused by stomach disorders.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets help insure healthy appetite, aid digestion, and promote nutrition. As evidence of our faith in them, we ask you to try them at our risk. TROUBLE IN STORE FOR RURAL COMPANIES.

There are a number of rural co-operative telephone systems in the province that are in serious danger of making an unwilling contribution to the Provincial Treasury. The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, despairing of getting the secretaries of many of these small organizations to comply with the Act and make proper statistical returns, is preparing to institute proceedings against one or two of them as a reminder to the rest that the Board is serious.

Last session charges were made in the Act requiring all telephone companies to make full returns as to revenue, expenses, tariffs etc. to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. The larger companies have complied with the law, but some of the small back-township enterprises have shown a complete disregard of the Board. The usual notifications, accompanied by blank forms, have gone unanswered; "follow-up" letters have fared no better. Finally a warning that a fine would be the penalty was sent out, and this brought in a fair number. There are still quite a few, however, who apparently can see no reason why the Board should be interested in their little home affairs. The penalty for failure to make returns is fixed by the Act at $25.

The annual report of the Board dealing with telephones shows a large increase in the number of municipally-owned telephone systems. At the end of 1912 there were 35 of them, and several others have since been established. The year previous there were only about 20.

The general report of the Board shows a busy year's work. 434 applications, or at the rate of over one a day, having been received and dealt with. The report contains statistical records made by various companies together with a record of the cases dealt with.

ARISTOCRATIC SMITHS.

They Lead the Four Hundred in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

The new Locater of the Social Register, just issued, contains an interesting study of names as they are given in the various Four Hundreds of the cities which have been listed. The Locater, which covers twenty-nine cities, contains the names of 95,048 persons. Of these 50,752 are grouped as Mr. and Mrs. and 44,296 appear as single.

In New York's Four Hundred the Smiths lead, there being 166 in the aristocratic inclosure. The Browns come next with 143, the Clarks third with ninety-one. Although less numerous, the Livingstons, with fifty-eight, are still typically of the metropolis, there being only four Livingstons outside New York. Three are in St. Paul, and one is in Cincinnati. In Washington the name of Davis comes first, with twenty-three, and the Harrisons, Parkers and Smiths are second, with twenty-two. There are twenty-one Johnsons. In Philadelphia there are 137 Smiths, ninety-two Morrises and eighty-nine Biddles.

In Chicago the Smiths are also in the lead. There they number fifty-five as against the thirty-five Adamses, the twenty-six Walkers and the twenty-five Masons. Boston, however, mightily reduces the general average of the Smiths, the Locater enumerating only five of that name who abide in the Back Bay region of the Hub. In the Boston list the Coolidges lead with thirty-eight, followed by the Peabodys and Putnams, thirty-five each. Providence has thirty-one Aldriches and twenty-two Arnolds. St. Louis has such old family names as the Garesches and Cabannes. Cincinnati leads with its Andersons, St. Paul with Hills and Minneapolis with Washburns. In San Francisco there are twenty-eight Adamses, and Baltimore abounds in Williamses and Jenkinses.

EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Work of These Centers of Agricultural Investigation.

In the opinion of many qualified observers the agricultural experiment stations are proving to be one of the greatest agencies of helpfulness in the United States. Under a law passed nineteen years ago each of the states and territories receives several thousand dollars a year from the general government for this purpose. The states add about half as much more. These centers of practical investigation concerning the plant and animal life of the farm in all its bearings are putting numberless theories and customs to a rigid test. It was the practice twenty years ago to cook food for domestic animals, but exhaustive investigations in feeding seemed to show that this is not profitable, and a great change of custom has resulted.

The Minnesota station has accomplished much in improving wheat, the Illinois station in improving the corn yield, the Wisconsin station in the diary and the California station in the reclamation of alkali lands.

The experiment stations are gradually correcting certain of their original mistakes. There was a tendency at first to a duplication of work. Each attempted perhaps to do too many things. Now there is better co-ordination through the department of agriculture at Washington. The stations also are specializing and devoting themselves more particularly to local interests. Each agency has its sphere of influence. It is well to have some men in the community set apart to make the experimental studies for which the individual farmer could not spare the time. Millions of dollars in the aggregate may be lost by a single popular error if sufficiently widespread. To find out what is what is really the task stations are trying to perform.—New York Press.

Other Names For Automobiles.

A Berliner who long has been prominent in local transportation interests has established a motor cab service, the pleasing German name of his vehicles being "automobiletaxameterdroschken." Despite the preposterous title under which they run, the cabs are said to be remarkably handsome and graceful.

If there be anything in a name, the motorcars introduced into some parts of Belgium should instantly become swaybacked and top heavy. The Flemish word for automobile is "snelpaardeloozoondersporwegpetroolrijuig."—New York Press.

Our Chief of Artillery.

Brigadier General Arthur Murray, U. S. A., chief of artillery, is recognized as one of the world's experts in submarine mines. In his hands rests much of the responsibility for guarding the shore line of the country. General Murray was born in Missouri in 1851 and was graduated at the United States Military academy, second in his class, in 1874. He is a lawyer as well as a military man and has also been a professor of military science and tactics at Yale. He has written several technical works relating to army subjects.—Argonaut.

Faithful Postal Workers.

The government has no employees more faithful and none upon whose personal honesty more depends than the thousands of postmasters and postal clerks in our nearly 60,000 postoffices. When one thinks of the countless letters in flimsy envelopes dropped into mail boxes and postoffices, with no protection except a 2 cent stamp and a thin piece of paper against the violation of secrets, the exposure of which might ruin a business, one realizes how much depends on the personal integrity of those who handle the mails.—Leslie's.

THE FRUGAL DUTCH

Economical in Their Use of the Daily Papers.

ONE JOURNAL READ BY MANY

A Number of Families Will Subscribe For a Single Paper, Which Goes the Rounds—Some Thrifty Souls Will Only Rent Their Newspapers.

One thing visitors to Holland notice, and that is that no one on the streets or in the cars is seen reading a newspaper. Papers are not sold or hawked as they are in England and America. It is only when extremely important events take place and the papers print special "bulletins" that these are sometimes bought in the street. Usually the people content themselves by reading these same bulletins when they are displayed in the windows of cigar shops, booksellers' shops or at the offices of the newspapers, for the Dutch people economize in their reading matter. Many curious ways have been devised to reconcile economy with a plentiful supply of news and information.

Two, three or more families will combine to subscribe for one paper, which is then read by each in turn. The one who gets it first pays a little more than the later readers, and each may keep it for a stipulated time—an hour or perhaps two or three hours or half a day. In this way it is generally only the "head of the house" who gathers in any information. He monopolizes the paper as soon as it comes and keeps it as long as he can. The other members of the family then go without news or are only enriched by the crumbs of knowledge that now and then drop from the lips of paterfamilias.

Most of the daily papers in Holland are issued in the evening, but some of the more important ones publish morning editions as well. To subscribe for more than one paper is considered a terrible extravagance, and even a "whole" subscription for one family alone is looked upon as a luxury. At the clubs and the "coffee houses," the Dutch equivalent of the American saloon, there are always newspapers in profusion, and very many men do all their reading there and so save the subscription fees, for they don't count the cost of what they imbibe.

Many cigar shops and sometimes other stores have what they call "depots" of newspapers, and there you can also "rent" a paper and take it home with you for a certain length of time for very little money indeed.

But the longing for information of the average Dutchman of the middle classes extends far beyond the daily papers. He wishes to know all about his neighbors far and near, and at the same time he wants to keep up his knowledge of the languages learned at school. For these purposes reading societies are formed either among friends or people living in the same neighborhood, or perhaps all the officers of a certain regiment will combine; then a committee will be selected from among the members on which will devolve the task of selecting suitable weekly papers or monthly magazines in English, French, German and Dutch and to circulate these among the members of the society. The books and papers are sent round in large portfolios either once or twice a week, as may have been agreed upon. So those joining such a society can read all the best English, American, German and Dutch periodicals at slight cost.

Of course you don't always get the magazines as soon as they come out. This is carefully regulated according to the size of your contribution, as many people read their Christmas stories in June. Still, it keeps up an interest in the world at large and helps to keep fresh in the mind all that has been learned in youth.

If the head of the house gets up of the daily papers it is with the periodicals that the other members of the household have their innings. They can read them while father is at the bureau or at his office. Sometimes an enterprising bookseller starts one or more circulating portfolios in a neighborhood, and this is managed on the same lines as the private reading societies.

At the end of the year the old papers, periodicals and books that have been in round of all the subscribers are sold by auction among the members of the association.

People visiting Holland are often surprised to find how well nearly every one in the country speaks foreign languages and how much he knows of the literature of other lands. But when we take the above facts into consideration it will no longer seem so astonishing.—W. J. L. Klebl in Chicago News.

The Right Flavor.

The oxen had belonged to an old sea captain, and their new owner was unable to back the animals round the narrow street despite all efforts of voice and ox goad.

The old captain appeared on the scene. "Hard aground, are ye?" he called. Then, seizing the ox goad, he raised the old boat steerer's cry, "Starn all!" The huge hulks backed at the familiar call. "Starn all!" The beasts swayed their ways, turned to the right, and the thing was done.—Success Magazine.

Success is not in an endeavor to be a great thing, but in repeated efforts to do greater things.—Henry Cope.

WHAT A GREAT MAN SAID TO THE GREAT CANADIAN PEOPLE

Parisian Sage is a discovery of a celebrated scientist, who spent the best years of his life perfecting this great hair tonic.

In giving his recipe to the Canadian people he said: "Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world." It cures dandruff by killing the germs that infest the roots of the hair; it stops falling hair; it gives vigor and strength to the hair roots. T. Stevenson sells Parisian Sage in a large fifty cent bottle—and guarantees it to do all that is claimed for it, or your money refunded. It stops falling hair, dandruff, itching scalp and restores life and beauty to dull faded hair in two weeks.

Died in Stable

Jack Stone, an eccentric character, who had acted as an hostler at Young's hotel in Mono Mills for many years, was found dead in a stall in the hotel stables last Friday morning. He had slept in the stables for years from choice, as he refused to sleep in a house. When he was taken ill a few days ago an effort was made to move him to the house, but he refused to be taken from the stable and so was made as comfortable as possible where he was. He was about 70 years of age and had no relatives in these parts. Dr. Allison, of Caledon East, drove to Mono Mills upon learning of the sad occurrence, but after ascertaining the facts decided that it was unnecessary to hold an inquest. Undertaker J. H. Hulse then took charge of the remains and brought them to Orangeville. The burial took place in Greenwood cemetery on Saturday morning. Rev. J. A. Black, of Mono Mills, conducted the burial service.

Cecil Anson Collins

Cecil Anson Collins, the 9 year old son of Mr. Andrew Collins, of Pittsburg, Pa., died very suddenly at the home of Mr. Albert Greenis, Amanda St., on Sunday afternoon. The boy had only been sick a few hours and a fatal termination of his illness was quite unlooked for. Death was caused by acute congestion of the lungs. The boy had made his home with Mr. Greenis since his mother's death about two years ago. He is survived by his father and two younger brothers. The funeral was held to the Forest Lawn cemetery yesterday afternoon, Rev. G. W. Tebbs being the officiating clergyman.

Brampton Bank Swindled

Officials of the Dominion Bank in Brampton made the discovery on Monday that they had been swindled by a clever stranger from Toronto, who made a demand draft on Mr. W. J. Lowe, a cattle dealer, of Snelgrove, for $101.75. Giving his name as J. Alexander, the swindler entered the Yonge and Gould Sts branch of the Bank of Hamilton in Toronto one day last week and submitted the draft for collection. Immediately afterwards he took the train for Brampton and the draft had scarcely been received at the Dominion Bank when he called and asked for the "check letter" which was 7,510. He secured it without difficulty and thereupon telegraphed to the Bank of Hamilton in Toronto stating that the cheque had been accepted. The name of the Dominion Bank, Brampton, was signed to the telegram. Then the stranger took the noon train back to Toronto and collected the money.

Joseph Wallace

The remains of the late Joseph Wallace, a onetime resident of Orangeville, were interred in Greenwood Cemetery here on Thursday forenoon, the funeral taking place from the C.P.R. station upon the arrival of the morning train from Toronto. Deceased, who was 68 years of age, ran a shoe business in Orangeville a couple of decades ago. He took a keen interest in municipal politics and sat in the town council for several terms. He moved to Toronto about eleven years ago. He is survived by a widow, six sons and two daughters, all of whom live in Toronto. The oldest son, William, was onetime editor of the Orangeville Advertiser and the second son, R. J., conducted the Alliston Herald for a number of years. The other boys are Jos., George, Edwin and Leo. There are two daughters, Mrs. A. F. Cunningham, and Miss Mary at home. Three of the sons, Robert, Edwin and Leo, and Mr. Cunningham, were here for the funeral. Rev. G. W. Tebbs conducted the burial service.

Cruikshank—Armstrong

The marriage of Mr. Samuel Cruikshank, of Medicine Hat, eldest son of Mr. John Cruikshank, of this town, and Miss Ethel Isabel Armstrong was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. W. Armstrong, 841 Bloor St. west, Toronto, on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 17th, at the hour of 3 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Wilson, pastor of Queen St. Methodist Church. The bride was becomingly gowned in silk crepe de chene with pearl trimmings and carried a bridal bouquet of lily of the valley and white roses. She entered the drawing room with her mother to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was played by Mr. George L. Button. Little Miss Ayleen De Carle, who carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds, was the bride's only attendant. Refreshments were afterwards served in buffet style, the table decorations being lily of the valley and pink Richmond rosebuds. Occupying the centre of the table was the bride's cake, the base of which was decorated with white tulle and smilax. Later in the day the wedding party were driven in autos to the Union Station, where the newly wedded couple took the train for Buffalo and Eastern points. The groom's gift to the little flower girl was a pearl pin and to the organist a pair of engraved gold cuff links. Mr. and Mrs. Cruikshank, who were in Orangeville over Sunday, intend to start for their future home in Medicine Hat on Friday. The Banner joins their numerous friends in extending hearty congratulations.

Death of Miss MacLachlan

The death of Miss Clarissa Annie MacLachlan, a daughter of the late Alexander McLachlan, the Scottish-Canadian poet, took place rather unexpectedly on Friday last. Miss MacLachlan had been in delicate health for a year or longer, but was always able to be about until Monday preceding her death, when she became bedfast. Her demise was caused by anaemia. The family moved to Orangeville from Amaranth township about 18 years ago, the father dying here about a year later. Two sisters, Misses Lizzie and Maggie live here, a married sister, Mrs. Robt. Oliver, resides in Nelson, B.C., and the only brother, Dr. Chas. MacLachlan, in Elwell, Mich. The sympathy felt for the family and the esteem in which the Misses MacLachlan are held was abundantly shown by the large attendance at the funeral, which was held to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, conducted an impressive service at the family residence on Sarah St., and also officiated at the grave. Members of St. Andrew's choir were present to assist in the singing. The remains were borne to their last resting place by Messrs. J. B. Adamson, Dr. G. H. Campbell, W. D. Tate, Jas. A. Matthews, W. Fairbairn and Robt. Allen. Among the floral tributes were sprays from Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Matthews and the sisters and wreaths from Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Campbell, Miss Edna Campbell and Miss Holmes.

Mrs. John W. Hawley

Mrs. John W. Hawley, of Montreal, died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Thos. Lawson, East Ward, early on Saturday morning. The circumstances attending her death were both unusual and pathetic. She arrived here from Montreal on Friday morning with her nine months' old child, intending to spend some time with her mother. Shortly after her arrival she became very ill. Dr. Kyles was called and found she had diphtheria, which she had evidently contracted before leaving Montreal. The disease had made such headway that it was impossible to save her life. The end came about 1 o'clock Saturday morning and the remains were interred in the Forest Lawn cemetery on Saturday afternoon, Rev. G. W. Tebbs reading the funeral service at the grave. Mrs. Hawley was 22 years of age and leaves one child. Her husband was formerly employed in the cement works here but went to Montreal about a year ago.

Thomas Young

Mr. Thomas Young, an old and widely known resident of Erin township, died at his home in Erin village on Thursday night. He was in his 80th year and had been in failing health for some months. The late Mr. Young was born in Lanarkshire, Scotland, about 20 miles from Edinburgh. He came to this country in 1851, the family settling on lot 27, con. 10, Erin. He taught school for a number of years and Messrs. D. McPherson, D. B. Brown and D. Campbell of this town were among his pupils. Afterwards he engaged in farming, buying lot 24, 9th line, Erin, where he resided until about five years ago. Since then he has been living retired in Erin village. Mr. Young was Clerk of Erin township for upwards of 30 years and was also Clerk of Erin Division Court for more than 20 years. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and had been one of the elders of Burns' Church, Erin, for 25 years or longer. In politics he was a staunch Liberal. An honest, upright living man he enjoyed the esteem and good will of the community in an unusual degree. He is survived by a family of three sons and five daughters. These are Dan, of Ballinafad, Thos., in Winnipeg, Will on the homestead in Erin, Mrs. Leitch, of Binkham, Mrs. J. D. Torrie, Orangeville, Mrs. Robt. Patterson, Kincardine, and Misses Maggie and Minnie at home. Mrs. Andrew Clark, West Broadway, is a sister and the only surviving member of the family. Lindsay, of Erin, conducted the services at the house and grave.

Methodists Gather to Discuss Business and Financial Affairs.

The Methodist Churches of the Orangeville District held their financial meeting in the Methodist Church here on Thursday last. Three sessions were held—morning, afternoon and evening. The morning session was largely spent in arranging the work of the District for the coming year.

In the afternoon Rev. J. H. More, B.A., B.D., gave an inspiring address on the year's outlook. Rev. S. W. Dean, of the Fred Victor Mission, Toronto, formerly assistant pastor of Laurel Circuit, spoke eloquently on the subject of Foreign Missions. At the close of the session an excellent luncheon was served by the ladies of Orangeville Methodist Church. This was followed by addresses from R. J. Woods, Corbetton, W. L. Wilson, Mono Road, R. J. Wallace, of Laurel, and Miss Florence Neelands, of Caledon East, on the different departments of church work.

At the evening session Rev. S. W. Dean gave a very interesting and instructive account of his work in Toronto as Superintendent of City Missions. Rev. J. W. Aikens, of the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, delighted the audience with his terse, pointed and practical remarks on Evangelism. Laurel and Orangeville Male Quartettes contributed some greatly appreciated selections. Mr. Albert Lindsay, of Caledon East, also sang and was listened to with genuine pleasure.

The evening meeting was followed by a consecration service conducted by Rev. G. W. Robinson, Chairman of the District.

AN ATTRACTIVE MOUTH.

It is the curve of the lips and the calibre of them rather than the mouth itself that indicate character and habits, and they are such important features in beauty-making and so susceptible of being moulded that they should be carefully studied with a view to eliminating or minimizing any defects.

Perhaps an otherwise beautiful mouth takes on a scornful twist at one corner, or it is thicker at one side than at the other, and then only by diligently practising before a mirror can the defect be remedied. Press the offending side down into place, and form the habit of keeping it there. At first it will be difficult, but persist. It might even be advisable to bite the lip at that side, or at least to train into the bad habit of compressing the lips, in order to accomplish what is desired, but then must speedily begin the correction of that habit. Lips that are too thick betoken corseness and are not generally attractive. In some cases they may be made to appear thinner by elongating the line from the nose down. This is done by drawing the outsides together—that is, by drawing, the lower one up and the upper down, and sort of folding them in—literally drawing the outside edges of them together as already suggested.

With the aid of the mirror this can be done without compressing the lips, which is a distressing habit, showing not necessarily nervousness but lack of poise. Moistening the lips frequently with the tongue is another deplorable habit, and one that is not peculiar to age, although one of the signs. If the stomach is kept in condition and the lips smooth and soft, the habit is easily broken. At any rate it must be, for rough, cracked lips are sufficient to mar the beauty of any face. Pursing the lips, although recommended for making the mouth small, will tend to induce myriads of tiny wrinkles that will grow deeper and deeper as the habit fixes itself, so a better method of decreasing the size of the mouth line is to take the greatest care not to stretch the natural line. Find out from the mirror how near to being pursed the lips can come without wrinkling and practise keeping them in that position, learning to do it without strain, or effort, and without thrusting the lips out.

If this habit is formed there will be also the satisfaction of knowing that at least one or two of the lines at the corners of the mouth are gradually growing fainter. The progress might be helped on by gentle rotary massage with a skin food. Drawing the lips to one side will, in less time than would be imagined, result in an unbalanced effect to the mouth that ger that in attempting to arrive at face.

If the lips should not be compressed, just as certainly they should not be permitted ever to remain open with the under jaw dropped. Nothing so hints of insanity, vacuity. The lips, like the eyes, should look "alive," and there, too, is the danger that in attempting to arrive at that expression the action will be overdone and a hard, harsh effect result. The mirror may be relied upon as a guide in the matter.

MACKENZIE—WOOD.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wood, Masonville, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 10th, Rev. Dr. McKenzie performed the ceremony that united in marriage Mr. Robert N. MacKenzie and Miss Sadie A. Wood. Miss Lillian M. Johnston was bridesmaid, Mr. John O. Mackenzie best man, and little Miss Isabell Johnston flower girl. The bride's dress was of ecru charmeuse satin trimmed with shadow lace and embroidered silk banding. The bridesmaid's dress was cream serge trimmed with cream satin and buttons. The flower girl was dressed in pink silk and carried asters and carnations. The ceremony took place under an arch of asparagus and sweet peas. Miss Otta M. Fines played the wedding march, and during signing of the register Mrs. T. F. E. Claridge sang "O Promise Me." The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a bracelet set with pearls and emerald, to the bridesmaid a sunburst of brilliants, to the groomsmen gold cuff links and tie pin, to the flower girl gold crescent brooch, and to the pianiste a gold brooch set with pearls. Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie, who carry with them to their new home the best wishes of a large circle of friends, will reside in Toronto.—Economist.

SUPPLYING WINTER FOOD FOR POULTRY.

Save every head of late cabbage for green feed. They are excellent for the layers in winter.

Clip every sunflower head off and save it for the poultry. The seeds make a fine feed for the fowls, being laxative in their effect.

All surplus carrots, turnips, etc., should be carefully stored away and used as the vegetable part of the rations for the poultry this winter.

The small potatoes, wasted at digging time, can be boiled and made to serve the flock well during the winter months, working them into the mash of bran and corn chop.

The dust bath being a very important item for the layers during the winter months, one should store a barrel or two of thoroughly dry field or road dust and ashes, having a large box in one corner of the scratching shed for the fowls to dust themselves in and get rid of the lice. A handful of sulphur in each box-ful will prove an additional help in their fight against these pests.

The winter meat supply for the poultry is lacking on too many farms, and accounts, without doubt, for a very large per cent. of the failures to secure eggs in winter. This deficiency is easily supplied at small expense, especially where one is inclined to do a little hunting and trapping around the farm. After the skin has been removed from the animal, the carcass can be utilized as meat ration for the poultry. Rabbits are especially plentiful in most localities, and by drawing the skin from them and hanging them about 18 inches from the floor of the scratching shed, the layers must jump after them, thus securing exercise as well as the meat, both of which are essential to winter egg-production.

WHY AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION FALLS OFF.

The situation is very clear. The men who tilled the soil and bred the herds in this country have been so oppressed that their sons had not heart to go on with the business of tilling the earth and breeding herds and have abandoned those industries and gone elsewhere about the world. And consequently the prices of food products have begun to approach those that prevailed in Samaria when Ben-hadad, King of Syria, besieged it, says Melville Davison Post in Saturday Evening Post.

He says, "It is difficult to grasp adequately how unfairly the men who produce the food supplies of this country have been treated. An unjust tariff system has laid them under tribute for almost half a century. What they had to sell—meats and breadstuffs—they had to sell in the markets of the world, in free-trade markets, for they produced them in excess of what was used in this country. No protective duty could help them. The prices they received were free-trade prices fixed in free-trade markets. But everything they bought, everything they enjoyed, everything they wore, everything they used they bought in a high protective market. They bought at a price in excess of what they could have bought it in the markets where they sold their excess meats and breadstuffs.

All that they purchased they purchased at a price so excessive that the accumulated excess has made the manufacturers rich beyond the power of the English language to express it; so rich that words like "multimillionaire" had to be coined in order to express it. The very utensils that these men used for the purpose of producing their breadstuffs they had to buy at a price in excess of what the manufacturers of them were willing to take in a foreign country after paying the costs of transportation.

It was a great, backbreaking, pitiless tribute that these men paid for almost fifty years. And in addition to this the law permitted transportation companies to charge them extortionate rates for carrying their products; and in addition to this the law permitted men who did not produce any of their meats and breadstuffs to corner it and hoard it and trade it and force the producer to take the price they offered him.

And so exploited like that and oppressed like that, these men had no heart to go on increasing the production of meats and breadstuffs. Their sons were discouraged and went away from the land, and so the production of the things we live on does not keep pace with the increase of the population or the development of other industries."

KILLED BY ENGINE.

William H. Marks Meets With Death Near Bolton.

William Henry Marks was struck and killed by a C.P.R. engine at 4 o'clock on Friday morning last about a mile west of Bolton station. Engineer T. Howes had turned his engine at the "Y" and had just started for Bolton when he noticed a man standing near the track as if waiting for the engine to pass. A moment later the fireman told him he had struck him. The engine was stopped and it was found that the man was still alive, having been struck and thrown clear of the wheels. Dr. Bateman was summoned but the man expired a few minutes after getting struck. Coroner Revnar was notified and he decided to hold an inquest as the identity of the man was not known at the time. The remains were removed to Egan's undertaking rooms where a postmortem was held. Later in the day the body was recognized as that of William Henry Marks, who formerly lived in King, near Lloydtown. His relatives were notified, who took charge of the body, which was interred at the 9th Line Presbyterian Church on Monday morning. The deceased was in his 89th year and wandered away from the home of his son-in-law at Weston on Wednesday morning. An effort was made to locate the old gentleman but without avail. He is survived by six children, Victor, of Toronto, Wm. and Robert, of British Columbia, Mrs. John Ellis, of Vaughan, Mrs. Wm. Ellis, of Weston, and Mrs. (Dr.) Bailey, of Cochrane. The inquest was held on Monday afternoon, when circumstances surrounding his death were brought out, the jury bringing in a verdict of accidental death.—Bolton Enterprise.

A RETURN OF INTEREST.

Judging from the interest manifested at the ringsides at various shows in Eastern Canada this year, the beef breeds of cattle are gradually regaining some of their lost ground as far as popularity is concerned. The dairy breeds, as usual, had a large number of admirers and rightly so, but a certain apathy which has hung about the judging of the beef breeds in very recent years seems to have taken flight, and the stock-loving public are returning to their former love. It may be that the agitation in favor of the dual-purpose cow has served to arouse the slumbering, for well do they know that such must come, if come it does, from a beef type rather than from the extreme dairy breeds. The great cry of the scarcity of beef may be making itself felt. And there are those who are getting tired of the labor of milking cows, and long again for the beef animal. Beef raising is a staple industry. Like all other such, it is subject to ups and downs, due to the inherent desire of all humans to make changes. Supply and demand operate in its case as effectually as in any other branch of agriculture, but, no matter what happens, we must have beef cattle. They cannot be replaced, and it is good to see them again standing high in public favor. This need not necessarily affect the dairy interests detrimentally. They, too, are on solid ground.—Farmers' Advocate.

KILLED BY BURGLARS.

John Thompson Shot in His Jewellery Store in Grand Rapids.

Dead Man Was Native of Erin Township and Attended Orangeville High School Many Years Ago.

Two robbers with drawn revolvers entered the jewellery store of John A. Thompson in Grand Rapids, Mich., early on Thursday night, commanded the clerks to throw up their hands, and, when they refused, opened fire. John A. Thompson and Ed. Smith fell dead, and Paul Townsend was probably fatally wounded. The bandits escaped.

The three victims were alone in the store when the robbers entered. Townsend, who was taken to a local hospital, was able to tell the authorities only a few words concerning the tragedy.

The clerks were placing watches and jewels in their cases for the night, when the men, masked, entered, and demanded that Townsend, the watch repairer, throw up his hands. Townsend refused, tried to grapple with the men and was shot down. A bullet penetrated his neck. He believes that the other men then rushed to his aid and were killed.

The jewellery store is almost in the heart of the business district and pedestrians passed by while the robbers were within. One person informed the police that he heard three shots fired. Policemen, nearby, also were attracted by the shooting, but the robbers fled before they arrived. No description of the bandits could be secured at a late hour Thursday night.

John Thompson, the proprietor of the store, was a native of Erin township, being a son of the late Arch Thompson, a well-known farmer in the Hillsburg district. He was a nephew of Mrs. J. W. Kennedy, Church St., and a brother-in-law of Mrs. Wm. Thompson, who lived on Wellington St., until her removal to Toronto the week before last.

Thompson attended Orangeville High School about 23 years ago. He was a strongly built, athletic man and in his school days was a clever football and lacrosse player. He played on the home field of the Dufferin lacrosse team for a couple of seasons. He went to Grand Rapids shortly after leaving High School and had a large jewellery business in that city. Joseph and Alex. Thompson, Hillsburg, Robert Thompson, Corbetton, Peter Thompson, Los Angeles, Arch Thompson, Ironwood, Mich., Mrs. Peter Stewart, Everton, and Mrs. John Dickenson, Rockwood, are the surviving brothers and sisters.

PREACHERS' YARNS.

When a few Methodist preachers and their wives met in Toronto recently they had a sheaf of little yarns to relate of queer incidents in recent wedding ceremonies.

One minister stated that he had never heard anything that struck him quite so funny as the answer a country bridegroom gave him when at the end of the ceremony he instructed the newly wed to salute his bride.

"What's that?" asked the young fellow.

"Why, salute your bride," whispered the preacher. "Give her a kiss."

The groom was an independent chap, however, not at all willing to be ordered by any man when and where to kiss his bride. So he tartly returned the answer: "Kiss her yourself—I've got all my life to do it."

Another clergyman related a somewhat similar incident with a rather different conclusion.

It was another case of the bridegroom not comprehending the meaning of the "salute your bride" instructed. The officiating minister repeated it. Then the bashful young husband turned to his bride, bowed and blushingly said, "Compliments of the season."

Perhaps the oddest case of all was that of the man who was being married and regarded the event as a rather solemn affair.

Tears were in his eyes during the ceremony, and at its conclusion he turned to the preacher and, taking him by the arm, said in a voice of piteous entreaty, "Pray for me, sir."

A BREACH AND A BRIDGE.

The idea, occasionally expressed, that the drift of young people to the cities and towns is due to lack of rural amusement, is no compliment to the sturdy young manhood and womanhood of the country, and it would be nearer the truth to say that the real, underlying cause is economic, coupled with a system of public school education that has made a breach with the farm and a bridge to the occupations of the town and the professions which largely centre there. Rightly or wrongly young men see, or think they see, prospects of more immediately remunerative employment in the town, and an opportunity to marry and have homes of their own. Young women swarm into the towns because of multiplying opportunities to make a livelihood for themselves. Considering the conditions under which agriculture is very generally carried on, the objects referred to may not be so speedily obtainable, but foresight and consideration for the aspirations of young people on the part of some whose holdings of land and methods are becoming more extensive, would go far towards refilling empty rural houses, and the erection of new ones of a moderate type in size and cost. Youth desires—and so ought any rationally constituted adult—a fair share of recreation and rest. These are available in properly ordered rural life, but that the craving for amusement is the chief townward driving force, is rather a superficial view, though it is a factor, of course.

A SAFE TONIC FOR MOTHERS.

Who Do Not Recover Their Strength as They Should.

Every mother who fails to regain her health and strength after confinement needs a tonic. The years of weakness and suffering which so often follow are unnecessary and easily avoided. The fact that her strength does not return is a certain indication that her blood supply has been overtaxed and is impoverished. This condition is often made worse when the mother takes up her household duties while she is still weak, when a complete breakdown results. The strength a weak mother needs can be quickly found in the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills increase and enrich the blood supply, and thus bring health and strength to the exhausted system. Mrs. Robt. Little says: "I have nursed for upwards of twenty-five years, and I could relate many cases, relieved and cured, through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In maternity cases which I nurse I always use them and I know of no other medicine that so speedily builds up the mother at this critical time. I have also found them of great value in the case of young girls, and I can add that as for myself they have saved me many a doctor's bill. I feel safe in saying they are the best tonic medicine I know of."

A nursing mother will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will give her just the strength she needs, and they will at the same time aid in keeping her child healthy. If you do not find these Pills at your dealer's they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE PEOPLE V. MACKENZIE & MANN.

As the Sun has already pointed out, the next demand for protection will not be for higher duties, but for subsidizing exporting manufacturers to the extent of at least obstructive freight rates. In this demand, as usual, the railways and manufacturers will join. It is gathered that the Railway Commission in trying the rates case, has been embarrassed by two claims, one that the question of rate reduction is determined by the financial necessities of Mackenzie and Mann, and, two, that the ocean carriers will add to their rates any reduction of railway rates which the Railway Commission may order. Mr. Drayton has been inquiring into the matter in Europe. These puerile suggestions have been made:—

(1) That ocean vessels coming within the three mile limit should be regulated as to their rates by the Railway Commission.

(2) That the Canadian Government should form a fleet of its own for the conveyance of east and westbound merchandise.

A Mr. Noble writes to the London Times suggesting seriously the plan to which we have referred, that is, in his words, that merchants who are unable to carry on profitably a business which is necessary to the prosperity and well-being of their country, should be subsidized. The case of the millers being the most plausible, is put forward for first relief. When the principle has been conceded, there will be no lack of those who aspire to carry on business profitably at the public expense.

These suggestions prove the futility of the shifts to which Canadian statesmen have been driven by the tariff policy of the United States during the past thirty years. The cost of the transportation policy to which everyone looked for relief, turns out to be so great that even at a time of inflation, business which is necessary to the wellbeing and prosperity of the country cannot be profitably carried on. Such business is not only that of the millers and ambitious manufacturers, but as well of the farmers, whose exports, considering price increases, have been at a standstill for some time. For the moment, the issue is between the people and Mackenzie and Mann.—The Weekly Sun.

On Wednesday, Sept. 10th, 1913, at St. Clement's Church, Riverdale, Toronto, by the Rev. John Bushell, Miss Nellie Bland, youngest daughter of the late Thomas Walker Bland, to Joseph Howard Wright, son of Mr. Thomas Wright, of Chinguacousy.

ZAM-BUK

MRS. A. SAICH, of Cannington Manor, Sask., Writes:—"My brother suffered severely from eczema. The sores were very extensive, and burned like coals into his flesh. Zam-Buk took out all the fire, and quickly gave him ease. Within three weeks of commencing with Zam-Buk treatment, every sore had been cured."

This is but one of the many letters we are constantly receiving from people who have proved the healing powers of Zam-Buk. For eczema, piles, sores, burns, cuts and all skin troubles there is nothing like this wonderful balm. No skin disease should be considered incurable until Zam-Buk has been tried.

THE BANNER

THE BANNER, OCTOBER 2nd, 1913

The Mail & Empire states that the announcement of the construction of a new canal at Sault Ste. Marie to make the depth equal to that planned for the new Welland Canal marks the progress of an ambitious and far-reaching project. It is pointed out that there would be no object in undertaking such expensive work in the two westerly canals if corresponding work were not contemplated on the St. Lawrence canals. All but a small fraction of the 136,000,000 million bushels of Canadian grain that passed through the Soo Canal eastward bound in 1912 was unloaded at Lake Huron or Lake Erie ports. The quantity carried through the Welland Canal did not exceed two or three million bushels. Half of the Canadian grain for export went out by way of Buffalo and New York. Conditions would be altogether different if ocean going vessels were able to ascend to the head of the great lakes, for there would then be no necessity for this breaking of cargoes. A deep waterway to the head of the Lakes would prove of great advantage to Canadian commerce. It would not only assist greatly in the movement of the western grain crop, but would also put the Eastern Canada manufacturers in a better position to dispose of their wares in the rapidly growing market that Western Canada offers. It would play a most important part in preserving and perpetuating the East and West movement of Canadian commerce and should prove an effective factor in promoting trade between Canada and Great Britain.

It is evidently only a question of time until an important change is made in the jail system of this Province. The indications are that the separate jails, which the various counties now maintain, will be replaced by a number of central prison farms, each of which will serve a group of counties. As a matter of fact the counties of Oxford, Brant, Perth, Norfolk and Waterloo have had the prison farm system under consideration and may take some definite action in the very near future. The prison farm is in line with the humanitarian idea of trying to reform as well as punish criminals. The system also possesses important advantages from the standpoint of municipal economy. Separate jails burden agricultural counties, such as Dufferin, where there is very little crime, with an expense that is altogether disproportionate to the service they render. Committals are few and far between and most of the time the jails have comparatively few inmates. Temporary lockups would be quite sufficient in counties of this class if there were only some central institution to which offenders could be removed upon conviction. One of the disadvantages of the present county jail system lies in the fact that prisoners are necessarily kept in idleness. It would be impossible for each county to keep up a jail farm where persons confined in the jail could be provided with employment. This is only practicable under some centralized system. The proposed jail farm system is naturally attracting a good deal of attention from those interested in jail and prison reform and if the counties we have referred to, decide to go ahead with the project the outcome of the experiment will be eagerly awaited.

The Peel Registrarship.

There is a well-defined rumour that Mr. S. Charters, M.P.P. for Peel, will retire from politics and succeed the late Robt. Johnston as Registrar of the County. Mr. Charters is in poor health and on that account his friends are urging him to accept the registrarship. It is generally conceded that he can have the appointment if he will only say, Yes.

RAILWAY TAXATION.

Railway property in Ontario is equal in value to more than one-third the value of farm property in the Province. Farm property pays in municipal taxation considerably more than six times the amount paid by railways in the Province in the same way.

Railway earnings, in proportion to capital invested, are at least equal to farm earnings. In fact, if due allowance were made for the wages of the farmer's family, it is certain that the net earnings from railway operation would be found to be greater than net earnings from agricultural operations.

Moreover, the farmers of Ontario have created their holdings by their own labor or have inherited these as the result of the labor of their fathers. On the other hand, well on to one-half the railway property in Canada to-day has been created by public grants in cash, lands and guarantee of bonds. Why should those who have created their own holdings be taxed so much more heavily than those who have had their holdings largely created for them at public cost?

The difficulty, with rural population steadily diminishing, of maintaining roads and schools, is ever becoming greater. Why not follow the lead of Michigan, where railways, with no greater earnings than in Ontario, are taxed over four times as much as they are in Ontario, and where the greater part of the revenue so derived is devoted to educational purposes? By doing this the rural school problem would be quickly and effectively solved.—The Weekly Sun.

TOOK OATH OF OFFICE.

Judge Fisher Sworn In by Clerk of the Peace on Monday.

Mr. W. G. Fisher, of Alliston, who was recently appointed Judge of the County of Dufferin in succession to Judge McCarthy, who has retired after thirty years tenure of the office, was sworn in on Monday. The proceeding took place in the Judge's Chambers in the presence of Mr. Maitland McCarthy, the retiring Judge, the members of the local Bar, representatives of the Press and a number of prominent citizens. The oaths of allegiance and of office were administered by Mr. W. J. L. McKay, Clerk of the Peace. After the formal proceedings former Judge McCarthy was invited to take the chair and short speeches were made by Mr. A. A. Hoghson, Town Clerk, Mr. C. R. McKeown, M.P.P., Mayor Island, G. M. Vance, K.C., newly appointed Judge of Simcoe County, County Crown Attorney McKay and Police Magistrate Pattullo congratulating Judge Fisher upon his elevation to the Bench, wishing him success in the discharge of the important duties that it would now fall to his lot to perform and extending to himself and family a hearty welcome to Orangeville. Most of the speakers also made appreciative reference to the acceptable manner in which former Judge McCarthy had performed his judicial duties, his courtesy to the members of the Bar and others who had business before him and the soundness of his decisions in controverted cases.

Judge Fisher made a brief reply to the addresses from the representatives of the Bar. He was, he said, deeply sensible of the great honor that had been done him and very grateful to the members of the Bar and the good citizens of Orangeville for the warm welcome they had accorded him. He felt it was a great compliment to have his predecessor in office present while he was being sworn in. He was very sensible of the importance and difficulty of his new duties and also of the fact that he would in all probability make mistakes. They would, however, be honest mistakes and while it might not be always possible to satisfy opposing litigants and their counsel, he would at all times endeavor to discharge his duty honestly and as efficiently as his ability would permit.

His Honor's evident modesty, the appropriateness of his remarks and his appreciative manner made a most favorable impression upon those present and the opinion was freely expressed that the County of Dufferin was fortunate to secure a Judge who would so worthily succeed the former occupant of the office. Among those who were present during the swearing in of the new Judge were:—Mr. Maitland McCarthy, former County Judge; G. M. Vance, K.C., of Shelburne, newly appointed senior judge of Simcoe County; C. R. McKeown, K.C., M.P.P., Mayor Island, Police Magistrate Pattullo, County Crown Attorney W. J. L. McKay, Mr. A. A. Hughson, Mr. Geo. Robb and Mr. W. N. Irwin, representing the Dufferin County Bar; ex-Mayor H. Endacott; County Clerk J. C. Reid, Col. J. A. V. Preston; Mr. J. M. Bennett, Clerk of the First Division Court, Mr. A. E. Annis; Messrs. R. L. Mortimer, Shelburne Free Press, J. Foley, Orangeville Sun, V. A. Statia, The Dufferin Post, and A. D. McKitrick, Orangeville Banner; Governor Bowles, Geo. A. Leighton, Jos. H. Hughes and Wm. Marshall.

The Alliston Herald gives the following interesting account of the new judge's career:—

Judge Fisher has been a life-long resident of this district, having been born on a farm in the township of Tossorontio a few miles north of Alliston. He attended the public school at Everett and later the high school in Collingwood. After matriculating from the latter school he went to Montreal and commenced the study of law at McGill University. Completing the course there he came to Toronto and practised with the firm of Reeve, Hall, Fullerton & Cook, and later in the office of J. J. Foy, the present Attorney-General of the Province of Ontario. In 1886 he was called to the Ontario Bar at Osgoode Hall and a few weeks later commenced to practise law in Alliston where he has since been a successful lawyer and a most highly esteemed citizen. In November, 1887, the partnership with Mr. W. A. J. Bell was formed, and for twenty-six years the firm name, Fisher & Bell, has been familiar, not only in town, but throughout the county, and is known among the profession throughout the Province, some important cases, both civil and criminal, having been handled by them in the last quarter of a century. For a number of years they maintained an office in Creemore, but as the business grew here they could not give it the attention required and some eight years ago it was closed. Mr. Fisher has not been wanting in public spirit during his long residence in Alliston. He has always been a leading spirit in every movement the object of which was the expansion and betterment of his home town. He has given freely of his time, energy and means to make Alliston what it is to-day. He never had any love for municipal positions and was not easily persuaded to enter the town council, but on two occasions, when big questions were the issue, he consented to fill the Mayor's chair, and on each occasion vast benefits to the town were the results of the efforts of himself and colleagues in the council. It is conceded that he could have had a parliamentary seat for one of the ridings of the county had he sought it, but he always resolutely discouraged any advances his friends made to him with this end in view. He was, however, a most successful campaigner and his work has been of great value to more than one candidate on more than one occasion in the last twenty years. As a lawyer he has always been considered careful and sound of judgment and because of these faculties his friends congratulate Dufferin county on securing as head of the court of the county a man who will fill the position with a dignity, grace and impartiality which cannot fail to win for him the highest esteem of the members of the Bar as well as the laity. In 1886 Mr. Fisher married Miss Towers, of Collingwood, and in the years she has lived in Alliston she has been one of the most highly esteemed ladies in town, active in social and church circles and sympathetic with all efforts on the part of women for the improvement of home and social life. They have one son and one daughter, having lost a promising son a couple of years ago. Physically he is as capable as ever he was and his friends here are wondering if his duties will be strenuous enough to keep him in good condition. He has ever been an enthusiastic lawn bowler, curler and angler and in getting closer to some good trout streams no doubt need a little compensation for leaving the associations of a lifetime.

NEWSPAPER UNDER BAN.

Archbishop Bruchesi Forbids Roman Catholics to Read Quebec Newspaper.

By a mandement read on Sunday at the High Mass in the Roman Catholic churches, Archbishop Bruchesi placed a ban on Le Pays, the French weekly newspaper edited and published by Godfrey Langlois, M.P.P. Mr. Langlois has been conducting an extended campaign for educational reform in Quebec, and the attitude of his paper has been regarded as anti-clerical. The ban of the Church means that the faithful are forbidden to read the paper.

In a statement given out Sunday night Mr. Langlois said:—"Monseigneur Bruchesi interdicts Le Pays because he wants to stifle and paralyze our increasing influence with the leading classes. What he does not want is to see the newspapers and public think for themselves. I protested in the Quebec Legislature against the iniquitous law which places French Protestants under the ban of our race, and which makes the State decree that you cannot be a French-Canadian unless you are a Catholic. I asked French-Canadians to abandon the sheep as a national emblem. Monseigneur Bruchesi is discontented with the vigorous campaign which we carried on for the purpose of demanding that Laval divest itself of its insignificance and rise to the height of McGill."

As to the material effect of the ban, Mr. Langlois said he would seek redress in the courts.

Gibson-Moore.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Moore, of Crombie, was the scene of a quiet but very pretty wedding on Wednesday, Sept. 24th, when their only daughter, Ethel Gertrude, was united in marriage to Mr. James Gladstone Gibson, of Sault Ste. Marie, eldest son of the late William and Mrs. Gibson, of Maple Valley. The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room to the strains of the Bridal Chorus played by Miss Marjorie Clarke. The marriage ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. R. Bell, of Laurel. The bride was beautifully gowned in lemon colored satin, with rhinestone and pearl trimming, and wore the gift of the groom, a handsome diamond and pearl sunburst, the organist receiving a similar gift. The bride carried a beautiful bouquet of roses and ferns. After the ceremony a dainty repast was served, the table being prettily decorated with smilax and pink carnations. The gifts were numerous and beautiful. After the usual toasts and speeches Mr. and Mrs. Gibson left for Toronto and other points, the bride travelling in a tailored suit of navy blue with hat to match. On their return they will reside in Sault Ste. Marie.

WESTERN CATTLE MARKET, TORONTO.

Not only should the people of the City of Toronto be interested in the maintenance of a Municipal Market for the handling of live stock, but it becomes a matter which concerns the Province of Ontario, and perhaps the wider field of the whole Dominion.

It is not necessary to go back many years to find that at one time the Western Cattle Market was one of the flourishing trade places of the Queen City. Latterly, however, a depression has taken place to such extent that it threatens to wipe out the business heretofore conducted, and allow the whole trade to drift into the hands of private corporations.

To this Province especially, the Western Cattle Market, while not recognized to any extent as to its real merits, we would state without fear of contradiction, that should this Market go out of existence, the consequence would be disastrous, not only to the shipper, but to the producer and consumer.

Toronto has no other motive than to give the facilities which should be accorded to both shipper and consumer, viz., to bring them together and deal as in other lines of business, and our hope is that the people of the Province fully realize what a Municipally-controlled market means to them.

Acton has hydro-electric power, and uses 120 lighting clusters on the streets, at a cost of 6½ per kilowatt hour, H. P. Moore, of the Free Press, has 40 lights in his house and in the office, his account for August being $2.73.

TIPS TO HOUSEWIVES.

Have the walls of your house a pleasant, restful tone, and you can do without pictures.

In storing fruits and vegetables for winter, only sound and mature specimens should be used.

Whole wheat bread sandwiches with filling of sliced bananas and nut meats is a delicious luncheon.

Take an hour off and spend it with an oil can in your hand, touching up the stiff castors, hinges, etc.

To keep a door mat in position hook it down, the hooks being on the floor and the brass rings on the mat.

Tart salads, deviled eggs, sardines and chopped raw cabbage all help to make pickles unnecessary in a child's diet.

To keep the carpet sweeper pulleys from slipping after they have worn smooth, wrap them with adhesive tape.

To protect small articles spread to bleach on the grass, cover them with cheesecloth fastened down with wooden pegs.

A good thin broth may be made of the water in which cabbage is boiled if milk, butter and thickening are added to it.

Grey green is a good color for a nursery wall. If there is a frieze it should be the height of a child's eye from the floor.

For dining room embroideries, rich colors used on grey linen or shades of blue on white will be found exceedingly satisfactory.

The best appetizer is a clear, hot soup, consomme or meat broth. Alternatives are clam broth or grape fruit.

Cut white potatoes into small squares and stick one on the end of each stem if you want cut flowers or ferns to last a long time. Of course, this is supposing that the decorations must last a long while.

Neilly Duffin has sold his farm at Terra Nova to Alfred McMinn for $2000.

REGISTRAR JOHNSTON DEAD

Deceased was Formerly M. P. for Cardwell.

Robert Johnston, Registrar of the County of Peel, and ex-M.P. for Cardwell, died at his home in Brampton early last Thursday morning. The end came after a trying illness of about three years duration. He is survived by his widow, who is a daughter of John McGowan, ex-M.P. for Centre Wellington, and a family of two sons and a daughter.

The late Mr. Johnston was born in the township of Caledon sixty years ago and lived on a farm a few miles east of Charleston village until his appointment to the registrarship about seven years ago. He was a son of the late Robert Johnston and was a member of a large family of whom the following members survive:—Arthur, a well-known stock breeder near Brooklin, Ont.; George, of Claremont; James, of Brampton; S. F., of Ashburn; Dr. Johnston, in Los Angeles; Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Fargo, N.D.; Mrs. H. Curry, Little Current, and Mrs. J. W. McAvoy, Los Angeles.

After the death of his father the deceased took charge of the farm in Caledon and by honest, intelligent effort made a marked success of his avocation, becoming in time one of the successful farmers and stock-breeders of the township. He had a fine 250 acre property, which was one of the best tilled and best managed farms in the district. As a young man Mr. Johnston was very popular and was much sought after at social gatherings. He was kind-hearted, as well as genial and companionable, and was always ready to do a service or kindly act to a neighbor or any person, who happened to be in need.

The late Mr. Johnston took an active interest in municipal and general politics. He was a member of Caledon township council and in 1899 was elected to the County Council. In the following year he became Warden-of Peel. He was President of the Cardwell Liberal-Conservative Association in 1895 and as such took an active part in the famous 1895 bye-election, which resulted in the return of Dr. Wm. Stubbs, the candidate of the McCarthy party. In the general election in the autumn of 1900 Mr. Johnston was chosen to oppose Dr. Stubbs, the sitting member, and was returned by a majority of 191. Cardwell was wiped out of existence by the 1903 redistribution bill and Mr. Johnston retired from political life in 1904. On the 26th of September, 1906, about two years later, he was appointed registrar of Peel, in succession to the late Kenneth Chisholm. This position he continued to fill until his death.

To the bereaved widow, who, during his long illness, was solicitous in her care and attendance upon his wants, and to the children and other members of the family, the sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances is extended.

The funeral took place on Saturday, service being held at the home in Brampton at 10 a.m. The remains were then conveyed to St. Andrew's burying ground, 4th line, east, Caledon, the interment taking place in the family burying plot.

Rev. N. A. McEachren, of Brampton, conducted the service at the house and Rev. Mr. Wallace, of Caledon East, officiated at the cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. David Patterson, Robt. Chambers, John Warnock, Jas. Speers, W. J. Sutton and W. E. Glassford. The late Mr. Johnston was a member of Warnock L.O.L. No 250, Charleston, and the regular service at the grave was followed by the impressive burial ritual of the Order, which was read by W. Bros. Geo. Glassford and W. J. Warnock. An immense assemblage of Caledon friends and acquaintances awaited the coming of the funeral cortege at St. Andrew's Church. The size of the concourse showed the love and affection in which the late Registrar was held by the people of his native township. Many friends were also present from Orangeville, Brampton, Bolton and other points. Among these were R. Blain, M.P. and S. Charters, M.P.P. for Peel, Robt. Carwford, Treasurer of Peel, ex-Warden, Jas. Jackson and C. R. McKeown, M.P.P. for Dufferin.

Mrs. John Emery McLean

Mrs. Ella N. McLean, wife of Mr. John Emery McLean, of New York, formerly of Orangeville, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward C. Thompson, South Elizabeth, N. J., on Friday, Sept. 26th. The husband's friends in Orangeville and locality extend their sympathy in his bereavement.

Ferris Lawrence Dead.

Mr. Ferris Lawrence, one of the oldest residents of the County of Halton, died at his home near Sheridian on Saturday at the ripe age of 84 years. Mr. Lawrence was born within half a mile of the farm on which he died and lived in the vicinity practically all his life. He was a son of the late Orange Lawrence, the founder of Orangeville, and when he was 21 years of age taught the first school that was started here. He is the last surviving member of his family. The deceased was prominent in Church work, was public spirited and took a keen interest in all enterprises calculated to benefit the community in which he resided. He is survived by eight sons—David H., Orange A., Nelson and Russell, in Halton County; Cyrus in Saskatchewan; Dr. W. A., Ithaca, N.Y., Dr. T. H., in New Mexico, and John W., a druggist in Toronto. Mrs. G. Beswick, Mrs. Wilcox, Mrs. McGarvin, Mrs. K. Pattullo, of this town, and Mrs. Jos. Chambers, Caledon, are nieces. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon, the interment taking place in the family burying plot at Clarkson.

Orangeville and Shelburne

The Late David Taylor.

In the early hours of the morning of September 11th, an old and highly esteemed resident of Caledon passed away in the person of Mr. David Taylor at the ripe age of 75 years. Deceased was born in Lincolnshire, Eng., where he spent his boyhood. In October 1869 he was married to Miss Anne Roe, who survives him. One week after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Taylor sailed for Canada, settling at Kellerby in King township. Three years later they moved to Caledon, where they have since resided. The late Mr. Taylor was a member of the Church of England. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a kind and sympathetic friend, a good neighbor and his sudden demise is keenly regretted by all. He had two brothers and four sisters, all of whom predeceased him except Mrs. Sarah Gibson, of Hull, Eng. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. Burkholder, B. A., and the interment took place in Caledon Cemetery on Friday, Sept. 12th. The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is extended to Mrs. Taylor in these hours of loneliness.

The following lines are expressive of Mr. Taylor's outlook upon death and the hereafter:—

I'm going home, prepare the bridal wreath;
My Saviour bids my happy spirit come.
Damp not with tears the Christian's bed of death;
Rejoice, I'm going Home!

Earth hath its cares, for three score years and ten
My lot has been 'midst thorny paths to roam;
I would not track those desert scenes again—
'Tis past! I'm going Home!

The dove hath found her nest—the storm tossed found
A place of rest beyond the dashing foam
Of grief's wild billows; thither I am bound;
Joy, joy! I'm going Home!

Earth's flowers all fade—there fadeless roses blow,
Earth's sunniest light is shaded by the tomb;
Earth's loves all slumber in the vault below;
Death dwells not in that Home.

I see the city of the blest on high,
With the freed spirits-ken, I come!
I come!
Ye calling voices, catch my heart's reply—
Home! Home! I'm going Home!

Thos. Hall Dead

Thos. Hall, an old resident of this town, died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. Taylor, East Broadway, on Wednesday evening last. Deceased, who was 80 years of age, had been ill and almost blind for the last two years. He received the best of care and attention from his daughter with whom he has made his home for four years or longer. He had been a resident of Orangeville for 40 years and worked as a corporation laborer for a number of years. W. J. Hall, of Preston, is the only son and Mrs. Taylor the only daughter. The funeral was held to the Forest Lawn cemetery on Friday afternoon, Rev. W. M. Morris being the officiating clergyman.

Charles P. Wilkins, one of the proprietors of the Chesley woollen mills, met with a very painful accident by which his right hand was badly torn and the cords of the wrist lacerated.

Magistrate Richardson fined Mrs. Schnurr, of the Station Hotel, in Walkerton, $40 and costs for selling liquor after hours and Albert Buhlman $20 and costs for selling liquor to be consumed off the premises. Both pleaded guilty.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION.

While Messrs. W. and F. Shell were at the Blackstock farm near Collingwood, on Tuesday afternoon looking at a threshing machine, boiler and engine, which they thought of buying, the boiler suddenly exploded, tearing in two about the middle. One part shot forward about 25 feet and the other backward about 45 feet over a fence into the orchard. Edward Blackstock was struck and died a few minutes later. His father was severely injured, but will likely recover. The Shell brothers were unhurt.

BAKER AND CONFECTIONER

A HUSBAND'S REMORSE.

I was wending my way homeward one evening last week. The hum of business had ceased, and there was a general sense of repose. Suddenly a shrill voice rent the air. Hurrying on to the next street I saw there a woman, respectably dressed, but hopelessly drunk, clinging obstinately to some railings, and resisting tooth and nail all her husband's efforts to persuade her to go home. The man, a sober, respectable-looking mechanic, showed such singular patience and forbearance, was so gentle, so determined not to lose his temper, that I felt a special interest in the case, and resolved to see it to the end, and help them if I could.

At this moment the woman suddenly unloosened her hold of the railings, and lurched along a few paces on her husband's arm. I saw that with a little support on the other side she could get home pretty well. I asked him if they lived near at hand. "Just at the end of the street," he answered. So I held her firmly by the other arm, and we walked her rapidly along before she had time to rebel, down the street, and in at the open door, where a pretty little girl was anxiously waiting.

I put her on the sofa, took off her hat, put a cushion under her head, and left her.

I then followed the husband into the kitchen, and expressed my sympathy with him and my admiration of his extraordinary patience. I noticed that the woman was not coarse or rough looking, and I told him that I should like to know what first caused his wife to drink.

"You've a right to ask anything you like, for it isn't every lady that would help a drunken woman home."

He then sighed heavily, and covered his face with his hands. I waited until he was ready to speak.

"Do ye want to know how ma canny bit wife got larned to drink? It was me that larned her. May God forgive me." He then told me the history of his married life:—

"Jenny was left an orphan quite young. The vicar's lady took a deal of notice of her, and had her trained for service, and got her good places among the gentry; and so she was a deal superior to me, and pretty spoken, and had polite ways with her, and I was rare and proud when she promised to be my wife. Work was plentiful then, and I was earning big wages. I made as canny a little home for her as any working man's wife could wish for. We had a good mahogany chest of drawers, and four post bedstead, and sofa, and an eightday clock, and all needful chairs and tables, and kitchen things, and we were as happy as the day was long. I was never to say a drunkard, but did as others did. I got through a tidy sup o' drink every day, and on Saturday we'd have an extra bit of a booze as a matter of course.

"Now Jenny scarce knew the taste of drink when I married her. She couldn't bide the smell of it; but on Saturdays, when we'd done w'or marketing, nothing would satisfy me but she should go into the "Bull's Head" and let me treat her to a glass of port wine or a sup of spirits. Lots of other chaps were treating their wives and sweethearts, and I was that proud of Jenny. I wanted then all to see what a canny wife I had. But she's never been used with going to a public-house, and was ashamed and frightened at the noise. She couldn't abide it, and hung back sorely. Then, like a fool, I lost my temper, and she would go just to pacify me.

"As months went by she got used to going with me, and needed no persuading, and would take her sup of spirits, not once only, but twice or three times, and oftener, and I, like a fool, was proud to pay for it. She might have had a gallon if she could have drunk it.

But one night—I mind it well—she hung back in the old way. She stopped as she was going in at the door, and looked back at me. Such a strange, wild look, half drunk as I was, it startled me.

"'Jack,' she says, 'you don't know what you are doing. You're bringing trouble on us both. Let me go home.'

"No, I wouldn't hear of it. After a while matters were less comfortable at home, the house was neglected she got short in her temper, and often we had sharp words; but I was at work all day, and at night I had generally had too much drink to notice what was going on. My eyes got opened at last to what I had done.

"One day one of our factory chaps was putting up a bill about a temperance entertainment. He asked me would I go with him?

"'Is there any groaning?' says I.

"'Never a groan,' he says, 'but there's some first-rate songs and a bit of a speech, and it's regular jolly.'

"'All right, then, I don't mind if I do go; but I'se not going anywhere to be groaned at.'

"So I went, and there was a first-rate speaker. He pictured a home as it ought to be; then he pictured a home with a drunken wife. When he came to the drunken husband—that's me, thinks I. My head was clear for once, and I saw what I was. Then and there I made my mind up to be done with the stuff for ever.

"On my way home I thought how pleased Jenny would be to join teetotal with me. I remember how she used to dislike the drink. I was full of joyful plans for the future, when I saw a lot of bairns shouting and jeering a woman in the middle of the road. I could only see her back, but I could see she was drunk. Her clothes were draggled and muddy with tumbling down; her hat was all bashed in. What a miserable sight, thinks I, but she's some poor chap's wife, anyway, and so I shouted to the bairns to let her alone.

"With that she turned round, yelling and shaking her fist at them. Good God, it was my own wife! I staggered as if I'd had a blow from a hammer. My canny, winsome Jenny was now a poor drunkard, and it was my own doing. I struck one hand in the other, and I vowed, God helping me, to devote my life to undoing the mischief I had wrought—but it's easier to lead a soul astray than it is to win it back again.

"That was nigh a year ago. She tries hard at times to give the drink up, but the craving seems to get the better of her, and it changes her whole nature. Can you wonder that I'm patient with her, when I have done her the deadliest wrong that one soul can do another? When I see men taking their wives and sweethearts into a public house for refreshment, instead of to the cocoa rooms and such places, I feel as if I could lay hold of them, and drag them out by main force. They're doing the devil's work in their mistaken generosity, and laying up sorrow for them both. I've seen plenty of it. Can you advise me what to do? Will you come and see my wife when she is sober?"

What I replied it is unnecessary to state here. I have told this plain, unvarnished story, because I believe that this habit of treating women to drink in public-houses is one cause of "the growing evil."—On the Line.

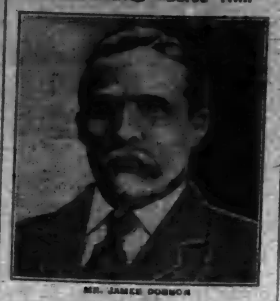
Cured Eczema Like Magic

Suffered for Years—Tried All Kinds of Treatment—Surprised at Results From Dr. Chase's Ointment.



You can soon tell when people are enthusiastic about medical treatment by the language they use. After experimenting with all sorts of ointments in a vain effort to obtain relief and cure, the writer of this letter was astonished at the quick and satisfactory results obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"It worked like magic," she writes. Indeed, it is surprising the healing that is often effected in a single night by this great ointment. The stinging and itching are relieved at once, and cure is only a matter of time and patient treatment.

Mrs. Clements, 13 Strange street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have suffered from eczema for years, and after using all kinds of ointments, at last tried Dr. Chase's Ointment. It worked like magic and proved a God-send to me. I would advise anyone suffering from eczema to try one box and be convinced." 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

A GREAT BELIEVER IN "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Well Known Ontario Merchant Has Faith Because "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

MR. JAMES DOBSON

BRONTE, ONT., MARCH 1st, 1912.

"Fruit-a-tives has made a complete cure in my case of Rheumatism, that had at least five years standing before I commenced the treatment. The trouble was principally in my right hip and shoulder, the pain from it was almost unendurable. Not being able to sleep on that side, if I chanced to turn on my right side while asleep, the pain would immediately awaken me. This kept up until I started taking "Fruit-a-tives". I started by taking one or two tablets with a large glass of water, in the morning before breakfast and experienced pronounced relief very shortly. After a continued treatment for about six months, I was cured and am now in firstclass health. This, I attribute to my persistent use of "Fruit-a-tives" and I heartily recommend your remedy to any Rheumatic sufferers."

THE BOY WHO LOVES HIS MOTHER.

She sat on the porch in the sunshine,
As I went down the street—
A woman whose hair was silver,
But whose face was blossom sweet.
Making me think of the garden,
When in spite of the frost and snow
Of bleak November weather,
The fragrant flowers grow.

I heard a step behind me,
And the sound of a merry laugh,
And I knew the heart it came from
Would be like a comforting staff
In the time and hour of trouble;
Hopeful and brave and strong,
One of the hearts to lean on,
When we think all things go wrong.

I turned at the click of the gate-latch
And met his manly look;
A face that gives one pleasure,
Like the page of a pleasant book.
It told of a steadfast purpose,
Of a brave and daring will,
A face with a promise in it,
That God grant the years fulfil.

He went up the pathway singing,
I saw the woman's eyes
Grow bright with a wordless welcome
As sunshine warms the skies.
"Back again, sweetheart mother,"
He cried, and bent to kiss
The loving face uplifted
For what some mothers miss.

That boy will do to depend on,
I know that this is true—
From lads in love with their mothers
Our bravest heroes grew.
Earth's grandest hearts have been loving
Since time and earth began;
And the boy who kisses his mother
Is every inch a man.

SMILE WHEN YOU EAT.

Pleasant Thoughts Aid Digestion.—Go Slowly, Says a Physician.

Be merry when you eat is more than a mere saying. There is real wisdom in it.

It is best not to sit down to a meal when you are tired out, physically or mentally. It is best not to eat a hearty meal when your mind is perturbed or in an unhappy state. It is best not to eat in solitude and to the accompaniment of unpleasant thoughts.

It may sound strange to the average person to say, "Watch your thoughts while you are at the table." But it is good common sense when you think it over and get at the reason. Watching your thought simply means that you will by intention, think of and talk of pleasant, bright things.

Thinking and talking of bright, pleasant things simply means your mind will be in a proper frame. And then you are several points nearer properly digesting your food.

The next important matter, which, by the way, is just as "firstly" as the state of mind question, has to do with the way you eat your food.

Do you masticate it, or do you swallow it almost whole?

Hurrying through a meal is poor policy. Many foods should be acted upon, in part, by the mouth. If they are bolted into the stomach they lose this part of the process of digestion entirely.

And do you know that the preservation of the teeth depends very largely on the use of them in masticating food. That which we do not put to good use is very likely to disappear.

Thirdly and lastly, do not get into the habit of reading or studying while at a meal. It is a heavy tax on the digestive organs, and in the end will not prove either a saving of time or a relaxation.

The 66th anniversary of Claude Presbyterian Church will be held on October 12th.

A MIDNIGHT BLAZE.

Dr. Campbell's House in Grand Valley Completely Destroyed by Fire.

Mrs. Campbell and Family Escape in Their Night Clothes.

Shortly before eleven o'clock on Monday night fire broke out in the kitchen of Dr. Campbell's house, Amaranth St., and at two o'clock nothing remained but the smouldering ruins and ragged walls.

Mrs. Campbell and the children had retired some time and not feeling well she rose and started to go downstairs for some medicine. Opening the bedroom door a puff of smoke rolled in and she set about waking the children and getting them out. By this time neighbors had seen the blaze in the house and a general alarm sounded, so that willing helpers were soon on hand to do what? Fight a fire with hose unreeled and without the least semblance of organization. Five minutes work of a proper organization, with water, at the beginning would have saved the building. By the time the old hand engine got going the house was doomed and the people set about saving the adjoining properties. A perfect shower of burning shingles covered the frame stables in the rear of the house. Men with pails kept the roof wet, while another with a small window force pump did a lot of effective work in preventing any other blazes starting. As is usual in fires here a few men and several women and girls crammed the fire engine, working till exhausted while some able-bodied males looked interestedly at the fire with self-congratulations that it was not their loss.

Those on the scene early got the parlor furniture and the dining room table and chairs out but everything else was burned. The loss in clothing, jewellery, surgeon's instruments and the doctor's library will be heavier than the loss on the building.

Dr. Campbell had just returned home a few minutes before the blaze was noticed and he cannot account for it.

In breaking a window to remove the furniture the doctor gave his thumb a bad gash, requiring a stitch or two to close it up.

Will Stuckey entered the bedroom and secured a roll of bills of over $100 from the bed where Mrs. Campbell had placed it. He has some difficulty in getting out because of smoke, and then found the ladder gone from the window.

It was not long before thoughtful women and young girls were passing around with steaming pails of tea and coffee for those who manned the pump.

Other kind hearted people took care of the homeless and clotheless ones.

There was an insurance of $6300 divided as follows: $2000 on house, stable and contents; $2000 on furniture and $1000 on medical instruments and $400 on medical books.

Do we need fire protection? Nothing but the calm night, and the damp roofs from the rain a few nights before prevented a conflagration that might easily have swept half the village.—Star & Vidette.

DISCOVERY OF THE PACIFIC.

Spanish Adventurer was the First European Who Set Eyes on the Great Ocean.

Last Thursday was the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the Pacific Ocean by Vasco Nuez de Balboa, an achievement which, in historical importance, ranks second only to the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus a score of years earlier. Additional interest is given to the anniversary because of the fact that the Panama Canal soon to be completed, follows in the main the supposed line of Balboa's trail across the isthmus.

When Rodrigo de Bastidas sailed from Cadiz in 1500 on a voyage of discovery to the New World, Vasco Nunez went along. For a year the party coasted along South and Central America. The expedition proved a failure and broke up shortly thereafter at Santa Domingo. Thrown on his own resources Balboa decided to follow agriculture. As a result he eventually was deep in debt.

When Bachiller Fernandez Encisco who had accumulated a fortune in the law practice, started an expedition to the mainland of the New World in the spring of 1510, Balboa wished to accompany him, but unhappily, the law prohibited debtors from leaving the locality of their indebtedness. For this reason Balboa had himself carried on board the ship in a cask, which was not opened till the vessel was at sea.

The expedition drifted about aimlessly for a year. Then Balboa told of having been in the same locality some years before and described a favored region on the banks of a river called Darien by the natives. The surrounding country was fertile and gold mines were said to be near by. Best of all, the Indians there did not fight with poisoned arrows.

Following Balboa's counsel the expedition made for Darien, where they founded a town and christened it Santa Maria de la Antigue del Darien, or Antigue for short. Fifty thousand dollars worth of booty was captured, besides important stores of food. But the Spaniards quarrelled among themselves. The result was that Balboa was made the chief and Encisco was banished.

Balboa foresaw that a lawyer like Encisco would probably be able to plead his cause effectually at the Spanish Court; but he also realized that if he could accomplish some big feat and win a handsome fortune to send back to his royal master his usurpation would be justified. So he started inland at the head of his forces.

Pizarro, the future conqueror of Peru, was one of Balboa's ablest lieutenants. In a manner not at all to their credit, the Spaniards first raided a chief named Careta, after he had befriended them. Fearing the white men, Careta agreed to reveal the riches of the land to them, and when they seemed inclined to doubt his word the old man said to Balboa:

"Behold my daughter, I give her to thee as a pledge of friendship. Take her for thy wife and be assured of the fidelity of her family and her people."

Realizing the importance of an alliance with the natives, Balboa accepted the maiden. Balboa grew to be very fond of her, and she acquired great influence over him. To his faithfulness to this native princess his ultimate downfall is to be ascribed in some measure.

Balboa made a friendly visit to Comagre, known as the greatest of all chiefs of the Isthmian tribes, and whose son made mention of "another mighty ocean sea," but six days' journey on. Balboa then determined to become an explorer, and with 200 of the most reckless of his followers and a pack of bloodhounds, set off early in September to traverse eighteen leagues. It has fitly been described as the hardest short stretch that can be found anywhere. For two weeks they toiled on, slaughtering hostile Indians. It was 10 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 25th, that he finally scaled a mountain peak and saw the Pacific.

Balboa sank to his knees and thanked God for being the first European permitted to open the way to this wonderful ocean.

Seizing a banner on which were painted the Virgin and Child and the arms of Leon and Castile, Balboa marched proudly into the water knee deep, and with a flourish of his sword took possession of everything therein and bordering thereon, in the names of the sovereigns of Castile, Leon and Arragon, according to the elaborate formula provided.

LATE GEORGE REILLY.

One by one the pioneers of Luther are passing away, and last week George Reilly's death removed another link that bound the past with the present. Mr. Reilly was born in Erin township 81 years ago, of United Empire Loyalist stock, and lived there until 38 years ago when he moved to Luther, where land was cheaper, and more opportunities onered for his family. About 20 years ago he retired to Grand Valley. Mr. Reily was a quiet man, given more to the concern of his family than public affairs; and bore a reputation for honor and integrity in business matters. He was a devoted attendant at the Disciples' Church. In 1858 he married Martha Parker, who with the following children, survive:—John, at Jessopville, William, in Amaranth, Albert and George, of East Luther; Andrew, Norman, and Mrs. L. Sinclair, of Grand Valley; James B., of Sault Ste Marie; Mrs. J. J. Gully, of Innisfree, Alta., and Edward, of Stettler.—Star & Vidette.

MOROCCO.

There is a natural rivalry now going on between the French in Morocco and the Italians in Tripoli. So nearly of even date are the two acquisitions that a comparison of progress in the two last to be appropriated of the Barbary States supplies all the stirring interest of a contest. A recent consular report from Tripoli was the basis of an article covering the strides of the Italians. Morocco in its turn is now the subject of a similar report from the pen of U.S. Consul-General at Tangier, Maxwell Blake. Copious reports in the French press have moreover made public a great deal more of the recent progress in Morocco than the compass of the article by Mr. Blake comprises.

In the pacification of Morocco, be it said at the start, the French have to face an actually greater task than that of the Italians in placing the harness of Victor Emmanuel's authority upon their new province. The area of Tripoli is indeed greater than that of Morocco, but the portion of that area not composed of waterless and lifeless desert is considerably smaller than the inhabited part of Morocco. Morocco is inhabited, so it is estimated, by 3,000,000 natives, against only 1,000,000 in Tripoli. And a large fraction of this population have for many years been completely unsubmissive to the authority of their nominal overlords, the Sultans of Morocco. When the Turks finally withdrew from Tripoli the natives' resistance promptly collapsed. In Morocco, however, over a year of great activity and consistent success by the French troops has failed as yet to complete the thorough military house sweeping that accomplishes entire pacification.

Walled off along its Mediterranean coast by the mountainous Riff country which the Spaniards, to whom it was allotted, have scarcely begun to place in subjection, Morocco was equally shut off from French approach from the east by the interference of the main range of the Atlas Mountains, which made the maintenance of an army of occupation solely by way of Algeria both laborious and dangerous. The troops were obliged to enter the fertile western seaboard region of Morocco by the way of the country's doors on the Atlantic. Each point that would do as a port has been occupied and at each of the ports—Mehedia, Rabat, Casablanca, Mazagan, Safi, Mogador—as pacification swept up the country back of it, there sprang up a modern, though primitive, commercial town.

This explains how Casablanca has come to increase its import trade for the year 1912 over the year preceding by $3,553,000, nearly doubling its total, and how Rabat, with a 1912 total of $2,527,000, more than doubled its imports. As yet the trade at the coast town consists chiefly of imports, for the reason that pacification and development have yet to bear their fruit in enlarged production for export, which does not come in a day. Even to take the imports as a sign of special commercial development among the population of the interior would be an error, for the chief part the imports were for the use of the French conquerors and pioneers and represented military or capital expenditure rather than normal consumption.

Wherever arms have passed, the seed of permanent development is being sown, both at the Atlantic ports and elsewhere. A $10,000,000 contract for the construction in seven years of a 280 acre harbor at Casablanca has not only been let but has already entered the stage of pick and shovel. In a widely different line of endeavor, to show how general is the course of development, a series of experiments in cotton culture carried on at Casablanca during 1911 may be cited. Cotton seeds from Porto Rico and native seeds were planted and the growth irrigated during the dry season, with the result that the experiments figured a yield of 1,040 pounds to the acre of fine quality on the Porto Rican cotton for the first year and 4,000 pounds to the acre the second year.

In France the possibility of early competition from Moroccan vines is regarded with such disquiet among the producers of the cheaper or non-vintage wines that they have recently started an agitation for the maintenance of a high French tariff against Moroccan wine importations.

One token of the rapid upstarting of profitable industry in the inland portion of the French protectorate appears in speculation in lands. While the seaport town sites have felt the effect of soaring booms, with 400 per cent. rises the farm lands have risen less rapidly. That they are not yet too high, according to American farming views, is suggested by the statement that "to purchase and equip a farm of 1,000 acres would require under present conditions and prices an approximate capital of $25,-000," while "experience has shown that a minimum profit of 25 per cent. may be expected on the capital."

Among the Moroccan questions under discussion in French colonial circles are that of the forthcoming subsidizing of a steamship line between France and Moroccan ports on the Atlantic; the question of educating natives in French speech and agricultural methods: the building of railroads to the Muluya Valley at the east and from Tangier to Fez at the north; the establishment of a centre of French sympathies and customs in Marakech, the great inland capital of the south. A system for mining claims is being codified. On all sides the work of attuning the great protectorate to its coming productive value and of improving the lives and ways of the natives is going forward very close behind the firing line.

Milton is likely to have a fourth brick plant. An American firm is prospecting there.

THE GREAT GAME OF THE SEA-PIGS.

What must be one of the most marvellous and interesting sights to be seen in the ocean is that which was given the above name by a Friendly Island chief in a conversation held by him with F. T. Bullen, the noted writer on sea subjects, as they together sat on a little promontory on the eastern shore of Hapai and looked out over the waters of the Pacific Ocean beneath them and watched the wonderful game. I will describe it in Mr. Bullen's graphic words:—

"We had reached this sheltered nook, and laid down to rest, lulled into dreamy peace by the murmurs of the Pacific rippling beneath us. The bright expanse of the sea immediately beneath us suddenly started into life. A school of porpoises, numbering several hundreds, broke the surface, newly risen from unknown depths, and began their merry gambols as if the superabundant life animating them must find a vent. They formed into three divisions, marched in undulating yet evenly spaced lines, amalgamated, separated, reformed. At one moment all clustered in one central mass, making the placid sea boil; the next, as if by a pivotal explosion, they were rushing at headlong speed in radiating lines towards a circumference. As if at preconcerted signal, they reached it and disappeared. Perfect quiet ensued for, perhaps, two minutes. Then in solemn measure, solitary individuals scattered over a vast area, rose in the air ten, fifteen, twenty feet, turned and fell, but, at our distance from them, in perfect silence. This pretty play continued for some time, the leaps growing gradually less vigorous until they ceased altogether, and we saw the whole company massing themselves in close order far out to sea. A few minutes, for breathing space I suppose, and then in one magnificent charge, each individual leaping twenty feet at a bound, they came thundering shoreward. It was an inspiring sight, that host of lithe black bodies in maddest rush along the seasurface, lashing it into dazzling foam, and sending across to our ears a deep melodious roar like the voice of many waters. Within a hundred yards of the shore they disappeared abruptly, as if an invisible line had there been drawn, and presently we saw them leisurely departing eastward, as though, playtime over, they had now resumed the normal flow of everyday duties."

GINSENG GROWING.

An Industry That is Attracting Much Attention Because of Possibility of Large Returns.

Visit to Orr & Nichols Gardens Near Mono Mills—Local Growers Cultivate the Plant Successfully.

In company with Mr. H. A. Dorrance, the District Representative of the Department of Agriculture, The Banner had the pleasure one day last week of making a short visit to the ginseng gardens of Messrs. Orr & Nichols, on the Mono-Adjala townline, a short distance from Mono Mills. Mr. Nichols, who was found at work digging roots in one of the plots, took the visitors in hand and under his guidance they were shown through the gardens and furnished with a most interesting explanation of the methods of cultivating ginseng and the difficulties that the grower has to combat. Messrs. Orr & Nichols have been in the ginseng industry for ten or twelve years. Their first venture was a quarter acre plot. Finding that they could grow the plant successfully and at a profit they set out another half acre plot and this year are busy setting out another half acre, which will give them 1½ acres of ground devoted to ginseng growing. They secured their first planting by searching in the woods of the neighborhood for ginseng in the wild state. Now they germinate the seed, grow seedlings and set these out when about two years old. The plant is ready to dig when five years old, but the root is larger and gains in quality if allowed to remain in the ground until it is six, seven or even ten years old.

The ginseng plant is a native of the forest, being found in hardwood timber lands, mostly on hillsides facing east, north and south. The secret of successful cultivation seems to lie in keeping it as nearly as possible in its natural environment. For this reason the experienced grower chooses a light warm soil with a fall to the east and south for his garden. He fills his beds with bush mold and fertilizes with well rotted leaves gathered from the bush in autumn and stored in a convenient place. Wood sawdust and rotten wood are also used for fertilizing. The ground is usually worked for a year before planting to clean it from weed seeds. Before plowing it is covered with a heavy matting of leaves and top earth from the woods. A coating of old sawdust is also worked into the soil. When laying out the garden nine foot posts are placed in rows about 12 feet apart and sunk two feet in the ground. These usually run east and west and the roof supports north and south. The ginseng plant will not thrive if there is too much sunlight, so the grower finds it necessary to shade his garden. This he does by making a roof from panels of slats, which can be shifted or removed at will. Building lath serves nicely for this purpose, the lengths being fastened into place with half inch spaces between. The shading should be put on when the trees are beginning to leaf out in May and may be removed in the autumn after the plant foliage has been ripened. When the foliage dies down in the autumn the beds are mulched with old sawdust or a good covering of well-rotted leaves two or three inches thick.

The seed of the ginseng plant matures about the middle of September. It requires about 18 months to germinate, which means that this year's seed would not produce any plant growth until the spring of 1915. When the seed is picked it is usually placed in boxes of mold where it is kept until the following autumn. A layer of earth is first placed in the bottom of the box, and then covered with berries. Then follow earth and berries alternately until the box is filled. By the time the seed is ready to plant the covering will have rotted away so that it can be screened from the earth. The seed may be sown broadcast and covered with leaf mold or placed in rows about five inches apart.

The ginseng root is dug from the ground in the early autumn, care being taken not to cut or break the roots. It is first washed and then spread on racks to dry. It should be spread in a dry, well-ventilated room containing a stove. Artificial heat is not employed for eight or ten days after the roots are placed on the racks. The room is then brought to a temperature of 75 degrees and kept at this heat for another ten days. When the roots begin to harden the temperature is raised to 90 degrees. The drying process takes about five weeks' time and when it is completed all the fibres should be rubbed off. The color of the dry root is a greyish yellow and if it has been thoroughly dried it will be quite brittle and break like a clay pipe stem.

Is there money in ginseng growing? This is a question that will naturally suggest itself to most of our readers. If the experienced grower were disposed to take the public into his confidence he would probably answer in the affirmative. In the case of the amateur the answer might be different, for it is not the easiest matter in the world to cultivate the ginseng plant. In the first place the grower must exercise care in the selection of his ground, in the preparation of his beds, in the care of the seedlings and in the mulching of the ground for the winter. If he starts out with a stock of year old or two year old seedlings it will be at least three years before he can expect to receive any return from his garden. Then unless he has so arranged his planting that he will have a plot of five or six year old plants ready for digging each year, there will be years when he will not have any root to market and consequently will not reap any return for his labor. But granted that he has overcome all these difficulties, he has still to face the possibility of loss from blight to which the plant is subject. What is termed leaf blight can be successfully treated by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. The Bordeaux treatment is not so effective in the case of stalk blight, but Messrs. Orr & Nichol are now using another spraying mixture that is said to do its work effectually. It cannot be gainsaid that the industry offers the possibility of large profits. As an example, in 1912 Orr & Nichols dug 870 lbs. of root from a plot less than 40 by 100 feet. The root loses two-thirds in weight in the drying process, so that they would have say 290 lbs. of marketable root. The price, which the Ontario growers receive, ranges from $2.50 to $9 per lb. Putting the selling price at $5 a lb., which is possibly somewhat less than the actual selling price, the year's output would bring $1450. Orr & Nichols expect to have at least this quantity of root for the market every year, and when they get their third plot going will increase their output at least one-third. They are the largest but not the only ginseng growers in this district. Mr. T. G. Porter of this town may be called the pioneer ginseng grower in this locality. He has a small plot in his back garden from which he has sold over $600 of the root. His sales last year realized $200. Mr. T. S. Hewson, Zina St., Mr. Thos. Rowan, Mr. Wilson Huston, Mr. Jesse Robertson, Mr. Hugh Greenis and Rev. Dr. Harper, now of Collingwood, are all cultivating the plant successfully. Last year Dr. Harper sold $75 worth of the root. The outstanding feature in connection with the industry is the large return that it is possible to obtain from a very small plot of ground.

Ginseng is described in the Encyclopedia Brittannica, as the roots of a species of Panax, native of Manchuria and Korea and belonging to the natural order, Araliaceæ. It is used in China as a medicine. Other roots are substituted for it, notably that of Panax Quinquefolium, distinguished as American ginseng and imported from the United States. At one time the ginseng obtained from Manchuria was considered to be the finest quality and in consequence became so scarce that an imperial edict was issued prohibiting its collection. That prepared in Korea is now the most esteemed variety. The root of the wild plant is preferred to that of cultivated ginseng and the older the plant the better is the quality of root considered to be. Great care is taken in the preparation of the drug. The account given by Keumpfer of the preparation of nindsin, the root of Suim ninsi, in Korea, will give a good idea of the preparation of ginseng, ninsi being a similar drug of supposed weaker virtue, obtained from a different plant and often confounded with ginseng.

"In the beginning of winter nearly all the population of Sjansai turn out to collect the root and make preparations for sleeping in the fields. The root, when collected, is macerated for three days in fresh water, or water in which rice has been boiled twice. It is then suspended on a closed vessel over the fire and afterwards dried until from the base to the middle it assumes a hard and translucent appearance, which is considered a proof of its good quality."

Ginseng of good quality generally occurs in hard, rather brittle translucent pieces, about the size of the little finger and varying in length from two to four inches. The taste may be described as mucilaginous, sweetish and slightly bitter and aromatic. The root is frequently forked and it is probably owing to this circumstance, the Encyclopedia Brittannica states, that medicinal qualities were in the first place attributed to it, its resemblance to the body of a man being supposed to indicate that it could restore virile power to the aged and impotent. In price, the same authority states, it varies from $6 to $12 to the enormous sum of $300 or $400 an ounce.

The Encyclopedia Americana also notes the difference between the Panax ginseng, the Asiatic species, and the Panax quinquefolium, which is a native of America. The two species, however, so closely resemble each other that the discovery of the American species near Montreal in 1716 was based upon a description of the Asiatic plant. The ginseng plant grows about 18 inches tall, bears five long, nearly smooth leaves issuing from one point, whence also arises the flower stem bearing a cluster of small flowers. From the latter develop scarlet berries, which are generally two-seeded. The root is used by the Chinese for every conceivable domestic and medicinal purpose. Specimens resembling the human body often command their weight in gold because of their supposed occult powers. Shortly after the discovery of the American species a shipment of the wild root was made to China and soon a flourishing trade developed. On this continent the plant has a natural range from the St. Lawrence valley south to the mountains of Georgia and westward to the eastern bank of the Mississippi. This being the case, the supply of the wild root in its wild state was for many years sufficient to meet the demand. In 1852 the price was only 52 cents a pound; in 1902, owing largely to the decrease of the native supply, it had advanced to $5.50 a pound. Lots of northern root, which has always been considered superior to the southern, sold for even $8.00 a pound and higher. It was only natural that the rapidly advancing price should lead to many attempts to cultivate the plant, but it was not until about 1885 that any of these met with success. About that time George Stanton, of Apulin, N.Y., succeeded in producing marketable ginseng by growing the plant in beds prepared in the forest and under lath sheds. The adoption and improvement of the methods originated by Stanton have successfully established American ginseng growing as a commercial industry. Cultivated ginseng, it is interesting to note, commands about 20 per cent. more than wild root from the same locality. The prices vary greatly, ranging from $2.50 to $9 and $12 per lb. As a rule American growers sell in New York, where the roots are graded and given their final preparation for shipment to China. Extremely high prices were paid for both plants and seed during the years 1898-1903. This was largely due to speculation, based upon the possibility of making huge profits from ginseng growing and an exaggerated estimate of the demand in China.

Lockhart gives an interesting account of a visit to a Chinese ginseng merchant. Opening the outer box, he says, the merchant removed several paper parcels which appeared to fill the box, but under them was a second box, or perhaps two small boxes, which, when taken out, showed the bottom of the large box and all the intervening space filled with more paper parcels. These parcels, he said, "contained quicklime, for the purpose of absorbing any moisture and keeping the boxes quite dry, the lime being packed in paper for the sake of cleanliness. The smaller box, which held the ginseng, was lined with sheet lead; the ginseng further enclosed in silk wrappers was kept in little silked covered boxes. Taking up a piece, he would request his visitor not to breathe upon it, nor handle it; he would dilate upon the many merits of the drug and the cures it had effected. The cover of the root, according to its quality, was silk, either embroidered or plain, cotton cloth or paper."

In China the ginseng is often sent to friends as a valuable present; in such cases "accompanying the medicine is usually given a small, beautifully-finished double kettle, in which the ginseng is prepared as follows. The inner kettle is made of silver, and between this and the outside vessel, which is a copper jacket, is a small space for holding water. The silver kettle, which fits on a ring near the top of the outer covering, has a cup-like cover in which rice is placed with a little water; the ginseng is put in the inner vessel with water, a cover is placed over the whole, and the apparatus is put on the fire. When the rice in the cover is sufficiently cooked, the medicine is ready and is then eaten by the patient, who drinks the ginseng tea at the same time." The dose of the root is from 60 to 90 grains. During the use of the drug tea drinking is forbidden for at least a month, but no other change is made in the diet. It is taken in the morning before breakfast, from three to eight days together, and sometimes it is taken in the evening before going to bed.

Neither the Asiatic nor the American species is considered by American or British physicians to have any pronounced medicinal qualities. The action of the drug, the Encyclopaedia Brittannica states, appears to be entirely psychic and comparable to that of the mandrake of the Hebrews. There is no evidence that it possesses any pharmacological or therapeutic properties.

URIC ACID SUFFERING.

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones; in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

SUING THE TOWN.

John Donnelly is After Alliston for Value of Some Brush.

A hurried meeting of the town council was held on Wednesday evening last, the reason for calling it being the receipt by Mayor Mitchell of an official document in which John Donelly charges the town with trespassing on his property in the spring of 1912. This was when some brush was taken off his property at the time of the flood a year ago last April. Mayor Mitchell explained to the council that the town's employees and the Chairman of the Board of Works had asked and received permission to take brush from Mr. Donnelly's premises and nothing had ever been heard of it till some months later when Mr. Donnelly pleaded guilty to a charge in police court. Then he set up the claim that the town owed him for brush and later sent his bill to the council. The matter had been investigated and the men who had taken off the brush emphatically declare that they received permission to do so and were given certain instructions regarding cutting the cedar saplings. The council had already turned down the bill and the charge of trespass and claim for damages was the result. The Mayor asked the councillors what they proposed to do in the matter. All the members were present except Reeve Bell and there was no murmur of dissent when someone said "Fight it out; we don't owe him anything." A motion instructing the town solicitor to file a statement of defence and defend the action in court was made and passed. The case will come up at the next sitting of the Division Court here.—Alliston Herald.

A. Hogg's trotting mare, Rena Bison (2.16¼). We are glad to learn that the Dr's string was very successful throughout the circuit. Rena Bison started in seven races, three of which were for stakes of $1000 and was inside the money in them all. Billy Sims was equally successful and Spier Simmons got third money in the one race in which he was started. The 3 year old contracted a severe attack of influenza, which prevented him from doing any further speeding. Minnie Hall (2.12¼), owned by J. A. Black, of Belwood, and driven by Andy Essin, started in five races and won them all.

Bought a New Boiler

At a special meeting of the Town Council on Saturday night a motion was passed empowering the Fire & Water Committee to purchase a new boiler for the fire hall. The Committee was instructed to buy a 65 or 70 h.p. boiler from the Waterous Engine Works Co., of Brantford. A representative of the Company was here on Tuesday and closed a bargain with the Committee for a 65 h.p. horizontal tubular boiler tested to stand a steam pressure of 125 lbs. to the square inch. Boiler and fittings will cost the town about $650. The old boiler, which has done duty for some thirty years, was of vertical design, about 40 h.p. and would stand about 75 lbs. pressure.

Falling Hair

Many People Have a Simple Way of Stopping It—They Use Parisian Sage.

It was Dr. Sangerbond, of Paris, who first discovered that dandruff and falling hair were caused by a microbe.

And now that Parisian Sage, the remedy that kills the dandruff germ, is sold in every town in Canada, the people of this country have awakened to the fact that dandruff is unnecessary; that falling hair and itching scalp can be quickly stopped, and that the people who use Parisian Sage will never grow bald.

To every reader of The Banner who wishes to eradicate offensive dandruff, stop falling hair and have an immaculately clean scalp, free from itchiness, T. Stevenson says he will sell Parisian Sage in a large fifty cent bottle with a guarantee to refund the money if not satisfied. It is an ideal, daintily perfumed hair dressing, free from grease and stickiness, that will put life and beauty into dull faded hair and cause it to grow lustrous and luxuriant.

You Know Us

We are in business right here where you live. You are an acquaintance, neighbor or a friend of ours. This money-back-if-not-satisfied offer should prove the sincerity of our claims.

When we say we believe we have the best laxative and back up our statement with our unqualified promise to return without question or formality the money paid us for it, if it does not prove entirely satisfactory to you, we believe we are entitled to your confidence.

Our business success and prestige depend upon your confidence in us. We know we must secure and hold your confidence in order to get and keep your patronage. Therefore, we would not dare make this offer if we were not positively certain that we can prove our claims for

Rexall Orderlies

Our experience with them and the many reports we have received from those who have used them prove that they are really the most pleasing and satisfactory bowel remedy we know of.

Rexall Orderlies taste like candy. They are soothing and easy in action. They don't cause griping, nausea, purging or excessive looseness, as do the usual physic or laxative. Rexall Orderlies seem to act as a tonic-strengthener upon the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They promptly relieve constipation. They act to overcome the cause of constipation. They tend to eliminate the cause of sick headache, biliousness, bad breath, nervousness and other ills attendant upon inactive bowels.

Make Us Prove This

We want you to come to our store and get a package of Rexall Orderlies. Use a few or use up the entire box. Then, if you are not entirely satisfied, come back and tell us and we will promptly return the money you paid us for them.

You promise nothing—you sign nothing—you obligate yourself to us in no way whatever. We accept your mere word.

Don't you now believe that Rexall Orderlies are worthy of a trial? Could any offer be more fair?

Try Them at Our Risk

We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, aged persons and for delicate people.

Rexall Orderlies come in vest-pocket tin boxes. 12 tablets, 10c; 36 tablets, 25c; 90 tablets, 50c. Usual dose one tablet.

SHAW—BOWLES.

A quiet, but pretty wedding, took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Bowles, Chinguacousy township., when their youngest daughter, Reta, was united in marriage to Jas. G. Shaw, son of Mrs. Thos. Shaw, of Albion township, the ceremony being performed by Rev. G. H. Purchase, of Mono Road Circuit. The bride was tastefully dressed in white satin. After the wedding dinner the happy couple left on the evening train for Toronto where they took the west bound train for Weyburn, Sask., the bride travelling in navy blue serge suit with small white felt hat. There were many friends at Mono Road station to wish the happy couple a prosperous journey and many years of happiness.— Bolton Enterprise.

SOME DONT'S.

Don't eat fast.
Don't stay up late at night.
Don't put tobacco in your ears to stop pain.
Don't forget to take your tooth-plate out every night and wash it.
Don't sleep with your window shut, and don't breathe with your mouth open.
Don't use for yourself a prescription which the doctor wrote for somebody else.
Don't have false teeth put in over rotten stumps; have the stumps taken out first.
Don't have the child's ears pierced in the hope that it will improve weak eyes; it is a silly superstition.
Don't spend on worthless "cure-alls" money which might be put by to help towards a summer holiday.
Don't wear spectacles which were ordered for somebody else, but have your eyes properly tested. The two eyes are seldom of equal strength.

THE GAME LAWS.

Sportsmen and Others Interested Will Preserve these Dates.

Magistrates and others possessing copies of the statutes are besieged these days for information by sportsmen. The following will be of interest to this class:—

Open season for the following game:—

Woodcock from first day of October to 15th November, both days inclusive.

Quail, wild turkeys, black and grey squrrels from 15th November to 1st day of December, both days inclusive in this territory.

Hares and cotton tail rabbits October 1st to 15th December, both days inclusive.

Ducks or other water-fowl, snipe, rail, plover from 15th September to 15th December, both days inclusive in this territory.

No muskrat shall be hunted or killed or had in possession of any person between the first day of May and the 1st day of December.

No mink shall be hunted, taken or killed or had in possession of any person between the 1st day of May and the 1st day of November.

No person shall on the Lord's day, hunt, take, kill or destroy any game, or use any gun or other engine for that purpose.

No eggs of any game or bird shall be taken, destroyed or had in possession by any person at any time.

An unusual incident occurred the other evening, when a partridge flew into Mr. Roy Choate's barber shop in Brampton and fell dead on the floor. The bird had dashed through the window and when picked up it was found that its neck was broken. It had evidently been pursuing a sparrow which was found inside the screen door in an exhausted condition.

THE GROOM WAS A GIRL.

Young Lady Plays Practical Joke on a Guelph Clergyman.

A rather belated story reached the ears of The Herald reporter today regarding a joke which was played on a popular pastor of one of Guelph's churches a few weeks ago, and which he has endeavored to hush up as much as possible. It seems some new regulations have been put into effect during the past year regarding the marriage laws, it being necessary now that due notice be given to the parson who is selected to tie the nuptial knot a certain length of time ahead. The minister in question was called up by telephone one day, and asked if he could marry a couple on such a day, and, of course, the reply was satisfactory, he would be only too delighted. He noted the date and made preparations for the event by purchasing a large and expensive bouquet of beautiful flowers for the parlor table, and putting on his pulpit clothes, awaited the coming of the bride and groom. They arrived promptly on time, but were unattended. This was not an uncommon occurrence, however, and the minister invited his wife in as a witness. The couple stood before the minister, who began to ask the usual questions. When he had asked the first question of the groom, a decided snicker came forth instead of an answer, and then a hearty laugh followed, which revealed the striking fact to the minister that the groom was a lady, a well known member of his congregation, dressed up in a man's clothes, so cleverly that the deception was complete. The parson, who is a good natured fellow at all times, took the joke in hearty good humor, and everybody had a good laugh, after which the two young ladies entered the hack which was waiting for them and went home.—Guelph Herald.

DRIVER KILLED.

Animal Impaled by Shaft of Rig Driven by Intoxicated Man.

Whiskey added another accident to the long list of casualties chargeable to its influence, on the crossroad, near Bannockburn school, on Saturday evening.

About 7.30 in the evening David Douglas, employed by Mr. John Watson, of the 5th line, Esquesing, was driving Messrs. W. Sayers and A. Gibbons home to Acton after being engaged during the day at shingling for Mr. Watson. They had just passed the farm entrance of the Mann Bros., when they heard a rig approaching from the direction of Acton, and turned to the side of the road to allow it plenty of room to pass. In violation of all road rules the other vehicle was turned off the road on the same side, and came on at a rapid pace. In the darkness it was impossible to see this and a collision followed. The impact was sudden and disastrous. The point of the shaft of the rig driven by the reckless drivers coming from the west struck Mr. Watson's horse in the breast, impaled it and penetrated some eighteen inches. The wounded animal succumbed in a few minutes from loss of blood.

The other horse was also injured somewhat seriously. It was taken to Messrs. Mann's stable abd is under treatment by a veterinary surgeon. Both buggies were considerably damaged by the colision.

Mr. Watson's horse was a valuable driver, five years old, and was worth $180 to $200.

The drivers who caused the serious damage are reported to belong to Erin Village. It is alleged that they had been drinking in Acton and were on the way home in an intoxicated condition and had a bottle of whiskey with them, which was found under their buggy where it has upset. They have since offered to pay Mr. Watson for his loss. —Acton Free Press.

COLD BLOODED WORK.

A young Scotch waitress, who had been in Canada for about two months, and living in Calgary, bought four lots in Calgary Junction for $500. This was nearly two years ago. The property is nine miles from the post office and a long distance from the street car line. After paying down $300, the girl, realizing that she had been stung, refused to make further payments and demanded her money back. The Dominion Co-operative Company, Ltd., which sold her the lots, replied that if she did not settle up it would bring action against her.

These circumstances are related in a recent issue of the Calgary "Eye-Opener," which gives the company and its chief, named Madden, a severe grilling. The publication calls on the Government for a judicial inquiry so that the girl, who has had to keep her mother and has denied herself clothes and all sorts of comforts while making the payments, will have her money refunded. Says the "Eye-Opener":

"So far is this property from the end of Ogden street car terminus that when the victim we speak of and a friend started to walk from that point to see where her lots were, they got so tired walking, walking, walking, that they turned back completely played out and never reached within sight of her $500 investment at all! We have no hesitation whatever in saying that the taking of this working-girl's hard earned money in exchange for absolutely worthless stuff like this, is little short of downright robbery. The most ordinary crook would hesitate before buncoing an innocent young Scotch working girl out of her savings.

"And this Wadden person bought a limousine car only the other day, the swellest in the city. If he paid for it out of money made in this way, we wish him joy of his purchase. There is no shame to men of this type. They have no conscience to bother them. Having salted away a fortune, he feels secure and will continue his dirty work until stooped by the authorities. We have a very pronounced opinion of a man who rides ground town in a gorgeous limousine, after having taken money to pay for it from servant girls, waitresses and others in a humble station of life. The game is a cruel one. Only the most callous and cold-blooded of bunco artists could be guilty of such work."

PROTON RESIDENT DEAD.

After an illness of some years the angel of death relieved the sufferings of Samuel McKee, of the Back Line, Proton, on Thursday, Sept. 18th. The deceased, who was forty four years of age, was born in this township, and being unmarried, spent his life here with his mother, Mrs. Thos. McKee, and his brother, John. He was unassuming in disposition and his long affliction prevented him from taking an active part in the affairs of the community. His aged mother, five brothers and four sisters survive him, namely: Alex. and James, at Sandhill, Ont.; William and Henry, in Saskatchewan; John on the old homestead; Mrs. Little, Tullamore, Ont., Mrs. Colbeck, Sault Ste. Marie; Mrs. Hebden, Toronto; Mrs. John B. Anderson, Carnduff, Sask.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon to Dundalk cemetery, a large number following the remains to their last resting place. Rev. Herbert Lee was the officiating clergyman. The pallbearers were Messrs. W. and S. Carson, H. and J. Copeland, S. Sherson and T. McPherson.

Among the relatives from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McKee and Mr. James McKee, Sandhill; Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Little, Tullamore; Mr. and Mrs. F. Hebden, Toronto; Mr. Thomas Wilson, Sandhill; Mrs. Leslie, Markdale.—Dundalk Herald.

S. M. CAREY'S SUDDEN CALL.

Death came without much warning to S. M. Carey, formerly of Corbetton, at his home in Toronto, on Thursday, Sept. 8th, and his demise came as a shock to his family and to this community as well. He was not feeling well for a few days, but nothing much was thought of it. He was out for a walk, and, coming in, lay down on a lounge. He passed away shortly after from heart failure. Up to a couple of years ago he was the leading merchant at Corbetton in the general store business for some length of time and he was held in the very highest esteem. He and his family were active workers in the Methodist Church and their musical abilities were always appreciated. Retiring from business they moved to Toronto. The deceased was 61 years of age and is survived by his widow, one son and two daughters: Roy, who travels for W. R. Brock & Co., in Alberta; Mrs. Forde and Bertha at home. The funeral took place on Wednesday and interment was made at Millgrove, near Hamilton.—Dundalk Herald.

Rev. F. A. McLennan, of South Kinloss, has tendered his resignation to the Maitland Presbytery. Mr. McLennan was the oldest minister in the Presbytery.

IN COLD STORAGE.

An Owen Sound Night Engineer Has a Narrow Escape.

Mr. Thomas Norton, the night engineer at the Lemon Bros. wholesale had an experience on Saturday night which he will not wish to have repeated, and which might have resulted fatally for him if help had not arrived when it did. On Saturday evening while working in the basement, he had occasion to go into the butter department in the cold storage room. He had only been in the room a few minutes, when, in attempting to go out he found the lock had caught and he was imprisoned in the room, in a temperature of about 8 degrees above zero, and thinly clad. There was no one in the building at the time, but Mr. Norton kept calling for help and hammering on the door. Mr. Herbert Lemon happened to come into the office to finish some work. The cold storage room is situated immediately beneath the office, and although Mr. Lemon heard some one hammering he did not pay much attention to it as he thought it was Mr. Norton working down below. Just as he was leaving the office he thought he recognized Mr. Norton's voice calling for help and going downstairs he found what the trouble was. A small bolt in the lock had become loose allowing the catch to slip back securely fastening the door. Mr. Lemon immediately opened the door and released Mr. Norton cold and shivering. He had only been in the room about half an hour but was thoroughly chilled. Had Mr. Lemon not arrived when he did the story might have had a different ending, for there was no likelihood that anyone else would have been in the building before Monday morning. It was a narrow escape.—Owen Sound Times.

S. S. CONVENTIONS.

Provincial Association Will Hold Annual Meetings in Owen Sound.

In October, 1912, the session of the 47th Annual Convention of the Ontario Sunday School Association so seriously taxed the capacity of the City of Hamilton that the plan of holding two Conventions, one east and one west, which has been considered for years, was adopted for the year 1913. The enrollment at Hamilton was 1091.

Arrangements are being made for these gatherings in Ottawa, Oct. 22-24, and Owen Sound, October 28-30. The programs are to be altogether equal in each place. The same foreign talent to be used at each place. The same two men, Professors E. O. Excell, of Chicago, and Alvin W. Roper, of Winona Lake, Ind., who were so famous at Hamilton last year, are to lead the music at each convention. Besides these two, contracts have also been signed with Miss Hazel A. Lewis, of Cincinnati, Ohio, an excellent leader in work on Elementary Grades (Children under 12), and Mrs. Zillah Foster Stevens, of Alton, Ill., who is Superintendent of the Temperance Department of the International Sunday School Association. Special effort will be made along Temperance Pledge-signing lines.

In Ottawa by special arrangement, Ontario extends privileges to 50 delegates from Quebec Province, leaving 450 spaces for Eastern Ontario. Owen Sound will care for 350. Bulletin No. 1 has been mailed to all Pastors and Superintendents, and may be had by addressing Ontario Sunday School Association, 33 Richmond St., W., Toronto.

Of the 141 Canadians, Ontario had 73 delegates enrolled at the World's Seventh Sunday School Convention in Zurich. North America had 1344. These delegates sailed on more than a dozen different ships. The total enrolment at Zurich was 2590 from 70 countries. Verbal reports were received covering nearly all these. Two hundred foreign missionaries attended. The numerical strength of the World's Sunday School force is—Sunday Schools 298,000, enrolment 28,700,000.

Mr. John W. Noble, B.S.A., son of Mr. Will Noble, of Masonville, has gone to London, to take up the duties of his new position as Assistant Representative for Middlesex of the Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. McCarthy's husband went out in a boat alone. The boat overturned and he was drowned. A friend met her some weeks later. "I hear," said he, "that Pat left you very well off—that he left you $25,000." "True," said Mrs. McCarthy, "he did." "How was that?" asked her friend. "Pat couldn't read nor write, could he?" "No," said Mrs. McCarthy, "nor swim."

JUDGE VANCE.

Shelburne Barrister is Appointed Senior Judge of Simcoe County.

The Banner joins the many friends of G. M. Vance, K.C., of Shelburne, in extending hearty congratulations upon his appointment to the office of senior Judge of the neighboring county of Simcoe. The appointment is a fitting climax to an honorable and successful career as a barrister. The only regrettable circumstance in connection with Mr. Vance's elevation to the Bench arises from the fact that it will necessitate his removal from this county. His acceptance of the Judgeship makes it necessary for him to take up his residence in Barrie, the county seat of Simcoe. In his removal the village of Shelburne will lose one of its prominent citizens and the County of Dufferin one of its leading men.

George Montgomery Vance, K.C., was born in the township of Cavan, Durham County, on October 4th, 1866. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Vance, reside at Millbrook, Ont. Mr. Vance was educated at Millbrook and Toronto. During his law course he studied for two years in the office of J. W. Curry, K.C., of Toronto, and afterwards completed his course with W. L. Walsh, K.C., of this town, now Mr. Justice Walsh, of Calgary, Alta. He was called to the bar in 1893 and since then has conducted an extensive practice in Shelburne. He was made a King's Counsel in 1906. During his twenty years residence in Shelburne he has always been active in his efforts to further anything calculated to benefit the community. For several terms he filled the office of councillor and reeve of the municipality with credit to himself and the town. In 1894 Mr. Vance was married to Miss May S. Johnston, daughter of the late Peter Johnston, of Camden East, Ont. Mrs. Vance is highly esteemed by the people of Shelburne and has been active in church and social circles and in efforts for the betterment of home and social life. Mr. and Mrs. Vance have two daughters, Miss Lois Vance, who is attending St. Margaret's College in Toronto and Miss Ruth Vance at home.

SENTENCE DEFERRED

Harry Brown Pleaded Guilty to Charge of Firing His Employer's House.

His Honor, Judge W. G. Fisher, recently appointed Judge of the County of Dufferin, held his first Criminal Court in the Court House here on Tuesday. Harry Brown, a Barnado boy, who has been lodged in the County Gaol for the last two months, appeared before His Honor on a charge of arson. Brown was arrested late in July charged with setting fire to the house of a former employer, ex-reeve H. T. Anderson, of Mono, on Saturday night, July 26th, while Mr. Anderson and his family were away from home. The house and contents were totally destroyed, causing a heavy loss to Mr. Anderson above the insurance that he carried. Shortly after his arrest Brown made a written confession, admitting his guilt. On Tuesday the prisoner pleaded guilty and elected to be tried by Judge Fisher.

Rev. G. W. Tebbs, rector of St. Mark's Church, interested himself in the case with a view to seeing that the accused was properly defended and as a result the Barnado Home authorities retained C. R. McKeown, M.P.P., to appeal to the Court for clemency. Mr. McKeown read a number of letters from former employers of the young man. These spoke of him in the highest terms and in one instance the writer expressed the hope that he would receive a light sentence and stated his willingness to take him back into his employ. Mr. C. R. McKeown spoke of the work the Barnado Home is doing, the excellent character of the great majority of its boys and depreated sending the accused to prison, where he would be obliged to associate with hardened criminals.

A charge of lunacy had also been laid, and the boy had been examined by two medical experts, one of whom concluded he was weak-minded and imbecile, but could distinguish between right and wrong.

Crown Attorney McKay said he did not wish to say anything which might increase the penalty the court might see fit to inflict. After setting fire to the house, the accused had admitted shooting holes through his own coat from the inside and trying to cast the blame on others. The Crown Attorney regretted there was no 'midway institution for the care of such persons, as the prisoner appeared to be between the asylum and the Central Prison.

Judge Fisher spoke kindly but seriously to the accused, saying the enormity of the offence could not be overlooked. He would carefully consider the matter and impose sentence on Friday.

Harvest Thanksgiving service will be held in St. John's, Mono Mills, on Sunday, Oct. 26th.

THE POWER DAM.

Work on Big Embankment Near Horning's Mills is Approaching Completion.

Two 300 h.p. Turbines Were Tested on Saturday and Company Expects to Have Power on for Good Next Week.

The Pine River Light & Power Company's big dam on the Pine River 2½ miles east of the pretty village of Hornings Mills is rapidly nearing completion. The last layer of earth is being placed upon the top of the mighty embankment, the flume is in readiness to do its part in transmitting the energy that is to turn the turbine wheels in the power house, experts from the Westinghouse Co. have installed the generators, transformers, switchboard and other electrical appliances, the transmission lines have long since been completed so that practically everything is in readiness to generate the energy that is expected to supply Orangeville, Shelburne, Dundalk and possibly Grand Valley with electric power for lighting and manufacturing purposes. Not only this, but it is from this source that the farmers of Dufferin will in the years to come in all probability procure current to light their houses and barns, drive their cream separators, grain crushers and other farm machinery and possibly to do their milking.

The visitor has only to make a casual survey of the dam to realise the magnitude of the project that is now approaching completion. Three years have passed away since the work of construction was commenced and it has assuredly required brains, engineering skill, perseverance and a mint of money to overcome the obstacles that were encountered and carry the undertaking through to a successful completion. Too much credit cannot be given Mr. T. R. Huxtable, the originator of the project and the man whose perseverance and determination have won the day in the strenuous conflict against heavy odds and unforeseen obstacles that to a less courageous spirit would have appeared insuperable.

The scenery in the neighborhood of the power dam is indescribably beautiful at this season of the year. Leaving the main road at Horning's Mills, a charming little village picturesquely situated between commanding hills, whose slopes are in parts thickly wooded, the visitor takes a valley road that follows closely the windings of the Pine River. As the dam is neared the country becomes more rugged and uplands and valleys are mostly wooded with maple, beech and a sprinkling of evergreens. For miles to the east the eye commands a view of wooded hill and dale, with the narrow road trailing through the valley and shaping its course to conform to the windings of the river. To the north of the dam stands a hill higher than its neighbors, in whose side a great gap has been cut. It is from this elevation that the countless tons of earth have been removed to form the great embankment that will gather and restrain the pent up energies of a large lake.

The dam itself is almost directly on the right of way of the Prince of Wales Road sixteen miles north of Orangeville. The line of the embankment runs almost due north and south. It is 675 feet in length, 60 feet high, 300 feet in width at the base and about 25 feet in width at the top. It is built of clay, with a puddled clay core. The whole face of the dam has been rip rapped with stone and at the back it is still further strengthened by a retaining wall of stone 20 feet in height, 10 feet thick at the base and 7 feet at the top. The front wall of the dam has a slope of 2½ to 1 and at the back the slope is 2 to 1. When completed and filled there will be a depth of 56 feet of water close to the wall and the lake that will be formed will cover 75 or 80 acres. At the present time there is about 42 feet of water in the lake. Visitors should not go away without having a look at the relief pipe at the bottom of the dam. This is a 36-inch steel pipe equipped with a Pratt & Cady straightway valve. While the construction work is in progress, the valve is opened sufficiently to carry off the natural flow of the river and prevent the water from rising to the level of the uncompleted wall. When the dam is completed the pipe may be closed or opened at will and can be used to carry off a portion of the rush of water in case of floods or spring freshets. As there is 56 lbs. pressure at the bottom of the dam the water is forced through the relief pipe at a tremendous speed. When it is partially opened the pressure forces the water through in sheets of white spray that drive through the air a distance of 50 feet. If the pipe were opened to full capacity the force of the escaping torrent would be tremendous.

From the dam the water runs into a cement forebay, which is fitted with four spillways. The forebay directs the current into the flume, which is protected by a heavy iron rack for the purpose of stopping logs and other debris. About 1000 cubic yards of cement were used in the construction of this forebay. The flume, which conveys the water from the forebay to the power house is 1950 feet in length. It is a large circular pipe 42 inches in diameter. For a distance of 1600 feet it is made of 3 inch V jointed pine, hooped every 7 or 10 inches with heavy iron rods. The other 350 feet is a heavy steel pipe made with an expansion joint to provide for expansion or contraction resulting from changes in temperature. For possibly three-fourths of its length the pipe runs with a fall of ¾ of an inch to every 10 feet. Then there is quite a sharp descent to the power house. At the point where this commences the flume is fitted with a standpipe 26 feet in height for the purpose of relieving the pressure in case of a shut-off from any cause at the power house. From the surface of the water in the dam to the mouth of the flume there is a fall of 12 feet, from the mouth of the flume to the standpipe a further fall of eight feet and from the standpipe to the water wheels a drop of 119 feet, making a total fall of 130 feet. The fact that there is 68 lbs. pressure to the square inch at the water wheels will give our readers some idea of the tremendous force which the pent-up current of water gathers in its descent.

The power house is a roomy, strongly built cement structure 36 by 48. The north side of the basement is divided into three chambers. In two of these water turbines have been installed, each capable of developing 300 horse power. Provision has been made for installing a third turbine of the same capacity whenever required, so that the plant is capable of developing 900 horse power. The turbines, which are of the most modern pattern, were installed by the Jenks Machinery Co., of Sherbrooke, Que. They are controlled by the latest type of water governors, operated entirely on the pressure and vacuum principle and made by the Lombard Governor Co., of Ashland, Mass. This company also supplied the relief valve, an interesting piece of machinery installed for the purpose of taking care of what is called the "water hammer" at the power house end of the plant. "Water hammer," it might be explained, is the term applied to the sudden increase of pressure when there is an interruption of the regular flow from a shut-off or other emergency. Besides the governors, the machinery on the upper floor includes generators, high tension transformers for the purpose of stepping the current from 2000 to 22,000 volts for transmission purposes, the latest type of electro lightning arresters and a large three panel switchboard. The electrical machinery was supplied and installed by the Canadian Westinghouse Co., of Hamilton.

The machinery was given its first test last Saturday, when the turbines were set in motion for the first time. Everything went like clockwork and Mr. Huxtable and those associated with him in the enterprise are delighted with the success of the test. A few minor details are being put in shape this week and if no mishap occurs the plant will be in permanent running order next week. The undertaking has been an expensive one, but those interested are confident that it will yield handsome returns. The Dufferin Light & Power Co. spent the larger part of $50,000 on the dam. When it was nearing completion a 30 foot section was washed out by a spring flood. An Owen Sound firm undertook to repair the damage and complete the dam for $15,000, but threw up the job in disgust. The new Pine River Light & Power Co. has spent another $25,000 or $30,000, so that the dam alone will have cost well toward $100,000 by the time it is finished. The total outlay on the plant, including the transmission lines to Shelburne and Orangeville, will amount to considerably over $200,000. As has already been said the undertaking was a big one and it has taken patience, perseverance and unlimited faith in the possibilities of the enterprise to carry it to completion. The company is in a position to virtually control the electric light and power supply in the County of Dufferin, because it can if necessary put its product on the market at prices that will render profitable competition impossible. If it uses its power wisely and for the public weal it should be able to give this County the advantages that the introduction of Niagara power has brought to many other parts of Ontario.

The regimental band from Shelburne will also be present for the day and will head the regiment during the parade and review at the close of the day's exercises. Lieut. Collins, of Toronto, signalling officer will have a corps of signallers and a corps of stretcher bearers on the field. The Orangeville High School Cadet Corps have been given an invitation to take part in the manoeuvres and the likelihood is that they will accept.

A number of the officers of the Regiment will visit Orangeville next week to look over the ground and make final arrangements for the manoeuvres. A liberal supply of blank ammunition will be served out to the men and efficient umpires will be supplied from headquarters staff in Toronto.

The members of the Orangeville Company, whose Armory was badly smoked during the Adamson and Ritchie fire a few months ago, will have new uniforms and a complete new equipment for Thanksgiving Day. The old equipment has all been turned in and new uniforms etc. are being rushed to Orangeville to be in time for Thanksgiving. All the members of the Company, who desire to take part in the manoeuvres, are invited to communicate with the officers or Col. Sergt. J. C. Green. LAUREL.

Plowing is now the order of the day and it is pretty hard work too.

Our new church shed is not making as rapid advancement as we would like to see.

Groskurth Bros. are busy putting up a new flour and feed house at the back of their stable. They are certainly preparing to do a rushing business.

Some of our farmers are taking up their potatoes. They report a fair crop.

The young men of the Epworth League are adopting a new method of stimulating the interest in missionary work. Instead of having the usual meeting and missionary speeches they are giving a grand concert consisting of vocal music, dialogues, recitations, etc. The main feature of the programme is a missionary mock trial, which points out whether or not the churches have fulfilled the command given in Matt. 28: 19-20. Come and see for yourself whether they have or not. It is not what any one denomination has done, but what they have done altogether. Come on Hallowe'en night.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will hold a Birthday Party on Friday evening, Oct. 17th. A good programme will be provided, including a missionary dialogue by 21 young ladies, vocal and instrumental music and addresses. Rev. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Orangeville, will be the chief speaker.

Communion services were held in the Presbyterian Churches here and at Black's Corners last Sunday. There was a large congregation at each of the services. Seven new members were received into communion.

—The regular meeting of the Alton Branch of the Women's Institute will be held at Mrs. Hill's on October 16th at 2.30 o'clock.

MELANCTHON.

The fine weather is a very good time for the farmers to get their plough ng and other fall work done.

Threshing is in order once more. Proctor Bros. are doing the work in this neighborhood. Grain is not a very heavy yield but the sample is good.

Mrs. German sr., of Toronto, is visiting friends in this vicinity, and in Shelburne.

Mrs. P. D. Henry has returned after visiting Orangeville friends.

Mr. James Watson visited friends in Toronto.

Our neighbor, Mr. Isaac Lightheart, has purchased lot 21, townline, Mulmur and Melancthon, from Mr. Wm. Gozzard, for $7,000. Mr. and Mrs. Lightheart are preparing to move this fall, but we regret to part with them from Melancthon.

Quite a number of our citizens propose to take in Dundalk fair on Friday of this week.

Many of the wells are either dry or quite low and water has not been so scarce for some time as it is at present.

The water in the creeks and the Grand River is also quite low.

The apple crop is very light in this part of the county this year and that very wholesome fruit will be dear and scarce next winter.

GLENCROSS.

Miss Zona Still, of Toronto, spent a couple of days with her parents here last week.

Miss Margaret Bagnall spent the week-end with Hockley friends.

The farmers are all taking advantage of the fine weather to gather in the roots.

Mrs. J. M. Still is recovering from her illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. May and little daughter, Millie, of Elora, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Pierson.

Mrs. Robt. White, of Orangeville, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Thos. White, of this place.

Mr. S. T. Still took a trip to the city this week.

A large crowd attended church here Sunday night.

Mr. Fowlie gave an excellent sermon. Service is at seven o'clock every Sunday evening.

Mrs. Will Inglis is visiting friends in Brampton at present.

Miss Ina Bagnall is attending the Orangeville Business College since the first of October. She intends taking a course in stenography.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Webster, of Hockley, were the guests of Miss M. Bagnall Sunday afternoon.

WHITTINGTON.

The Whittington Branch of the Dufferin Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. Nelson Phillips on Tuesday, October 14th, at 2.30 p.m. We expect an address from the District Representative of Agriculture on topics of interest. Do not miss it. All are welcome.

What Cures Eczema?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription as made in the D.D.D. Laboratories of Toronto, can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Drop into our store to-day and let us tell you more about D.D.D. Ask us also about D.D.D. Soap; it helps.

GRANGER.

At twelve o'clock on the 30th of September, little Jean MacKenzie, the beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George MacKenzie, passed away to the Great Beyond. On Saturday preceding she contracted a slight cold, which developed into pneumonia. In spite of all the care of a trained nurse and a skilled physician, nothing could be done to stay the hand of death. The remains were laid to rest in the Mono Centre burying ground on Wednesday at 2 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. A. J. Fowlie, pastor of Burns' Church, Mono Centre.

In mansions of the ever blest
Our darling, Jean, has gone to rest
Weep not for her, 'tis Jesus calls
Though sad on us bereavement falls.

Fold up the little blankets
And put them snugly by
Our little Jean is happy
In the realms beyond the sky.

We loved this tender little one
And would have wished her stay
But let our Father's will be done
She shines in endless day.

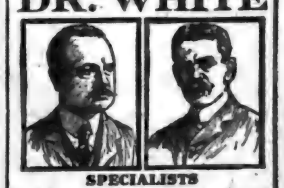
In vain our friends round her little cot
Shed tears of sorrow all the day
As we stood there watching her
The angels took our darling away.

A mother's hope, a father's joy
Death's hand hath laid her low
He gave and took our darling one
To His command we bow.

A Little Friend.

MARSVILLE.

Mr. Presley Donaldson, of the 14th line, raised the framework of a new bank barn last week. The building, which is 66 by 72, was framed by Mr. Salem Longstreet, who had charge of the raising, which was done by block and tackle.



Mr. V. Armstrong, our general merchant, is doing a thriving business despite the fact that farmers are generally speaking very busy. Mr. Armstrong is courteous and attentive to his customers and carries a well-assorted stock.

The township council met in the hall here on Saturday afternoon. The business transacted was largely of the routine variety.

Collector Platt received his roll at Saturday's meeting of the Council. BAKER AND CONFECTIONER

ACCORDIN' TO REGULATIONS.

Law Is All Right When Not Interpreted by "Fernatics."

"What's eatin' ye, Jason?" inquired the hardware man pleasantly as his aged customer, doubtless thinking of something else, picked a tenpenny nail from the barrel and started to nibble at the head.

"What's eatin' me? Well, I been to the fair—that's what's eatin' me. I been to the fair."

"Wa'n't the fair good enough?"

"Good enough," snorted the pleasure seeker. "Too durn good—that's what was the trouble with it. Yes, sir, if anybody had told me what I was goin' to run up agin at that fair I wouldn't have believed 'em. Right smack up on horticultural hall, where nobody could miss it, was the sign, 'No Liquor, Gambling or Immoral Shows Allowed on the Grounds.'"

"Of course," said the hardware man, "that's the very sign you put up yourself when you was secretary of the association fifteen years ago."

"S'pose it was! S'pose it was! That ain't any reason, is it, why I sh'd tramp around to five different refreshment stands and wink at every sep'rate stand and not find a thing harder'n soft cider? It ain't any reason why I sh'd walk my legs off lookin' for a place to lay a few dimes on the red or black and not find nothin' but spindle machines givin' chances on breastpins and dollar watches. It ain't any reason why I sh'd pay 25 cents to see the big double show of oriental and Turkish dancers and not anything inside but a look at a lot of bum dance steps that could have been done just as well at a Sunday school picnic. I'm in favor of the law—yes, sir—but I don't want no law interpreted by a lot of durned fernatics. I want moderation, and I want a fair that ain't a ministers' convention nor yet a church social."—Horatio Winslow in Puck.

The Man Higher Up.

Crick! Crack! Crash!

The skaters turned and fled. But one, less fortunate than the rest, was overtaken by the widening crack, threw up his hands and fell in with a hearty splash.

"Help!"

"He's drowning!"

"Get a ladder!"

At last the ladder was procured. Cautiously approaching the pool, which was ornamented by the luckless man's head and shoulders, the park keeper placed the ladder in position and began to creep along it.

"Come in a bit closer!" he shouted.

"I can't swim," answered the impromptu bather.

"But you're only up to your armpits, man," said the park keeper. "You ain't got no need to swim. Walk."

"Walk be blowed!" responded the other. "This water's ten foot deep."

"Ten foot deep!" exclaimed the park keeper. "Then how are you keeping up?"

"How?" retorted the bather. "Why, I'm standing on the bloke that broke the ice!"—Answers.

One way to be happy is to keep thinking this is the best world you know of and take the next one on trust.

Some folks are so unlucky that if they should get within fair view of the pearly gates they'd stumble over a star.

Perhaps the toilers of the world will be so tired when they reach the sweet fields of Eden they'll just want to stay still and listen while the other angels perform on the golden harps.—Atlanta Constitution.

Afraid of Dogs.

"No. Jes' as I wuz about to go in der gate de minister lookin' guy told me I wuz goin' to der dogs, so I turned around an' come back."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Blue Dress For the Sky.

Now let the stormy blizzards roar! Their thunder will pass by.
And spring'll come all frolicsome, a blue dress for the sky.

And far and near in April rain
Toss roses at the picnic train.

Not long shall winter have his way with long and angry cries.
A brighter sun will shine away the shadows from his eyes.

And soon in April light and rain
Toss roses at the picnic train.

CITY GROWTH AND COST OF LIVING.

That the cost of living has been rising for many years is well known, and the cause must be world-wide as shown by statistics compiled by the London Board of Trade and just published in a volume of 400 pages. Taking the year 1900 as a basis it appears that the price of foodstuffs had, in 1912 risen 15 per cent. in Great Britain and France, 20 per cent. in Italy, 23 per cent. in Holland, 32 per cent in Belgium, 35 per cent. in Austria, 38 per cent. in Japan (1911), 39 per cent. in the United States (1911), and 51 per cent. in Canada. Among the world-wide causes that have been suggested are the greater mining of gold, reducing its value, and the progressive withdrawing of labor from agriculture to manufacture. That the percentage of increase should be larger in some of the important food-producing countries than in Great Britain, is worthy of note. It is especially remarkable that in Canada it should be highest of all. The causes assigned have been operating in the Dominion with full force. From being a food-exporting nation we have become, in some lines, food-importing. While we boast of city growth, what is the consequence to the farm?

Hair Hints

Worthy the Attention of People Who Wish to Preserve the Hair.

Always have your own brush and comb at home or at hair dresser's.

Never use a brush or comb found in public places, they are usually covered with dandruff germs.

Wash your hair brush weekly with soap and warm water to which may be added an antiseptic.

Shampoo the hair every week or so with pure soap and water.

Use Parisian Sage every day, rubbing thoroughly into the scalp.

Parisian Sage, which comes in a large bottle, is guaranteed by T. Stevenson to destroy dandruff germs and abolish dandruff—to stop hair from falling and scalp from itching, or money refunded.

To put life and beauty into dull, dry or faded hair and make it soft and fluffy surely use Parisian Sage—it is one of the quickest acting hair tonics known.

ZAM-BUK

MRS. A. SAICH, of Cannington Manor, Sask., Writes:—"My brother suffered severely from eczema. The sores were very extensive, and burned like coals into his flesh. Zam-Buk took out all the fire, and quickly gave him ease. Within three weeks of commencing with Zam-Buk treatment, every sore had been cured."

This is but one of the many letters we are constantly receiving from people who have proved the healing powers of Zam-Buk. For eczema, piles, sores, burns, cuts and all skin troubles there is nothing like this wonderful balm. No skin disease should be considered incurable until Zam-Buk has been tried.

HORRORS OF SIBERIA.

Sufferings of Exiled Women Revolutionists of Russia.

One of the most picturesque figures among women revolutionists of Russia is Vera Figner, whose father was one of the distinguished generals of the Napoleonic wars. Betrayed by a traitor, she was condemned to twenty years in the Schlisselburg fortress for alleged participation in every one of the attempts on the life of the late czar. Those incarcerated in this fortress are considered as buried alive, no intercourse or communication with the outer world being allowed, not even with their own nearest relatives. But Vera Figner survived the horrors of twenty years' solitary confinement and exile in Siberia and is still working for the enlightenment of ignorant Russians.

A name revered by all Russian revolutionists is that of Mme. Sigida, who, aroused to a frenzy of indignation through seeing an invalid female prisoner in the Siberian colony of Kara, to which they had both been exiled, flogged by a warder, was herself flogged to death because she struck him. In the prison records it is written, "Mme. Sigida committed suicide by poisoning herself," but truth, like murder, will out, and the crime of the warders of Kara has been fully proved.

Terrible indeed were the tortures and cruelty meted out to Mario Spiridonova, who three years ago shot Colonel Luzjanovsky, who flogged the peasants when they were unable to pay taxes or ordered the Cossacks to shoot down the strikers and to torture their wives and children. She was condemned to death, but the inhuman treatment she had suffered before her trial induced the authorities to commute the death sentence, although it would have been more merciful to have carried out the extreme penalty of the law, for today she is working out a miserable existence in a Siberian mine and is said to be the only chained woman convict in Siberia.—London Tit-Bits.

KRUPP'S GREAT FACTORY.

The Largest Single Industrial Plant in the World.

A recent census of the great Krupp works of Germany proves conclusively that it is the largest single industrial plant in the world, employing 68,720 workers. The number includes officials, clerks, skilled workmen and laborers. These workers, with their families, would make a fairly respectable city even in these times of large cities. On the basis of three persons to each worker the total would be more than 200,000, not to count the grocers, butchers, dry goods and clothing merchants and other business men who would be supported by the Krupp toilers and their families in addition. The total number directly dependent upon the Krupp works is in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million persons—a city as large as St. Paul.

Of the workers, 37,761 are employed in the steel foundry and gun testing grounds. Coal and coke amounting to 2,401,406 tons were consumed in the year from July 1, 1909, to July 1, 1910.

The steam engines number 569, developing 89,439 horsepower. In addition to having its own plant for the production of electricity, the firm possesses its own gas producing plant, which turned out 18,487,300 cubic meters (nearly 20,000,000 cubic feet) of gas. One of the important features of the works is the railway system, consisting of eighty-seven miles of track, fifty-three locomotives and 2,336 cars or "wagons."—Chicago Tribune.

Language Question In Belgium.

The language question in Belgium has been settled in favor of French so far as Brussels is concerned. The Belgian parliament decided some time ago that the choice between instruction in French or in Flemish in the public schools of the capital should be left to the pupils' parents. A canvass of three of the largest schools resulted in an overwhelming vote for the French language. Of the parents of pupils in the first school 261 out of a total of 264 selected French, in the second 339 out of 340 made the same choice, while in the case of the third school, situated in an overwhelmingly Flemish quarter, 456 parents out of 470 decided for the same language, the total being therefore: French, 1,074; Flemish, 18.—London Globe.

A Word For the Mustache.

Dr. Paul Krager, a well known physician of Vienna, affirms that the mustache has a distinct value for the health. He believes that its utility lies in protecting the nose against the invasion of dust and bacteria. Recording 500 cases of severe headache and throat and nose trouble among his men patients, he found that 420 of them had their upper lip clean shaven. One has only to consider the function of the eyelashes in protecting the eye from dust and small particles to see that there is nothing unreasonable about the doctor's conclusion.

Unearthed a Palace.

Mr. J. Garstang has recommended excavations at the buried city of Meroe, on the Nile. He has discovered a palace, a bathroom in perfect preservation, the walls of an acropolis, quays and a harbor. A bronze head with inlaid eyes, larger than life—an excellent piece of Greek art—was also unearthed.—London Times.

A Royal Proxy.

Prince Arthur of Connaught used often to take the place of King Edward on ceremonial occasions, and now he carries the proxy of King George even more frequently. "They ought to print a line on my visiting card, 'monarchs understudied on shortest notice,'" once suggested the prince.

SHERMAN—SPARROW.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Joseph Sherman, Chinguacousy township, on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 1, at half past two, when her youngest daughter, Elsie May, was married to William Henry Sparrow, son of Mrs. T. Sparrow, Caledon township. The Rev. Mr. Purchase, of Mono Road, pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Ainslie Sherman, wore a gown of white satin covered with charmeuse. She carried a beautiful bouquet of bridal roses. Upon entering the drawing room Miss Irene Dudgeon, of Toronto, played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and while the register was being signed Miss Laura Knight, cousin of the groom sang, "Love's Coronation." The bride's travelling suit was of brown whipcord with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow left on the 6.36 train for Toronto and other points and on their return will live on the Sparrow homestead in Caledon township.

Nurse's Years of Experience

Proves Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Best Treatment for Kidney and Stomach Troubles.

The trained nurse has even greater opportunities than the doctor himself to watch the action of medicine in specific cases.

For years the writer of this letter has been recommending the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills among her patients, and is firmly convinced that no treatment is so prompt and effective.

This is the most valuable evidence obtainable, and we believe that all who know Mrs. Duffy will appreciate it to the full, knowing that she would not recommend anything in which she had not the fullest confidence.

Mrs. Duffy, nurse, 35 Lewis street, Toronto, writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for years, and recommend them to my patients for all disorders of the kidneys, liver and stomach. In all my professional experience I have found nothing better." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Mr. Jones is proud to acknowledge the great debt of gratitude he owes "Fruit-a-tives". He is glad to have his letter published in order that other sufferers may be induced to try these wonderful tablets made of fruit juices.

SARNIA, ONT., FEB. 5th. 1911

"I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors, but derived no benefit whatever. Finally, I read an advertisement for "Fruit-a-tives". I decided to give "Fruit-a-tives" a trial and they did exactly what was claimed for them. I have now taken them for some time and find they are the only remedy that does me good. I have recommended "Fruit-a-tives" to a great many of my friends, and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly"

STATE LANDLORDISM.

The committee appointed by the British Government to investigate the land problem of England, as affecting the rural worker, have made the following recommendations:

1. A widespread system of small holdings, cultivated by tenant occupiers holding the land at equitable rents with security of tenure.

2. The system to be safeguarded by the establishment of land courts with judicial powers.

3. The establishment of wages boards to adjust wages according to local conditions.

4. The readjustment of hours of labor and more frequent holidays.

A system of land purchase financed by the State was rejected by the committee on various grounds, the chief of which was that a peasant proprietary must sooner or later become burdened with debt, and sink into the clutches of the money-lender.

The cablegrams do not indicate that the commission considered the idea of the government purchasing land and acting the part of the landlord, letting it out in small parcels on long-term leases, but keeping the whole proposition on a business basis. Such a suggestion is probably too radical as yet even for the redoubtable Lloyd George. It would, to be sure, entail problems in administration, but whether these would be much more difficult than those involved in the establishment of Land Courts and Wages' Boards is debatable. One great advantage of state ownership would be that any further unearned increment in the value of the land would accrue to the public instead of to the individual. With the increasingly dense population of the world and with the settlement of the great areas of hitherto unoccupied land in America and Africa, land values the world over are likely to greatly increase. And why should the increase not belong to the people as a whole? There are many arguments in favor of land being owned by those who use it, but if, as in Britain, the land is to be largely worked by tenants anyway, why not let the state become the landlord, advanced reasoners inquire? And why, they also urge, should not cities own their sites, letting the lots on long term leases to those who wish to build on them? Of course it would be necessary to have carefully worked-out provisions for periodic adjustments of rent and renewal of leaseholds on fair terms. Such a system would confer little or no immediate advantage on the community, because the net return from rentals would no more than pay the interest on the investment, but the prospective advantage, if the scheme proved practicable, should be immense, for all the enormous future increment in value would then belong to the community whose enterprise and effort created it. In time the increasing rentals would not only pay compound interest on the investment, but leave a margin out of which might be paid police, educational and other civic services now met by a tax-rate levy. The prospect is attractive but is not yet an issue of practical politics, and may not be for a long time to come. However, it may some day command attention, and perhaps sooner than we think.—Farmers' Advocate.

A FAIR ACCIDENT.

A bad accident occurred at Oakville at the close of the fair. Mr. Roland Brownridge, a young man of Brampton, who had been exhibiting his brother's, Mr. Jos. T. Brownridge's, high stepper, was driving in along Main Street towards the station, and as there were a great many vehicles in the roadway he had to pull up. Just at that moment a truck came out of a gateway and was upon his rig before the driver could prevent it. The pole of the truck flew up and caught Mr. Brownridge in the chest. He received a terrible blow that crushed the bone and broke two ribs. The young man was taken to St. Michael's hospital, Toronto, as quickly as possible. His condition has been very serious.

Love and a Laundry Check

The Way Two Lovers Became Reunited.

By MABEL D. CALHOUN

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Well—I'll—be—jiggered!"

Chris Webb brought his horse to a standstill and stared down at the small square of yellow paper that fluttered before Dixie's dancing hoofs like a will-o'-the-wisp of the daytime. Suddenly he dug his knees into Dixie's shoulders, and as she sprang forward Chris leaned over and caught the flying paper with a practiced hand. Then he scanned it closely and uttered a long drawn whistle.

Plainly it was a Chinese laundry check and represented to its owner a necessary article of wearing apparel that probably lay unclaimed in the wash house of some moon faced Celestial.

A laundry check found on the sidewalk in town is a common occurrence. A laundry check discovered in an obscure canyon in the desert regions of Arizona becomes a matter for considerable interest, especially if one has just convinced himself that this particular canyon has never been trod by the foot of civilized man.

"There isn't a Chink laundry within fifty miles, or I'm a sinner! And I was sure I'd struck a new trail, and after naming that gulley and all to find this!"

Hours afterward when he rolled dustily up to the bunk house and turned Dixie over to the friendly proffered services of Dutchy Fink there was some comment on his extended absence.

"Where's the critter?" asked Henderson, making room for his comrade at the table and passing Webb's cup to be filled.

"Dead," replied Christopher, his strong white teeth biting deep into a hunk of corn bread. "I followed the trail clean off the range into the sand and cactus and then I missed it. After awhile I saw a buzzard high in the air, and I guessed what had happened, so I followed and found the critter under a twisted cottonwood."

"Dead?" questioned Peters.

"Almost. Of course I couldn't leave her that way with that devilish buzzard hanging around, so"—he paused for another draft of coffee.

"So you shot her, Chris?"

"Yep, and then I shot the buzzard."

They laughed indulgently. "You always was soft hearted, Chris," commented Peters, filling his pipe. "Who'd stop to bore a strayed critter after chasing her twenty miles?"

"I would," said Chris in a voice that indicated he was weary of the topic. "Any you chaps got bacey?"

He deftly rolled a cigarette in his lean brown fingers and drew a light from Henderson's smoke. "Which one of you fellows is wearing biled shirts?" he asked lazily.

"Not guilty!" they cried in chorus, and Peters continued, "They ain't a chap had nerve enough to sport a biled shirt on the Three Forks outfit—not since Pinky Fleming was took for a ghost and a greaser shot him dead—right through the biled shirt!"

"Since then biled shirts has been looked on like sudden death," put in Henderson gravely. "No, sir, there ain't nobody on Little Forks wearing biled shirts. Why you ask, Chris?"

"Anybody know where there's a Chink laundry?" demanded Chris patiently.

"I expect there's one in Tucson," suggested Peters. "Seems like a dream—I remember shooting up a Chink laundry there. That was a long time ago," he added hastily.

"Then there ain't a Chink laundry nearer than Tucson?" said Chris.

"How about Cactus Branch?" suggested Redwood from his quiet corner. "Seems I recollect once when I was passing the Lone Horn—I was going to the roundup at the Branch, you know—some of the wimmen folks asked me would I leave a bundle at the laundry they'e and git a check for it. Being of an obliging nature, I jest naturally said I would, and I'm blamed if they didn't tote out a big, squashy bundle, and me expecting a couple of collars or mebbe a b'iled shirt! Mrs. Traymore—you know Jim Traymore's running the Lone Horn now—Mrs. Traymore says not to lose it, because it's a 'precious thing.' It's nothing but a fancy white dress her sister was expecting to wear to the schoolhouse dance, and the girl had set her heart it should be done up right and nobody but a Chink must do it.

"As I was roped in for the job I bows most polite and says I will leave the check on my way back. Well"—he paused and eyed his companions dubiously—"you all recollect the roundup at Cactus Branch."

"Being as it only happened last week, we have strong recollections," confessed Chris, rubbing his head thoughtfully. "We specially recollect all about you, Redwood, and you sure didn't take the trail by the Lone Horn when you came back, and you ain't been off this outfit since."

"That's right," admitted Redwood gloomily.

"What happened?"

"I left the squashy bundle all right, and the Chink said it would be 4 bits, and he gave me a piece of paper covered with turkey tracks, and now I don't know where the blamed paper is unless"— He brightened suddenly and clapped his knee. "Now, I reckon mebbe I made a cigarette out of it. I was short of paper about that time."

Henderson laughed loudly. "You'd have knowed it if you'd smoked that, Redwood. Mebbe we can help you out, because if that girl don't git to the dance, why, I don't know what us chaps will do. I've seen her."

"Is it that bad?" asked Peters sympathetically.

"She's a peacherino!" quoth Mr. Henderson warmly.

Chris got upon his feet and tossed away the end of his cigarette. "What trail did you follow when you came back from the roundup?" he yawned carelessly.

Redwood shook his head hopelessly. "I've been trying to figure that out ever since. I must have got lost, for I was three days getting back here, and I had nothing to eat"—

"You can cut that out," interjected Peters, grinning. "I found you at Bederman's, and that's over to the southeast—somewhere near where Chris has been after his stray critter."

Mr. Webb's air of langour increased. "Then I reckon this young lady can't go to the dance unless she gets this dress what the Chink is washing, eh?" He yawned again.

Redwood nodded. "I reckon it's the only party dress she's got; she seemed mighty particular about it," he said regretfully.

"And she can't get the dress without the check?" persisted Chris sleepily.

"No checkee, no shirtee!" returned Redwood.

"You going to the dance?"

Mr. Redwood smiled laboriously and ran his hand along one leg with a painful gesture. "I reckon my leg's most too stiff this time, so I guess I won't be around tomorrow night," he said.

They laughed heartlessly as they parted for the night.

In his own corner of the roughly partitioned bunk house Christopher Webb pulled the laundry check from his pocket and studied the strange hieroglyphics with thoughtful eyes. "I'll do it," he said suddenly. "I reckon she'll be mighty grateful to the one who brings back her party dress. I expect it's a pretty thing—all frills and furbelows and lacy stuff, like what Annie used to wear." His dark eyes became almost black with a sudden intensity of emotion, and his brows knitted painfully. "I wasn't cut out for a bookkeeper or for city life. If she'd only have seen that my coming into the open was my call to what I could do best, but she gave me the go by, and here I am! I'm a darned sight better off in some ways than I was there in Denver. I've got health and I've got a thousand salted away against the ranch I'll buy some day, but I haven't got her!"

His head drooped a little, and then, as if aware of his weakness, he threw back his shoulders and laughed softly. "No need to keep that other girl away from the party," he said in a low tone as he proceeded to make an elaborate toilet with such facilities as the ranch afforded.

It was past midnight when he let himself out of the door and made his way into the corral. It was the work of a moment to catch up a mount. This time it was a rawboned sorrel with a long raking stride that carried his rider over the trail with remarkable swiftness. At 10 o'clock the next morning Christopher Webb dismounted stiffly from the sorrel and entered the door of a Chinese laundry in the flourishing town of Cactus Branch. In his hand he carried a laundry check, and when he came forth he bore a large and squashy looking bundle, which he placed carefully before him when he remounted.

A brief stop for breakfast and then he was back on another trail, this time the one leading toward the Lone Horn. He knew Jim Traymore slightly, had met him three years before when Chris had first come out into the open, as he called his departure from the city, but he had not seen Jim recently. He had heard that he was married now and taken the Lone Horn.

At 5 o'clock he clattered up to the veranda of the Lone Horn ranch house and shouted in a stentorian voice:

"Laundry!"

There was a delighted shriek from within and light footsteps on the wooden floor of the hall. Then a slender form gowned in pale blue cotton darted across the veranda and held up eager arms for the bundle—a lovely golden haired girl with wistful blue eyes and a sadly drooping mouth, who did not see Christopher Webb's amazed face. She saw nothing save the bundle and a tall, kindly disposed cowboy who had ridden out of his way to oblige her.

"How can I thank you"— she was beginning when Christopher spoke from the shadow of his broad hat.

"Annie!" he said in a low tone.

Annie Lee looked at him for a moment, and then, dropping her head against his knee, she cried softly for awhile. "Elsie married Jim Traymore a year ago," she explained, "and I came out here to visit them. I didn't know where you were, Chris, but I felt somehow if I was out in this country I might be near you anyway. I—have wanted you so!"

When Christopher broke the news to his comrades at the Three Forks he added, laughing, "I reckon that there occasion will demand a biled shirt, eh, boys?"

"So do, so do," urged Henderson eagerly. "Seems like a wedding oughter break that there biled shirt hoodoo."

"You got any laundry checks up your sleeve?" demanded Peters of Henderson. "You speak kind of wishful, like you'd love to wear a biled shirt."

"I expect all of you to wear 'em when—when it's necessary—that is, when I'm married," said the happy Christopher authoritatively.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIR.

600 People Attended Second Annual Exhibition at Laurel on Friday.

450 Entries Indicates That Fair is Creating Keen Interest Among Amaranth School Children.

"Bigger and better" was the unanimous opinion of the six hundred people who attended the Second Annual Rural School Fair held at Laurel last Friday. This Fair was, as last year, conducted under the auspices of the District Representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture for Dufferin County. Judging from the attendance and the interest taken by all present it would appear that the object in promoting the work, namely that of stimulating an interest in agriculture among the pupils in rural schools is being fulfilled.

As in the first year of the work a distribution of grain, mangels and eggs was made by the Representative. The general quality and the keen competition in the exhibits of last week shows that the pupils have endeavored to care for their plots and chickens in the best manner possible. During the summer the plots were inspected by Mr. J. C. Duff, who was then Assistant to the Department, and prizes were awarded for the best kept plots in each class.

The exhibits, which were of an exceptionally high quality, being made up of some four hundred and fifty entries, were housed in a large tent supplied by the Department, and were arranged in a neat and tasty manner. The exhibits from each school were arranged in competition for the Banner Trophy, a sterling silver shield donated by the Orangeville Banner. This prize was awarded to a most elaborate exhibit from the Laurel School, with the exhibit from Black's Corners School a close second. The Bell Trophy, donated by Rev. J. R. Bell, Laurel, for the best two loaves of home made bread was won by Sarah Kannawin. In the competition for the Warden Bryan shield for the pupil winning the largest number of points, the competition was very keenly contested, being won by Ruth Nelson, Laurel.

The Judges were Mrs. C. S. Nicholson, Orangeville, on the Domestic Science Dept., G. L. Woltz, Guelph, poultry; Messrs. W. H. J. Tisdale, B.S.A., Brampton, and H. C. Duff, B.S.A., Markdale, and Mr. Boylen, of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, on the remaining classes at the Fair.

During the afternoon a programme of sports and races was run off and in these classes, as well as the others, handsome souvenir prize ribbons were given.

GOOD BLOOD THE SECRET OE HEALTH

To Be Healthy You Should Keep the Blood, Rich, Red and Pure.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful in any disease caused by thin or impure blood, and the list of such diseases is astonishingly large. Anaemia literally means a condition in which the blood is thin and watery. Chlorosis is a form of anaemia most common to growing girls. In rheumatism the blood becomes thin more rapidly than in any other disease. After an attack of la grippe or acute fevers the blood is always thin and impure, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the tonic to use during convalescence. When the blood is poor and thin the stomach suffers. The food ferments, gas and certain acids form and the trouble is pronounced indigestion or dyspepsia. The nerves receive from the blood all of their nourishment to keep up their energy and repair waste or damage. Some forms of paralysis are caused by thin blood. The progress of locomotor ataxia is stopped in many cases when the blood is made pure, rich and red. This is only a partial list of the troubles having their origin in impure, watery blood, and all can be cured by supplying the blood with its missing constituents.

This is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do. Their chief mission is to make rich, red blood, and this good blood reaches every organ and every nerve in the human body, thus driving out disease and bringing renewed health and strength to thousands of weak, despondent people.

Ask your neighbors. There is not an inhabited corner in Canada where Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have not restored some sufferer and all over this country there are grateful people who do not hesitate to say they owe health—in some cases life itself—to this great medicine. If you are ailing begin to cure yourself to-day by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Douglas Bell, of Primrose, has been appointed a Justice of the Peace.

Hanover's tax rate this year is 32 mills in the dollar, highest in the history of the municipality.

Potter-Wilson.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson, Sandhill, Chinguacousy township, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday afternoon, September 24, when their eldest daughter, Miss Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Mr. Hugh Alfred Potter, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Potter, of Caledon. The ceremony was performed on the lawn under an arch of smilax and white asters, by the Rev. James C. Wilson, B.A., of Acton, uncle of the bride. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Herb. Wilson, the bride handsomely gowned in white duchess satin and wearing the groom's gift, a solid gold watch and chain and carrying a shower bouquet of lily of the valley, entered the arch on the arm of her father, who gracefully gave her to the waiting bridegroom. Miss Ialine Jackson, niece of the groom, gowned in white silk and wearing the groom's gift, a pearl necklace, made a dainty little flower girl. While the register was being signed, Miss E. Wheaton rendered "Because" very sweetly. The pianist and soloist were presented with solid gold bar pins set with pearls by the groom. Immediately after the ceremony upwards of one hundred guests including friends from Toronto, Brampton, Bolton, Manitoba and other places sat down to a sumptuous repast and after the customary toasts, etc., the happy couple left on their honeymoon for St. Louis and other American cities. The bride's going away costume was a King's blue velvet tailored made suit with hat to match. The numerous and costly presents, among which was a cheque for $500 from the bride's parents, show the high esteem in which this popular young couple is held and the good wishes of the whole community follow them to their new home, where they will be glad to receive their friends after November 1st.

A Pretty Autumn Wedding.

A very pretty autumn wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCague, of Mono Centre, on Wednesday, Oct. 1st, at the hour of six o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Annie, was united in marriage to Mr. W. G. Newton, a son of Mr. Wm. Newton, beb of Violet Hill. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jos. M. Dadgeon, of Rosemont, under an arch of evergreens draped with lace, banked with foliage and centered with a large white wedding bell. The bride was tastefully gowned in white silk embroidered voile and wore a long embroidered tulle veil, gracefully arranged beneath a wreath of white carnations. She carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. The bride was escorted to the drawing room by the groomsman, Mr. S. A. Patterson, to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin played by Miss Zona E. Still, of Toronto. Miss Mamie Lang, of Campania, who acted as bridesmaid, was attired in biscuit silk eolienne trimmed with shadow lace and touches of blue carnations. While the register was being signed, Miss Still, who was attired in pale pink silk trimmed with black French knots, played while Mr. Herb. McCague, brother of the bride, sang "Because." The groom's gift to the bride was a $50 gold piece, to the bridesmaid a pearl and amethyst set pendant, to the groomsman a set of masonic cuff links and to the organist a jewel case. After congratulations, the bride led the way to the dining room, where a dainty dejeuner was served. Toasts were proposed and heartily acclaimed to the bride and groom. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and costly gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Newton will visit friends in Toronto and elsewhere, before taking up their residence in their future home at Violet Hill. The bride's travelling suit consisted of a tailored suit of navy broadcloth with beaver hat and her mother's gift, a set of Persian furs.

McFee-Awrey.

A very pretty event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Smith, of Hillsburg, on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 24th, when their daughter, Ethel May Awrey, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. John McFee, of Erin township. Promptly at 3 o'clock the bridal party entered the drawing room, which was tastefully decorated with ferns, autumn bows and cut flowers, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, which was beautifully played by Mrs. Chas. E. Dyer, sister of the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. B. McCormick, pastor of Hillsburg Baptist Church. The bride, who was given away by her stepfather, Mr. David Smith, was handsomely gowned in ivory duchesse satin trimmed with shadow lace and seed pearls and wore the regulation tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and lily of the valley. Miss Nellie Awrey, sister of the bride, made a charming bridesmaid. She was gowned in champagne satin trimmed with lace and pink satin rosebuds and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Areb McFee. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful set of Persian lamb furs, to the bridesmaid a gold brooch set with amethysts and pearls, to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links with monogram engravings and to the pianiste a gold watch fob. After the ceremony and congratulations to the newly wedded couple, the guests, who numbered about forty, adjourned to the dining room, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly gifts. Mr. and Mrs. McFee left on the evening train for Toronto, Niagara, Buffalo and other points. After their return they will take up their residence on the groom's farm, 8th line, Erin. Both Mr. and Mrs. McFee are very popular in this vicinity and their many friends join in wishing them every happiness in their new sphere of life. The bride's travelling costume was of Royal blue whipcord and she wore a beautiful velour hat with shaded plumes.

Change at Queen's.

The Banner understands that Mr. J. E. Booth, landlord of the Queen's hotel, has been given notice to vacate the house by November 12th. The notice is the result of some difficulty between Mr. Booth and the owner, a Toronto Jew named S. Robanovitch, over the question of repairs. It is currently reported that the hotel has been leased to E. J. Bennett, landlord of the Grand Central.

Thanksgiving Fowl Supper.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church will hold an old-fashioned Fowl Supper on Thanksgiving night. All kinds of fowl will be served. A varied after programme will be provided by good talent. This Thanksgiving Supper has always been a popular event and the ladies are making preparations to accommodate the usual large crowd.

Confirmation at St. Mark's.

On Thursday last His Lordship, the Bishop of Niagara, paid a visit to St. Mark's congregation in passing through the Deanery and held a special confirmation service. Ten candidates were presented by the Rector. In May last the regular confirmation service was held and a large class of 40 candidates was presented, so that this special class was additional this year. During the service the Bishop announced that he had appointed Rev. Geo. W. Tebbs to the Parish as Rector and that the Induction will take place by the Archdeacon of Wellington at the Annual Deanery Meeting to be held in Orangeville on October 22 and 23.

Directors' Meeting.

The Directors of the Dufferin Agricultural Society held a meeting on Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of passing accounts and transacting other business in connection with the recent Fall Fair. Treasurer Endacott presented an exceptionally satisfactory financial statement. The total receipts from all sources amount to upwards of $2000. After paying out $1100 in prize money and defraying other running expenses the Society will have a surplus of about $800. We understand that the Directors propose spending the greater part of the surplus in permanent improvements on the grounds. Last year upwards of $700 was expended on a new grand stand, a new band stand, judges' stand and fences. Before next Fall Fair the Society hopes to build cattle and poultry sheds, horse stables, sheep pens and perhaps give the main hall a much needed coat of paint.

CRIED NIGHT AND DAY.

Mrs. Adelare Ouillette, St. Bruno, Que., says: "My little boy cried night and day from stomach trouble and nothing seemed to help him till I got a box of Baby's Own Tablets. They soon made him well and happy again. I have also found them valuable at teething time." Thousands of other mothers have the same praise to offer not only for stomach trouble and teething troubles, but for all minor ills of little ones. The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Thanksgiving Day Manoeuvres

The officers of the 36th Peel Regiment are planning to hold Thanksgiving Day manoeuvres in or near Orangeville on Monday, Oct. 20th. The whole regiment may not take part, but those interested hope to have a complement of men—probably 200 altogether—from each of the companies. The day will be spent in field tactics, the manoeuvres concluding with a parade, headed by the regimental band from Shelburne. The scheme is a good one, not alone from the fact that it will tend to stimulate interest in the affairs of the Regiment in this district, but because it would lessen the force of the complaint that direction of the regiment is too much in the hands of city men. Orangeville has also the advantage of being a more convenient point for a large section of the regiment than any other company headquarters would be.

IMPROVEMENTS AT ST. MARK'S

A number of improvements are under way at St. Mark's. New furnaces have been installed, cement walks and steps built leading to the church and a surpliced choir will be introduced in the near future at the unanimous request of the congregation.

ITS FIRST YEAR.

Annual Statement of Lord Dufferin Hospital.

Institution Has Been a Success From Very Beginning.

On Thursday of last week, September 30th, Lord Dufferin Hospital completed its first year. Naturally, the Daughters of the Empire, under whose supervision it has been operated, looked forward with a good deal of anxiety to the first annual report and were more than delighted when it showed the remarkable success that had marked their efforts in connection with the Hospital work.

On October 1st, 1912, the Hospital opened its doors to the public and many there were to predict the impossibility of meeting the running expenses. A very capable matron was secured in the person of Miss Barclay and much of the success that has been achieved is due to her efforts. With her have been associated as nurses Miss Farmer, Miss Rowan, Mrs. White and Miss Allen, all very capable and painstaking. For the first six months the management was fortunate in securing Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson to take charge of the housekeeping part of the institution. Before one week had elapsed the Hospital had its first patient and from that day the necessity for such an institution in Orangeville has always been in evidence. During the year ninety patients have been treated and cared for. There have been thirty-six operations successfully performed, not one death having occurred by reason of an operation. This in itself is cause for congratulation. Nurses have been sent out to attend the sick who could not be cared for within the building, and with such care has the Hospital been conducted that at the end of the first year the Board of Management found that after paying all expenses there was a balance to its credit in the Bank.

This good work must go on. The Daughters of the Empire having done so much cannot now think of looking back. The needs are extending and expansion will soon become a necessity. An additional expense must be incurred and an appeal must be made to the generosity of the public. The week of Thanksgiving Day has been set aside as a week of ingathering. Let the response be in keeping with the requirements. Fruit, vegetables, butter, eggs, in fact anything that will be needed throughout the coming winter will be more than acceptable. Do your part during ingathering week to help along this work. Your contribution may smooth the pillow of a weary one or assist to restore to health a suffering neighbor.

That the public may be fully aware of the way in which this institution is conducted a full statement of the receipts and expenditures is given hereunder.

The referred accounts were:— Bell Telephone Co., $12.80 and $6.15 to the Finance Committee; E. H. Smith, $2.15 to the F. & W. Committee.

Messrs. J. A. Whaley and F. H. Arkell addressed the Council respecting sidewalk matters. Mr. Whaley asked the Council to put down a walk from his gateway to the east side of First St., and Mr. Arkell asked to have the walk on the west side of the street extended as far as his entrance. Both requests were granted.

Frank W. Robinson, of the firm of Frank W. Robinson, Limited, manufacturers of knitted goods in Toronto, addressed the Council on the subject of starting a factory in Orangeville. Mr. Robinson wants a loan of $10,000 and in return for this will start a factory with a payroll of 25 hands. The matter was referred to the Industrial Committee for report at next meeting.

E. A. Robinson complained against his business assessment and the special assessment for street watering. The Court of Revision will deal with the complaint.

The Waterous Engine Works submitted a contract for the purchase of the new boiler for the fire hall.

Robert Crisp's complaint respecting arrears of taxes, which he alleged was improperly charged, was turned over to the Court of Revision.

Council decided to order six signs from the Ontario Motor League. The signs, which will be posted in conspicuous places, relate to the observance of the speed limit of 15 miles an hour.

Mr. T. C. Peavoy was allowed to address the Council respecting water on his property.

A communication from the Inspector of Factories called the attention of Council to the provisions of the Factories Act relating to the building of factories.

Considerable time was spent in Committee of the Whole considering the plans and specifications for the Town Hall improvements. The Committee reported progress and asked leave to sit again. A special meeting was held last night for the purpose of further discussing the plans.

A by-law was put through to prohibit the depositing of ashes and other refuse on the streets or in other public places within the corporation limits.

The Property Committee was instructed to interview the plaintiff with a view to the settlement of the suit of Hughes vs. Orangeville.

The Clerk was instructed to request the local manager of the Bell Telephone Co. to furnish the names of all parties making long distance calls. Unless he is willing to do this the Corporation will only assume responsibility for calls to members of the Council, the Clerk, the Chief of Police or the Engineer.

Death of James Robinson.

Mr. James Robinson, an old resident of Mono township, died at his home, lot 5, Mono and Amaranth townline, on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Deceased, who had reached the ripe age of 80 years, had been ill for two or three months prior to his demise. His death was caused by a general breakdown of the system consequent upon old age. The late Mr. Robinson was born in Armagh County, Ireland, but came to Canada at the age of 16 years, settling in East Garafraxa, where he resided for four years. He then moved to Mulmur where he settled on and cleared a bush farm. After a residence of 20 years in Mulmur he came to Mono, settling on lot 5, Mono and Amaranth townline, where he has since resided. He was married in 1864 to Miss Mary Jane Cook, a sister of Messrs. John R., Ben. and W. J. Cook. He is survived by his wife and a family of two sons and two daughters. The latter are Mrs. Geo. Robinson, East Garafraxa, Mrs. W. A. Dowling, Mono Mills, and Messrs. T. J. and Ben. Robinson, farmers in Mono. Messrs. Geo. Robinson, of Creemore, and Thos. Robinson, of Sault Ste. Marie, are brothers. The late Mr. Robinson was an honest, hardworking man, a good neighbor and a law-abiding citizen. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and a Conservative in his political leanings. There was a large attendance of neighbors at the funeral, which was held to Greenwood cemetery, on Friday afternoon. Rev. W. M. Morris conducted services at the house and grave. The pallbearers were John R., Ben. and Wm. Cook, Geo. Robinson, Geo. Hodgson and John Crago.

Death of John Gilmore.

On Thursday morning, Sept. 25th, there passed away one of the pioneers of Dundalk in the person of John Gilmore, whose demise is much regretted by all. Mr. Gilmore, who was sixty-nine years of age, has been in failing health for over a year, but was confined to his bed only about three weeks. He was a resident of this village for upwards of thirty-four years, coming here with his family from Orangeville in 1879. He worked at the carpenter trade, but, latterly, had a confectionery and fruit store in the Bell block, on Proton Street. Mr. Gilmore served several terms in the Village Council and was always regarded by his fellow-townsmen as a man of honor and integrity. He was a member of the Anglican church for a great many years. He is survived by his widow, two sons and one daughter, namely: Harry, in Orangeville; Robert, in Toronto, and Miss Mabel, at home. There are also three step-sons and one step-daughter; Samuel Mossop, Orangeville; Thomas Mossop, Toronto; William, in Saskatchewan, and Mrs. David Pate, Dundalk.

The funeral, on Saturday afternoon, was largely attended, and, as deceased was a member of the Orange Society, the brethren of the local lodge marched in the procession and assisted Rev. N. Williams in the burial service. Interment was made in Maple Grove cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: R. Coutts, T. R. Bailey, A. Henderson, A. W. Rowe, Joseph and W. A. Goodfellow.

Relatives from a distance at the funeral were:—Mr. and Mrs. S. Mossop, Orangeville; Mr. and Mrs. T. Mossop, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilmore, Orangeville; Robt. Gilmore, Toronto; Mr. Harry Beamish, Toronto; Mrs. Stark, London; Miss L. Brooks, Mount Forest; Miss Mary Mossop, Orangeville.— Dundalk Herald.

THE BIBLE SOCIETY.

Field Secretary Hassard Addressed Orangeville Audiences on Sunday.

Rev. W. E. Hassard, Field Secretary of the Upper Canada Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society delivered three excellent addresses in Orangeville on Sunday. In the morning he spoke from the pulpit of St. Andrew's Church, in the evening addressed the congregation in the Methodist Church and at 8 o'clock spoke to a general meeting in the latter church on the subject of Bible Translation.

In the course of his address in St. Andrew's Church Mr. Hassard explained the Society's method of supplying Bibles at missionary rates, whereby the missionary is placed in a position to buy Bibles at 50 per cent. of their cost price. He also spoke of the splendid new building which the Society has erected in Toronto at a cost of $75,000 and paid a glowing tribute to the late Jesse Ketchum whose interest and benefactions had made it possible to erect this fine home. The rent received from Mr. Ketchum's gift of land on Yonge St. would pay the entire cost of the building in seven years and would be sufficient thereafter to pay all running expenses. During the past year the Society had been the means of distributing 8,000,000 copies of the Word of God. It was now printing the Bible in nearly 450 languages.

—The ladies of the Orangeville Methodist Church will hold the usual Thanksgiving Supper and Entertainment on Thanksgiving night.

Acton Liquor Seller is Fined Heavily

Kept Disorderly House as well as Selling Booze.

As the time for the trial of Fred Porter, charged with selling liquor unlawfully, came nearer he evidently realized that the net had been drawn very closely about him by the Government officers. A day or two previous to the trial he skipped the country, and when his name was called at the court, there was no response. The cases against him were proceeded with last Friday morning before Justices H. P. Moore and A. E. Nicklin, according to legal procedure, he having been duly summoned to appear.

The evidence in the first case went to prove that on Sunday afternoon, August 17th, at 4.30 o'clock, the officers had been served with whiskey by Porter, and they paid him 50c for the liquor. At five o'clock the same day the second lot was purchased. The case being clearly proven Porter was fined $200 and costs or three months in jail at hard labor.

The second case occurred between 12 and 1 o'clock on Sunday morning, 24th August. On this occasion the Government officers bought liquor several times from Porter and paid for it. It came out in the evidence that several young men of the town were present, and their names were given in court.

In this case it was further brought out in the evidence that Porter was not only running a place for the illicit sale of liquor, but that his house was also a disorderly house and was used for immoral purposes. After selling liquor to the detectives he made suggestions as to what he was willing to provide upstairs for larger sums of money than was paid for the liquor.

A second conviction was registered and a penalty of $200 and costs or three months in gaol at hard labor was imposed.

At 7.30 o'clock the same Sunday evening the officers again visited Porter's place. This time they were treated to beer purchased and paid for by employees of J. L. Boyd, contractor for the construction of the Toronto Suburban Railway. Whiskey was also served and paid for during this visit. Porter was very evidently doing an all day and all night business and had ample supplies for his trade.

He was again fined $200 and costs or three months in gaol at hard labor.

As a result of the trials Acton very likely is rid of this disreputable character for all time. It is his class of citizen that does most to demoralize a community and destroy the good reputation of a town. It is but fair to Acton, however, to say that his place was in Esquesing township.

His aggregate of fines is $600, with costs of $27.30 added, in default of payment of this sum he goes to gaol at hard labor for nine months, if he returns to Canada.

The round-up of the violators of the liquor laws here last month was as follows:

Jess Bridge—$100 and costs. He is serving three months in gaol.

Morris Saxe—$350 and costs. Paid.

Charles Harris—$200 and costs. Is serving three months in the county gaol.

Balyz Kaminizeuk—$100 and costs. Paid.

Fred Porter—$600 and costs, or 9 months in gaol. Fled to the United States.

The penalties aggregated $1350 and costs about $115.

The three additional cases of Jess Bridge came up on Friday but Provincial Officer Aycarst said, inasmuch as Bridge was very manifestly the tool of his brother-in-law, Harris, and had gotten deeply into trouble without realizing his crime, and was already in gaol, that he would withdraw these charges.

It is due to Mr. T. J. Blain, barrister, Brampton, to say that when Porter was called and failed to appear, Mr. Blain explained to the court that he had been retained by Porter, had come in all good faith to defend him, but now that he had disappeared he declined to have anything further to do with his cases.—Acton Free Press.

Varicose Veins and Itching Piles

Usually Arise From Same Cause—Relief and Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Nearly everybody knows of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the most effective treatment for piles or hemorrhoids that medical science has been able to compound. So much suffering and misery arises from this ailment that one is not long in telling his friends when he has found an actual cure. This accounts for the enormous sales of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This letter tells of relief from the suffering of varicose veins by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Many suffer from this trouble not knowing the comfort to be obtained by the use of this great soothing ointment.

Mrs. R. J. Evans, 187 Munro street, Toronto, writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years. I have been troubled with varicose veins, and find it the only thing that gives relief. For every purpose when a soothing, healing ointment is needed there is nothing so good as Dr. Chase's Ointment." 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE ARRANGEMENT OF FLOWERS.

There is an art in this as in all things. To some the gift is innate, to others acquired, and to yet more the artistic skill is altogether denied. One great secret blossoms in one vase, and choose the vases to suit the blooms. One shudders to see long, graceful sweet peas ruthlessly denuded of their delicate stalks, and squatted into a vase of bowl-like proportions. For sweet peas choose tall, thin glasses of clear crystal, fill with water almost to the top, and put in three or four or perhaps half a dozen branches only. I never put foliage with sweet peas, their mass of concentrated color is all sufficient. Roses, on the other hand, bear massing; grouped luxuriantly in a great bowl of old china or silver—I prefer china—it whispers of pot pourri and the eternal life that is for the rose left. Again, a single rose in a tall glass also makes for beauty. Take off all leaves which would possibly come below the water level, and use only the rose foliage as background. Maidenhair fern or asparagus have long been used in conjunction with roses, but somehow they, in their stately loveliness, require a more solid and dignified green. Do not remove the thorns from the rose stalk; if this is done they will wither more quickly, rather must we learn a lesson from this that the thorns in life are essential for our well-being and progress towards better things as being a goad that pricks us onward, away from the dangerous shoals of too great contentment.

I know a room that when I go to visit my friend I always anticipate an artistic treat, and it is always mine. Vividly, I have four effects in memory that were perfect in conception. The decorations and upholstery are in varied shades of green, dull rather in tone, yet each piece of furniture is in exact accord with its fellow. A wide window opens to a verandah, and by a luxurious couch nearby there is a corner that is slightly dark, not gloomy, but the disposition of the window lights pleasantly shaded. The green of the room is restful and soothing to the eye, and for relief in this dark corner my friend each day puts flowers. Once a great jar of jade more darkly green, and rising from it in stately purity a few superb lilies. Serenely they spread their exquisiteness coolly aloof. Again the corner has contained a Moorish coffee table, and on it an ebony bowl overflowing with roses of richest damask crimson. Piquantly vivacious they looked smiling together as at some tremendous secret of joyous import, but their secret was known to me; their happy "faces" came from the joy of giving happiness. Once more the corner held in its tiny recess a golden jar of beaten brass and rearing heads of ordered untidiness from its depth were shaggy bronze chrysanthemums, and foliage of beech leaves turned golden-hued with the autumn glow of gradually approaching death. Again the spot held a jar of brilliant hydrangea, blue and wax-like, yet full of dainty fairy life and shaking blossoms, that stare with wide open eyes at the fussing humans who are chameleon-like in their coloring.

When speaking of flowers I must tell you of the delightful legend of the Ely of the valley which was repeated to me by a friend one day, but a short while since. The fairies from all time have made the dew their only beverage, and oft they flitted out o'nights to fill their jewelled pails to catch the drooping liquid. Night after night they sallied forth from the Queen's palace, and whilst dancing on each fairy knoll they hung their pails on blades of grass. Alas! like mortals they one evening forgot the passing of time, and the magic hour went by so that as they turned to lift their dew-cups they found them securely fastened to the blades of grass. They fled in terror to the Queen and told their sad tale; but merciful as fairy Queens must be, she bade them sorrow no longer, and she, with her wand dipping graciously, touched the blades of grass, and great stiff leaves rose to hide the fairies' shame, and so was born the lily of the valley.

DRAINAGE SUIT IN SIGHT.

There is every prospect of a drainage suit between East and West Luther, over the outlet provided by the engineer of West Luther for drain No. 33. According to his plan the drain runs across lots 19 and 20, in East Luther, and continues as far as the junction of drain No. 21, East Luther which comes down from Proton. It is claimed that the present capacity of this drain at this part is none too large and to extend No. 33 to this point, without providing further outlet for the water, will result in flooding a lot of land. East Luther's engineer has suggested another plan for the outlet of drain No. 33 by running it south about lot 17 and emptying into the north branch of drain No. 31. According to this plan this route is 2000 feet shorter and gives a greater fall for the water.

The whole matter received a thorough ventilation at a special meeting of East Luther council on Monday, when it was decided to enter an appeal to the Drainage Referee.—Star & Vidette.

NEW RIVER RAPIDS RECORDS FOR R. & O.

Three Thousand People Shot Rapids Every Week During the Season.

When the steamer Rapids Prince docked on Sunday evening a new record was achieved by the R. & O. Navigation Company of the St. Lawrence river rapids. For the first time in the history of the navigation of the rapids the company's steamers have been successful in running all the rapids on their eastbound trips, from the commencement of the season, on May 31, until its close, on September 28, without a single break. This is an extraordinary feat to accomplish, when the number of contingencies that may arise to prevent its fulfilment is considered. A sudden storm may prevent the running of one of the rapids at the last moment, or fog may cause delay in making connection with the large lake steamers in time to shoot all the rapids while the light holds. For the success achieved the co-operation of every member of the crews was necessary and was at all times forthcoming. There was not one but was anxious for a record season, and, as week followed week without untoward incident, the desire to establish a new record became more keen than ever. The Rapids Queen finished her season without a break on September 14, and on the 28th the Rapids Prince concluded her four months' season with a record equally good. Another record that was established consisted in the numbers who patronized these popular steamers. The news will surprise many that, during the summer season, the Rapids Queen and Rapids Prince landed at the Victoria Pier approximately three thousand people every week.—From the Gazette, Montreal, September 30, 1913.

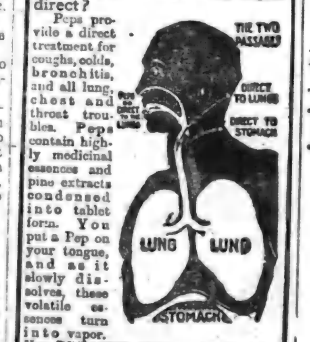
Listen!



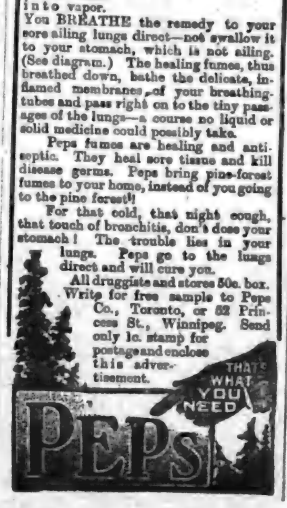
Have you heard about Peps?

Peps is a new scientific preparation put up into tabloid or pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds and lung and throat troubles.

There is no connection between the lungs and the stomach.

Suppose something were wrong with your stomach—say indigestion, or ulceration—would you think of taking some medicine which went—not to your stomach, but to your lungs? Certainly not!

Why then, when your lungs and chest are affected, should you dose your stomach—an absolutely separate organ—with medicine? Is it not far better to treat the ailing organ direct?



Peps provide a direct treatment for coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all lung, chest and throat troubles. Peps contain highly medicinal essences and pine extracts condensed into tablet form. You put a Pep on your tongue, and as it slowly dissolves, these volatile essences turn into vapor. You BREATHE the remedy to your sore ailing lungs direct—not swallow it to your stomach, which is not ailing. (See diagram.) The healing fumes, thus breathed down, bathe the delicate, inflamed membranes of your breathing-tubes and pass right on to the tiny passages of the lungs—a course no liquid or solid medicine could possibly take.

Peps fumes are healing and antiseptic. They heal sore tissue and kill disease germs. Peps bring pine-forest fumes to your home, instead of you going to the pine forest!

For that cold, that night cough, that touch of bronchitis, don't dose your stomach! The trouble lies in your lungs. Peps go to the lungs direct and will cure you.

"I am happy to tell you that I used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and was promptly cured of a very bad cold in the chest," writes Miss Josephine Gauthier, Dover South, Ont. You can depend on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to relieve and cure all inflammations and irritations of the throat and bronchial tubes.

As Mr. Andrew Hardy, of Con. 9, Turnberry, was driving home from Wingham he was shot in the neck, supposed to have been by a stray bullet from a small rifle, which some boys were playing with. Mr. Hardy returned to Wingham after the accident, but the doctor could not locate the bullet.

Thos. Montgomery, near Creemore, was unfortunate in losing a fine horse a few days ago. The boy was harrowing with the team and left them standing for a short time, when they became restless with the flies. They got tangled up in the lines, upset the harrows and fell on them one horse on top of the other. The under horse was so badly pierced with the harrow teeth that it died. Mr. Montgomery refused $190 for the horse a short time previous.

As the result of a strange accident, Louise Jane Stockton, of Harriston, died on Sunday, Oct. 5th, in her 79th year. The accident occurred on the Monday evening previous. She was interested in watching her grandson, a lad of 15 years, performing on his bicycle, and in some unaccountable manner got in front of the bicycle and was knocked down on the pavement, and sustained a slight fracture of the skull, causing hemorrhage of the brain. She never regained consciousness.

On a rainy Sunday morning the country pastor on his way to church, thinking to protect his trousers from the wet, had turned them up at the bottom. Upon reaching the church he forgot all about his trousers. His good wife from her pew discovered his oversight, and when the plate was passed she dropped a note to the pastor. Thinking the note was a church notice of some kind he placed it with the rest. Imagine the consternation of his wife and the congregation when the pastor read, "Henry, turn down your pants!"

Geo. A. Wrightson, an Underwood thresher, was instantly killed while setting his threshing engine one morning recently. Not having it in line he reversed the engine to back up, but the fly wheel was "on centre" and would not go. Without closing off the throttle or taking off the friction he caught the fly wheel to turn it off centre. Like a flash the engine started, precipitating the unfortunate man over the wheel to the ground immediately behind the front wheel. With the starting of the fly wheel the engine ran backwards, and before the bystanders could render any assistance the front wheel caught him on the head, crushing the skull. Death was instantaneous.

THE BANNER, OCTOBER 16, 1913.

CHARTERS RESIGNS.

Bye-Election in County of Peel on Monday, November 3rd.

Last Thursday Mr. Samuel Charters tendered his resignation as member for Peel County in the Ontario Legislature. The resignation is made for the purpose of enabling Mr. Charters to accept the appointment of Registrar of Deeds, which became vacant a short time ago through the death of Mr. Robt. Johnston, the late Registrar. The Speaker has already issued his writ for an election to fill the vacancy in the riding. Nominations will be held on Monday, Oct. 27th, and if there is an election, it will be held on Monday, November 3rd. T. H. Goodison, of Streetsville, Returning Officer at the last general election, has been again named to act as Returning Officer.

It is almost certain that there will be a contest. The Liberal executive has already met and completed arrangements to hold a convention in Brampton on Thursday, Oct. 16th. The Conservatives will hold their Convention on Saturday, Oct. 18th. Mr. A. H. Milner, a Brampton merchant, Mr. W. J. Lowe, of Snelgrove, who was defeated by Richard Blain at the last Federal election, and ex-Warden John A. McBride, of Belfountain, are mentioned as likely Liberal aspirants for the nomination. Mr. W. A. Williamson, a Brampton temperance leader, is strongly advocating the selection of Mr. F. S. Spence, of Toronto, as a temperance Liberal candidate. The name of Mr. Hartley Dewart, a prominent Toronto lawyer, is also freely mentioned. On the Conservative side there are a number of aspirants, who are vigorously pressing their claims. Prominent among them are Mr. James Fallis, of Brampton, and Deputy-Registrar J. J. Donaghy. A decade or so ago Peel was regarded as a close constituency, but at recent elections it has gone heavily Conservative. A great change has taken place in the political complexion of Toronto township, where there is now a heavy Conservative majority. This is largely due to an influx of city market gardeners into the south end of the township. The great majority of these are Conservative and protectionist in their political tendencies. The late John Smith, M.P.P. held the Provincial seat safe for the Liberals during his lifetime. The last time that Mr. Smith carried the seat was in 1905 when he defeated Mr. Charters for the second time. At the previous election in 1902 Mr. Charters was defeated by 123 but in the 1905 election, which resulted in the overthrow of the Ross government, he cut his successful opponent's majority down to 32. The late member was first elected in 1908, when he defeated John M. Godfrey, a Toronto lawyer, by a majority of 498. He has represented the constituency continuously from 1908 until the date of his resignation. At the last election in December, 1911, he defeated Robert Smith, of Bolton, by a majority of 710.

Mr. Charters should make a good registrar. He has intelligence, ability and education and will be far from a mere figurehead in his new office. About the only objection that can be taken to his appointment would be based upon the undesirability of the practice of appointing members of the Legislature to positions of public emolument. It is an open secret that Mr. Charters was not anxious to retire from politics. His health, unfortunately, has been far from good and he was physically unfit to stand the strain and excitement of public life. In view of this the party leaders throughout the county united in urging him to resign and accept an appointment, which would give him opportunity for a much needed rest and at the same time provide a comfortable income. The Banner trusts he will spend many happy years in his new office. Mr. Charters is a newspaper man and has conducted The Brampton Conservator with ability and success for the last twenty years. We understand that his son, who has been on the staff for some years, will now take charge of the paper.

Deanery Meeting.

The annual meeting and Sunday School Convention of the Rural Deanery of Wellington will be held in St. Mark's Church here on Wednesday and Thursday, October 22nd and 23rd. The Deanery meeting will be held on Wednesday afternoon and will be addressed by Ven. Archdeacon Davidson, Rev. G. W. Tebbs, Rural Dean L. J. R. Naftel, of Elora, and Mr D. M. Rose Travelling Secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. A meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will also be held on Wednesday afternoon, both meetings commencing at 2.30 o'clock. At 8 p.m. divine service will be held. The induction of Rev. G. W. Tebbs, the new rector of St. Mark's, will take place during this service. The S. S. Convention will be held on Thursday; the sessions beginning at 10.30 a.m. and 2.30 p.m. At the morning session, Rev. R. F. Nie will speak on "The Dominant Function of the Church." Rev. Borgess Brown, of St. Simon Church, Toronto, Principal Feth, of Orangeville, and Rev. F. A. Hiltz will be the chief speakers in the afternoon. A Missionary meeting will be held at 8 p.m., at which Rev. Mr. Hiltz, Mr. D. M. Rose and Rev. M. Whittaker will speak.

THOS. STEVENSON DEAD.

Orangeville Loses One of Its Oldest Business Men.

Came Here 57 Years Ago and Has Been in Business on Broadway Ever Since.

With startling suddenness the life of Thomas Stevenson, one of Orangeville's oldest business men and best known citizens, was brought to an end about eight o'clock on Monday evening. Mr. Stevenson, who was remarkably active and well-preserved for a man of his years, was apparently in the full enjoyment of his usual good health until Sunday morning. Friday evening he accompanied Mayor Island to Toronto on some civic business. Returning home Saturday morning he spent the day in the store, where he remained until quite late Saturday night. He did not arise at the usual hour Sunday morning and when Mrs. Stevenson went to his room to awaken him she was shocked to find that he was unconscious. Drs. James and T. H. Henry were hurriedly summoned and found that his condition was due to the bursting of a blood vessel in the head. He remained unconscious until Sunday night when he began to show signs of rallying. On Monday afternoon he was quite conscious, but at night he had a secondary hemorrhage and expired in a few minutes.

Thomas Stevenson was born in Kilmarnock, Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1839, and was therefore in his 74th year when overtaken by death. His parents left Scotland when he was a lad of 13 years and shortly after their arrival in Canada settled in Paris, Ont. Mr. Stevenson lived there for four years and then came to Orangeville, making the journey from Brampton by stage. He arrived here on October 19th, 1856, and took a position with J. R. Buckham, who ran a drug store and the village post office in a building where the Grand Central hotel now stands. Orangeville was then a small village of about 300 people. Brampton was the nearest railway point and all merchandise was carried from that place by horse and vehicle. Two years or so after his arrival Mr. Stevenson opened out a drug store on his own account. This would be about '58, so that he has conducted a business in Orangeville for 55 years or longer. This is an unusual record and the fact that he enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the community to the end is conclusive evidence of his integrity as a business man. Besides his drug business he carried numerous sidelines, dealing extensively in wall paper, school supplies and Christmas goods. The business attained large proportions and it is doubtful if there is any merchant on Broadway, who has enjoyed a wider business connection. Mr. Stevenson was a man of unusual physical and mental vigor and the exercise of his energies was by no means restricted to his own business. He was one of the town's most public spirited men and always took an active part in any movement that was calculated to further the interests of the community. He entered municipal life in 1894 as one of the Councillors from the North Ward. He was deputy-reeve in 1895, reeve in 1896 and in 1897 and '98 served the town as Mayor. Despite the demands that his private business made upon his time and energies, he was a faithful and diligent municipal representative and his career as Mayor was both honorable and useful. Deceased was a staunch Liberal and was President of the Orangeville Reform Association for a number of years. In religion he was Presbyterian, and in his death St. Andrew's Church has lost one of its oldest and most honored members. He served on the Managing Board for many years and at the time of his death was one of the elders of the Church. It was seldom indeed that he was absent from his pew at the regular church services. He was also a very regular attendant at the weekly prayer meeting. Mr. Stevenson was an active member of the Board of Trade. He took a prominent part in the deliberations of this body and at the time he was stricken down was engaged in an effort to bring a promising manufacturing industry to the town. He was identified with the A.O.U.W., The Sons of Scotland and the Independent Order of Foresters.

The funeral, which was held to the Forest Lawn Cemetery at 2.30 o'clock yesterday, showed the respect and esteem in which the deceased was held and the widespread sorrow occasioned by his sudden removal from the scene of his earthly activities. Citizens of all callings and walks in life united in paying a last mark of respect by their attendance at the services at the home and later at the grave. Many country friends were also present, showing unmistakeably their sorrow and sympathy. All the business places along Broadway were closed while the funeral was in progress. As another evidence of the general sorrow the flag was flown at half-mast from the town flagstaff on Alexandra Park. An impressive service was conducted by Rev. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, who spoke with deep feeling of the many sterling qualities of the deceased and his keen sense of personal loss through the demise of one whom he had learned to know and value as a friend. The pallbearers were Mayor Island, and ex-Mayors C. R. McKeown, H. Endacott, W. H. Riddell, A. D. McKitrick and W. M. Green. Messrs. J. Lindsay, Dr. James Henry, Jos. Pattullo, also ex-Mayors of the town, Mr. A. A. Hughson, Town Clerk, Mr. A. Steele, Principal of the High School, and Rev. W. M. Morris officiated as honorary pallbearers. The members of the town council attended the funeral in a body and, with a large number of citizens, followed the remains from the home to their last resting place.

The late Mr. Stevenson is survived by a widow and a family of two sons and two daughters. The sons are Ross, in Vancouver, B.C., and Howard, who has been attending the Ontario Agricultural College. The daughters are Mrs. J. H. Sutherland, of Toronto, and Miss Kathleen at home. He is also survived by one brother, Mr. John Stevenson, of Detroit, and a sister, Mrs. Skelton, of Battleford. The sympathy of many friends goes out to the family and other relatives in their time of trial.

In Mr. Stevenson's death, the community loses, not only a public spirited and patriotic citizen, but an honorable and a good living man. He was a courageous, hopeful nature, that always looked on the bright side of life and saw encouragement and opportunity, when others less optimistic in their outlook would have despaired. In his long career he encountered many difficulties and experienced not a few disappointments, but he was always cheery and hopeful and never failed to find comforting assurance in that enduring faith that lifts its possessor above the gloom of earthly doubt, discouragement and disappointment.

His end was peace. Of him may it not be truly said, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord. Yea! saith the Spirit, for they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

A. R. Girdwood, B. A., of Chesley, has been appointed mathematical master of the St. Catharines' Collegiate.

PRIZE ESSAYS.

Papers That Won at Laurel School Fair.

Competitors Required to Tell "How I Grew My Plot."

The Banner reproduces herewith the three prize winning essays at the recent Laurel Rural School Fair. The essays were submitted by boys and girls, who took part in the Plot Competition conducted by the Department of Agriculture, and were written on the subject "How I Grew My Plot." They are as follows:—

1ST PRIZE—RUTH NELSON.

In order that I might be able to write an essay on "How I Grew My Plot," I decided to keep a general account of my work. This essay will be found to contain certain observations which I have made during this summer, as regards the behaviour of my crop, at different dates and under different conditions of the weather.

First of all, my plot is fifteen feet by nine feet. There were four rows, each being twenty-five inches apart, and containing on an average, fifty-six plants. The plants in row were twelve inches apart.

The piece of ground that was given to me for my plot was a free-working loamy soil with good drainage. Having been previously well manured, it was not necessary for me to put any more on it. I started to work my plot on May 15th. On this date I hoed the land. I did not hoe any deeper than six or seven inches. On May 24th there came a heavy rain, which seemed to make the ground hard again. I wished to have the ground in as good shape as possible, so I decided to hoe it again. After hoeing it I went over it with a rake a couple of times. This put the ground in fairly good condition for planting. I planted the seed on May 28th. The seed was rather large, so I cut the most of the potatoes, leaving about two eyes in each set. The seed was planted immediately after cutting. I left the plot till the potatoes began to appear just above the ground. This was about twelve days after planting. On account of the severe frosts that came at that time, I covered the plants with more soil. This kept them longer in coming up. On June 16th I raked the ground to level down the hills that I made when covering the seed, and to destroy any weeds coming up. I took care, however, not to disturb any of the sets. I noticed that the potatoes were growing very quickly. On June 27th I cultivated them, using the hoe for this purpose. There had been very little rain during the month of June. The ground was getting dry and hard and my potatoes were not making as good progress as formerly. On July 5th, I cultivated them again. This time as the tops were larger I was able to put more soil around them. At this time I commenced watering them with the water from the pump. It seemed too cold and did not do much good, so I filled the tub with water in the morning, and left it standing till night. I put two pails of this water on each row. I kept this up every evening till the Twelfth of July. A good rain came at that time, making it unnecessary for me to water my plot any more till August, when I gave it a few more waterings again.

From this time on my plot gave me very little trouble. All I had to do was to keep the weeds destroyed, and the bugs off the plants. This I did by picking them, as they had never been bad enough to need Paris green. On September 20th I dug the potatoes. The tops were all dead as there had been so much dry weather, and the early frosts had helped to kill them. I think it a great pleasure, and found the work very interesting this summer.

2ND PRIZE—LILLIAN KING.

Ladies and gentlemen, girls and boys, we are more than pleased to see your happy and jolly looking faces attending our Fall Fair again, which I hope shall be more successful and interesting than ever.

Another year passes on and still our Fair continues its work, making more progress each year, the work being done by the faithful girls and boys. It is a great thing to see the interest that the children take in helping for a fair.

Here it goes once again, the same old pen writing for another fair, which is always a very difficult question for me to deal with, but as it being in the working of the Fair, it shall be my pleasure to write an Essay on "How I grew my Plot of Corn."

Well, as usual, Mr. Dorrance and Mr. Duff made a visit to our school, arranging with us that we should hold another Fair to interest all in agricultural work. Within a few days our teacher received a prize list, containing potatoes, corn, oats, barley, mangels. From these you take your choice. I chose the corn. Then the teacher marked down what each pupil desired to have, and sent our names away.

Time rolled on and within a few weeks Mr. Duff brought to the school our summer's work and as all children are always anxious to see who will have their's planted first and see whose is the best at Fair time.

As I am a girl it was hard for me to chink of ploughing the ground for my plot. But all I could do was to hire a man and as usual he charged seventy cents an hour. I arranged my plot on the back field of the farm where the richest soil was. There I marked the plot fifteen by thirteen feet and then I placed a wire fence around the plot to separate it from the other garden.

After the ploughing of the plot it was harrowed and then I took the hoe, which I thought was my best friend till Fair time, and hoed the ground over, breaking the hard lumps of earth and smoothing it down. The plot was made that four rows go one way and five the other way, allowing forty inches between the rows. At each of the places, where the lines cross, I planted eight kernels of corn in each hill, therefore having twenty hills in the plot.

The first thing to happen was the coming of Mrs. Weed and her family, which was large indeed. I then had a battle to overcome them, but the hardest battle was how to keep the crows from picking the kernels of the corn out of the hills. In trying to frighten them I made a scarecrow, dressing it as an old man and placing it in the centre of the plot. Betimes I acted as a scarecrow myself and between the two of us we kept the crows away till Fair time.

During the summer holidays Mr. Duff visited our homes to see our plots.

I hoed my corn up twice, till it was the height of four inches, then I thinned it out to four plants to a hill, leaving only eighty plants in the plot. Still I had to keep Mrs. Weed and family under ground, so as to make more moisture in the ground for the corn.

I have picked twelve of the best ears of corn, which I considered the best and laid them on a tray and hope I shall either win first prize for the care of the plot or for the corn, but I am waiting to see if the red ticket is upon my tray of corn, which tells me I have won 1st prize.

3RD PRIZE—CAROL STEVENSON

Having received some potatoes to plant for the Laurel School Fair, I took them home until I had leisure to plant them.

One Saturday morning I took my hoe and potatoes out into the garden. I then marked out a plot of ground fifteen by nine feet. After doing this I made four rows fifteen feet long and twenty-five inches wide as regulations required. I then cut my potatoes into fifty-six sets. Every twelve inches I dropped a set. Having done this I had fourteen hills in each row and fifty-six hills altogether in the plot.

As the ground was pretty dry where my potatoes were planted, I had often to water my plot. Nearly every night I would take my watering can and water it. One day I found some tiny sprouts shooting up from out of the ground. After a while stalks grew up. Soon I had to hoe them. I loosened the ground around their roots and hoed it up around the stalks. As soon as I hoed them, I watered them between the rows. The water then soaked into the ground more readily than before I hoed them, as the earth was loosened around the roots. I hoed them two or three times during the summer. Although the potato bugs were not very troublesome, or numerous, I paris greened them several times.

As our school had been told that a man would come sometime during the summer to inspect our plots, one may imagine with what anxiety I took care of my plot. However, one day a young man came and asked to see my plot. I showed it to him with a palpitating heart. He seemed to think it looked well, as he said he would like a picture of it.

On the first of October, being three days before the Fair, I dug my potatoes. By this time the stalks were withered and dried up. I had covered the potatoes up to keep them from from the depredations of the hens. Some of them were very good, but there were quite a number of small ones. I picked them up and put them into a bucket to wash them. I picked up twelve of the best ones and put them into a basket. The others I put into a bag and put them into an outhouse to await the eventful day when they were to try their fate.

TEACHERS CONVENE.

Dufferin Institute Held Its 33rd Convention in Grand Valley Last Week.

Association Favors Continuance of Rural School Fairs With Certain Modifications.

The 33rd annual Convention of the Dufferin Teachers' Institute was held in the auditorium of the new Public Library in Grand Valley on Thursday and Friday last. Mr. A. B. Cooper, B.A., President of the Institute, occupied the chair. Of the 122 Public and High School teachers in the County no less than 104 were in attendance. The Convention was opened at 11.30 a.m. on Thursday with prayer and scripture reading by Rev. Mr. McQuillan.

At the afternoon session a nominating committee was appointed with instructions to present its report on Friday morning. The members of the committee were Messrs. Keys and Murphy and Misses McLachlan, Wilcox and Bagnell.

The Institute agreed to assume responsibility for half the subscription price of "The School," for all members who wished to subscribe.

Mr. A. Firth, the Secretary-Treasurer, gave a detailed report of the work of the Strathcona Trust Committee and of the various competitions. In Physical Training, he stated, awards had been made to Hornings Mills and Laurel schools, in Military Drill to Hornings Mills and in Rifle Shooting to the Orangeville Public School Cadet Corps.

The Convention decided to refund $25 of the $50 grant voted by Dufferin County Council in 1912. The reason for this action was that the Education Department had only made a grant of $25 to the Institute.

Misses Hazel Peacock and Florence Durkin discussed different phases of the system of County Promotion Examinations, each favoring their adoption in this county. The addresses were followed by a protracted discussion in which a number of the teachers took part. Eventually the Institute put through a motion placing itself upon record as favoring the adoption of the principle of regular county promotion examinations. A committee, consisting of Inspector Liddy, Principals Cooper, Glenn and Firth, Messrs. Boggs and Keys and Misses Hogg, F. Shain, Rutherford, Robinson and Bagnell, was subsequently appointed to arrange for the introduction of the system.

Mr. David White, B.A., of The Normal School, Toronto, addressed the Convention at some length on Modern Methods of Teaching Geography. The subject, he suggested, could be advantageously treated along natural lines of development and human interest. The basis of all primary work should be past knowledge and past experience. In the intermediate classes the teaching should relate to verbal memorization and locational geography, map study and drawing and in the advanced classes cause and effect could be profitably discussed. Mr. White emphasized the importance of going outside the regular text books for illustrative material.

Thursday evening an excellent entertainment was provided in the Library Auditorium and attracted a capacity house. The programme consisted of music, drills and recitations and an illustrated address by Inspector Liddy on some of the lower forms of microscopic life and their relation to human interests.

Friday morning the Nominating Committee presented its report, naming the following officers for the ensuing year:—

President—Mr. E. H. Glenn
Vice-President—Miss Mamie Lang
Secy-Treasurer—Mr. A. Firth
Executive—Orangeville P.S. Staff.

Miss V. Fennell illustrated her method of teaching expressive reading by teaching a model lesson with a class. The subject of School Gardens was presented by Miss M. Batters and Mr. Lahan Boggs read a suggestive paper on "Homework." Homework, Mr. Boggs maintained, should not intrude on home life. In his opinion it should not be given the younger pupils at all. The subject of Nature Study was discussed by Miss Clark, of Shelburne, and Mr. Keys, of Hornings Mills. The former dealt with work in the senior classes of the Public School and the junior forms of the High School and the latter made an interesting exhibit of work by his pupils.

The subject of Rural School Fairs was considered by a special committee, which reported the result of its deliberations on Friday afternoon. The report took the form of a motion worded as follows:

"That the School Fair be continued as in our opinion it contains possibilities of benefit; but that it be modified to include specimens of all school work and to eliminate all entries not the sole work of the pupil, but palmed off at the Fair as his own."

Mr. R. P. Allin, of the Orangeville High School staff, gave illustrations of a number of simple experiments along scientific nature study lines, demonstrating that even with comparatively inexpensive apparatus much might be done to illustrate the properties of heat, light, moisture, the atmosphere etc.

Mr. White, of the Toronto Normal School, gave two type lessons on primary geography with a class. Mr. A. Steele, Principal of Orangeville High School, then addressed the assembled teachers, speaking chiefly of the difference between the conditions that confronted the teachers of thirty years ago and those of the present day. Miss McGillivray, of the Orangeville Public School staff, read a Paper on Schoolroom Decoration. She emphasized the importance of using only such colour schemes in decorating as would be artistic and restful to the eye. It was better to have a few really good pictures in the school room than a profusion of poor ones.

The Institute will hold next year's Convention in Orangeville.

DUTIES OF OFFICERS.

Last week's issue of the Pioneer contains a carefully prepared digest of the Ontario Liquor Law and a fund of useful information relating to its enforcement in license and local option municipalities. On the subject of the duties of officers the Pioneer points out that the provision for securing enforcement of the law is very complete. Not only the Inspectors specially appointed to enforce the law, but all policemen and constables are empowered and required to enter prosecutions if they have reason to believe that the law has been broken and they are liable to punishment if they fail to do their duty. The sections of the Act dealing with this matter are as follows:—

129. Every officer so appointed under this Act, every policeman, or constable, or Inspector, shall be deemed to be within the provisions of this Act, and where any information is given to any such officer, policeman, constable or Inspector, that there is cause to suspect that some person is violating any of the provisions of this Act, it shall be his duty to make diligent inquiry into the truth of such information before the proper court, without communicating the name of the person giving such information; and it shall be the duty of the Crown Attorney, within the county in which the offence is committed, to attend to the prosecution of all cases committed to him by an Inspector or officer appointed under this Act by the Lieutenant-Governor.

134. (1) It shall be the duty of every officer, policeman, constable or Inspector in each municipality to see that the several provisions of this Act are duly observed, and to proceed by information, and otherwise prosecute for the punishment of any offence against the provisions of this Act; and in case of wilful neglect or default in so doing in any case, such officer, policeman, constable or Inspector shall incur a penalty of $10, besides costs, for each and every such neglect and default.

(2) It shall be the duty of the board of commissioners of police, and of the chief of police, to enforce the provisions of this section, and any officer or policeman convicted of violating the provisions thereof may be summarily dismissed.

STALLION INSPECTION.

After the inspection of stallions had been completed last fall it was found that there were quite a number of stallion owners, who, through not appreciating the value of the Act, or through lack of information, did not have their stallions presented for inspection when the Inspectors were on their routes in the fall. A supplementary inspection was held in April to inspect stallions owned by such men. This made the inspection very thorough, but, besides causing additional expense, it in some cases, caused considerable delay in having the Enrolment Certificates issued. To overcome the necessity of a second inspection for the season of 1914 it was decided at a meeting of the Stallion Enrolment Board, held in the Secretary's Office, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, on Monday, Sept. 22nd, that there would only be one Inspections of Stallions during the year ending July 31st, 1914, which inspection will commence about February 17th, 1914. The Inspectors will visit each stallion owner at his stable, provided that he makes application for inspection to the Secretary, R. W. Wade, on or before February 1st, 1914.

WOMAN IN TERRIBLE STATE

Finds Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cape Wolfe, Canada.—"Last March I was a complete wreck. I had given up all hope of getting better or living any length of time, as I was such a sufferer from female troubles. But I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am in good health and have a pair of twin boys two months old and growing finely. I surprised doctors and neighbors for they all know what a wreck I was.

"Now I am healthy, happy and hearty, and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies. You may publish this letter if you like. I think if more women used your remedies they would have better health."—Mrs. J. T. COOK, Lot No. 7, Cape Wolfe, P.E.I., Canada.

Because your case is a difficult one, and doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of women—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

CHILDREN OUT AT NIGHT.

Many resolutions have been passed by benevolent and philanthropic organizations, many sermons delivered, many editorials written by leading newspapers and magazines, many personal suggestions made, that the law dealing with children on the streets and in parks after dark should be more stringent. At the recent session of the Ontario Legislature these numerous requests have been met, and the amended law is as follows:

Children's Protection Act.

Sec. 17.—(1) No child (under sixteen) shall loiter in any public place after 9 o'clock in the evening, or be there unless accompanied by his parent or guardian or an adult appointed by the parent or guardian to accompany such child.

(2) A child found in a public place after the hour named in subsection 1 unless so accompanied may be warned to go home by any constable or probation officer or officer of a Children's Aid Society, and if after such warning the child is found loitering in a public place such child may be taken by the constable or officer to its home, or the Children's Shelter.

(3) A parent who permits his child to violate this section shall for the first offence incur a penalty of $1 without costs, and for the second offence $2, and for a third, or any subsequent offence, $5. 8 Edw. VIII. c. 59, s. 19, amended.

Sec. 2. (k) "Public Place" shall mean a street, highway, or lane, whether a thoroughfare or not, and a tavern or other place of public resort, and, generally, any place to which the public have or are permitted to have access.

THE 1913 WINTER FAIR AT GUELPH.

Preparations are well under way for the holding of the Thirtieth Annual Ontario Provincial Winter Fair to be held in Guelph, Dec. 9th to 12th, 1913. The Premium List which is now to hand, shows a very attractive classification and a considerable increase in the amount of prize money offered over former years. Several extra sections have been added to the horse department. In the Dairy Cattle section, the prizes have been increased in several sections. In the Swine department last year, a class was provided for "any other breed, grade or cross." This year the classes are provided, one for "any other purebred," and one for "Grades or Crosses of any breed." In the Poultry department, several classes have been added and the prizes for ducks are to be increased according to the number of entries as is now the case in the classes for fowls.

Quite a number of County Councils are offering special prizes for Amateur Exhibitors from their Counties, every section of the Premium List being supplemented by one or more of these County Specials. A copy of the list may be obtained upon application to the Secretary, R. W. Wade, Parliament Building, Toronto.

THE WRONG WAY.

A prosperous farmer has gained the reputation of being the stingiest man in his town and consequently is not in general favor with his neighbors. He owns an old horse, which, to put it mildly, is very thin. As if to make up for the lack of flesh on its body, however, the animal has a head many sizes too large for it. Of course, people talk about the horse, and the owner doesn't like it. For instance, he went to the expense of a new collar for the animal. A few minutes after the delivery he was back at the saddler's with the collar.

"Don't you know nothin'? he blurted out. You've made it too small. I can't get it over his head!"

"Over his head!" reiterated the saddler. "Man alive, it wasn't made to go over his head! Back him into it!"

PREDESTINATION AND ELECTION.

Two ministers, Presbyterian and Methodist, were taking a walk along a railway track one day, discussing good naturedly the points of difference of their respective creeds. Presently, coming to the yawning mouth of one of those long tunnels for which this road is famous, the Methodist suggested that they go in. They had gone but a short distance when the Presbyterian brother exclaimed with sudden determination:

"I'm going to get out of here! What if a train should come along?

"Oh, well," responded the other, with a twinkle which his companion could not see, "what is to be will be, you know."

"Yes," was the retort; "but I don't want it to be in here!"

A $400 BLAZE.

A tooth of the picking machine at Murphy's woollen mill worked loose at noon on Saturday and when the concave piece of steel came in contact with another tooth there was a spark, and as quick as thought, about $60 worth of wool was in a blaze. George Murphy was alone in the mill at the time and when he had emptied two barrels of water, kept for such an emergency in the picker room, without apparent effect, he ran outside giving the alarm. His cries were heard across the river and in a very short time buckets were being sent along in fine style from the river to the mill. In the meantime someone ran to the hose tower and rang the alarm and the quick turnout of the firemen added to the strength of the bucket brigade. There is no hydrant near the mill. The flames were confined to the picker room but most of the damage was done by smoke and water to the stock on the floor above. Altogether Mr. Murphy estimates his loss at between $300 and $400. There was no insurance.—Mt. Forest Representative.

The Quest For Food.

Hunger Makes the Hordes Migrate, for Man is a Land Animal.

Interesting Article by Elbert Hubbard in MacLean's Magazine.

The following interesting contribution from the pen of Elbert Hubbard, the well-known writer, appeared in the September number of MacLean's Magazine:—

To secure food is man's primal need. This has always been the most important business in the world and it always will be.

Hunger is the first incentive in migration.

Our ancestors belonged to the Aryan race. They had their rise in the uplands of India. And out of India came the swarming, hungry hordes in six migrations.

The first migration stopped on the fertile banks of the Nile, and there civilization was born.

The wealth of Egypt came from the raising of wheat. The overflow of the Nile supplied moisture and nutrition, and the soil laughed a harvest.

The next migration was that of the Assyrians, who settled on the banks of the Euphrates and the Tiber.

And they built two great cities, Babylon and Nineveh.

But rich as were the plains of Assyria, food failed at times.

In the Bible we read an account of how certain of these Assyrians are compelled to go down into Egypt and beg for food. And we learn, later, how Joseph, with the help of the Egyptians, cornered the corn market.

From Assyria the tide of migration moved on to Greece, and from Greece to Rome.

Each of these great world-powers—Egypt, Assyria, Greece and Rome—had its basis in agriculture.

Out of the surplus that the farmers produced, the cities were built.

All great municipalities had their rise in a herdsmen's camp; then came the fort; next the trading-post; then a city.

But no city can continue great that is not supported by a prosperous agricultural district.

In the time of Alexander, three hundred and fifty years before Christ, we hear of the hungry Persian hordes marching upon Greece.

Prices of foodstuffs aviated, and the Persians were compelled to do something just as we are to-day.

All and each of these proud, great civilizations, in turn, were brought low when the farmer ceased to be prosperous.

Power in the past has centered in the cities. The farmers were plucked of their best. The cities drained them of their men, and of their treasure.

War and commerce took their brightest boys.

Finally, nothing but the cities remained, and then these cities went down to the dust of forgetfulness.

The star of empire moved to the west.

The prairie-schooners, of but a few years ago, revealed for us the great law of migration. Land is the great mother of us all. We feed off of the land, and the dictum that man is a land animal has never been disproven or even disputed.

Men prosper mentally, physically, morally and spiritually only as they are in close proximity to the soil.

To-day the available acreage of the world has all been taken up. Within a very short time we have seen a marked advance in the cost of food supplies, and we have also seen a marked advance in the value of land.

But for the first time in history we are not free to pack up and move on, simply because there is no place to go to.

We are now obliged to face the food problem; and we are doing so, not by moving on, but by remaining where we are and bringing science to bear in our farming.

Food prices are higher, simply because population has increased in the cities faster than in the country.

The best labor, the brains, the inventive ingenuity, and the capital have settled in the cities. It is the same old story—all things move in circles.

We have been doing over again just what Egypt, Assyria, Greece and Rome did in the olden times—not exactly, perhaps, in the same way, but with a like result.

We have drained the country of the best, and while there has been immense progress in the cities, the farmer has practically plodded along in the same old way. This he would continue doing indefinitely, were it not for the fact that we have suddenly been aroused by the cry of high prices.

The thought of hunger has startled us into action. The statement that New York City is constantly within forty-eight hours of starvation has brought the question of food home to our minds in a way that America has never before viewed the proposition.

The farmer now holds the key to the situation.

Before the days of James Watt—or, say, a hundred years ago—all manufacturing was done in the home. Wool was carded and spun and woven in the kitchen.

The word "wife" means weaver. The woman made the fabrics and she made the clothes.

All of the big manufactories in New England had their rise in home industries, where the ingenious Yankees whittled things out by the fireplace or in the sun.

Ax-helves, hoes, brushes, shovels, knives, clocks, artisans' tools—all were made in the homes. Back of every house was a little building known as the "shop," and in this shop the boys and girls evolved a deal of skill in manufacture. Clocks were made here, and then the good man of the house went out and peddled them over the country.

Man power was the only power known.

Then came in the utilization of falling water, and we built grist-mills and cloth factories, where weaving was done, situated by the side of the running stream.

The difficulty of this was that in the winter the stream was frozen, so the water could not be utilized, and in the summer, for several months, the stream was dry.

The steam engine revolutionized the business of manufacturing, and transferred the factory from the home to a separate building.

With the aid of the "joint-stock" company and increased capital, manufacturing became a business, separate and apart from the household industries.

Many farmers invested their savings in "shares," and moved to town, where the youngsters found work, and the old folks vegetated until death, in pity, took them.

The "abandoned" farms of New England came as a natural result.

These big factories offered good returns to capital. To the laborer they gave the whole evening to himself. He cleaned up his work and went home to rest and amuse himself.

Manufacturing towns were a great fascination for the farmers' girls and boys. It meant a quick return of your money on Saturday night. The lights and the lure of the city attracted. Music, dancing, games, and the mixing of many people were a great inducement.

The increased demand for food from factory towns suggested a better quality of farming, and so horse-power came to replace hand power.

Farming became a Western business.

Instead of the hand-reaper, told of in poetry and legend, we had the inventions of Cyrus McCormick and James Oliver.

Maud Miller wasn't in it.

Constantly increasing, from a machine that required one man to drive and one man to rake off the sheaf to be bound, we had a machine that not only cut, but bound, threshed and bagged at one time.

But horse-power was the motor.

America has twenty-five million horses. We have more horses than Germany, England, France and Spain combined.

Also, the cost of horses to-day is higher than it has ever been before.

One-fifth of all the farmer raises goes to feed and care for his horses.

There are three processes in civilization. One to dig, the next to carry, and the third is to manufacture.

We have discarded horsepower in the matter of transportation. The steamboat, the locomotive and the automobile do our lugging. Things are brought from the farthest corners of the world and laid down in our big cities, all by mechanical power.

The railroads carry a person one mile for two cents; but they carry a ton of freight one mile for a cent and a half. This is all they have to sell—transportation. And it is all mechanical transportation.

No man ever got rich running a pony express.

Among the owners of stage coach lines, never a one in all history became a millionaire.

The bare cost of transportation by horse-power would be ten cents a mile per person and twenty-five cents or more per ton for goods. If the roads were bad it would cost very much more. In the winter time where there is snow, transportation of people and property would be impossible during a great deal of the year. Throughout Canada, mud is king for several months.

Mechanical power has solved the problems of carrying and making.

The first business of man, however, is to dig. And we are still digging by hand, or with the aid of animal power.

The man with the hoe and the sunted brow is simply a man who has been unable to take advantage of mechanical power in his business. All of his vitality, all of his potential ability to think, goes into the eternal labor of digging food out of the ground.

James Watt applied mechanical power by the use of steam.

Fulton applied the principle to water transportation.

Hargreaves invented the spinning-jenny and practically solved for us the question of manufacturing.

But farming is still lagging a hundred years behind, pulled by man-power and animal power.

The farmer has been short of inventive genius, and short of capital. The only things that he has had a plethora of are debt and labor. He has borne the big burdens. Well has it been said that the farmer's work is never done. No wonder that the girls and the boys flee the fields.

Where there is water power, many farmers have lighting-plants and stationary engines. But for field use the wonders of electricity offer the farmer no relief. Electricity, at the last, is not power. It is only a method of transporting, transferring or harnessing it.

When we see the trolley-car flying along through the country, we say that it is being run by the power of electricity. This is a fiction, for we know full well that, in order to secure electricity, we have to have dynamos somewhere to generate the juice. And we generate it with the use of fuel or water-power.

The farmer can not hope for redemption through electricity, because the farmer's business is to move around over a space of perhaps several miles, and he must carry his fuel on his back, so to speak.

No stationary engine will answer his purpose. And this is the reason why horses have been necessary.

But just as we have abandoned the use of horses in transportation and manufacturing, so will the farmer have to abandon horses for the bulk of his heavy work.

The first move in the direction of using mechanical power on the farm was when we ceased to use horses for threshing grain.

The horse-power, where a dozen horses were driven round and round on a sweep, and the power was imparted with a tumbling-rod, is something that all of the graybeards born in the country remember well.

The steam traction engine, which threshed for a score or more of farmers, was a great move in the direction of economy and co-operation. It did the work at half the expense that horses could do it.

However, in the neighborhoods where coal was scarce and water was not right at hand, there was a deal of dead lift and labor in hauling. I have seen two teams of horses working steadily, one hauling water and one coal, in order to keep a thresher going.

If this threshing machine was operating ten miles from the coal, it required two teams to haul coal.

And as the price of wheat advanced, the inventors of the world have cast around in their minds for a cheaper power than that supplied by the steam engine.

Wood, as fuel, is now practically out of the question.

Coal is heavy, cumbersome and often scarce. Gas can not be transported, and has other limitations.

Gasoline is volatile, is affected by temperature, can not be transported in wooden barrels, has to be stored underground, and increased fire risk. Besides, its cost is more than double that of kerosene.

Kerosene-oil seems the best, cheapest, most easily obtained, most condensed and most valuable fuel known.

A pint of kerosene has more potential power in it than the same quantity of dynamite. Dynamite has a wonderful power to destroy. But a mushroom can lift just as much as the same weight of dynamite, provided you give it time.

A lichen growing in the crevice of a rock can split the rock.

Frost has a tremendous power to lift and disintegrate.

Gasoline, gallon for gallon, is not so valuable for purposes of power as kerosene, unless you want a quicker explosion and wish to travel faster.

The ideal thing for very fast transportation would be dynamite, but the trouble is that it carries a man so much faster than he can think that the shock disintegrates his molecules. where a moderate, sure, steady power is required, kerosene is the substance.

Kerosene is nature's own fuel.

Only a few years ago, when Colonel Drake discovered petroleum in Pennsylvania, it was believed that there was no supply of this oil in America, save in this little tract around Oil City and Titusville.

Since then oil has been discovered not only in Pennsylvania, but in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and other states. And we hear the statement made by competent engineers that the State of California, alone, has enough oil within reach to supply the needs of the United States for a hundred years.

The question now is not so much where is petroleum, as where is it not?

In Western Canada there are vast supplies of oil, practically untapped. Alaska, China, Terre del Fuego, South America, Mexico, Russia—all have vast supplies of oil.

The business of searching for oil in the bowels of the earth and pumping it up, is practically in its infancy. All we have endeavored to do so far, is to bring up just enough oil to supply our needs.

The volatile element in petroleum is naptha or gasoline. The pitchy substance, the asphalt, has to be removed in order to get a quick, clean combustion.

Then by mixing a certain amount of air with the kerosene, liberating just enough of the oil at a time, a quick ignition can be accomplished.

In the use of steam for running a steamboat, ninety-five per cent. of the power is lost. For instance if a steamboat is soon to sail, she has to begin firing up eight or ten hours before she uses her steam. All this time fuel is being consumed. Water is not heated directly from the fire, but we heat steel and the steel heats the water. Then we run the steam through pipes in order to turn machinery.

Forty-five per cent or so of the potential power in coal goes up the smokestack. Another forty-five per cent. is lost in friction and the process of making real power out of heat units. Only ten per cent. gets to the propellers, and half of that is spent in useless heating of the water, leaving five per cent. to push the ship on towards her destination.

It was once prophesied that no ship could cross the Atlantic under her own steam, because she could not carry enough fuel to meet her requirements. And so all steamships were rigged with sails, and steam was once used only when the wind was not favorable.

The problem yet in transportion is to get an engine that will carry its fuel on its back. And so the smallest quantity of fuel in point of bulk and weight is what the world demands.

I was unable to wash any clothes for over two years on account of my back being lame. I read the Almanac and began using these pills. Two boxes made a complete cure. MR. ALVA PHILLIPS

BRISTOL, N. B., JULY 25th, 1912.

"I am unable to say enough in favor of "Fruit-a-tives" as it saved my life and restored me to health, when I had given up all hope and when the doctors had failed to do anything more for me. I had a stroke of Paralysis in March, 1910, and this left me unable to walk or help myself, and the Constipation of the bowels was terrible. Nothing did me any good and I was wretched in every way. Finally, I took "Fruit-a-tives" for the Constipation, and it not only cured me of that trouble but gradually this fruit medicine toned up the nerves and actually cured the paralysis. Under the use of "Fruit-a-tives", I grew stronger and stronger until all the palsy and weakness left me. I am now well again and attend my store every day and all day."

A WONDERRFUL DISCOVERY.

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new, healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh, healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Co. and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

CALEDON FALL FAIR.

Exhibition the Most Successful in History of the Society.

Upwards of 2000 People on the Grounds Friday Afternoon.

Mr. Wm. Rutledge, the Secretary of the Caledon Agricultural Society, is our authority for the statement that Caledon Fall Fair last week was the most successful the Society has held in the fifty years or over that it has been in existence. There were over 2000 people on the grounds on Friday afternoon, the second day of the Fair. The gate receipts were about $400, which is away in excess of any former year. If the Fair was a success in point of attendance and gate receipts, it was equally successful in respect of number and quality of exhibits. There was a splendid showing in every department. The hall exhibits were up to the usual standard, there being a particularly fine display of fruit, garden vegetables, potatoes and other field roots, notwithstanding the fact of a dry, unfavorable season. The showing of horses has never been surpassed and seldom equalled. The speeding events were keenly contested and furnished splendid sport. The stock judging contest conducted by the Peel County Branch of the Department of Agriculture was another feature that attracted much interest. The results in the speeding and judging events were :—

Dust was the one factor that detracted from the enjoyment of the big crowd. Owing to the protracted dry spell the race course and in fact the whole surface of the fair grounds was dry as powder. While the races were in progress, it lifted from the course in dense, grey clouds, which a brisk southwesterly breeze carried directly over the crowds that thronged the elevation between the course and the main hall. Everybody was begrimed and toward evening many of the men looked as if they had been at a threshing instead of a fall fair. The condition was quite exceptional on account of the drouth and direction of the wind and might not occur again in twenty-five years.

The 36th Regiment Band was in attendance and furnished a delightful musical programme under the skilled leadership of Bandmaster Claridge. At night a splendid entertainment was given in the Town Hall under the auspices of Caledon Public Library. The house was crowded to the doors. The entire programme, consisting of original songs, readings and the inimitable crayon sketches for which he is famous, was furnished by Mr. J. W. Bengough, the widely known Toronto cartoonist. The receipts were about $80.

THANKSGIVING DAY MANOEUVRES

GENERAL IDEA

Westland is at war with Eastland. The boundary between the two States runs through the centre of Lake Huron.

Westland has penetrated into Eastland and is now operating in the vicinity of Peterborough, with its line of communications running from Lake Huron, north of Orangeville, along No. 5 Sideroad via Farmington and Blount.

The only Western troops within reach of this line of communication are a few scattered units which are still mobilizing.

SPECIAL IDEA (EASTLAND)

"A," "B," "D," and "F" Companies, 36th Regiment, and the ORANGEVILLE Cadets, under Major Hamilton, were completing their mobilization at BRAMPTON, when they received orders to seize the Supply Depot, which is being formed on WESTLAND'S line of communication at the 1st Line, West. This force reaches ORANGEVILLE at 10.30 a.m.

NOTES.

1. Operations will commence at 10.30 a.m. from ORANGEVILLE station.
2. All fields under cultivation are out of bounds.
3. Bugle calls are only to be sounded by order of the Director and these will be repeated three times by all buglers.

At the same time information is received that a small force of Infantry has completed its mobilization at BRAMPTON and was moving northwards yesterday (19th October).

Brampton Nightwatchman Injured While Trying to Stop Drunken Row.

Beer was responsible for a big row among a bunch of Polock workmen in Michael Herzog's boarding house in Brampton a week ago Sunday night. When James Hore, nightwatchman at the Pease Foundry, entered the house to attempt to quell the disturbance he was struck over the head with some blunt instrument and badly wounded. George Sheppard, who accompanied him, was also wounded, a beer bottle being broken over his head. Both men were thrown down and roughly handled. Eventually Chief Kidd arrived on the scene and succeeded in arresting four of the ringleaders. On Thursday the offenders were tried before P. M. Crawford, who fined two of them $25 and costs apiece. The others were let go as they were able to show that they had nothing to do with the affair. Michael Herzog, the keeper of the lodging house, was also brought before the magistrate charged with liquor selling. Chief Kidd had secured a quantity of liquor in the cellar and had found many empty bottles there. Four boarders in the house testified that they bought both whiskey and beer from Herzog, who protested vehemently that the beer was ordered by the boarders and paid for by them and that he never sold them a drop. He was found guilty and fined $100 and costs with the alternative of spending three months in gaol. Herzog told the magistrate that he would serve his time and was therefore taken to gaol after the trial.

Neville-Graham.

A quiet wedding was celebrated on Wednesday, October 8th, 1913, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. E. G. Graham, of Brampton, when his daughter, Olive May, was united in marriage by the Rev. J. Edward Starr, Commissioner of the Juvenile Court, Toronto, uncle of the bride, to Mr. A. Clinton Brent Neville, of the Merchants Bank, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Talbot Neville. The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Irene Thomson, of Toronto. The bridesmaid was Miss Gertrude Stott, of Dundas. The groom was supported by Mr. E. Bricker Graham, of Pittsburg, brother of the bride. The ceremony took place in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends, after which Mrs. Graham received, wearing a violet charmeuse with overdress of grey tulle embroidered in gold and silver, with corsage bouquet of mauve orchids. The mother of the groom wore a gown of petunia velvet with corsage bouquet of roses. During the signing of the register "Love's Coronation" was sung by Miss Marvel Peaker, of Brampton, while Miss Nora Starr, the bride's cousin, sang "Love is Mine." The going away gown was of king's blue cloth, and black hat. Mr. and Mrs. Neville motored to Toronto en route for Quebec, and after returning from their honeymoon will reside in Toronto.

Erin school will hold an afternoon of sports on Oct. 21st.

Knox Church, Elora, will celebrate its 76th anniversary on Sunday, Nov. 16th.

THE PRISON FARM.

A Correspondent Commends the System, but Holds that Prisoners Should Work for the Support of Their Families.

To the Editor of The Banner.

Dear Sir:—In a recent issue of your paper you referred, editorially, to an important question of the day—"The Prison Farm"; the benefits derived, economically, by the different counties joining together and making one Central Prison Farm, and "the humanitarian idea of trying to reform as well as punish criminals." In my humble opinion it seems that too much attention is being paid to the criminal, and too little attention (if he be a married man) to his wife and family, the real, and probably the only sufferers of the prisoner's crime. Any married woman with a family of young children has only to reflect for a moment on the terrible condition she would be forced to face if her husband were suddenly snatched from the home by the stern grip of the law. The leaving of the little ones at home, probably under the guardianship of the eldest child, who might be under the age of eight years, to work from daylight to dark in order to give nourishment to her children. This, and in many cases worse, happens to the unfortunate woman, while her guilty husband is always sure of his meals and a clean bed while in "durance vile"(?) and by the present county jail system "kept in idleness." The prison farm has many things to commend it, but why not make the prisoner work for his family while in jail? If the prisoner is in for any great length of time, why not let the returns from the sale of vegetables from his prison garden patch, and the value of his work around the farm, go towards the upkeep of the man's family? If the prison farm is to be on a large scale, a small factory could be connected with it, so that during the long winter months his labor could be turned into money, which in turn could be sent to the man's suffering family. These suggestions are not, by any means, new, and may have been discussed by the authorities on "Prison Reform."

Hoping I have not intruded on your valuable time and space,

Yours for the right reform,
ASTRAEA.

Best Flower Garden.

Some years ago Mr. James Pearson, a well known Toronto lawyer, who is also an extensive landowner in Caledon township, instituted a flower garden contest open to the County of Peel, offering $50 in three prizes for the best flower garden. This year the winners of the first prize are the Misses Mabel and Edith Morrison, of Sandhill, whose well-kept and lovely garden was greatly admired by the judges, Mrs. Pearson, Mrs. Potter and Miss Alderson, who tourned the county in a motor car and made the awards. The winner of the second prize was Miss Margaret P. Kirkwood, of Terra Cotta, and the Misses Fuller, of Norval Station, were awarded the third prize. The winners are to be congratulated upon their success, in view of the very dry season.

YOUTH THREW STONE.

Amaranth Girl Seriously Injured on Monday Night.

Monday night Miss Lottie Patterson, a daughter of Councillor Alex. Patterson, of Amaranth, was seriously injured by a stone thrown by a Barnardo Home boy named Cox. The affair happened shortly after the close of one of a series of revival meetings which two lady evangelists are holding in the Farmington school house. Miss Patterson was driving home from the meeting in company with a young man named Stanley Brown. The missile struck her fairly in the mouth breaking two of her front teeth and cracking three more. Her mouth is also badly cut and bruised. Dr. Carson, who was summoned, brought the injured girl to Lord Dufferin Hospital, where she was attended by himself and Dr. Campbell, the latter doing what he could to right the damaged teeth. It is said that Cox, who works for David Trimble, a farmer near Frazn Junction, had been pressing his attentions upon Miss Patterson and it is surmised that the stone was thrown in a fit of anger and jealousy at seeing her in the company of another young man. Legal proceedings were threatened, but we understand Cox settled by agreeing to pay $100.

CHURCH FIELDS.

Proposed Rearrangement of Charges in Western Part of Orangeville Presbytery.

The Grand Valley Star & Vidette states that Rev. J. R. Bell, the special commissioner appointed by the Orangeville Presbytery to visit Waldemar, Grand Valley and South Luther charges and confer with the congregations respecting the proposed re arrangement of fields in that part of the Presbytery, paid the two latter charges a visit on Monday of last week. The plan that is being considered is to attach South Luther to Dracon and Metz and place Waldemar and Grand Valley under the charge of one pastor. Waldemar is unable to sustain a minister alone and there is no other available place with which it can be connected. The arrangement is desirable not only for the welfare of the Waldemar congregation, but also for economic reasons as it will mean a saving of about $420, which is the amount now given to Dracon and Metz and to Waldemar from the augmentation fund. There will be no loss of church service or ministerial oversight through the proposed rearrangement, the same number of church services being given each congregation as are now enjoyed, except that Waldemar will have an afternoon instead of a morning and evening service. A similar commission is to report from the Dracon and Metz charges and the whole matter is to be laid before a joint meeting of the Guelph and Orangeville Presbyteries, which is being held in Toronto this week. It is understood, The Star & Vidette states, that Waldemar and Grand Valley are quite unanimous in favor of the change, but that there is a difference of opinion in South Luther, where a majority of the people object to any change being made in the present arrangement.

A Splendid Showing.

Mr. T. E. Langford, M.A., lately Principal of Arthur High School, is entitled to hearty congratulations upon the splendid showing which his school made at the last midsummer examinations. Of the eleven candidates who wrote on Part I. of the Normal Entrance all were successful. Eleven pupils wrote on Part II. Normal Entrance and ten of them were successful, and six obtained honours. Four of the six matriculation candidates passed, three of them with honours. One student wrote on Pharmacy matriculation and passed with honours. Three tried Part II. of the Faculty of Education exam., and two passed with honours. One of Mr. Langford's pupils, Percy McClellan, a son of Mr. John McClellan, of West Garafraxa, after a course of only 1½ years, took the Normal Entrance and full matriculation examination, with honours.

URIC ACID SUFFERING.

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones, in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Elliott has succeeded in picking up a choice lot and has a bunch of horses that will attract more than the usual amount of attention from horsemen and the general public. Speaking of Mr. Elliot's shipment The Farmers' Advocate says: "No man in the business has ever brought over in one shipment so many ton and over horses standing on such nice, clean, flat bone, such well-sprung ankles, such big, wide feet and that could handle their underpinning so nice and straight."

Action Dismissed.

Mr. Justice Kelly has dismissed an action brought by Miss Augusta Hewitt, of Toronto, against the Grand Orange Lodge of British North America to recover $1000 life insurance, which Miss Hewitt alleges was due under a policy held by her father, the late James Hewitt, of Orangeville. His Lordship suggested, however, that the Association should pay back with interest the premiums that had been received from Hewitt. Counsel for the Order stated that his clients were quite willing, and had always been willing to return these premiums. No costs were allowed to either party. The chief point at issue was whether or not Hewitt had been acquainted with a change of rule calling for an additional $2 fee annually and whether he was in default at the time of his death.

Upper Canada College.

It has been definitely decided to erect the new Upper Canada College at Norval. The new location there consists of 528.75 acres and was bought from three different parties. H. Reid the west half of lot 15, consisting of 102.7 acres. The property lies in concession 9 of the township of Esquesing, and through it the Credit River flows. The buildings will be erected on a high plateau overlooking the surrounding country, and will consist of the school itself as the central structure, and three residences for boys. There will be accommodation for at least two hundred, and the buildings will cost about $500,000.

The funeral of the late Henry Flesher will be held from his late residence, James St., to the Forest Lawn Cemetery at 2.30 p.m. on Friday. Service at the house at 2 o'clock.

CHRISTMAS NUMBER.

The Banner Will Issue Important Special Edition in December.

The Town of Orangeville has never been adequately written up from an industrial, commercial, financial, professional and educational point of view. The Town Council and Board of Trade have frequently discussed plans for advertising the town, but nothing definite has resulted. Believing that such a write-up would be advantageous in many ways, the publishers of The Banner have determined to issue a large Christmas Number of this journal, in which the varied interests of the town and community will be carefully written up by experts and illustrated with numerous engravings. This will be a heavy task, requiring weeks of work in addition to the heavy cost of printing a large issue on calendared paper. But we hope it will prove to be the most important newspaper accomplishment in the history of the town.

To do this special work will require the employment of extra help, and we have secured the services of capable helpers who are accustomed to this class of work. Ourselves, or our representatives, will shortly call upon every business and professional man in the town, and we ask as a special favor that every courtesy be shown those who would seek to procure the information upon which the articles for the paper will be written. We solicit the co-operation and assistance of all in our efforts to make this special number a credit to the town and community. There will, we expect, be several thousand copies of this special issue printed, in addition to the usual list for our subscribers and this should widely and beneficially advertise Orangeville from one end of the country to the other.

We expect to start work on this special number next week, so as to get it ready for distribution a week or two before Christmas.

A Night With Burns.

The programme provided for the Methodist Epworth Leaguers at their meeting on Monday night took the form of "A Night with Burns." The programme was arranged by the Literary Department of the Society and the leading feature was an interesting talk by Mr. G. E. Evans, of the High School staff, on the life of the Scottish poet. The Talk was illustrated by limelight views, which depicted scenes and incidents connected with Burns and his writings. His famous poem "The Cotter's Saturday Night" was freely illustrated in this way. The other numbers were a duet, "Flow Gently Sweet Afton" by Miss Sprae Lathwell and Mr. Don McPherson, a solo "Ye Banks and Braes" by Mr. A. G. MacGregor and a piano duet "The Coronation Medley" by Misses Myrtle and Ruth Shaw. Mr. R. P. Allin, the Convenor of the Literary Department, and the members of his Committee are deserving of much credit for furnishing such a profitable evening's entertainment.

FIELD DAY.

Orangeville High and Public Schools Hold Their Annual Games.

Elgin Barbour Won the Senior Championship.—Intermediate and Junior Honours Carried Off by Fred Golden and Oscar Hayes.

Elgin Barbour, a student from Erin township, won the senior championship at the Orangeville High and Public School field games last Wednesday afternoon. Barbour, who is a clever all-round athlete, was one of the chief contestants for intermediate honors a year ago. The intermediate championship was won by Fred Golden and the junior by Oscar Hayes, both students from the town. Most of the events were keenly contested and furnished excellent sport for the spectators. The boys and girls bicycle races were popular features and the same may be said of the Old Boys and Subscribers races. The jumping events were pulled off on the High School grounds in the forenoon and the remainder of the programme on Exhibition Park in the afternoon. The different events were well handled by a staff of competent officials. The championship events are marked (c) in the summary which follows:—

Hospital Notes

The Daughters of the Empire are grateful to the Blount Women's Institute for potatoes, apples, butter and chickens, sent to the Hospital during the past week, also to Mrs. Rayfield, of Camilla, for ten pounds of lard.

The Hospital nurses have during the past week been in demand for attendance on the sick, who were not able to receive treatment in the Hospital itself. This proves in another manner the necessity for the work being done in this institution.

To correct a misapprehension which might be caused by a slight typographical error in "The Sun" of last week, the balance on hand is $230, after paying for heating and balance on furnace. The error referred to might leave the impression that there is still a balance to pay on the furnace.

The Daughters of the Empire look forward to next week with confidence that the farmers and others will—now that the harvest is over and we are about to give a national thanksgiving—liberally respond to the call of ingathering week at Lord Dufferin Hospital. Your contribution can be used and will be most gratefully received. The work of the past year warrants the expectation that much produce will be required during the coming winter. Anything therefore you may leave with those in charge at Lord Dufferin Hospital will be more than welcome.

To Our Friends and Neighbors

You know us. You know we would not — that we could not afford to — go back on our word. Nor can you afford to ignore this money-back-if-not-satisfied offer on this splendid laxative.

We honestly believe we have the best bowel remedy ever made — the most pleasant-to-take, most permanently beneficial laxative for relief from the miseries and dangers arising from constipation.

We wouldn't say this if we didn't believe it to be true. We wouldn't risk our reputation by making such statements did we not feel sure you would find them true.

Our faith is built both on the knowledge of what Rexall Orderlies are made of and on observation of very many severe cases in which they have proven their merit.

Try them at Our Risk

If they do not abundantly prove their merit with you also — if you are not entirely satisfied with them — we will refund your money — and we will do that on your mere say-so. We don't ask you to risk a penny. Isn't that fair?

Just let the bowels fail in properly doing their work — just let their action be delayed and incomplete and the entire system and every other organ suffers. Wastes that should have been dispelled remain to poison the system.

Headaches, biliousness, nervousness and other tormenting and serious ills are common when the bowels fail to act daily as nature intended. All this may be avoided, if you will accept our advice.

Rexall Orderlies

taste just like candy. They are soothing and easy in action. They do not cause griping, nausea, purging or excessive looseness. They tend to tone and strengthen intestinal nerves and muscles. They promptly relieve constipation, and help to permanently overcome it.

Rexall Orderlies promote better spirits and better health. In all of these things they are vastly superior to old-fashioned, harsh salts and other purgatives, which are not only unpleasant to take but which usually leave the bowels in worse condition than before. We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, aged and delicate persons.

Rexall Orderlies come in vest-pocket tin boxes. 12 tablets, 10c; 36 tablets, 25c; 80 tablets, 50c.

CAUTION: Please bear in mind that Rexall Orderlies are not sold by all druggists. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at the Rexall Stores. You can buy Rexall Orderlies in this community only at our store:

DEATH OF DR. ARMSTRONG.

Dr. T. M. Armstrong, a former well known resident of Dufferin County, died recently at the residence of his son-in-law, J. A. Armstrong, M.P., at Lloydtown. Deceased was a son of the late Col. Arthur Armstrong, one of the pioneers of Shelburne in its early days. Dr. Armstrong practiced at Rosemont when he was the only practitioner in the county, north of Orangeville. After leaving Rosemont he practiced for several years in Alliston before moving to Toronto. In January, 1875, just after the formation of Dufferin County, there was a three-cornered fight for the representation of Dufferin in the Ontario legislature. The candidates were Maitland McCarthy, now the retired Judge of this county; the late Dr. T. M. Armstrong and the late Dr. J. Barr, of Shelburne. Dr. Barr won the election with a good majority. Dr. John Armstrong, now deceased, a brother of the late T. M. Armstrong, M.D., practiced medicine at Masonville many years ago. Dr. T. M. Armstrong was a Conservative in politics, a Freemason and a member of the Anglican Church. He is survived by his widow, three daughters and son, C. M. Armstrong, of Dunnville. His remains were brought from Lloydtown to St. James' church, Toronto, on Tuesday for interment.

PREPARING FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Forty-Eighth Annual Convention of Ontario Sunday School Association will be Held in Owen Sound October 28-30— Nearly 400 Delegates Expected.

Arrangements are under way for the entertainment of the four hundred delegates who will arrive in Owen Sound from different parts of Ontario, on October 28th to attend the Provincial Convention of Ontario Sunday School Association. The Convention will last three days, beginning on Oct. 29th and will be one of the greatest conventions ever held in Owen Sound. This year a dual convention is being held in Ottawa and Owen Sound with identical programmes. The meeting in Ottawa is being held on Oct. 22nd, 23rd, and 24th, and the meeting will be held in Division St. Church the next week, Oct. 28th, 29th and 30th.

Features of the Convention will be addresses by some of the most active and prominent Sunday School workers in the world. Mr. Marian Lawrence, of Chicago, Secretary of the International Sunday School Association, who is commonly known as the world's greatest Sunday School man, will be one of the speakers. Miss Hazel A. Lewis, of Cincinnati, O., Elementary Division Superintendent for the Disciples of Christ brotherhood, will also address the Convention and another speaker will be Mr. J. Shreve Durham, of Chicago, Ill., Supt. of the Home and Visitation Department of the International Sunday School Association. Mr. Durham has given many years to the supervision of visitation in larger and smaller places.

The music will be in charge of Profs. Excell and Roper, the "Music Wizard," two men of the sweetest spirit and most devout lives, giving their existence to the ministry of song. It was very difficult to secure these two men and it will be an exceptional privilege to hear them. Those who have heard them say "I never heard anything like it." Prof. Excell has written that he is sending 500 volumes of coronation hymns for use in the Convention here.

The Convention will be one of the greatest that has ever been held in Owen Sound and arrangements are being made by delegates from some of the cities in Western Canada to charter private cars for their transportation. Great enthusiasm is being shown in the Convention which promises to be one of the best ever held in Ontario.—Owen Sound Sun.

Wealth of Hair

PARISIAN SAGE IS THE PREPARATION THAT GROWS HAIR, STOPS DANDRUFF AND MAKES HAIR GLORIOUSLY RADIANT.

Money back says T. Stevenson if Parisian Sage does not eradicate all dandruff, stop splitting hair, falling hair and scalp itch, and put life and lustre into the dull faded hair of any man, woman or child.

Parisian Sage is pleasant and refreshing. No cheap perfumery odor, no disagreeable concoction, but a daintily perfumed tonic—one that is not sticky or greasy—that proves its goodness the first time you use it.

Baldness and faded hair are both caused by dandruff germs. Parisian Sage kills the germs and causes the hair to grow abundantly.

Large bottle at T. Stevenson's and druggists everywhere. Regular price 50c.

Herbert Robinson, of Hornby, burned on the arms and chest by the explosion of a lamp on September 25, is dead from lockjaw. His wife and seven small children survive.

RIDING THE BILLOWS.

A Few Pointed Suggestions For Ocean Travelers.

Do not interfere with the captain in the performance of his duties or offer suggestions in navigation based upon your own experience in running a catboat on Lake Mohonk. There are few captains now in the transatlantic service who have not crossed the ocean several times, and we know of none who has acquired his knowledge of the sea in a correspondence school.

If the lady with golden hair seated in the steamer chair next to yours inadvertently puts her head on your shoulder and groans do not rudely remove it, but whistle a soft lullaby, as if you did not notice the act. Bear in mind that two heads are better than one. The lullaby may put her to sleep, when her curls may be gently removed to her own sofa pillow. Should you desire to go below before she goes to sleep send the deck steward after her husband and ask him to remove them himself.

If in the midst of your dinner you feel a sudden emotional qualm arising within you rise with it as nearly simultaneously as possible and hasten from the saloon, taking care in your flight to stick to the aisles between the tables and not go leaping from table to table like a frightened antelope toward the exit. This latter course would cause considerable confusion in the dining room, and in your haste you might inadvertently trip over another passenger's welsh rabbit, which is not considered good form in polished circles either on the land or on the sea.

If on your way to the upper deck you find the staircases blocked by others hastening upward like yourself do not step upon them in your mad flight upward, but slide down the banisters to the lower deck, which you will find just as well adapted to your needs as the upper. Any deck is good in a qualm.—John Kendrick Bangs in Harper's Weekly.

POWER OF A WORD.

Why France Changed the Name of the "Life Saving Belt."

A vivid illustration of the power of mere words over human beings was once brought to the attention of French people by Francisque Sarcey.

After the wreck of the Bourgogne many passengers were found floating drowned with life preservers on. These life preservers were fastened upon the bodies, but round the middle instead of under the arms, and the greater weight of the upper part of the body had tipped the head under water and the person of course was inevitably drowned.

Now it appears that the greater number of the persons so drowned were French. The French term for life preserver is ceinture de sauvetage, or "life saving belt." This word ceinture suggests to the mind in its moments of disorder and unreadiness, such as a great catastrophe brings, the idea of putting on a belt, and as a belt is put round the waist and nowhere else the frightened person instinctively adjusts the life preserver close about the hips.

The result is that as soon as the person so provided falls into the water his body tips over, with the heavier part downward, and the head is plunged beneath the surface.

The word "belt," therefore, was the cause of the loss of many lives in the Bourgogne disaster. Sarcey accordingly proposed to counteract the fatal effect of the French word by renaming the article and calling it a brassiere, which is a kind of waist, and by bringing the word bras, or arm, to mind to teach people to put a life preserver on just underneath the arms.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Cooling of the Worlds.

All bodies in space are gradually approaching frigidity. When a redhot cannon ball is taken out of a furnace and suspended in the air it parts with its heat and keeps on parting with it until it finally reaches the temperature surrounding it. And what happens to the cannon ball is happening to the sun. The sun is steadily losing its heat and contracting, and the same is true of the planets and of every other body in space. Just as the arctic circle is ever encroaching upon the temperate and equatorial regions, so the final chill is steadily advancing upon the warmth everywhere.—New York American.

A Modest Poet.

There is a story told of a French poet who inquired of a friend and flatterer what he thought of his last work. "I have arrived at the fifteenth canto," he replied with enthusiasm, "and think there is nothing more beautiful and harmonious in the language."

"Pardon me, there is one thing," said the poet.

"Ah, perhaps you mean Chateaubriand's 'Atala?'"

"Certainly not! I mean my sixteenth canto."

Testing Her.

"How would you feel, Clarisse, if you and I were sailing down the stream of life together far away from here?"

"How far, George?"

"Oh, far, far away!"

"I'd be so terribly homesick for mother!"

And from that night this young man ceased his visits.—Judge's Library.

A Fruitful Time.

"Did Jack derive any fruit from the lecture?"

"Yes, sure he did. He met there a girl he knew and made a date with her, and she's a peach." — Baltimore American.

THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM.

Driven from the System by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The sufferer from rheumatism who has not gone about curing himself in the right way must expect a return of the torture with every change to cold or damp weather. It is not the change in the weather that causes the rheumatism, but it does start the aches and pains. Rheumatism is a deep-seated disorder of the blood. You cannot possibly cure it with outward applications or hot fomentations as so many people in their ignorance of the real cause of the trouble try to do.

Rheumatism can only be driven out of the system by driving out the poisonous acid in the blood. This can only be done by making the blood supply rich, red and pure. It is in this way that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism, even after other remedies have failed. These Pills make rich, red blood; they go right to the root of the trouble, and the pains and aches are driven from the system and will not return if the blood supply is kept pure. That is the whole secret of curing rheumatism, and if you are a sufferer begin to cure yourself today by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among the many sufferers from rheumatism who have been cured by this medicine is Miss Mary D. Kelly, South Dummer, Ont. Miss Kelly says: "Some time ago I had a very bad attack of rheumatism. At times I would be confined to bed for a couple of days and would seem almost paralysed with the intense pain in my back and legs. At such times I could not walk, and my joints were stiff and swollen. I consulted different doctors and took their medicine, but did not get more than temporary relief. At this time a neighbor advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got a supply. After taking a few boxes I found they were greatly helping me, and I continued their use until the trouble completely disappeared. I can strongly recommend this medicine to others who suffer as I did from the pangs and tortures of rheumatism."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Thanksgiving Day Manoeuvres

The officers of the 36th Peel Regiment are planning to hold Thanksgiving Day manoeuvres in or near Orangeville on Monday, Oct. 20th. The whole regiment may not take part, but those interested hope to have a complement of men—probably 200 altogether—from each of the companies. The day will be spent in field tactics, the manoeuvres concluding with a parade, headed by the regimental band from Shelburne. The scheme is a good one, not alone from the fact that it will tend to stimulate interest in the affairs of the Regiment in this district, but because it would lessen the force of the complaint that direction of the regiment is too much in the hands of city men. Orangeville has also the advantage of being a more convenient point for a large section of the regiment than any other company headquarters would be.

HORSES BURNED IN FIELD.

Pierre Phalen, of Proton township, lost a valuable team of horses in a peculiar manner. Mr. Phalen had been burning the black muck from a field he was clearing and was plowing in the adjoining field, when he noticed that the fence was on fire. He tied the horses, in order to try and save the fence. Shortly after he left them, the wind veered around and raised a heavy volume of smoke, completely shutting out his view of the horses. After pulling down the fence he returned to find that the horses had been frightened and run away, taking the plow with them. After running around the field a couple of times they ran into the burning ground and fell down, one on top of the other. By the time Mr. Phalen found and released them they were so badly burned that one died shortly after, and the other is likely to lose at least two of the hoofs, which will render it useless. The loss is quite a heavy one, as Mr. Phalen had been fitting them up to dispose of them, they being perfectly matched, and jet black. — Chronicle.

Girl's Nerves Fully Restored

Was Never Able to Obtain Lasting Benefit Until Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Was Used.

Too many girls grow up with weak, anaemic bodies and exhausted nervous systems. Indoor life and too much application in school are sometimes the cause.

The blood needs enriching and the nerves need strengthening by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This food cure is doing wonders for many thousands of girls whose parents had almost despaired of their ever developing into strong, healthy women.

Mrs. J. Bagnall, 295 Woodville avenue, Toronto, writes: "My daughter suffered from nervousness since childhood, and any medicines she tried did not do any lasting good. We read in the papers about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and my daughter used it with wonderful results. This treatment has built up her system and so strengthened the nerves that she feels like another girl."

THE BANNER

THE BANNER, OCTOBER 23, 1913.

OUR INDUSTRIAL NUMBER

This week work has begun on the preparation of our special Christmas, or Industrial, Number. The task before us is a heavy one, but we have undertaken it, believing that the result will be of immense benefit to the town and community. Though the work of interviewing the business men of the town has just commenced, we have been greatly encouraged by the approval with which our project has been received.

There is no doubt that this Industrial Edition of The Banner will fill a great need in this community, and as our representatives go about amongst the people they will see how comprehensive this special edition will be and how worthy it is of the united and unstinted support of public-spirited citizens.

Such a complete write-up of Orangeville has never before been attempted, and we feel satisfied that everybody will be pleased with the result. Let every reader of this paper be on the 'qui vive' for our Christmas Number, and prepare their friends for a pleasant surprise.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Time for Payment of Taxes Extended Until Oct. 31st.

During Tuesday night's meeting the Town Council decided to accept John M. Rowan's tender for the carpenter work and the contract of painting and decorating the Town Hall. Mr. Rowan's tender was for $1762. The contract of heating the building was let to the Adamson Hardware Co., for $340. Mr. Fred Manning will do the necessary cement work by day labor.

Payment of the following accounts was authorized:—Canada Foundry Co., $10.50; Northern Electric & Manfc. Co., $9.54; Oliver Carpenter, $5.44; George King, $20.40; W. O. Thomas, $20.23; Thos. Campbell, $9.86; S. A. McCartney, $3 and $9.-11; The Adamson Hardware Co., $28.15. Accounts from the Watrous Engine Works for $718.38 and $9.25 were referred to the F. & W. Committee for report.

A motion was passed extending the time during which the 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for the payment of taxes until Oct. 31st.

Mr. W. M. Green was appointed to the local Board of Health in the stead of the late Thos. Stevenson. The Industrial Committee reported on the request of the Frank M. Robinson Co., Ltd., of Toronto, for a loan to assist start a factory here. After referring to the statute which prohibits a corporation from granting financial inducements to an 'industrial concern in operation elsewhere, the Committee recommended that the company be offered free water and exemption from taxation so far as the law will allow.

The Baggage of the Duke.

The advance guard of the Duke of Connaught arrives by the 'Virginian' this week in the shape of two hundred and twenty-five pieces of baggage, all of which, according to ancient tradition, is passed without a murmur by the Customs officials as "settlers' effects," without as much as a lock being disturbed or a rope cut. Of these pieces, one hundred, consisting of the heavier pieces, containing household equipment and utensils, will travel by freight, but one hundred and twenty-five of the lighter cases will be transferred from the wharf at Montreal by motor truck to Windsor Street station, and will be shipped in a specially guarded C.P.R. baggage car on a passenger train to Ottawa. One piece of "baggage" will, however, have the honor of travelling all by itself. This is the Duke's automobile, a magnificent equipage, which will be driven up a gangway into the back end of a Dominion Express wagon—the type that is usually reserved for racehorses and pedigreed animals—so carefully constructed that there is the very minimum of vibration in transit.

The first arrival of the Duke of Connaught in Canada caused considerable perturbation in the breasts of the baggage men. They were instructed to take particular care of the two cases containing the Duke's medals and the Duchess' jewels, both totalling in value well over two million dollars. A soldier was detailed with a loaded gun to sit on the two cases, and deep was the breath of relief when the cases were safely delivered at Rideau Hall.

On this occasion, however, there is no such concern, for the jewels and medals have already been delivered at Ottawa, and are securely shut in the strong room of one of the banks pending the arrival of the Royal party.

The Sunny South.

M. A. Merritt's troupe of colored minstrels and entertainers held forth to capacity houses in the Dufferin Theatre on Monday night. The troupe gave a number of negro melodies, monologues and funny sketches, typical of the sunny south. They gave the house a whole carload of fun and their contribution to the entertainment of the crowd was greatly appreciated.

LIBERALS PICK MILNER

Brampton's Reeve will be Their Candidate at Coming Bye-Election.

Last Thursday's Convention in Brampton Well Attended.

The Liberals of the County of Peel held a Convention in Brampton last Thursday afternoon to select a candidate for the coming Provincial bye-election. There were about 135 delegates present and interested spectators brought the total attendance up to fully two hundred persons.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Ben Petch, Vice-President of the Peel Liberal Association, and amongst those present were J. J. Porter, reeve of Toronto Gore; ex-Reeve Rutherford, of Bolton; ex-Warden J. A. McBride, Belfountain; Mr. David Graham, Inglewood; Mr. E. G. Graham, Brampton, and Mr. F. G. Inwood, the Liberal organizer. Eight candidates were nominated as follows:—A. H. Milner, Brampton; A. Rutherford, Bolton; John Newhouse and W. J. Lowe, Snelgrove; Robert Smith, Bolton; H. W. Dawson, Brampton; E. A. Orr, Clarkson, and Wm. Algie, Alton. The other seven retired in favor of Mr. Milner, who was accordingly chosen by acclamation.

Mr. Milner, who was heartily applauded upon rising to accept the nomination, spoke briefly, but in a convincing manner upon the leading issues of the day. First thanking Convention for selecting him as a candidate, he proceeded to express himself as thoroughly in accord with the various planks in the Liberal platform. He pledged himself to do whatever he could to promote advanced temperance legislation, discussed educational matters at some length and assured his audience that if elected he would devote his energies to furthering the interests of the electors of Peel in every way. He urged the need for effort to further improve the existing party organization and expressed the conviction that if the Liberals would make a determined effort they would succeed in carrying the county.

Mr. J. C. Elliott, M.P.P. for Middlesex, spoke at some length on general Provincial issues.

Mr. Milner is reeve of Brampton and has a successful municipal record behind him. The candidate is a brother of Mr. W. E. Milner who opposed Richard Blain for the Federal House some years ago.

FALLIS NOMINATED.

Peel Conservatives Select a Candidate for County Bye-Election.

Choice Was Made on First Ballot.

Peel County Conservatives met in Convention in Brampton on Saturday to select a candidate to contest the riding in the bye-election caused by the resignation of Mr. S. Charters, the late member in the Legislature. The choice fell upon Mr. James R. Fallis, a Brampton cattle dealer, who is not only widely known in the riding, but throughout Western Ontario.

There were about 160 delegates present and the Convention is described as having been decidedly enthusiastic. Mr. Geo. Downey, of Castledery, President of the Association, occupied the chair. In his opening address the President expressed regret at the resignation of Mr. Charters and praised him for his usefulness as the representative of the County in the Legislature.

When nominations were called for the following names were proposed:—Reuben Lush, Reeve of Toronto Township; Darius McClure, of Huttonville; Thomas Hanna, of Mono Road; W. A. Hamilton, of Snelgrove; Robert McCullough, of Snelgrove; Frank Jackson, of Meadowvale; L. Pallet, of Dixie; Dr. Graham, of Sandhill; B. F. Justin, K. C., of Brampton; W. S. Morphy, of Brampton; W. J. Limebeer, Reeve of Caledon; J. J. Donaghy, Deputy-Registrar of Peel; J. J. Fallis, of Brampton, and Thomas W. Duggan, Mayor of Brampton.

All withdrew except Frank Jackson, James R. Fallis, B. F. Justin and Thomas Duggan, and on the first ballot James R. Fallis secured the nomination. Mr. Jackson then moved, seconded by Mr. Justin, that Mr. Fallis be the candidate to contest the riding, which was unanimously carried.

In thanking the Convention for the nomination, Mr. Fallis expressed pleasure at the goodwill and unanimity of spirit that had characterized the meeting and expressed the opinion that the lack of discord would be disappointing to the Liberals, who had been hoping for a split in the ranks of the Conservatives. Mr. Charters spoke at some length thanking his friends and the party for their support during the last eight years.

Mr. Fallis has been secretary of the Peel Conservative Association for the last ten years. He is generally regarded as a strong and capable candidate.

Opposed to Change.

Rev. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, and Rev. J. R. Bell, of Laurel, drove over to Luther township on Tuesday to interview the congregations of Metz and South Luther relative to the proposed rearrangement of the charges in that part of the Presbytery. The committee met representatives of the two congregations and found them strongly opposed to any interference with the existing arrangement. Their opposition will probably mean that the suggested rearrangement will not be proceeded with.

LIFE'S SUNSHINE

Gladdens Those Who Regain New Health and Strength.

When the glow of health comes back to sallow cheeks; when languid weakness gives place to vigor; when you notice some pale, exhausted invalid restored to active health—enquire. More than likely you will find the cure to have been yet another of the thousands already wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Headache and neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance and twitching of the limbs, indigestion and rheumatism, eczema and disfiguring eruptions, and the ailments of growing girls and women all disappear when the veins are filled with the new, rich, red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. Here is one instance among thousands; Mr. F. Ashford, Haileybury, Ont., says: "Some years ago I completed a lengthy term of service in India, the last three years being spent in the beautiful but treacherous Peshawar Valley. Ague and dengue fever were rife, and although I was fortunate enough to escape a severe attack of either, on my return home it soon became apparent that the enervating climatic conditions had left their ravages on my constitution. In short the reaction had set in, and inexorable nature was exacting a severe toll from years of strenuous labor. My first warning of the impending breakdown was severe pains in the back of the head and eyes, insomnia, irritability, a general anaemic condition and an indefinable nervousness. Life had lost its zest, work became impossible and companionship intolerable. It really seemed that I was swiftly passing to that stage where nervousness ends and insanity begins, when by chance I read an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I confess I was skeptical of them doing what doctors had failed to do, but concluded that the cost was small, and, perhaps, the chance in their favor, and so decided to try them. To my joy there was soon an improvement, and a continuance of the treatment effected a complete cure. I was now as fit and as healthy as any man and am ever grateful that the lucky perusal of an advertisement brought to my notice the wonderful curative properties of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Use the 'Phone.

Hon. James Duff, the Minister of Agriculture in the Whitney Government, is the possessor of a very high-pitched voice, says Saturday Night. His office in the Parliament Buildings at Queen's Park is on the ground floor, while that occupied by Sir James is on the first floor, some distance away. A few days ago Mr. Duff was talking over the long-distance telephone to Mrs. Duff, who was in Cookstown. The high pitched voice was in full blast—in fact, Mr. Duff's conversation with his better half was plainly audible all over the building. The windows of Premier Whitney's room were open, and hearing the noise, he sent his secretary, Horace Wallis, to investigate where it came from. Mr. Wallis returned shortly and said apologetically: "It is Mr. Duff speaking to his wife in Cookstown." "Go back and tell him to use the telephone," was the terse rejoinder of the Czar of Queen's Park.

A NEW PASTOR.

Rev. A. E. de St. Dalmas Takes Charge of the Baptist Church Here.

Rev. A. E. de St. Dalmas, who has come to Orangeville to become pastor of the Baptist Church, preached his inaugural sermons to appreciative congregations last Sunday. Mr. St. Dalmas has just concluded a successful four year's pastorate in Sparta, Ont., and has held a number of successful pastorates in Ontario. The new pastor is a gentleman of scholarly attainments and has made a reputation as a lecturer and author. He has lectured at different places throughout the province and his addresses have always been the subject of very favorable comment from press and public men. He is the author of an interesting book entitled "Canada and the Empire" which was published by special request of the United Empire Loyalists. The work, as published, contains an introduction by Chancellor Wallace, of McMaster University, and was the subject of commendatory letters from such eminent men as Hon. G. W. Ross and Lieut.-Col. Dennison.

The Baptist people are fortunate to secure a pastor of Mr. St. Dalmas' ripe experience and attainments. The new pastor has taken up his residence on the corner of First and Zina Sts.

BAGGAGE SMASHING.

In Russia Customs Officials Make It a Maddening Reality.

In the Railway Magazine Robert Weatherburn flays the Russian customs officers for the manner in which they abuse passengers' baggage in their ransacking examination. Describing his arrival at St. Petersburg, Mr. Weatherburn says:

"Amid vociferations and hoarse shouting we at length moored alongside the quay of Washili Ostroff (one of the islands on which St. Petersburg is built). The babel of tongues in various languages had almost a bewildering effect. From this I was aroused by the customs officials, who, seizing my trunks and boxes and demanding my passport, led me to their superior. The examination was pretty 'stiff,' and it included the smelling and tasting by a lot of dirty handed persons of certain jars of preserves and plum cakes which I had taken in my baggage, and it was not exactly amusing to see the hasty and indiscriminate manner adopted in repacking those innocent articles.

"Heavy boots and plum cakes, preserves, writing paper and ink, well ironed white shirts and collars, neckties crammed into coat sleeves—all that had taken weeks to carefully pack and stow away—were thrown in a mass in a box or trunk, the gaping lids of which, failing to reach the lock by some inches, seemed to remain open mouthed in silent protest against such ill usage.

"Afterward the dirty hands were held out for 'natchl,' or tea money, an institution of which I knew more. The quarreling of the isvostchiks, or cabmen, who, like sharks, had already scented their prey, would at any other time have been intensely comical.

"After some trouble I succeeded in getting the lids of my boxes closed, but not until plum cake and boot heels, burst preserves, white shirts, ink, castor oil and pills were all commingled in one glorious state of demurrency. Half an hour later found me in the English hotel, where, after recounting my troubles, I was laughed at, the experience being of nearly everyday occurrence."

PLATINIZED GLASS.

Produces an Odd and a Tricky Kind of Mirror.

Platinized glass consists of a piece of glass coated with an exceedingly thin layer of a liquid charged with platinum and then raised to a red heat. The platinum becomes united to the glass in such a way as to form an odd kind of mirror.

The glass has not really lost its transparency, and yet if one places it against a wall and looks at it he sees its image as in an ordinary looking glass. But when light is allowed to come through the glass from the other side, as when it is placed in a window, it appears perfectly transparent, like ordinary glass.

By constructing a window of platinized glass one could stand close behind the panes in an unilluminated room and behold clearly everything going on outside, while passersby looking at the window would behold only a fine mirror or set of mirrors in which their own figures would be reflected while the person inside remained invisible.

In France various tricks have been contrived with the aid of this glass. In one a person seeing what appears to be an ordinary mirror approaches it to gaze upon himself. A sudden change in the mechanism sends light through the glass from the back, whereupon it instantly becomes transparent, and the startled spectator finds himself confronted by some grotesque figure that had been hidden behind the glass.—Harper's Weekly.

ORIGIN OF LLOYD'S.

Humble Beginning of Europe's Great Maritime Agency.

Two centuries ago a man who had a cargo to send to the Mediterranean contrived to get rid of some of the risk by inducing a friend to take an interest with him. It was necessary to write out a statement of contract to which the guarantors subscribed. This was the first underwriting. These two men happened to be frequenters of Lloyd's coffee house in London, which was a favorite place for the merchants of the town to gather to discuss business or to gossip.

Others immediately saw the advantage of the scheme which their colleagues had devised, and on the next voyage the risk was parceled out among a larger number of the patrons of the coffee house.

Out of this small beginning has grown the great European maritime agency, still bearing the name of the humble coffee house proprietor, and which not only writes risks on vessels, but rates them and publishes their arrivals at every port the world over, no matter how small or how remotely situated.—"Annals of the American Academy."

Where Abraham Fished.

Mrs. Victoria de Bunsen in "The Soul of a Turk" relates a legend concerning Abraham which will be new to many readers. She learned of it while at Edessa, the traditional Ur of the Chaldees. She was shown there a large oblong tank of water so filled with fishes resting just below the surface of the water that their fins and backs seemed almost wedged together so as to form "an almost solid layer of silvery life."

"The guardian of the mosque throws some meal into the water, and the fish jump high to catch it, a great living pyramid, of which those which jump the highest form the pinnacle. The tradition is that Abraham as a child fished in the tank; hence the fish were considered sacred. No single one has been caught or killed to this day. Indeed, death would overtake the man who transgressed this law."

Protection From Lightning.

Sir Oliver Lodge stated that the problem of securing protection from lightning consisted in finding the best method of dissipating the enormous energy of the flash, but that it was not wise to get rid of the energy too quickly. A thin iron wire is considered the best lightning conductor from the electrical point of view, but it is almost impossible to protect a building from lightning unless it is completely enveloped in a metal cage. It is by no means true that a building is safe when provided with a conductor reaching up to the highest part of the building.

The Origin of Grocer.

Grocer appears in Holinshed's Chronicle, 1580, as "grosser," and in other mediaeval records it is sometimes written "engrosser" and was applied to the spicers and pepperers who were wholesale dealers in various spices—that is, who dealt en gros—in large quantities, as distinguished from "regrators," who were retail dealers. The Grocers' company first adopted the word grocer in 1373, when the spicers and pepperers allied themselves into a single corporation.—London Express.

Agreed With Her.

Tramp (at the door)—If you please, lady— Mrs. Muggs (sternly)—There, that will do. I am tired of this everlasting whine of "Lady, lady." I am just a plain woman, and— Tramp—You are, madam, one of the plainest women I've ever seen an' one of the bonestest to own up to it.

Cruel.

Mrs. Benham—Every time I sing to the baby he cries. Benham—He gets his ability as a musical critic from my side of the house.—New York Press.

WARNING TO GIRLS.

The following warning to girls, issued by the National Vigilance Association of Scotland, is worthy of the serious attention of young girls in Canada going from home, especially from country sections to the great cities.

Owing to the thousands of innocent girls being led into great danger each year through ignorance, we would warn you :—

1. Never speak to strangers, either men or women, in the street, in shops, in stations, in trains, in lonely country roads, or in places of amusement.

2. Never ask the way of any but officials on duty, such as policemen, railway officials or postmen.

3. Never loiter or stand about alone in the street, and if accosted by a stranger (whether man or woman) walk towards the nearest policeman.

4. Never consent to accompany a woman home who apparently faints in the street, but call a policeman, and leave the case to him.

5. Never accept a lift offered by a stranger, in a motor, or taxi-cab, or vehicle of any description.

6. Never go to an address given by a stranger, or enter any house, restaurant, or place of amusement on the invitation of a stranger.

7. Never go with a stranger (however dressed) who brings a story of your friends having suffered from accident or being suddenly taken ill, as this is a common device to kidnap girls.

8. Never accept sweets, food or drink offered by a stranger.

9. Never take a situation away from home and especially abroad, without first making strict inquiries.

10. Never go to any town, for even one night, without knowing of some safe lodging.

11. Never change your residence without first applying for information and advice to some person whom you can trust, such as your own minister.

IT NEEDED IT.

An acquaintance of ours has a little 3 year old girl who is prone to be mischievous. The other day she got a bottle of vaseline and rubbed the greasy stuff over everything at hand, including the bed spread, her own clothing and hair, etc. After this delightful occupation had been going on for some time her mother discovered her and proceeded to administer corporal punishment until the epidermis of her rear anatomy resembled the facial tinge of a broody hen. Then she said :

"There now, will you do it again? I feel like rubbing it all over you."

The little girl, in the midst of a downpour from the blue eyes, wailed: "It looks as though it needed it!"

The Northern Navigation Company, of Collingwood, are making preparations and advertising for tenders to add 60 feet to the steamer Huronic. The addition to the steamer's length will be made by cutting her amidships and building in a 60 foot section. It will have to be done in a dry dock. The steamer's present length is 325 feet.

Angus McLachlan, of Holstein, had a close call at the C.P.R. depot, in Dundalk, on Fair night. He was standing on the platform waiting to take the northbound train for home. In the crowd he did not realize how close he was to the track, and, when the train approached, he was struck by a projecting part of the engine and knocked down. The wheels ran over the toes of both his feet. He was able to walk on to the train, but, we understand, his toes were badly crushed.

Microbes in Your Scalp

Authorities say that a microbe causes baldness. If you are losing hair try our remedy at our risk.

Professor Unna, of Germany, and Dr. Sabouraud, the great French Dermatologist, claim that a microbe causes baldness, and their theory has been verified by eminent scientists. This microbe destroys the hair follicles, in time causing the scalp pores to close and the scalp to become shiny. Then, it is believed nothing will revive the growth. If treated before this occurs, baldness may be overcome.

We know of nothing that has given such universal satisfaction in treating the scalp and hair as Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. It has been designed after long study to overcome the cause of falling hair as discovered by Prof. Unna, Dr. Sabouraud and other scalp and hair specialists, and we believe it will do more than anything else can to remove dandruff and stop falling hair; and if any human agency can promote a new growth of hair it will do that, too.

We want you to make us prove it. We will pay for a month's treatment of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic used during a trial, if you will use it according to directions, and are not thoroughly satisfied. When we will do this, you surely should not hesitate to at least try it.

Start the treatment today. Your mere request will get your money back if you want it. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00.

You can buy Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store:

A MESSAGE FROM A WOMAN TO WOMEN

"Every Woman Should Take "Fruit-a-tives"

LAKELET, ONT., MAY 12th. 1911

"Kindly publish this letter of mine if you think it will benefit other women who might be afflicted with the diseases I have had in the past, but am now, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives", completely cured of. It is my firm belief that every woman should take "Fruit-a-tives" if she wants to keep herself in good health.

Before taking "Fruit-a-tives", I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as "Nerves" or severe Nervousness. This Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking doctors' medicine without any permanent relief. Constipation was also a source of great trouble to me and for which the Doctors said "I would have to take medicine all my life", but "Fruit-a-tives" banished all these troubles and now I am a well woman"

FLOWER GARDENS.

Delightful Article by One of the Judges in the Pearson Contest.

Miss L. Ida Alderson, one of the judges in the James Pearson Flower Garden Contest, referred to in last week's Banner, had the following delightful article in a recent issue of the Farmers' Advocate:

Yes, we have had that most delightful trip through Peel County again, and found the gardens remarkably fresh and attractive, for all it has been a very dry season.

Mr. Pearson, a fine type of lawyer—a fine type of man, and a man of affairs, being President of the Construction and Paving Co., also of the Atwood Co., manufacturers of Portland cement, and interested in industrial affairs of the country,—is to be highly commended for the flower garden competition, for it not only means financing the tours, but the time he gives to them.

Mr. James Pearson was born in Carleton Co., Ont., in a log cabin with scooped roof; his father, a man from Glengarry. You would enjoy a talk with this same gentleman, for besides being well versed in the burning topics of the day, political and otherwise, his reminiscences of his boyhood days and how he got along, are better than a book. The "how he made his way" with little help is told in all modesty, if you can but get him going.

A great factor in his early life was a father who, though he had no opportunities for education, was a reader, and what is better yet, a thinker. Just here is a "tip," to think and be ready to listen to the other person's point of view, is to go a long way on the road to success.

This father, as Mr. Pearson put it, "used to read aloud to the kids, and brought home books and pictures of scenes at home and abroad," which left so vivid an imprint that many places are almost as real as if actually visited.

"I had no particular memory," said Mr. Pearson, "but reasoned out things," this method serving good in his law and other enterprises.

In teaching school he did not treat the pupil's mind "as a vessel to pour into" but endeavored rather to "lead the mind out."

"Father encouraged us, seven brothers and three sisters, to go to parties." "James" was sometimes escort and other times chaperon—for sisters had plenty of beaux. Mother had the best vegetable garden around and paid the children for weeding, for these boys and girls were encouraged to have their own money. Father let them have prize money—all an incentive to take real interest.

But this was to be about the gardens. From a remark of Mrs. David Potter's last year, we gleaned she would be willing to be a judge this year. Do you see what this means? Well, one could not very well be a judge and be in the contest too, so you see she has been most magnanimous, for no other garden in Peel County that we have ever seen could claim first prize over hers. Besides the beauty of it all last year, and though not in the contest this year, Mrs. Potter has added beauty by leaps and bounds, by extending a bed in front and adding more flowers in great profusion to what were already there, at the back and on the sides, to say nothing of the new gateway and arches. We are fortunate to have so able a judge.

Owing to already existing conditions here and elsewhere, it is but fair that the decision has been to have a rule that no one can hold first prize longer than two consecutive years.

No end of praise is due each garden maker, for one but needs carry only three pails of water to know what it means to carry pail after pail for continuous days.

Generally it can be told who are lovers of gardens by the approach, so we were a little prepared for what awaited us by the attractive view from the road of the Misses Morrison's (new competitors, Sandhill) home, the proud winners of the first prize. A charming expanse of lawn; a flaming, solid geranium circle, edged with green; a spreading tree with inviting seats from which one has a view of all—this view consisted of still another place for rest in the corner there beneath tall spreading trees, a bench, some seats, a table, just ideal for a happy meal, flowers in plenty over there, choice foliage on the gallery here.

Yet not all, for like every true garden there is still more, as one wanders on around the house, where, at the back, the bell calls all to dine.

Some delicious cake and dandelion wine—the happy possessor of a lovely bouquet—we must needs speed away from a most delightful atmosphere. But ere I go, let me whisper in your ear: For attractive young women! What would you expect? Romance in plenty, surely!

A castle! A castle! Oh, take us in Take us in! Our expectations were more than realized, for an exquisite piece of architecture, it is—"The Grange"—and so we wandered to the side, in search of "some one home," quite unexpectedly a perfect miniature was framed by an aperture in the tower. It spoke kind words of greeting and welcome, and soon we were roaming through the halls and tower-rooms, and never came from out the past, till we had climbed the tallest tower revealing a spacious view and come to earth again. How pleased we were to learn that our kin, in days gone by, had tripped about here, too.

We were glad this year to award second prize to Miss Margaret P. Kirkwood, Terra Cotta. Do you call to mind the place last year, with lovely grape arbor over the door and "the neatest yard about the barn," of which the father is justly proud? Well, that is the place. Miss Kirkwood has worked faithfully against difficulties of location for her flowers. Besides this she has introduced several very choice specimens of old, some new species of flowers.

Norval Station is the home of the Misses Fuller, who fell heir to the third prize. At one time this had been a fruit garden, thus some of the trees remain and lend a charm of their own. Adown the lane is a honey locust hedge. Within the pale, full length on either side are flowers, which extended on into a rear garden.

You know how the chicks and turkeys love to be in the garden! Well, here they have one all their own, for through a gate from the main garden is a road bed guarded by chicken wire, some lawn and still another, to the right. Some eighty turkeys gobbled and "wee-weed," strutted and minced, and numerous chickens "all dressed in white" conclaved. Beside the old smoke-house were stately bunches of Golden Glow. Here the original homestead of seventy years has been retained for rooms at the back, with its southern touch of running veranda in two directions, festooned with vines, and within, choice giant species of begonia. And listen! Two more attractive maids! Romance, surely.

Oh, how we flew! But there; three women in a "rig," scared to death! The motor stops. While the chauffeur holds our horse by the bit, Mr. Pearson reaches theirs and holds the fiery steed, while we go carefully by. We are all so glad it is over! But what did that chauffeur say? "That horse wouldn't run into a good feed." Fie, Mr. Chauffeur!

Maybe you do not know Mrs. McCulloch as "Aunt Jane," but Mrs. Pearson knew her at once as that, for is she not exactly like her Aunt Jane? We would have liked to have given a prize here, for it was a charming spot. From within a grape vine bedecked bower, one looks upon a vista of graceful elms and flower-edged walk. Here, too, was the old log house, which stands to the right of the lane, all lovely in its festoon of grape and sheltered by grand elms.

Mr. McCulloch takes pride, with his wife, in the appearance of the place, which is to be commended.

At Mrs. Robert J. Cranston's, Caledon East, is a not-to-be-equalled line of Norway spruce, a grove within this shadow and a soft fence of cedar. This place was cleared some sixty-five years ago, and pride was taken in it from the beginning or it never could have been what it is today. Nor could Mr. Cranston, the elder, be the fine-appearing man of seventy-five or more had he not taken the same pride in himself—for refinement and laws of rectitude are stronely stamped upon his features.

Do you know that people who are lovers of flowers and shrub are lovable people?

How we would have liked to give all a prize, for there was so much that is deserving. There were Miss A. L. Wharren's, Mrs. McLean's, Miss Mona Kary's and Miss M. L. Potter's, all with their beautiful gardens, but, alas, there are but three prizes.

While some gardens were not improved there seemed to be an added interest.

What perfect days! What a congenial party! What a perfect trip, barring what is technically known as a "blow-out" or so. It was during the repair of one of these that we sat upon a bank.

"Skinning" up the road came a fair-sized dog. Chic, our mascot, who 'did the trip' with us last year, was all alertness at once. He surveyed the situation. On comes the enemy! He is here!

A bold front puts up Mr. Chic. "Bah," says he to himself. "Bow-wow!" says he aloud with a dive.

"Right about face, quick march for me," says Mr. Enemy.

That streak down the road. Just those two dogs—one in full pursuit. "Not worth botherin' about," said Chic, for after a bit he came back. Not because he can't fight, for, small as he is, he is good and plucky.

Now we're off for Miss Potter's. Supper awaits us at Miss M. L. Potter's:—the two farms join, for in the older days four brothers settled side by side, one hundred acres each, I think. "Granpa" is the last and most lovable, as is Grandma too. He is an old Irish gentleman in his eighties. Don't tell, but 'tis true, we were so glad to see him again that I kissed him on one cheek and Mrs. Pearson on the other; it was on the back veranda and no one else there.

The Misses Potter deserve great credit for their garden, for, besides this, they have the flowers that have become the mellow fruit, to care for, grandma and grandpa Potter, lovely beyond expression.

After tea on the sofa sat grandpa, all sunshine, Mrs. Pearson on one side, I on the other. In a burst of enthusiasm for I love old people, I said "Aren't you lovely grandpa?" With a steady look, snapping eyes and beaming face; and quick as a flash, he replied, "Yes, I am." I wish you could have seen him.

'Twas in the dark we sped along for our nest upon the foot hill—the Pearson log cabin, Mr. Pearson's summer cottage. O, those hills! To us in the back seat it seemed at times there was no road, just a leap into a great abyss, but Mr. Pearson and his chauffeur are careful men, or we would have cause to fear.

The next day! was what my host termed "a leaky day," good for the country, but not so good for us had our tour not been finished.

And say, here is another secret, Inglewood is a fine place to get "tanked-up" with gasoline.

FUN IN THE HOME

Make Life There Joyous and Bar Out Business Worries.

Whatever your lot in life, keep joy with you, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine. It is a great healer. Sorrow, worry, jealousy, envy, bad temper, create friction and grind away the delicate human machinery so that the brain loses its cunning.

Half the misery in the world would be avoided if the people would make a business of having plenty of fun at home instead of running everywhere else in search of it.

"Now For Rest and Fun." "No Business Troubles Allowed Here." These are good home building mottoes.

When you have had a perplexing day, when things have gone wrong with you and you go home at night exhausted, discouraged, blue, instead of making your home miserable by going over your troubles and trials just bury them. Instead of dragging them home and making yourself and your family unhappy with them and spoiling the whole evening, just lock everything that is disagreeable in your office.

Just resolve that your home shall be a place for bright pictures and pleasant memories, kindly feelings toward everybody and "a corking good time" generally. If you do this you will be surprised to see how your vocation or business wrinkles will be ironed out in the morning and how the crooked things will be straightened.

THE COTTON GIN.

Whitney Got the Idea From the Work of an Old Negro.

Eli Whitney, the inventor of the cotton gin, got the germ of his great idea from seeing through the interstices of a hut an old negro work a hand saw among the freshly picked cotton stored within.

The teeth of the saw tore the lint from the seed easily and quickly, and young Whitney (he was barely thirteen at the time) realized at once that a machine working a number of similar saws simultaneously would revolutionize the cotton growing industry.

He said nothing to anybody, but set to work building models and experimenting. His difficulties were enormous, for he not only had to make his own wheels, cogs, etc., but he had also first to forge his own tools and even to manufacture the paint wherewith to color his many plans and drawings.

But he succeeded in the end, and, though the outbreak of war and other hindrances prevented the invention from being actually placed upon the market until many years afterward, the first complete cotton gin ever constructed was built from those very models and plans and with scarcely a single alteration.

The Springbok.

A peculiarity of that most beautiful of South African antelopes the springbok is that it always leaps over human tracks. It is at once exceedingly shy and marvelously active, and the reason for this strange antic is its intense suspicion of any possible enemies, among whom it has come to recognize man as the most dangerous. It is not only with human tracks that the springbok goes through this performance, for it does the same with the tracks of lions or even when it gets wind of a lion. The leap is exceedingly graceful, and the animal covers from twelve to fifteen feet at each bound. It drops on all four feet at once and immediately rises again, making a clear spring without any run. Its usual gait when not pursued is a light springy trot. The springbok usually travels with its nose to the ground, as if constantly on the lookout for the scent of enemies.

A Mole's Nest.

Among common animals few have been less studied in their life history than the mole. Mr. Lionel E. Adams says that under the "fortress" which the mole constructs above the surface of the ground will always be found a series of tunnels running out beneath the adjacent field. A curious feature almost invariably found is a perpendicular run penetrating about a foot below the bottom of the nest and then turning upward to meet another run. A mole is never found in his nest, although it may yet be warm from his body when opened. Guided by smell and hearing, a mole frequently locates the nest of a partridge or pheasant above his run and, penetrating it from below, eats the eggs. The adult mole is practically blind, but there are embryonic indications that the power of sight in the race has deteriorated.

A Japanese Peculiarity.

"When a Japanese servant is rebuked or scolded," says a traveler, "he must smile like a Cheshire cat. The etiquette in smiles is very misleading at first. I often used to think that Taki, my riksha 'boy,' meant to be impertinent when he insisted on smiling when I was angry at him. But when he told me of the death of his little child with a burst of laughter I knew that this was only one of the curious details of etiquette in this topsy turvy land."

One Definition.

"Papa," asked a little boy, "what is a legal blank?"

"A legal blank, Johnny," replied his father, "is a lawyer who never gets a case."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Useless Question.

"They have named the baby after Uncle Belshazzar."

"Has Uncle Belshazzar money?"

"Do you suppose they liked the name?"—Pittsburg Post.

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years

Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why.

Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me."

Mr. Wm. Goodfellow, formerly of Laurel, and Miss Mary Jones, of Moose Jaw, Sask., were united in marriage in the Salvation Army Citadel in Moose Jaw on September 15th last. The marriage ceremony was performed by Major Maclean, of Winnipeg, the march being played by Miss Lillian Walker. The bride was attended by Miss Lillian Wright and the groom was supported by Mr. Archie Brown. After the service Moose Jaw Silver Band played the wedding march. The happy couple were the recipients of many useful wedding presents. They will take up their residence in Moose Jaw, where Mr. Goodfellow has a good position with the Eaton Co., furriers and will be pleased to have their eastern friends call on them at their home, 56 Ninth Ave.

Mrs. A. M. Tyson and daughter, Mrs. (Capt.) J. V. Crawford, of Wiarton, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jos. J. Kelly, Zina St.

Marr-Falconer.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Falconer, of Hillsburg, on Tuesday, Oct. 14th, the marriage of their daughter, Nina May, to Mr. William Patterson Marr was solemnized by the Rev. R. S. Scott, assisted by Rev. D. Wallace Christie, of Toronto. The bride was unattended and wore a becoming gown of cream charmeuse satin and the groom's gift a topaz ring. Miss Isabel A. McBrien, of Toronto, played the wedding march and during the signing of the register Mr. Fred Falconer, of Orangeville, brother of the bride, sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden." After the wedding dejeuner Mr. and Mrs. Marr left on the evening train for their future home in Toronto, the bride travelling in a suit of purple silk velvet with hat to match. There were guests present from Buffalo, Toronto, Orangeville and Guelph. The bride received some very handsome presents, including a number of cheques.

Pattullo-Edmonds.

Wesley Methodist church was the scene of a pretty wedding at high noon yesterday, when Miss Jessie H. Edmonds, youngest daughter of Mrs. John Edmonds, McKay avenue, became the bride of Mr. James A. Pattullo—Rev. G. D. Armstrong officiating.

The bride wore soft white satin with shadow lace and pearl trimmings. A long tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms.

Miss Clara B. Pattullo, sister of the groom, who was the bridesmaid, was frocked in pink jacquard silk garnitures.

The groomsman was Mr. F. R. H. McKittrick, of the Bulletin staff, a high school mate of the groom's. A reception followed the wedding at the home of the bride's mother. Here the happy young couple were showered with best wishes.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome presents. The groom's gift to her was a cameo pendant.

The bridesmaid's gift was a pendant of peridot and pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. Pattullo left on the afternoon train for Vancouver, Victoria and Tacoma. On their return from their wedding tour they will reside in Edmonton. Edmonton Bulletin.

Mr. Pattullo, who attended High School here a number of years ago, is a nephew of Police Magistrate Pattullo.

Illustrated Travel Talk.

Miss Jean Lamont gave an interesting illustrated Travel Talk in the school room of St. Andrew's church on Tuesday night. A reflectroscope was used to show the views, which were obtained by Miss Lamont during her recent trip to Zurich, Switzerland, for the purpose of attending the World's S. S. Convention. The views of Alpine scenery and Rome, Venice and other cities were specially good. At the close of her address Miss Lamont was tendered a very hearty vote of thanks. The Talk was given under the auspices of the Philathea B. C. Class, whose members provided a delightful musical programme. The numbers were a solo by Miss Beatrice Harshaw, a piano solo by Miss Edna Keith, a solo by Mr. J. E. Jessop and a piano duet by Misses Donaldson and Patterson. Miss Strang, of the High School staff, occupied the chair. The reflectroscope, which was provided by the High School, was operated by Mr. R. P. Allin, of the H. S. staff.

Henry Flesher

Orangeville lost an old citizen last week in the person of Mr. Henry Flesher, whose death took place at his residence on James St. on Wednesday afternoon following a brief illness. Death was caused by blood poisoning resulting from a sliver penetrating into one of his thumbs back of the nail. The injury was regarded as a trifling matter until Thursday night preceding his death, when the hand commenced to swell. The late Mr. Flesher, who was about 60 years of age, was born in Hull, Eng. His parents sailed for Canada when he was about 3 years old, but were both taken ill and died during the voyage across the Atlantic. Deceased came to Orangeville 45 years ago and 40 years ago was married to Miss Flora McLean, a daughter of the late Hugh McLean, of Amaranth. His widow and a family of two sons and a daughter survive. The sons, William H., and John, are both in Toronto. The daughter, Miss Margaret, resides at home. These have the sympathy of the whole community in their sudden bereavement. The funeral was held to the Forest Lawn cemetery last Friday afternoon, Rev. G. W. Robinson conducting the services. The late Mr. Flesher was a member of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends and the pallbearers were members of that Society. They were Messrs. W. H. Lambe, Jas. A. Arnott, M. H. Shaw, John J. Laverty, John Bowers and Jas. A. Patterson. A number of beautiful floral offerings bore silent but impressive testimony to the sorrow and esteem of friends. Among these was noticed a crescent from the C.O.C.F., a spray from the Epworth League, spray from the Cutters Association of Toronto, a wreath from the Ferguson family, Toronto, a wreath from Miss Pollard, Toronto, a pillow from the family and a spray from Misses Gladys and Vera Hogg. Among the friends from a distance present at the funeral were Mr. Wm. Flesher, Markdale, Mr. and Mrs. John Pollard and Miss Pollard, Toronto, Mr. Stewart Ferguson, Toronto, and Mrs. McLean, Shelburne.

George Duckwith Dead.

Mr. George Duckwith, an old and highly respected citizen, passed away at his home on John St. on Sunday after a short illness. He had been bedfast about three weeks and his death is attributed to a general breakdown of the system. His wife, to whom he was devotedly attached, died on Sept. 4th last and the old gentleman grieved greatly over her loss. This doubtless shortened his own life. Mr. Duckwith, who was 77 years and 6 months of age, was a native of Easenwold, Yorkshire, Eng., where he was married in 1860. Shortly after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Duckwith decided to try their fortunes in South Africa. The voyage from England occupied three months. After living in South Africa for five years they returned to England, where they spent five years and then sailed for Canada. They came to Orangeville 37 years ago and have lived here continuously ever since. The aged couple celebrated their golden wedding about three years ago. The late Mr. Duckwith is survived by two sons, George Duckwith, of Alton, and Arthur Duckwith, of Toronto. Mrs. Geo. Nicholson is the only daughter. The family and other relatives have the sympathy of many friends in their hour of bereavement. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from Mr. Nicholson's residence on John St. to the Forest Lawn cemetery at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. G. W. Robinson officiated at the house and grave.

Mrs. A. M. Shields.

Mr. Wm. Lindsay, York St., has received the sad news of the death in Virden, Man., on Sunday of his sister, Mrs. Shields, wife of Mr. A. M. Shields, principal of Virden High School and formerly a member of Dramonton High School staff. Mrs. Shields had been in ill-health for about a year. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Hartley, a commercial traveller, and William, of Lacombe, Alta., and one daughter, Mrs. Ernest Gerrand, of Melville, Sask. Mr. Wm. Lindsay, of this town, Mr. James Lindsay, Toronto, Mrs. Thos. Bowles, Chinguacousy, and Mrs. J. G. Alexander, Mono Road, are the surviving brothers and sisters. We understand that the remains were interred at Virden.

Dan McMillan Dead.

His friends and acquaintances hereabouts will regret to learn of the death of Daniel McMillan, formerly a well-known Erin township farmer residing on the 7th line just north of Hillsburg. Mr. McMillan gave up farming and moved to Guelph about five years ago. His death took place in that city on Friday evening. He was the father of Messrs. Norman and Stanley McMillan, who went to High School here a number of years ago and afterwards embarked in business in Buffalo. Both sons have been dead for several years. The late Mr. McMillan was 74 years of age and is survived by two daughters. The funeral was held from his late residence, 120 Cork St., to the Union Cemetery in Guelph on Monday afternoon.

URIC ACID SUFFERING.

Uric acid is an accumulation of poison which finds lodgment in the system when the kidneys fail to remove it from the blood. In the kidneys and bladder it forms stones, in the joints and muscles it causes rheumatism. In any case the pain and suffering is almost beyond human endurance. Uric acid is promptly removed from the system when the kidneys are kept healthy and active by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

ELORA'S OLDEST RESIDENT PASSES AWAY.

Mr. John Godfrey, One of the First Councillors of the Village, Died on Monday Morning, Oct. 6th.

To very few it is vouchsafed to reach the age of over ninety-three years. Such was the case with Mr. John Godfrey, of Elora, who passed away in the early hours of Monday morning of last week. He was born at Milltown, near Killarney, Ireland, Feb. 20th, 1820, his father being an officer in the Royal Irish Constabulary, who spent 26 years in the service and after qualifying for his pension, emigrated to Canada, he and his wife settling at Guelph. John Godfrey, the subject of this sketch, served an apprenticeship to shoemaking in Clashmore, and spent two years in Dublin, afterwards going into business for himself at Ardmore, a seaport, where he was married to Florence Green, a lady from Cornwall, whose brother was in the Coastguard service.

They came to Canada in 1846, Mr. Godfrey going into business at Guelph, where he built a dwelling house. He remained there for about nine years, when, in consequence of a fire, which started in an adjoining store, he lost his entire stock. In 1855 he came to Elora, his store being at the north corner of Victoria and Walnut streets, south of the river. Even at that early date, Mr. Godfrey foresaw that the growth of the village would be to the northward, and he at once commenced to build the store which was until recently used as a post office, and is now owned and occupied by Mr. JamesM. Wilson and Mr. Jos. McCully. Here he continued to conduct a successful business up to the time of his retirement. Mrs. Godfrey passed away in December, 1878, while the family were living in the brick house on Geddes street, now the property of Mr. Wm. Bosonworth.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Godfrey, the deceased's parents, other members of the family who came to Canada were Mrs. Michael Norris, Peel; Mrs. A. Humphries, late of Mt. Forest; Alexander, for a time in Elora, but later in Mt. Forest; Robert, a minister in the Methodist Church, now in Grenfell, Sask.; William, who went to St. Louis; Thomas, who died at Fergus; and Joseph, the deceased being the eldest. The father died in Guelph; the mother at Mt. Forest.

The late Mr. Godfrey was a man who gave a good deal of his time to public service, and was recognized as a capable and careful servant of the people. When Elora was incorporated in 1858, he was one of the members of the first council, and was the last survivor. The council was composed of the following: David Foote, Reeve; John Mundell, Chas. Clarke, John Potter and John Godfrey. Later Mr. Godfrey was Reeve for three years. He was also a member of the School Board, and was a Magistrate for over 50 years. He was appointed Postmaster in 1884, and held that position until succeeded by his son, Mr. Thomas Godfrey, the present postmaster at Elora. He was also prominently identified with the Elora Methodist Church, being Recording Steward for fourteen years, for many years a member of the Quarterly Board, and took a leading part in connection with the erection of the present church, as a member of the Building Committee.

By those who had the pleasure of Mr. Godfrey's acquaintance during his long business and public career he is remembered as a genial Irish gentleman and a very good friend.

The family there survive: Misses Florence and Sarah Godfrey; Thomas, (Postmaster), and William (G.T.R. Agent), of Elora; and John, of Wenatchee, Wash., a daughter, Jane (Mrs. T. P. Snaith) pred-ceased him.

The funeral, which took place on Wednesday afternoon of last week, was very largely attended. A public service was held in the Methodist Church, which was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. J. A. Jackson, assisted by the Rev. C. E. Stafford, and the Rev. Dr. Mullan, all of whom paid merited tribute to the upright Christian character of the deceased, and to his long and useful life. Interment took place in the Elora Cemetery, six nephews of the deceased, Messrs. Harold and Johnston Godfrey, Mr. Bradey Godfrey, Messrs. William, Godfrey, and Carl Smith, acting as pallbearers.

Among the friends and relatives from outside points present at the funeral were: Mrs. G. A. Campbell, Orangeville; Mrs. Fred Stafford, Sudbury; Mr. and Mrs. John Norris, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Dav. Goldstone; Mr. John Thompson, Detroit; the Misses Godfrey, Fergus; Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong, Fergus; Mr. Jas. Matthews, Acton; Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Tatham, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Cole, Guelph.—Elora Express.

THE COLORADO DESERT.

Its Stunted Tree Forms and Its Petrified Forests.

In places in the Colorado desert are stream beds where perhaps once in several years heavy rains in distant mountains will cause water to flow for a short time. In these dry water courses several varieties of stunted tree forms are often found. The desert willow, which resembles the willow with which we are familiar, though smaller in size; the val verde, or green tree, a tree which is a bright green from trunk to tip of limb in every twig, and the ironwood, so dense in fiber that it turns an ax's edge, are the principal varieties. They are rarely above twenty feet high and, like all desert vegetation, have not a leaf.

They are apparently outcasts from the two great tree divisions, deciduous and citrus, for they have leaves neither to lose nor to keep. These may be called the living dogs of the tree family. We will find here also the dead lions.

Not far from the mountain range we will come upon the remains of what were once extensive forests of gigantic trees, now turned to stone and lying as they fell centuries ago. The great trunks, perfect in grain, knot and bark fiber, cumber the ground in tangled confusion in those places which have been protected from the drifting sand, giving evidence that what is now a desert was once upon a time a tropical wilderness.—Travel Magazine.

RUB THE OTHER EYE.

And Let the One In Which the Bit of Cinder Lodges Alone.

Nine persons out of every ten with a cinder or any other foreign substance in the eye will instantly begin to rub it with one hand while hunting for a handkerchief with the other. This is all wrong. The right way is not to rub the eye with the cinder in it, but to rub the other as vigorously as you like.

A few months ago I was riding on the engine of a fast express. The engineer threw open the front window of the cab, and I caught a cinder in my eye, which gave me intense pain. I began to rub the eye desperately, when the engineer called to me:

"Let that eye alone and rub the other one."

Thinking he was chaffing me, I only rubbed the harder.

"I know the doctors think they know it all, but they don't, and if you will let that eye alone and work on the other one you will soon have the cinder out," shouted the engineer.

I did as he directed and soon felt the cinder down near the inner canthus and made ready to take it out.

"Let it alone and keep at the well eye," again shouted the engineer.

I did so for a minute longer, and then, looking into a small glass the engineer handed me, I saw the offender on my cheek. I have tried it many times since, always with success.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Where History Began.

Describing a visit to the tombs of the Egyptian kings, Albert Bigelow Paine in Harper's Weekly writes of "the splendid tomb of Amenophis II., of the eighteenth dynasty, who lived in the glory of Egypt, 1600 B. C., a warrior who slew seven Syrian chiefs with his own hand. The top of the sarcophagus is removed and is replaced by heavy plate glass. Just over the sleeper's face there is a tiny electric globe, and I believe one could never tire of standing there and looking at that quiet visage, darkened by age, but beautiful in its dignity, unmoved, undisturbed by the storm and stress of the fretful years. How long he has been asleep! The Israelites were still in bondage when he fell into that quiet doze, and for their exodus a century or two later he did not care. Hector and Achilles and Paris and the rest had not yet battled on the plains of Troy."

Moral Suasion and a Strap.

"She seems to have abandoned her moral suasion ideas relative to the training of children."

"She has."

"How did it happen?"

"Well, I was largely instrumental in bringing about the change. You see she has no children of her own, and I grew weary of her constant preaching and theorizing, so I loaned her our Willie."

"Loaned her your boy?"

"Precisely. She was to have him a week on her solemn promise to confine herself entirely to moral suasion."

"Did she keep her promise?"

"She did, but at the expiration of the week she came to me with tears in her eyes and pleaded for permission to whale him just once."—New York Mail.

Confucius on Kingcraft.

"What is kingcraft?" demanded a disciple.

Confucius replied, "Food enough, troops enough and a trusting people."

"Were there no help for it which could be best spared of the three?"

"Troops," said the master.

"And were there no help for it which could be better spared of the other two?"

"Food," said the master. "From of old all men die, but without trust a people cannot stand."

Got It Mixed.

An amusing blunder was made in the case of a judicial declaration that certain resident magistrates "could no more state a case than they could write a Greek ode."

This was made to read that the magistrates "could no more state a case than they could ride a Greek goat."—London Scraps.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

Their Effect in the First Theaters in Which They Were Used.

The first theater in the world to use incandescent lamps was the Academy of Music, on Halstead street, Chicago, the plant being installed by the Western Edison Light company. The theater was wired for 150 sixteen candle power lamps. The lighting was confined to the auditorium. No electric lights were used on the stage, as dimmers had not been thought of at that time. On the opening night, after the new lights were installed, the actors struck, claiming that it was impossible to make up by gaslight and play their parts under the glare of the electric lights. It was with difficulty that they were persuaded to proceed with the second act.

The first theater to be completely lighted with incandescent lamps was the old Haverly theater, then located on Monroe street, where the Inter Ocean building now stands. This plant consisted of two dynamos with a capacity of 637 lamps. On the opening night only sufficient lights were started at first to enable the ushers to seat the audience. When the curtain rose every light was turned on, causing a tremendous sensation among the audience and eliciting applause that continued for fifteen minutes. The innovation was so successful that McVicker's theater and the Chicago Opera House immediately installed similar plants.—W. C. Jenkins in National Magazine.

A DENTAL CURIOSITY.

The Set of Artificial Teeth That Washington Endured.

It may not be generally known that the Father of His Country was one of the first Americans to wear artificial teeth. By the time the war of the Revolution had ended he had parted company with most of the outfit which nature had given him. An ingenious physician and dentist of New York city undertook the then unusual task of re-equipment and produced at length a full set of artificial teeth. These are now, of course, a dental curiosity and offer an additional proof of the heroism of our first president, for it is a matter of fact that General Washington wore those teeth for many years and, so far as we know, never complained of them.

The teeth were carved from ivory and riveted, wired and clamped to a somewhat ponderous gold plate. Three large clamps in particular figure conspicuously in the roof of the mouth and must have caused difficulty, if not anguish. There were an upper and an under set, and the two were connected and held in position relatively by a long spiral spring on each side, says Harper's Weekly.

Nevertheless Washington wore them long and well, a fact sufficiently attested by the worn and dinted condition of both teeth and plate.

At the last account these teeth were the property of a dental institution in Baltimore.

A Useful Coffin.

A writer in an English church magazine once found in a collier's cottage in Staffordshire a coffin used as a bread and cheese cupboard. Notwithstanding his wife's remonstrance, he told the story of the coffin as follows: "Eighteen years ago I ordered that coffin. The wife and me used to have a good many words. One day she said, 'I'll never be content till I see thee in thy coffin.' 'Well, lass,' I said, 'if that'll content thee it'll soon be done.'

"Next day I gave directions to have the thing made. In a few days it came home, to the wife's horror. I got into it and said, 'Now, lass, are thee content?' She began to cry and wanted the 'horrid thing' taken away. But that I wouldn't allow. In the end she got accustomed to seeing it, and as we wanted to turn it to some use we fixed some shelves put in and made it into a bread and cheese cupboard. We have never quarreled since it came."

Circulating Libraries.

Long before the Revolution a young printer in Philadelphia when he had taken off his working apron at night used to sit poring over his dozen of old volumes by firelight. He soon knew them by heart and hungered for more. But books were costly, and he had but little money. He had eight or ten cronies, young men who, like himself, were eager for knowledge. Ranging his books on a shelf, he invited his friends to do the same, that each of them might have the benefit of them all. Ben Franklin thus laid the foundation of the first circulating library in this country.

On Pa.

"My son," said Harker as he pointed to the ivy in front of the cottage, "always be like the vine—climb."

The little boy was thoughtful.

"I don't think I'd want to be like that vine," he responded seriously.

"And why not, Tommy?"

"'Cause if I was I'd be a porch climber."—Chicago News.

He Got the Raise.

"You want more money? Why, my boy, I worked three years for $11 a month right in this establishment and now I'm owner of it."

"Well, you see what happened to your boss. No man who treats his help that way can hang on to his business."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The programme, which was largely musical, consisted of selections by the choir, solos by Miss Vera Rowland of Toronto, and Miss B. Bradshaw, piano duets by Misses Lathwell and Wright and Misses Vera and Gladys Hogg, quartettes by Misses Harding, Henderson, McFarlane and Falconer and Messrs. Dr. Henderson, White and Jessop, instrumental duet by Messrs. Morrow and Harding and a recitation by Miss Verlie Smith. The proceeds amounted to upwards of $100.

SHAM FIGHT CALLED OFF

Wretched Weather Interfered With 36th Regiment Plans for Thanksgiving Day Manoeuvres.

Scheme of Attack and Defence Worked Out in Town Hall.

Unfavorable weather interfered with the 36th Regiment's plans for tactical exercises and a sham battle on Thanksgiving Day. Three or four inches of snow fell on Sunday night and early Monday morning making the roads and fields wretchedly dirty, owing to their covering of mud and slush. Even in Toronto and Hamilton, where conditions were not nearly so bad as here, the officers of the city regiments decided to call off the sham battles that had been scheduled to take place near those cities. The rural corps of Dufferin and Peel seem to be made of sterner stuff than their city brothers for, notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions, a detachment of the 36th, consisting of 150 men of all ranks, assembled in Orangeville on Monday morning fully equipped for military operations. When it is explained that it was necessary for many of these men to drive or walk several miles through the heavy snow and rain before reaching their train, it will be conceded that the fact, that 150, of the 225 men expected, turned out, speaks volumes for the esprit de corps and military spirit of the regiment.

After a hasty consultation of the officers it was decided that it would be unwise, if not altogether impracticable, to carry out the original scheme of operations, and accordingly the Companies were marched to the Town Hall and dismissed until 12.30, at which time hot coffee and sandwiches were served, the latter furnished through the kindness of the Lord Dufferin Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire.

At 2.00 o'clock the men were assembled in the Hall, and the "Battle of Orangeville" was fought on paper and blackboard for the benefit of all. An elaborate plan had been devised by the officers. Five Companies known as the Eastland Force were supposed to attack the Westland Forces, consisting of "G" and "H" Companies, which were strongly entrenched at a point about three miles northwest of the town. Lieut.-Col. Windeyer was director of operations, while the umpires were Lieut.-Col. Preston, Capt. Costin, R.C.R., and Major Heron. Capt. Costin briefly outlined the General Idea and the special instructions given to each force, after which the officers of the attacking force left the room, and Major Gabriel and Capt. McCausland were called upon to read their orders and describe by means of the large blackboard map the position they would have occupied. Both officers placed great stress on the value of the hills and natural entrenchments, which they claimed would have made their position almost impregnable, despite the great numerical difference of five to two in the strength of the opposing forces.

Major Hamilton and Capt. Kempthorne, in charge of the attacking party, then explained their orders and method of attack, which consisted of sending a small portion of their forces to develop a feint attack along the enemy's front, while the major portion were sent by way of the old C.P.R. spur line on a long detour to eventually attack the enemy's left flank or rear.

Capt. McCausland pointed out that his orders called for a strong detachment of "H" Co. at the junction of Prince of Wales Road and No. 5 Side Road, with scouts out to the south and west and maintained that the attack moving northward on the Spur Line would certainly have been observed and ample provision made to check it. The attack on the other hand claimed that a considerable rise of ground intervened between their column and the Defence and their approach would not have been known. At this juncture several citizens familiar with the ground were called upon for information, and after some discussion the point was awarded the attack.

In summing up the work Capt. Costin, of the Royal Canadian Regiment, and Col. Preston complimented both sides for the admirable arrangements they had made, at the same time criticizing the wisdom of the Defence in not holding back a portion of their forces in reserve to meet an attack from an unexpected quarter. The attacking party were warned of the danger of separating their forces by such a wide interval. Col. Preston pointing out that troops once started in that way would be very difficult to recall should the necessity arise. Altogether, Col. Preston said, that without actually working over the ground it was of course very hard to make a decision, but in view of the superior strength of the attack and the completeness of their orders for feint and flank movements he decided that the odds were in their favor.

After a brief address of welcome from Mayor Island, which was replied to by Col. Windeyer, the officer commanding, an impromptu concert was rendered, and after a hasty supper the companies entrained for home greatly pleased with their day's outing. All were profuse in their appreciation of the town's welcome, and the thoughtfulness of the local Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire in providing additional supplies for the men.

The Quartermasters' Department was ably looked after by Capt. Hedges, of the 36th, and Lieut. Bert Booth, of the Army Service Corps.

THE CEMENT COMPANY

Shareholders Held Largely Attended Meeting in Toronto on Thursday.

Committee Appointed to Look Into Company's Affairs and Decide on Line of Action.

A meeting of the shareholders of the Superior Portland Cement Company was held in Victoria Hall, Queen St., east, Toronto, at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, to consider the affairs of the company and make provision for the future operation of the plant, which has been closed down for the greater part of the time since the fire on the morning of September 3rd last. Between 75 and 100 shareholders were present and the keenest interest was manifested in the proceedings. Mr. W. D. Wilson, President of the Company, occupied the chair. There has been a good deal of dissatisfaction with the way the affairs of the Company have been run and this dissatisfaction found vent in some outspoken criticism at the meeting. The brunt of the criticism fell upon Mr. Geo. McIntyre, the Managing Director and Secretary Treasurer of the Company. Mr. McIntyre spoke for nearly an hour in defence of his management, attributing the Company's failure to make money to internal dissensions and losses occasioned in part by circumstances over which the Company had no control and in part to faulty construction of the plant. The building, he contended, had been erected upon a defective foundation, which caused portions of the walls to fall three times and was also responsible for the falling of the roof. At the outset no provision was made for water nor for the storage of coal. These defects were remedied after he assumed the management, but of course caused an additional outlay. Then there were losses through lawsuits, through the necessity of substituting belt drives for the rope drives with which the mill was at first equipped and from the mistakes of incompetent superintendents. If Mr. McIntyre is correct in his view, the mill seems to have been singularly unfortunate in this respect. He told the shareholders that since its inception the plant had been in charge of only one superintendent, who was a competent man. Mr. McIntyre also told the shareholders of instances when he had come to the Company's rescue by putting up the cash to keep the mill running. At the close of his address he stated that he intended to resign from the offices of secretary-treasurer and managing director, but intimated that he would be willing to do whatever he could to help the shareholders to get the plant running again. We understand that the manager's resignation has not been accepted by the directors and until this is done he will likely remain in charge of the Company's affairs.

The outcome of the meeting, which was decidedly stormy at times, was that the shareholders decided to appoint a committee to consider and recommend some definite line of action. The committee met at the close of the shareholders' meeting and appointed Mr. Neff, a chartered accountant, to make an examination of the Company's books.

The committee will hold another meeting here to-day (Thursday) for the purpose of looking over the plant and considering some plan whereby it will be started up again. The members of the committee are :—

Dr. B. E. McKenzie, Eri Whaley, Wm. Fountain, H. B. Clarke, K. J. Allison and F. W. McLean, Toronto; Robt. Bradford, Manford Shier and W. J. Penny, Dunnville; Wm. Barrowclough, representing the English bondholders; D. B. Brown and J. J. White, Orangeville. Mr. J. J. White has been appointed chairman and Mr. D. B. Brown secretary of the committee.

Church Notes

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving services held in St. Mark's Church on Sunday last were very largely attended. At the evening service the church was crowded to hear Dr. H. G. Griffith Thomas, of Wycliffe College, Toronto. He preached in the morning on "Crowning the Year," "Crowning Jesus." In the evening his text was Psalm 23 : 1. The special feature of the day's services was the singing of the choir and the orchestral accompaniment. Both excelled themselves and everyone was greatly delighted with the music. The special offerings during the day, which were for the repairs recently undertaken, amounted to $130. A large number attended both morning and evening celebration of the Holy Communion. The church was very tastefully decorated.

On Sunday next Children's Day will be observed in St. Mark's Church. A special service for the children will be held in the morning, when Rev. G. W. Tebbs will give an illustrated talk on "Nails."

The new Rector's induction service was held in St. Mark's on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock and was attended by a large and interested congregation.

In connection with the Deanery meetings now in progress in St. Mark's Church, there will be a missionary meeting on this (Thursday) evening addressed by D. Rose Esq., one of the leaders in the Laymen's Missionary Movement, Rev. R. A. Hiltz, of the Sunday School Commission, and Rev. A. Whittaker, who comes from the Peace River country. Mr. Whittaker, with the aid of lantern views, will speak of the work amongst the Indians of our North Country. A hearty invitation is extended to all to attend these meetings.

Hospital Notes

Before the end of the week let everyone contribute something to the Hospital ingathering. This good work must be kept up and we know you will help.

The Daughters of the Empire were called upon to assist in supplying luncheon to the Volunteers on Thanksgiving Day. The ladies turned out with loyal vim and the citizen soldiers report a very tasty repast.

Last week the thanks of the Hospital Board were extended to Mrs. Rayfield for a ten-pound pail of lard. This should have been a ten-pound pail of honey, which was so gratefully received from Mrs. Rayfield.

The capacity of the Hospital is again being tried to its utmost. The beds are almost filled with patients and the nurses must look for sleeping quarters elsewhere.

Miss Barclay, the Matron of Lord Dufferin Hospital, would be glad to receive the applications of two probationers wishing to commence training at once. Work is pressing and more nurses are required.

Improvements on Broadway.

Important alterations and improvements are being made to quite a number of the business places along Broadway. Mr. Thos. Henderson is having new fronts put in the stores occupied by Geo. A. Cobean and the National Manfg. Company. These stores are in the Henderson Block and we understand Mr. Henderson intends to have the entire front of the block repainted. Needless to say the result will be a very decided improvement in the appearance of the building. Mr. G. A. Campbell, the owner, is putting a new front in the premises occupied by McPherson & Johnston, boot and shoe merchants. The interior of Ritchie Bros. store is being refitted and the rebuilding of the Adamson Hardware Co's premises is nearing completion. This building will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks. On the south side of the street Mr. F. Marshall has closed the alley to the west of the Grand Central hotel and will convert the space into sample rooms for the use of the commercial men, who patronize his hotel. Broadway has always been noted as as attractive, well-built street and the improvements we have just noted will add materially to its appearance.

Kincardine is noted for its most beautiful sunsets, but on Thursday evening last the public witnessed one of the most peculiar sunsets ever seen here. Old Sol was full and a deep red. Leading down from the sun, apparently, was a walk about 15 feet wide. So deep was the coloring, crimson, that the water was obscured and the deep green on either side made it an exceedingly charming picture. It led direct from the shore in a south-westerly direction to the sun in the sky and as it died away it took on a most beautiful purple, fading into the many tints of the rainbow as it finaly receded. —Kincardine Reporter.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Has No Greater Taste Than That of Re-adjustment.

No Longer as the Nursery But as the School of the Church.

The Sunday School of the early part of the Twentieth Century has no greater task than that of re-adjustment. To-day it is far from what it was a generation ago and equally different from what it will be a generation hence. For a hundred years of its history in America it was regarded as a school for children, commonly called the "Nursery of the Church." At the present time it is struggling to enforce a new ideal upon its constituency, namely that it is the "school of the Church," or as Bishop Vincent, of world-wide fame, has set it "The Church studying and teaching the Word of God." Since it is always difficult to change a "life habit," it is not novel that those who grew up in other days and in due course "dropped out" of Sunday School, find it a rather difficult task to return. The serious aspect of it is that these maintain a "subtracting influence" from the present enrollment by their example.

That rapid strides are being made in enlisting the interest of the mature population in the Sunday School is seen in the fact that whereas in previous triennium the increase in the Sunday School enrollment in North America was told by a few thousand, the report of the last triennium showed the increase to be in excess of 1,000,000. No one doubts and those who know are sure that the cause of this increase is the rapid growth of the "Organized Adult Bible Class Movement." In Ontario alone we have now passed the 1500 mark of individual classes which are recognized as having come up to the Standard and secured the International Certificate of Recognition.

Not in the matter of attendance or enrollment only is a real difficulty experienced, but in modernizing its methods of work in an effort to keep abreast of the recognized advance made in secular educational work and other movements in the interests of the "Unfolding Life." For more than a decade the Sunday School Camp of North America was divided as to the need for an improved curriculum. The contest resulted in optional courses of study known as the "International Uniform" and the "International Graded" courses of Sunday School Lessons. The latter of these courses is materially assisting in the solution of several long time problems, but others remain.

Just at present a contract challenging the Sunday School working force is adjustment of relations to a larger field. The Sunday School vision of to-day is not limited to any one-hour-on-Sunday-afternoon affair, but it is a seven day opportunity, a continuous process, taking account of every available means to influence clean living.

The programs for the Twin Conventions of the Ontario Sunday School Association at Ottawa and Owen Sound during the last two weeks of this month have been arranged with this larger view in mind. Rev. T. Albert Moore, D.D., General Secretary of the Department of Temperance and Moral Reform for the Methodist Church, will present the subject "The Sunday School and Good Citizenship" at Ottawa, and Rev. D. C. MacGregor, B.A., B.D., of the similar Department in the Presbyterian Church will introduce it at Owen Sound.

The Provincial Sunday School Association is organizing a special campaign in co-operation with the Ontario branches of the W.C.T.U. and the Dominion Alliance to secure 100,000 guaranteed pledge signers in Ontario in the next two years. Mrs. Zillah Foster Stevens, of Alton, Ill., who is in charge of the Temperance work in Sunday Schools for the International Sunday School Association, will present the importance of the campaign and conduct a conference at each Convention.

A similar effort to secure 1,000,000 pledge signers on next 'World's Temperance Sunday" (Nov. 9th), in the United States is being pushed by the International Sunday School Movement through the different State Associations. It is in part to stir up moral support to the national prohibitory law to be introduced into Congress in December.

These phases, as also the attempt to provide for the social, literary and athletic interests of its youthful element are becoming acute problems before this "Bible Study" department of the church. Much attention has been given in the last ten years also to an effort to introduce special pedagogical training into Seminaries and Theological Colleges. The recent joint session of the affiliated Alumni of the Theological Colleges of Toronto University devoted one half day to this phase of the Church's work.

For at least 15 years the statement that 85 per cent of all additions to church membership come from the Sunday School constituency has been generally accepted. Present day statistics abundantly prove it. The closing address of Mr. W. C. Pearce, of Chicago, Associate Secretary of the International Sunday School Association, at Ottawa, is on this theme "Sunday School Evangelism," while at Owen Sound Mr. Marion Lawrence gives the final address on "The Challenge of the Future." Truly the Sunday School of to-day with all its limitations and feebleness is larger in effort and outlook than last century.

THE INFLUX CONTINUES

Americans Still Coming Into Western Canada in Large Numbers.

According to reports received by the Canadian Pacific Railway the migration of Americans to western Canada continues in large volume. For instance, during the week ending Oct. 7th there entered western Canada by various ports from the United States 1,187 persons with $287,044 cash and effects valued at $103,458. Of these 444 were farmers, 191 laborers, 220 women and children, 177 mechanics and 56 clerical workers. Eight hundred and ninety three were Americans and 38 Canadians returning. During the same week western Canada lost only 116 persons of various nationalities, who left to reside in the United States, of whom 22 were farmers. During the same week 462 homesteads were entered upon in western Canada, of which 139 were taken up by Americans.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Sad Fatality Occurs in Wawanosh Township.

A very sad affair happened on the 5th line of East Wawanosh on Sunday evening last, when Mr. Harvey McDowell was accidentally shot by his daughter, Irene, aged eight years. Mr. McDowell had been alone all week and along with another man had been coon hunting in the evenings, and on coming home Saturday evening took his revolver to pieces and left it lying on the table. Sunday morning he went to his father-in-law's, Mr. Campbell, to bring two of his little daughters home in the evening went upstairs to change his clothes. In the meantime, one little girl answered the phone, and the other, noticing the revolver on the table, and having previously seen her father fixing it together, and just as her father came downstairs she swung quickly round in such a manner as to cause the revolver to go off, the bullet striking Mr. McDowell just below the heart. Dr. Milne, of Blythe, and Dr. Weir, of Auburn, were hurriedly summoned, but despite all that medical aid could do, the wounded man passed away on Monday morning about 6 o'clock.

Mr. McDowell was a very highly esteemed man and in the prime of life, being 32 years of age. He was a member of the Westfield Methodist Church, and a Liberal. Three little daughters are left to mourn the untimely end of a kind and affectionate father. His wife, who was a sister of Mr. Herb. Campbell, of Wingham, died very suddenly about 18 months ago. The deceased also leaves one brother and his parents, who reside in Toronto. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of all in the community. The funeral takes place Wednesday afternoon at 1.30 to the Brandon cemetery.—Wingham Advance.

LOCAL OPTION.

Campaigns Have Already Been Launched in 48 Ontario Municipalities.

The office of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance is a busy place at the present time. The fall and winter Field Day Campaign has begun. The Alliance is supplying speakers for an average of one hundred Sunday services at which the movement for the suppression of the liquor traffic is forcefully advocated.

The staff, of more than thirty clerks is kept busy attending to correspondence and other details, in addition to the men who constitute the office and Field Secretary's staff.

No effort or expense is being spared in the great battle being waged for the extinction of the bar rooms in Local Option voting to take place in the beginning of 1914.

Up to the present time campaigns looking toward voting on January 5th have been launched in forty-eight municipalities. Of these places one is a city, thirteen are towns, fourteen are incorporated villages and the remainder are townships. There are eleven of the forty-eight which have not before voted upon the question of Local Option; there are ten in which majorities were polled against Local Option in former contests; there are twenty-six in which Local Option by-laws were defeated by the three-fifths requirement; and there is one in which a Local Option by-law was carried and subsequently quashed upon a technicality. The list of the places in these respective positions is as follows:

Places not before voting. Towns—Brockville, Prescott and Wiarton. Villages — Jarvis, Marmora and Springfield. Townships—Dunn, Marmora and Lake, Ross, Russell and Tiny.

Places giving majority against Local Option. Towns—Tillsonburg. Villages—Delhi, Merrickville, Morrisburg and Woodbridge. Townships — Alnwick, Bayham, Bexley, Mara and York.

Defeated by three-fifths.— City—Sault Ste. Marie. Towns—Arnprior, Aylmer, Barrie, Cobourg, Meaford, Napanee, Oakville, Picton and Thessalon. Villages—Bradford, Burlington, Grand Valley, Kemptville, Port Perry, Port Rowan and Sutton W. Townships—Albermarle, Flamboro W., Flos, Georgina, Gloucester, Kitley, Puslinch, Scarboro and Tay.

The Quashed By-law.—The Municipality in which a Local Option by-law was carried and subsequently quashed, is Bastard and Burge.

All these contests have been brought on by the temperance party. Others may be promoted, as the submission of a by-law in a municipality may be compelled by a petition of twenty-five per cent. of the electors filed with the municipal clerk on or before November 1st.

The liquor men may also, by similar action bring on a repeal contest in any municipality in which a Local Option By-law is in force if three years have elapsed since the last vote on the question. It is therefore probable that the total number of contests will be much in excess of the forty-eight set out in the foregoing list. There is going to be a lively fight.

"Why, she hasn't blackened her face; that's her natural color," said uncle.

"Is she black like that all over?" asked Jimmy.

"Why—yes."

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years' Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my housework with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
